The guys nod and we start planning on how to get rid of the doors. We have to make sure no one can pur them back and we have to make sure that only the Pack houses have those rooms,

We spread out to investigate every building in the Pack territories. It turns out that only the Pack-houses have such a room, which makes executing our plan a bit easier.

The guys plan to take the doors out tonight, so Jenna and I set of to the clearing where my Pack is buried. We dig a huge hole behind the stone, big enough to put the doors in and bury them there.

While making our way back to the Pack-house we discuss the training schedule Alpha Adam handed us earlier. By the looks of it they do not put a lot of effort to their training.

And with all the intel we have gathered over the years of Evil Moon Pack, this has to change drastically if they want to survive. Also, the amount of warriors they have will be insufficient.

Walking into the house we hear chatter coming from the living-room. After we walk in, I slump down on the couch next to Rico and let out a sigh. With that I ge every one's attention and I roll my eyes at Jenna. She smiles at me and then tosses the schedule on to the table in front of us. Rico picks it up and looks it over, then passes it to Uncle James. All of them look over the schedule, most of them grin when they see it. "How the fuck do they expect to survive an attack." Uncle James mutters. And we all start laughing. Maddox

After dinner Rico fills me in on the training schedule and the number of Warriors the three Packs have. James just shakes his head because we all know that this will not be enough.

We discuss the options we have when it comes to giving these Pack's the best chance of survival. After a few hours of discussing the options, we decide that every person, age eight and up, needs to be trained. That way most of them will be able to defend themselves and the Warriors will be able to take borders. Just like we do back home, so I tell Dagmar to make a plan for training sessions.

As we wrap things up, I see Dagmar bending over and my eyes get drawn to her ass. My cock hardens at the view that I am looking at and I have to adjust myself. "Fuck, that is one fine ass." I hear Cole say in my mind and I have to agree with him. "Good night." She says and walks out of the room. Yeah, as if I will be able to get some sleep with the hard-on I have.

Looking up at the ceiling my head gets filled with images of Maddox. With the amount of training we do, I have seen him shirtless countless of times. In my mind he walks into my room and he has a lustful look in his eyes.

He reaches and takes hold of my ancles, pulling me towards him. He lets his hands slide higher and higher up my thighs. I wait in anticipation for him to reach my hot and throbbing pussy.

And just as he is about to touch me, the door is slammed open and I jump up, nearly falling of the bed. I

As we are walking in to the Pack house the next morning, we are met with a lot of anger, Jenna looks over her shoulder at Donnie and snickers. Maddox turns to the living-room and an incredibly angry Alpha Jonas steps in front of him. "What the fuck have you done? Why did you take the doors from the basements and where did you put them?" he shouts at Maddox. "What do you mean?" Maddox asks him.

Everybody starts talking at the same time and he gets even more confused. Suddenly Rico whistles and they all stop talking. They both turn their attention to Alpha Jonas, and he tells them that the doors of the rooms in the basements of the Pack-houses have been removed.

Rico asks him why that is a problem, and we all know that he will not like the answer. At first Alpha Jonas does not respond, but eventually admits that they lock the Omega's in there on the Full Moon.

And as I predicted Rico looks mad, but Maddox looks at him in shock and makes a beeline for the door. Uncle James runs after Maddox thinking his shock is connected to Luna Gina.

Rico looks at me, wondering if I am behind this. Alpha Adam turns his attention to Jenna and demands that she reveals the location of the doors. She shrugs her shoulders and tells him she was ordered not to tell anyone where the doors were hidden.

I return Rico's gaze and he realizes that I was responsible and that I ordered them to keep it a secret. He knows that the Alpha's will assume it was Maddox who gave the order.

But we also know that Maddox will not sell me out. I can see he is mind-linking someone and I guess it is to Maddox.

Maddox

James says to me that it is a good thing that someone took those doors out. That Omega's deserve a mate, just like the rest of us. I decide it is time I come clean with my best friend.

"That is not it, James. I was planning to use it myself. Like I have been using the dungeons for almost a decade now." I respond to James. "Why have you been doing that? Do you not hope to find a second change mate?" James looks at me, shaking his head.

"I think I know who it is, and I am afraid she will not like it." He lets his head hang down and sighs. "Why would she not like to get you as her mate?" The expression on James his face is one of surprise.

"Everyone knows how protective I was of Gina. They all know that I will do anything to keep my Mate safe." "Fuck." James mutters as he realizes who I am talking about.

"You started hiding in the dungeons when she turned 182" he asks me. "How did you figure out she might your second change?" I groan, because this a question I do not want to answer.

"That is not important, James." I say quietly. Then he asks me how I will manage it now that the doors are gone. I want to tell him that I will figure this out, but then Rico mind-links me.

"Maddox, Dagmar ordered them to keep the location of the doors a secret. And you know what that means." He says.

James looks at me and I put him in the mind-link as well. "I will take the blame, don't worry about it. Dagmar did what she had to do." And with that I break the link and turn to James. "Maybe it is time to take a risk." I say to him and then we hear Alpha Adam shouting.

And with that he of the Pack-house in search of Maddox. Rico and I run after him, because we both want to know what Maddox will do when Alpha Adam finds him.

We get to the front porch to see Uncle James and Maddox walking up to the house. A very agitated Alpha Adam walking next to them. "Order your Pack members to hand over the doors. This is none of your concern." He says loudly. Maddox turns to him and tells him that the Council members had given their approval. And that we did nothing wrong, that it was them at fault.

And I realize that even though it sounds as if he takes responsibility, he does not admit to giving the order. "Now you're in trouble." Emma says and my Wolf shakes her head.

I roll my eyes at her and block her. I know I am in trouble with Maddox and I am not looking forward to answering for what I did. "Dagmar, get back to the house and wait for me in the kitchen." Maddox says through the mind-link. I know it was an open link because Jenna and Sam look at me and I can tell they feel sorry for me. I just nod and walk back to the house.

Maddox

So. Dagmar is behind this, I think to myself and I start to wonder why. But the only reason I can come up with is the Omega's. There is no way she can suspect me of having feelings for her.

And no one knows I have been staying in the dungeons during the Full Moon. Right now, James is the only one and he found out after the doors were removed..

So, I come to the conclusion that she did it to help the Omega's. But there is a small part of me that would like it, if she did it because of me.

She is sitting at the kitchen table and is staring out through the window. I watch her for a little bit before I walk over to the table and sit down. She is startled by me, and I see a blush appear on her face.

She keeps her eyes down as if she is afraid to look at me "Look at me. Dagmar." And she snaps her head up to meet my eyes. And for a second, I am caught by her mesmerizing green eyes.

1 get up abruptly and startle her yet again. To safe face, I walk over to the fridge and grab a bottle of water. "You want some?" I ask her. She shakes her head and grins, that is when I see she already has one. "Way to go, buster." Cole says and he snickers at my clumsiness.

As I sit down, I realize which question I have to ask in order to find out if I might have something to do with her actions. "Why did you order Jenna not to reveal the location?"

I ask her and take a sip of my water. And by the look on her face, I can tell that she knows she is in trouble.

"I need to know if you are my Mate." I am so flabbergasted with her answer that it takes me a second to register it. I look into her eyes and I can't help the huge smile forming on my face.

I see mixed emotions in her eyes; confusion, shock and something that looks like relieve. "Why are you smiling?" she asks me.

Dagmar

What is it with that fucking smile on his face? Why doesn't he answer me, is he going to turn me away like all the other She-wolves? All these questions run through my mind as I wait for him to answer me.

I put my hands on the table to push myself from the table, I need to get out of here. If he is going to turn me down. I do not think I will be able to face him ever ga

But before I can get up from my seat, he reaches for my hands. My eyes shoot up at his face and I relax a little. "I am smiling because of your answer, Babygirl." He says.

"What about my answer." I mumble, not looking at him A part of me is curious but the other part is afraid, and that part is winning at the moment.

He squeezes my hands and that makes me look up at him. He is still smiling, and I start to feel a bit better, but not by much. I do not think I will be able to relax until he puts me out of my misery.

He asks me why I gave him that answer and for a second, I am dumbfounded. "You were always the one that I could turn to when it came to my nightmares. You never asked questions, you would just hold me and allow me to cry.

But about five years ago, I realized that something was chancing for me. Knowing how you felt about She-wolves coming on to you and knowing I was not your Mate, I started keeping my distance.

Yesterday I finally confided in Jenna after she saw you running from the room and told her about my feelings for you. I told her I knew I was not your Mate and that there was no way I could tell you. Then she told me that, for years, you have been hiding in the dungeons during the Full Moon. So that is when we realized we could solve two problems at once I ramble on.

"I'm sorry for doing this and I can understand that you are mad at me. But I need to know, Maddox." As I stop talking, I lower my eyes to the table because I do not want to see the anger or disappointment in his eyes.

Cole is jumping up and town in my head, he is so dam happy with the answer Dagmar has given us. She is looking at the table and I know I need to reassure her that I am not mad at her. "Babygirl, I'm not mad at you. Why would I be mad? Was afraid if you suspected us to be Mates, you would refuse me or run. Everyone knows how protective and possessive I was of Gina. And I knew you wanted your revenge, and I was not sure how I would act when the day came for you to face them. I still do not know, but I know that I want to be there at your side.

To keep you safe and protect you if I have to." She slowly lifts her head, and I can see the relieve in her eyes.

I get up quickly and round the table, while pulling her to a stand. Cupping her face, I do what I have been wanting to do for so long. I lower my head and kiss her, slow at first and then with more determination with every passing second. Damn, I cannot get enough of this woman, I can't stop myself as I pull her to my body. This feels sp fucking good and I deepen the kiss even further. Then hear her moan and it is the best sound I have ever - heard.

I grab her ass and lift her up, she wraps her legs around my waist. I push her back against the wall and lavish on her mouth some more. I slowly break the kiss and look in her eyes, she looks at me through her eyelashes and a blush appears on her cheeks. Then we both hear someone clearing their throat. She hides her face against my chest, and I chuckle at her shyness. My tough, little warrior is a bit embarrassed we were caught kissing.

I turn around, still holding on to my girl and I see my Pack members standing there with smiles on their faces. Shaking my head, I whisper in her ears: "We'll continue this later, Babygirl."

An even deeper shade of red reaches her face and I grin. "What do you need?" I ask. They shake their heads and one by one they walk out of the kitchen.

Dagmar

Fuck, they caught us kissing. I want to disappear into the wall, but I know that will not help at all. I am just glad I can hide my face in his chest and then he whispers in my ear that this is not over.

I feel warmth running through my body, settling down in my core. No one responds to his question; they just walk out of the kitchen and leave us alone. Then he squeezes my ass and I look up at him with a blush on my face.

We'll take this to my room." He says and I shake my head. Confusion is written on his face, and I try to free myself from his hold. As I wiggle in his arms, I feel his grip becoming tighter.

"Maddox, I have to prepare for training. If we want them to stand a chance, our make-out session will have to wait until later." I say with a devilish smile on my face

Part of me wants him to take me to his room and have his way with me. But my more responsible part is winning this battle and I start squirming in his arms.

Reluctantly he pulls out of the kiss, and we are breathing heavily. Looking in his eyes, I can see that he is struggling to hold Cole back. His Lycan wants to push through and that makes me giggle.

I have seen Cole during training, and he was always making sure he would not hurt me while sparring. "Hello, Cole." I whisper.

He growls in response and then he pushes through, taking control over from Maddox. "Hello, Babygirl. We have wanted you in our arms for so long. I'm afraid I can't let you go anywhere for now." He says.

And that makes me smile, feeling warm and fussy all over. I tell Cole I have to get something to eat and to the training field:

then I have to go 4

"How would you feel if I was out there battling with those nitwits, knowing you were responsible for their lack of training?" I ask him with a smirk on my face. Cole pushes his face in my neck and nuzzles me for a few minutes. Then he releases me and returns control ever to Maddox.

Maddox

While Cole is nuzzling her neck, he whines. He knows she is right, but he does not like it one bit. And I have to agree with him, but Dagmar is right. We have to concentrate on training the Pack's before they get attacked,

"You could have been a little nicer to Cole." I say and it almost breaks my heart to see her face contorted is sorrow. "I'm sorry, Cole. I didn't mean to hurt you." She whispers and I see tears forming in her eyes.

Pulling her against me I tell her that she did not hurt us that we understand what she meant. I peck her on the lips and tell her to get dressed for training.

After a few minutes Rico and James walk in and I know that something is up. James sits down and looks at me with a worried look in his eyes. "Okay, let us have it Spill it." I say.

He slides a tablet my way and tells me that according to intel the Evil Moon Pack is on the move. The information does not provide a clear destination, because they have spread out in different directions.

It does not make sense to any of us, and I am a little confused as to what to do with this information. "Dagmar." 1 shout up the stairs and she comes running down a few seconds later.

She is dressed in yoga-pants and a tank-top, she looks amazing, and I grab hold of her waist, pulling her to my body. She looks up at me, smiling.

Just as I have finished dressing for training. I hear Maddox shouting my name. I rush downstairs and he pulls me against his body, I cannot help but smile at him.

My Squad also come ruming down the stairs, alarmed by Maddox shouting my name. Turning to look at my Uncle, I see from the corner of my eyes that they are looking at us. They seem to be pleased with what they are seeing, and I feel a blush creep up my face. After we are briefed on the intel on Evil Moon Pack, I jump up and walk over to Uncle James. Maddox pulls me on to his lap and holds me tight, what I go over everything we have right now. Something about this is not on to his lap an heir mover ents are strange and erratic.

I send the information to my own tablet and give the tablet back to Uncle James. Jenna asks if she can take a look at it, and he turns it towards her.

We both go over it, again and again. At first it does not make sense and the others start looking over our shoulders at the intel. We discuss the patterns over and over.

Suddenly it hits me, and I zoom out, wanting to see the bigger picture. Jenna gets where I am going and also zooms out, looking for any other clues as we both stare at the tablets.

"Fuck." Jenna mutters and starts drawing lines on the tablet. As we all watch her progress, I finally figure out what it is she had noticed. They are moving around the territories of the three Packs, in order to attack them from all sides.

But what would they gain by taking over, how could they benefit? As far as I could tell, there was nothing) here they might be interested in. There never had been anything here that they might have desired.

Confiding my thoughts to the rest of them, it is Matteo that does the math. "You're right, there never was. But there is something now." He states, while he looks at me. Confusion is written on our faces, and he realizes no one has put the pieces together, yet.

"Okay, let me try to explain this. Twelve years ago, they showed up here, because their Alpha found his. mate, your Sister. They slaughtered the entire Pack, after your Sister took her own life in front of him.

But what if, she was not his Mate, but a means to an end." Matteo says and I think the confusion inside me is even bigger now. Matteo continues with his theory: By taken her as a Mate, his Pack would have a territory of their own.

And his Pack would have grown in numbers. He did not go to one of the other, Packs, because they would not contribute to his plans. And there were no female heirs, while your father had no male heir." Things are starting to make sense to me now, because all of a sudden remember something from that day. Something I had forgotten, something I had not wanted to see that day.

Men I do not recognize, they look menacing and scary slowly make my way over to stand next to my Father and look at the man standing in front of us.

He is huge, covered with tattoo's and amazing bright green eyes, he stares at me with a smirk on his face. His short blond hair is messed up and the smile on his ce makes him look..... well, it makes him look devilish. "What do you want?" My Father asks. At first the man does not respond, but then the front door opens. He lifts his gaze towards the door, and something flashes in his eyes.

"I want her. She will be my Luna." He states pointing behind my Father. My Sister is standing in the doorway and looks at him with a pissed off look in her eyes.

I can sense the atmosphere is changing fast, I know where this is going and it is not good. When looks like that, trouble is never far behind.

She takes a step forward and looks him dead in the eye and slowly says: "No way in hell!"

"You will be mine and I will mark you, One way or the other, I don't care." He says. You can hear the gasps. of everyone around us. Forcefully marking your mate is not done within our Pack, but we know some Packs do not care. AMate is something sacred and has to be cherished. The Mate bond is strong and not to be taking lightly. And when I look into her eyes, I know that she has made up her mind. By the look on my Parents faces and the people surrounding us, I can tell that everyone knows. The only ones oblivious to her decision are the strangers standing in front of us. Without blinking her eyes my Sister pulls her arm from behind her and slits her throat. For a second everyone and everything freezes, then the man scream, and it all turns to chaos.

My Father pushes me back towards the house and tells me to hide. The man charges towards my Father and then everyone starts fighting. At the age of fifteen I was not trained enough to be of any help to anyone. And without my wolf I can barely protect myself. Suddenly I feel a hand on my shoulder and as I start to scream, someone turns me around. Luna Gina is standing there with a troubled look on her face.

But we both do not get the change to say a word. We suddenly heard a sound behind us. Gina pushed me behind her to protect me, but she was not fast enough to stop what was coming.

One of the strange men sliced in to her throat with his claw before she could do anything. With the force he used we both were pushed backwards, and we tumbled under the front porch.

Because I hit my head the man did not realize that I was still alive. A sound near my head made me lift myself up and turn to my left. Luna Gina was trying to say something but had trouble breathing. So, I crawled closer to her.

"Keep yourself hidden, Sweetheart. Do not let them catch you. When they are gone, you go to the airport and board that plane. Tell Maddox what happened and tell him to train you.

Tell him that I love him and that I'm sorry that he will never meet his pup." With that she closed her eyes and was gone. I closed my eyes while I turned my head away from the scene in front of me.

Looking at Dagmar, we can tell she is reliving that day and I just hold her even tighter. Cole is pacing in my mind: he does not like the look on her face. She all of a sudden jolts up and tears are streaming down her face.

It hurts to see her in pain and all I can do is try to comfort her. Then she looks at Matteo and tells him that he is right. That his interest had first been on her and then had shifted as her Sister had appeared. She then mentions an important piece of information, that neither of them had used the word Mate.

My head is spinning, what does this mean. Why had they targeted the Blue Moon Pack? It did not make sense to me: I could not put the puzzle together. Most importantly their movement right now was confusing me completely.

"Fuck, you have been sold out." James yells and I snap my head in his direction. "What the fuck do you mean." Rico is voicing my thoughts, what is James talking about. Who was sold out and to whom? My confusion is getting greater by the minute.

Then James starts to speak. "You were not the only female Alpha; your Sister was one as well. But how did he find out? We never reported either one of you to the Council and our Pack members knew to keep it a secret."

Suddenly a cold shiver runs down my spine. "But the big question right now is how did they find out about you. They have no ties to the Council, and I doubt one of the Alpha's would invite them to their doorstep."

James is getting angrier by the minute and Dagmar looks at him in shock. "My Sister was also a female Alpha. Why didn't anyone tell me?" She asks. James tells us that the girls did not know from one and other, but he never found out why his brother wanted to keep it a secret.

Dagmar

This has turned into a real fucked up day. What else can go wrong, I think to myself. I let every piece of information I have go through my mind, from the moment we received the intel on their whereabouts until now.

And I have to agree with Uncle James, someone sold me out. But who the fuck would do that? No one comes to mind, and I start to go over it all again. Finding the truth is my main priority right now. And I will not rest until I find out who is responsible.

Questions run through my mind, who knew back then about me and my Sister, other than Pack members. Who told them that I was still alive and why did it take them this long to reveal it to the Evil Moon Pack?

This is driving me stir crazy and I try to get out of Maddox's arms, but he is not letting go. Turning a little I am able to face him, and I raise my brows in question

"You are not going anywhere until our questions are answered." He says. Rico jumps up, he starts pacing and muttering to himself. Then he spins to face us all and his face has turned pale.

"I think I might know some answers." After that statement he sits down and starts talking. Turns out that when Uncle James was visiting Maddox's Pack, he was not alone.

A She-wolf from our Pack was with him, Uncle James met his mate, Maddox's Sister Elsa, and the She-wolf that had seemnanied him had not been hamısır shesit She had munas attacked Aunt Fles and Father had given Maddox permission to exile her.

Finished

She had sworn revenge on Uncle James and Maddox before she had been kicked out of the territory.

Maddox

"Fuck, how could we have forgotten about her." I grumble. But that was moths before the attack, that does. not make sense. Why would she have waited that long?

How did she find out that Dagmar survived? And was so responsible for the Evil Moon Pack finding out we were here. Now I have even more questions.

*It makes no sense, that happened months before the aback." James states. Then Dagmar asks if she could have known about our visit. And then pieces start falling in place.

Of course, it would not have been that hard for her to figure out that we would come to visit. After all, Elsa wanted to meet her new family. She never did though, because the day before we left, she had had a slight accident.

She made me and Gina go with James, so we could at least meet his family. Because of a rogue attack James and I had to return home early and we had left Gina behind.

"They were after all of us. Your Sister for her position, maybe you as a back-up plan. And she would have been able to get her revenge, if it had not been for unforeseen circumstances." I say to no one in particular,

I feel Dagmar shiver and I put my face in her neck, holding on to her tightly. "But that doesn't answer the question as to how they found out I am still alive. And why wait until now, it has been years." Dagmar states and I know she is right. Something is off and I do not understand a damn thing about it. She crawls as close to me as she can, her face buried in my neck. I pull her a little tighter and put my face in her neck, sniffing her scent, trying to calm down myself and Cole.

Was there anyone connected to the She-wolf or was there someone who figured this out before us and wanted to get rid of Dagmar? How did he find out that Dagmar was still alive?

And was the intel we got, intended on getting to us? A means to an end, as his forceful marking was at means to an end?

"Fuck." Matteo mutters. "You might be on to something Alpha." Snapping my head up, I realize I spoke the words out loud. "What do you mean, Matteo?" James asks him.

Then Matteo says that when we got the intel back home, some members of the tech team were questioning the intel and its convenience. After all, we had been looking into this Pack for over a decade and we never were able to find anything on their whereabouts. So why did we all of a sudden find leads and information we needed. We all start to discuss the when and how we got the intel and we started to wonder who was leaving the information out there for us to find.

Dagmar was on the phone with Mason, and she explain what we have come up with. She tells him to find out anything they can, in the hopes to find out who is behind all of this. She tells him to work 24/7 if they have to, that we need those answers.

Just as I finish my call with Mason, there is a knock on the door. Uncle James gets up to and walks to the front door.

One of the pack warriors is standing outside and asks hele James how long it will be for we get to the training field. "We are coming with you." I shout, as I try to get out of Maddox's arms.

"Babygirl, where do you think you are going?" He says close to my ear. "We have to go train those nitwits, if we want them to be of any help to us." Is my response Reluctantly he lets me out of his arms and sighs. Walking to the door I gesture to the others to come with me. Getting to the training field I see most of the warriors sitting around.

Only a few are sparring or explaining moves to others. And before I can say anything, that idiotic "Alpha to be" is in muy face. "Where the fuck have you been? We have been waiting for hours." He yells, next thing I know, he is flat on his back. Looks like he pissed off Jerma just one to many times.

After calming everyone down, I stand in front of the group. Looking around I notice that not all of them are warriors.

"Those of you that have never trained before will start your training with Marcus, Jenna and Donnie. The rest of you will be sparring with the members of my team. That way I'll be able to see what you are capable of and what we need to teach you."

Marcus, Jenna, and Donnie walk off with their group and a smile creeps up my face when I recognize Lily. "This might get interesting."I say to my Wolf and we both giggle.

The rest of my men have spread the group out and are starting the sparring session with the Warriors. Most fail completely, but a handful surprise me. One of them being the Warrior that came to the house to get us.

"You are not going to train." I hear Marcus say and I knew exactly who he is yelling at. Turning around I see Lily looking up at him, her hands on her hips and astern look on her face.

"Who the fuck do you think you are? If I want to train, I am going to and you cannot stop me, Baboon." She yells back at him.

Everyone on the field turns around to see what is going on. "Lily, you are a small woman, and you could get hurt." Jenna and I look at each other and a smile comes on our faces. Marcus does not realize he is screwed, that was not smart to say. While we watch, Lily takes a step towards Marcus and without saying something she punches him in the groin.

"Oof Is all we hear. Lily turns to her left while shaking her hand and jumps behind Jenna. Marcus straightens and strides over to where they are. Jenna does not blink an eye and raises her fists

From a distance James, Rico and I watch the crowd on the training field. We all have to restrain ourselves from laughing out loud at the action between Marcus and Lily.

"If those two end up to be mates, I'm going to pity Martus." James whispers and this time we cannot help but laugh. James and I both know that a mate is the best thing that can happen, but we also know that it gives you a lot of worrying about your mate.

We keep watching as Dagmar gets everyone back to training. Jenna walks off with Lily and gives her instructions on defense. She shows her how to form a list and which are the best places to punch a male.

Jenna signals for one of the men to help them out. Lily steps in front of him and looks extremely uncomfortable but straightens up and throws a punch him.

It does not faze him much, but he tells Lily that she has a good punch. From the corner of my eye I see that Marcus is distracted and his opponent takes advantage. He gets the upper hand and Marcus ends flat on his back.

"Marcus, pay attention to your opponent or the next one you will go up against will be me." Dagmar looks down at him and shakes her head.

She walks around the field and looks at every pair that sparring. Then she heads over to Lily and Jenna to see how Lily is doing. She gives Lily a few pointers and then she looks in our direction.

Our eyes meet and I am yet again amazed at the effect she has on me. As I look at her, my mind starts to wander, will she be my second chance. If she is not, will I be able to stay away from her or give in to the pull I feel towards her.

And when I give in to the pull, will I be able to leave when she finally finds her mate. Cole goes crazy in my head as these questions run through my mind. We both hope tonight will prove that she is our mate.

A hand on my shoulder pulls me from my thoughts with a jolt. James snickers and asks where I went. I look at him and shake my head. "Full Moon." Is all I say and I know that James understands where my mind went. Rico just stares at me, but he does not ask anything.

We turn our attention back to the training and to our surprise we see Lily holding a dagger. She is circling Jenna, her eyes flicking in all directions.

Then all of a sudden, she strikes so fast that I was not sure if it was a hit or a miss. Jenna looks at Lily and then her gaze drops to her abdomen. "Fuck, girl. You cut me. How the hell did you do that?"

Walking through the pairs that are sparring, I keep an eye on Lily. From what I have seen so far, she will surprise the hell out of us all.

She learns quickly and listens to everything we explain her. I know she will never become a warrior, but whoever decides to come after her will be deeply sorry,

Then I see Jenna handing her a dagger and she shows her how to hold and use it. They are both stabbing in the air so Lily can mimic Jenna's movements. When enna is satisfied, she tells Lily to try and stab her.

"But what if I hurt you? No, I can't do this. She is shaking her head. Jenna looks at her and reassures her that even if she is able to stab her, she will heal fast enough. "Besides I'm a lycan, I don't think you will be able to get close enough." Jenna stated. Lily gets in to position with a determined look on her face and starts to circle Jenna.

Everyone stops what they are doing to watch the outcome of this. All of a sudden we hear Jenna shout:" Fuck, girl. You cut me. How the hell did you do that?"

Even I am not sure how Lily did it, but she was fast and that would aid her in the future. "I'm so sorry. didn't mean to hurt you. I'm so sorry" Lily looks upset and Marcus is by her side in a flash.

As he holds her and tries to comfort her, Jenna starts to laugh. "Girl don't worry about that. Look, it is already healing." And she pulls up her shirt, so Lily can see for herself.

Marcus looks at Lily and tells her that she did an excellent job. "Remind me not to get on your bad side." Says one of the Pack-members and that makes Lily giggle.

Looking around I notice that some of the pack members are looking uncomfortable. This is probably the first time they have seen an Omega train. And I remind myself to tell Lily that she should inform the other Omega's, so we might be able to teach them the basics as well. "Okay, that is it for today. Tomorrow we will continue raining, we will make sure you all will become better. So, when they come, you will be able to fend for yourselves." I say while looking around.

After that I make my way over to Maddox, I find myself in his arms and sigh with content. He tells me training looked great and that they will probably be of more help now than they would have been yesterday.

"Lily, can you come here for a second." I call out. When Lily stands next to me, I tell her that I would like it if there were more Omega's able to defend themselves, Lily promises that she will talk to the other Omega's. Then she walks off with Marcus following her Maddox

After we get back to the house, Dagmar says she is going to get her laptop and she turns towards the stairs.

Before she can take a step, I grab her arm and pull her dose. I dip my head down, brushing my lips against hers and then I deepen the kiss. Biting her lip gently, then licking the spot and as a moan escapes her lips, I push my tongue in.

break the kiss, because we are both out of breath. Looking in her amazing eyes, I lean back in and start kissing her again. This time it is Dagmar that breaks the kiss, she takes a step back and looks at me.

"I have to check in with Mason. See if they have turned up anything. We still need answers." She says, reluctantly I let her go and she runs up the stairs taking them two at a time.

I turn to walk towards the kitchen when I notice that Rico is staring at me. "Care to explain." Is all he says. I nod and he follows me into the kitchen. We both grab a bottle of water and sit down at the table in front of the window.

Sipping from my water I wonder how to explain this to him, I decide to start at the beginning. So, I tell him about everything, realizing I started to get feelings for her, locking myself in the dungeons every full moon, being scared she would turn me down. When I am done, I look up at Rico and there is a smile on his face. "About damn time you took a chance. I was wondering how much longer you would be able to stay away from her."

Shocked I look at him and then he starts laughing. "You really thought I did not know you were in the dungeons. I always suspected it had something to do with Dagmar." He says. After a few minutes Cole start jumping in my head, he can sense Dagmar coming closer. I turn my head and see her walking in, talking to Jenna while holding her laptop.

She puts the laptop down on a table on the other side of the kitchen. I wonder why she would do that and as if he has read my mind Rico says: "She needs to get her work done and you are a distraction to her."

What he says makes sense, but that does not mean I have to like it. Both of us are listening to the conversation between Dagmar and Jenna. Looks like Mason has found something, and they are about to go in to a conference call with him.

Rico and I get up and sit down at the table next to the girls so we can hear what he has to say. The rest of the squad walks in followed by James and they all sit down.

Then I hear Mason's voice and we all can tell he sounds tense. He informs us that the tech-team went over all the intel and where it came from. And after going through everything again and again and discussing it out loud, it was a new member to the team that came up with an idea.

Mason had given him permission to do what was necessary and that is when they found out that someone in the Pack had sold us out. "Why would anyone want to do that? Dagmar asks Mason.

I know everyone wants the answer to that question. Mason tells us that they had a tough time figuring out who the person was, but that they had been successful in identifying the person. "Stop beating around the bush. Who sold us out?" I say an anger laced voice. His answer has us all in shock because she was the last one, we would have suspected.

"It is Grace, Alpha." My sister-in-law, what the hell.

Cole is going nuts in my head; he is yelling and I have trouble holding him back. It is a good thing she is not here right now, because I would not be able to stop him from ripping her limp from limp.

This is a development I had not seen coming, Grace was Luna Gina's sister and she had been there for me. She was like a second mom to me; I could always count on her when I needed her.

Why would she do this to me, Uncle James, or Aunt El. She knows what I mean to Maddox, he would never forgive her if anything happened to me and she knew that, so why?

It all does not make sense, until Emma speaks up. "Whe if she wants him for herself?"

My squad is talking amongst themselves, and I see that Maddox, Rico and Uncle James are looking at me. "Where is she, Mason?" I ask him.

"The guards have been looking for her ever since we figured this out, but she is no longer here." Is his response.

"Excuse me. Sir." We hear in the background, then an familiar face, I cannot place at the moment, comes in to view. "Dagmar, this is Stephan. He is the one that got this ball rolling."

Mason makes the introduction and I ask him why he interrupted. "She left the pack-lands about three hours after you all left. I found footage of her leaving at the south border," He says and I tell him it was good thing he interrupted us with this information. "Can anyone find out where she went?" Maddox asks. Stephan informs him that he will look into it and that he will let us know the second he has answers.

We end the call with Mason and Stephan, then Maddox gets up and lifts me from my seat, holding me close to him. And as I melt into his arms I hear a grumble coming from my left, I look over my shoulder and start laughing. "Sounds like someone is hungry." Uncle James chuckles.

We make our way over to the Pack-house, only to find it empty. No one is there and then I look at the time. It is close to seven p.m. and that usually means dinner will be served shortly.

Then I hear a sound coming from the kitchen. Samantha, Lily, and Glenn are busy, but it does ΠOI like they are making dinner. So, I clear my throat and that startles them.

"Sorry, I didn't mean to scare you. Where is everyone?" I ask them. Lily tells us that the Alpha's had. decided to have dinner at Half Moon Pack, and they were left behind to make preparations for the Full- Moon.

When she sees the confusion on my face, she says that the overheard Alpha Adam complain about us butting into the way he ran his Pack.

I ask Lily if there are any groceries in our house and she shakes her head. "Alpha Adam said it was not necessary, because you would be dining here." She says quietly.

Glenn puts a hand in the air, and I look at him. Lily turns to him, and I can tell they are mind-linking, then a smile appears on her face. "Glenn has offered to cook you some dinner, but it will take a bit." She says.

I tell Glenn that it will be much appreciated and that we do not mind waiting a bit. I tell them we will be on the porch next to the kitchen and then I turn to get the others.

So, I tell him what I was thinking and he nods his head after looking around the tables. When we are finished, we bring the plates to the kitchen and Samantha tells us she will take care of them.

We tell her goodnight and head back to our temporary home, I sit down on a chair on the front porch and look towards the mountains. Maddox sits down next to me and holds. my hand.

The rest sit down as well, and we start to discuss training and the fact that there had not been many people. Then we hear voices approaching and Rico stands from his seat

He walks down the steps and walks to Alpha Adam. "Alpha, if you and the other Alpha's want to stand a chance against Evil Moon Pack. I suggest you make sure everyone eight years and older show up to training tomorrow morning.

We will be starting at eight a.m., and I advise you make sure you and the other Alpha's also show up." He says in a strict tone, one that tells everyone it is best not to argue.

Alpha Adam looks at him and then his eyes go to Maddox, he just nods his head and walks into the Pack- house.

Looking at the mountains, my mind starts to wander. Will I be sleeping alone tonight or will I be sleeping in Maddox's arms? Emma stirs in my head, and I know she is hoping for the latter.

I glance sideways at Maddox, and I see him staring at me. A blush creeps on to my cheeks and I quickly look away. He grabs my hand and brings it to his lips, kissing my knuckles one by one.

I can feel my body reacting to his action and I wonder how the hell I am going to survive if we find out that he is not my mate.

Somehow, he most have sensed the change in my mood, because next thing I know, I hear him in my head. "We will figure this out, one way or the other." Looking up at him, I know he is serious, and I believe him.

We will figure this out, but I am not sure what I will do it turns out that he is not my mate. Could I walk away, or would I finally give in to my feelings? And if I gave in to those feelings, would I be able to leave him if he ever found his second chance? Would I be willing to risk hurting him, knowing my mate was still out there? I shake my head to get rid of the thoughts, knowing I could not answer them until the full moon.

Knowing that thinking about the past would put stress en her, I put my hand on hers in an attempt to draw her attention and that worked. She turns her head towards me, and I cannot help myself.

I cup her face in my hands and 1 lean in, planning to kiss her. Then someone clears their throat and I suddenly realize we are not alone.

No matter what, tonight I will fall asleep holding her in my arms. I just hope she will not turn me down when I ask her to stay with me. To let me wake up next to her, so her face will be the first thing I see in the morning.

Suddenly Dagmar stands up and says she will be turning in for the night. And just as I am about to get up as well, Rico asks me if I can look at the training schedule he made for tomorrow.

In good conscience I cannot walk away, we need to go over this and so I stay in my seat. Dagmar walks away, while she wishes everyone a good night. One by one the others also turn in for the night, until it is only Rico, James, Jenna, and me still sitting on the front porch going over the schedule.

After one more hour I call it a night, the schedule is something we can work with and I am confident we will be able to make a little progress tomorrow. As I walk upstairs, I debate with myself whether or not to go to Dagmar.

But then I realize she shares a room with Jenna and that thought sends me to my own room.

Opening the door I'm met with a surprise; Dagmar is laying in my bed and she is curled up fast asleep. 1 quietly make my way to the bathroom and get ready for the night.

I crawl into bed and lay down next to her, putting my an around her. Cole is purring in my head and I feel the same way. With a smile on my face, I fall asleep

As I wake in the morning, at first, I am a bit confused. Until I remember finding Dagmar in my bed last night. I turn my head and find her snuggled into my side, still asleep.

I take my time looking at her features and I feel my cock grow. Trying not to wake her, I move back just at little bit. Cole tells me to stay put, he wants to know what she will do when she wakes and feels my hard-on pressing against her thigh.

But I am scared she might run for the door if she wakes up to that. Then she stirs, snuggling closer to me and then her eyes pop open. She looks up at me and I see a blush appear on her face.

Dagmar tries to move away, but I do not let her. I just keep holding her tighter and at the same time 1 lower my head. I softly kiss her lips and she kisses me back, within seconds the kiss deepens.

And I know that if we don't stop, I will lose the last bit of control I have left. So, I pull out of the kiss. catching my breath while looking in to her cycs.

"Babygirl, we have to stop. If we keep this up, I will take you, right here, right now. I want our first time to be at the Full Moon, knowing you are mine and I get to mark you." I say, still panting.

She looks at me and I know she feels the same. "Thank you." She says and I look at her with confusion in my eyes. Then I realize she would not have stopped me if we had taken this further. Holding her close, 1 take a look at the time, and I tell her we have to get dressed and ready for training. She jumps out of bed and walks into the bathroom, within geconds I hear water running.

As I sit up in bed, I see a small bag near my closet, and realize she had made sure she had everything she needed here. And a smile crosses my face, my Babygirl had known exactly what she wanted to do last night.

I get up and walk into the bathroom, standing behind her I bend down and kiss her shoulder. Then I start my morning routine as well, both of us ready to face another day.

I decide to tease her a little as we are about to leave the room. Walking to the door I put a finger to my lips as if to tell her to be quit. At first, she looks confused, but when she sees me putting my car to the door, she turns beet red. And that throws me in to a fit of laughter, but not for long as I see the look on her face. Yep, I am screwed, I really fucked this one up.

Dagmar

I bold through the door and I do not care who sees me coming out. I am pissed and I need to get out of here, before I do something I am going regret. Maddox calls out my name, but I ignore him.

Running down the stairs, I hear noises coming from the kitchen. Then I smell food and coffee, as I walk into the kitchen I see an empty seat between Donnie and Julian.

I sit down and ask Jenna for a cup of coffee; she grabs an extra cup and pours me one. As she sits down, she hands it to me and even though the look on her face tells me she wants to asks questions, she doesn't.

Then I feel Maddox walking into the kitchen, but I do not look at him. I keep my eyes on my plate, sipping my coffee. Then Lily walks over to the table and sets down our breakfast, Pancakes, scrambled eggs and much more. "You all better finish it all, you need it for training." She says and turns to the counter to make a new pot of coffee.

I can feel Maddox looking at me, but I function as if I do not notice. My plate is being filled with food by Julian and I smirk at him, because he keeps putting more and more on it.

*Damn, Julian. I don't eat that much, I'm not a Lycan." That makes everyone laugh, because they actually know that I will be able to finish all that is on my plate, even though I am just a Werewolf.

Julian stops pilling food on to my plate and I start eating. It all tastes good, and I am glad that Alpha Adam assigned Lily as our cook.

Marcus and some of the others compliment her on her cooking and that makes her blush. Seems she is not used to getting a compliment. From the corner of my eye, I see Maddox staring at me and even though I am still mad at him for the stunt he pulled, I give him a small smile.

Then Rico gets up and tells us we have to get going. We all put our dishes in the sink and Lily insists on cleaning up before she will come to the training field.

Cole is yelling at me in my head, he is mad about what did to Dagmar. He tells me that she is upset and that I better make sure that I fix this.

Walking into the kitchen I see her sitting between Donge and Julian, she is not looking at me and that hurts. "Damn, I'm such an idiot." I say to Cole, and he agrees with me.

"She e has been thinking for years we were not meant to be and when she finds there might be a chance, you fuck it up." He scowls at me. Knowing I screwed up, all I do is agree with him and tell him I am sorry for what I did. I fill my plate and start eating, knowing that Lily is right Werewolves and Lycans eat a lot on an average day, but when training in preparation of a battle we cat even more.

Then Rico gets up and I follow him, knowing we have a full day ahead of us.

Lily tells us she will clean up and then she will join us on the training field. Something keeps bugging me about her, but I am not sure yet what it is. Maybe today at training I will be able to figure her out.

Walking out of the house, I start walking next to Jenna and I ask her if she has the same feeling about She nods and tells me that Lily picked up instructions fast during training.

Lily.

Going down the path to the field we keep going over everything she noticed during yesterday's training. and I ask her to keep a close eye on Lily and the other Omega's. Something does not add up and I need to find out what it is. Dagmar

Listening to the conversation between Jenna and Maddox, I feel Marcus tensing. Looking at him, he says he had had the same feeling the day before and it still made no sense to him.

Hearing the others mumble around me, I understand that everyone is wondering what Lily's story is. "Maybe you should talk to her and find out." Emma says in my head.

While walking to the field I discuss with Emma how I am going to bring this up with Lily. Because neither one of us wants to scare her or make her feel uncomfortable.

We decide that the best way to do this is by discussing her improvements and asking questions as we go along. Maybe Lily is unaware of her history and might be wondering the same, Looking ahead I see a lot of people gathered on the field and it is looking hopeful.

Then I see Alpha Nathan approach and with that my hope for a good outcome diminishes. He starts questioning our reasons for including everyone in the training, because according to him that will not do them any good.

And I immediately understand what he is talking about. So, I link Maddox and clue him in on my suspicions. Maddox agrees with me and tells me he will take care of it.

I take a few steps towards them, because I want to hear what the Alpha has to say. In the meantime. Rico has started to divide them up in smaller groups, so we can start training.

Alpha Nathan is talking, and I am not paying much attention, until I hear Dagmar in my head say. "Why are they unwilling to train everyone that is capable?"

And I have to admit that she is right, why not train those that are capable of defending themselves. It will take pressure off the Warriors, and it will enable them to concentrate on the fight.

The more I think about it, the more questions I have and no other answer than that they do not care about anyone but themselves. So, I tell Dagmar that I will take care of this, and I have every intention on finding answers to our questions. "Alpha Nathan, why don't we get Alpha Jonas and Alpha Adam over here? They might want to have a say in this as well." He looks at me and then nods his head.

Within seconds both men have joined us, and Lask them why they are so reluctant when it comes to training those that could defend themselves. Feeling that Dagmar is standing close, I realize she wants to hear the answers.

But it looks as if the Alpha's are aware of this, and Alpha Jonas tells me that it would be best to discuss this in private. The hairs on my neck rise and I have to control the urge of rolling my eyes at him.

I link Dagmar, Julian, and Rico to inform them, and I tell them I will leave the link open so they can hear what is being said.

Dagmar

Hearing Alpha Jonas say that this should be discussed in private makes my blood boil. What the hell is going on here..

As they walk away, I tell Marcus to keep an eye on things because I might be a bit distracted with the opent link to Maddox. He nods and keeps his eyes on the groups in front of us.

Rico assigns the three of us with another squad member, so we will be able to hear what is being said by the Alpha's. The look on Julian's face tells me, he is wondering why they would want to hide their answers? from the rest of us. And I know Rico wants to find out as much as we do.

Marcus tells our group to partner up and to spread out so they can start sparring. Sienna steps up to me and with an overconfident look in her eyes she says, "Think you can handle me, bitch."

I look her in the eye and just give her a smirk. "Now she is going to wish she stayed in bed today." I hear Emma snickering in my head and I agree with her.

This woman is going to find out, she picked the wrong person to mess with. I nod my head and walk over to an empty spot, not far from Marcus. Looking at Sienna, I get in to position and crouch down.

From the corner of my eye, I see the future Alpha's looking in our direction and by the looks on their faces, they assume this will be a win for Sienna. In my head I hear Emma giggle and I shake my head at her. Sienna has no idea what she has gotten herself in to.

Looking at the two women in front of me, I wonder if Sienna knows what she is up against. Dagmar is one hell of a fighter and I have always wondered how it was possible she could kick our asses.

But when we found out the other day that she is a female Alpha, a lot of things started to make sense. Then I see that Sienna is making her move on Dagmar and she steps aside easily, just a second before Sienna reaches her. Around me I hear mumbles as everyone stops what they are doing, so they can watch this fight between their Beta's daughter and our Commander.

Andrew, Leon, and Owen have a surprised look on their face as they see how Dagmar keeps dodging Sienna's attacks. And 1, for one, am enjoying this fight in front of me. Lily has stepped closer to the fight and is watching intently at the moves both women make. And I can see that she is not the only one, because more Omega's are watching

My mind starts to wander, and I am glad that Jenna pulls me out of the stream of thoughts in my head. "Marcus, keep your eyes on the fight. I don't trust them to fight fair."

And just as I lift my gaze back on the fight, I see what Jenna meant. Andrew steps closer to Dagmar and he sticks out his leg in her direction. Unfortunately for him, she senses him and turns to punch him in the face.

"And that is lights out." I hear Carlos mumble in my head. Before anyone else can react, Donnie is standing beside Leon and Owen and makes it clear to them to stay out of the fight. Dagmar

The second I sense Andrew stepping up to me, I know He is up to something, and I do not wait for his action. I spin around and punch his lights out.

Then I turn back to Sienna and decide to end this match. Keeping my eyes on her, I calculate her next move and as she charges at me, I step aside and punch her jaw.

Before she can get her footing, I pounce on her again and again. She keeps staggering back and I do not give her the time to catch her breath. And with a final blow, she goes down. Then I realize that everyone had stopped their own fights and had been watching us. Stepping back, I take a deep breath to calm down a little from Andrew's little stunt.

"Let's

"What the fuck." I whisper under my breath, why would he help her out. From everything we have witnessed, this is a rather strange thing to see,

But a part of me is glad that at least this guy is willing to help someone. Then I see there are more Warriors that are showing others moves and giving pointers on how to stand or how to hold their arms.

But the majority of the Warriors are selfish and keep pounding on their untrained opponents. It does not take long before Rico stops them all and calls them towards him.

"If you are not willing or capable of teaching others, then please leave. You are a disgrace to your Pack and our kind. We want to make sure that you all are able to defend yourselves.

If they can defend themselves then that will mean that you, as Warriors, don't have to protect them and will be able to focus on the battle." Then he looks around and the reluctant warriors walk away, some of them are even trying to get the willing ones to come with them. Then there are sixteen Warriors left, from all three packs. One of them turns to Rico and asks, "What can we do to help?"

Rico pairs them with the untrained and then appoints one of us to each Warrior. After that we start training again and after an hour, we can see progress in all our trainees.

We take a short break and I talk to the Warrior assigned to me. I ask him why he decided to help out the Omega, instead of pounding on her like others had done.

He looks at me and after looking around, he says "I like her, and my Wolf was adamant in protecting her. That is why I chose her as my opponent." His confession startles me, and I cannot help myself when I ask him my next question "Would you reject her if it turns out she is your Mate?" le shakes his head and says "Never."

"Omega's are weak and will never be able to learn fight. They are useless." He says.

I jump up and start pacing the room, because I have to control not only Cole but also myself from not ripping the jackass apart.

Then I decide to let them in on my little secret. "Do you know who Luna Gina was?" I ask and they nod

"You are right, she was my Mate. But she was also an Omega, she was no Warrior, but she could defend herself." At that confession I see their faces pale and then Alpha Nathan asks me why I chose to accept an Omega as my mate.

That is when Cole pushes forward and answers him. "Because she was our Mate. She was the calm to our anger, she was the reason to our outrage, she was the light to our darkness. Without her, we would have become a monster. She was the one that kept us grounded."

The Alpha's look puzzled and confused, it was as if they were four-year old's that did not understand what a Mate was. As if they did not know what Mates could do for one and other.

But I know I do not have time to explain it to them and I do not even want to. Then a question pops into my head, and I ask the Alpha's if their Luna's are their fated Mates.

All three shake their head and tell me that their Luna's were chosen by their parents, as this had been done for generations within their Pack's. I shake my head and get back to the matter at hand.

I tell them that I do not believe for one second that it is just their believes that keeps the Omega's in their position and I demand an answer from them. After a few minutes it is Alpha Jonas that sighs and answers.

He must have realized that I would involve the Council again if their answers were not to my satisfaction. It turns out that the Omega's are orphan's the Pack's had found over the years.

That they were not even sure whether or not they were actual Omega's. Because all the Omega's had been under the age of three when they had found them. They had not reported finding the children to the Council, because they had agreed that this way each Park would have Omega's again.

"What do you mean by having Omega's again?" I ask, not sure I will like the answer.

Chapter 113.

themselves and the children in their care." Alpha Adamexplains. "But one day an Alpha from a neighboring pack came to visit and his Beta had lost his mate a few years before.

Finished

This Beta had set his eyes on one of the Omega's, but my Father told him No. She had just turned eighteen, a week after the Full Moon. Then Father invited him to the next Full Moon to see if she might be his second change."

The look on his face does not predict a happy ending to this story. Then he continues his story. "The Beta arrived a day before the Full Moon and spend a lot of time around the Omega.

Father had instructed her to make sure she was never alone with him and that she had to stick close to two Warriors during the Full Moon. These warriors were mated and had volunteered for the assignment.

When the moon was full, it turned out she was mated to the son of one of the Warriors and that is when all hell broke loose. He killed the Omega and her Mate and after that he went on a rampage, he killed all the Omega's in our Packs and wounded a few Warriors. Eventually it was my Father that got a hold of him and ended him. Because of that night we were left without Omega's and that is why we took in the children we found."

I remember hearing a similar story, but never expected a Pack to do this to another person. I get up and walk out of the room, leaving the Alpha's behind.

Dagmar

During my match with Sienna, I heard everything what was said, and I was furious to say the least. After a few more hours of training we stop for a lunch-break and we tell them to come back here after lunch.

I walk up to Rico and Julian, and I can see the confusion and anger on their faces. "Let's get some lunch and see what Maddox has to say about this." Rico says before he turns and starts walking back to the house.

While we walk back, I ask the others what their impressions were on the Omega's and their fighting skills They all agree that there were only two Omega's who showed signs of actually being Omega's.

Emma is jumping in my head; she is agitated and wants answers as much as I do. So, I decide to call Mason and see if he can help us out with this.

After two rings someone picks up the phone, but it is not Mason on the other end. "This is Mason's phone; can I help you?" It is Stephan and I ask him where Mason is.

He tells me that he is in the tech-room and forgot to take his phone with him. Stephan asks if he should bring the phone to Mason and I tell him No, because I know that he can help me.

"Stephan, I need you to do some digging for me. Decades ago, the Black-Moon Pack lost all its Omega's during the Full Moon, due to an incident with a Beta. After that the former Alpha has taken in orphan's and put them in the rank of Omega. Because they were incredibly young, they do not remember this or their past. Find out if there were children reported missing and if entire Packs were slaughtered.

From our observation of the Omega's, we think only two of them are actually Omega's.", Stephan tells me that he is on it and will let me know what he can find. Then he tells me that he has no news on Grace, but that he is not giving up. We end the call and I realize that we are close to the house.
