A Gamma's Revenge (Zalia) - Chapter 501[1,020 words]

Chapter 501

Maleah's p.o.V.

If Mack or Levi had started laughing, while looking at the drawings I had made, I wouldn't have been able to stop from laughing either.

Don't get me wrong, I believe those murals would be great for a nursery. Problem is that my Mates and I are not big fans of that type of mural and I used that to my advantage.

We are more into some softer tones, at least when it comes to the interior of our home. You can see that all throughout the house, most of the colors you see are more natural. There are of course a few exceptions, like the kitchen with a black countertop or my office with black shelves mounted against the wall.

It takes us a while to calm down and then I start again as Dax holds up the drawing of the cribs, I really enjoyed drawing these pictures.

I finally show everyone what I really want in the nursery and I can feel my Mates settle down, they were so damn confused while looking at my drawings.

I save my drawing of the mural I want for last and I get up to make sure that everyone can see it at the same time. It is a clearing with grass and some wild flowers, surrounded by trees. Near the tree line are four Lycans, a black Lycan, a light brown Lycan, a light grey Lycan and a violet auburn Lycan. They are watching three Pups, a black Pup, a light brown Pup and a light grey Pup.

Around midnight our Alphas and our Luna head back to the Pack-house and I crawl into bed with my three Mates, exhausted but happy. Fast asleep the moment I lay down my head on Mack's chest.

I wake up in the morning to find the rest of the bed empty, I get into the bathroom to take a shower and after that I get dressed in black skinny jeans with a light grey tank top. Voices are coming from the nursery and from the doorway I watch my Mates, while they are looking at my drawings.

They placed them on the floor and are moving them around to find the perfect spot for everything I drew.

"You do realize that if you place the drawings the way I have described, it will be perfect." I say before I step into the room.

Mack looks up at me with a questioning look in his eyes, "We wanted to see if we could make a few suggestions of our own. You made all the decisions without asking us." He says.

"Like you and Levi made all the decisions on our Pups clothing, car seats and what not, without asking for my opinion?" I ask and I leave the room to get some coffee.

I know they were too excited to realize they made all the decisions without me and I love the fact that they want to have a say in everything that involves our Pups, but so do I.

With my coffee in hand I walk into my office, I want to know if the Lowbane family has made the news or if anyone has found Alpha Bradley yet. I start up my laptop and as I wait for it to be finished I stare out the window.

In a few months we will have three Pups to take care off and I can't wait to find out if we are having boys or girls. It will take a lot longer before we can tell to which bloodline they belong, but with triplets it could be one Pup for each bloodline.

I finally let my eyes drift back to the screen of my laptop and the news on the Lowbane family is out there their victims have gotten their justice I get to close another assignment and with Alpha Bradley taken care off, I can concentrate on my family.

I open my inbox to see if there are any other issues I have to deal with, but other than a few requests for a design it is empty and I open the first request to get some work done.

A Luna is requesting a dress for a Luna Ceremony, but she states that she doesn't know when the Ceremony be held and I smile when I see for who's Luna Ceremony the request is.

Delaney will be my main focus, she is going to be the center of attention and I need to talk to her about her Ceremony. Just to make sure I will use the right colors and to find out how much time I have to make the design.

"Delaney, are you awake?" I ask her through the mind-link.

"Yeah, I'm awake. Not in the best of moods at the moment, though." She answers and I wait for her to tell me what is going on.

"Just got woken up by Dax, there are a lot of Alphas and Lunas that want to know when my Luna Ceremony is. My Mates are not sure how to break the news that this will be a Pack-members only Luna Ceremony." Delaney grown oline

giggling as I try to imagine all the disappointed faces.

For a moment we are both silent, thinking about this little predicament. I am glad we will have a Luna that cares more about her Pack-members, than about her appearance to the outside world.

"Let's meet after breakfast, I think we need to start planning and I might have a solution for your Mates little challenge." I answer her, before I close the link.

I send an email to my PR manager, explaining the situation and that I want at least two press releases to show to my Alphas and Luna. I know I will have them by the time breakfast over and I power down my laptop, going to find my Mates for breakfast at the Pack-house.

I find them on the floor of the nursery, my drawings placed in the order I had envisioned and happy smiles on their faces.

"You were right, this is the best arrangement. Mack and I are sorry that we got carried away and that we forgot to include you in any of the decisions." Levi says.
