[Your Charm Stat has reached a negative value of -400!]

[You have generated a powerful [Dreadful Aura of Intimidation]!]

[All foes within your vicinity will have their stats lowered by -30%.]

[The Effects of the [Class]: [Sea Dragon Slayer] have been activated!]

[All Sea Dragons you fight will have their stats lowered by -15%, and you will be able to deal an additional 120% damage, ignoring 25% of their total defenses.]

[Each of your successful attacks has a 50% chance to cast [Deadly Wounds] and [Deadly Bleeding] on any Sea Dragon you fight.]

[Additionally, you can conjure [Sea Dragon Killer] temporary title on allies to grant them half of these effects.]

[The Effects of the [Subclass]: [Thunderstorm Bringer] have been activated!]

[You can now naturally generate and conjure lightning and wind storms spending Mana, without the necessity to create magic circles previously.]

[All Thunder and Wind Attribute Damage increases by +100%, they can ignore 30% of a foe's elemental resistances or 15% of their immunities.]

[When attacking, a powerful [Thunderstorm Aura] will be generated around you, which will make your attacks unleash lightning and winds at any foe you attack, and even aid your allies.]

[Additionally, you can now enchant your allies with the [Thunderstorm Mark] to grant them half of these effects.]

FLUOOOSH!

A powerful Aura of Thunderstorms emerged around my body, as I pointed my hands at my allies and then conjured [Thunderstorm Mark] on all of them! It even worked on spirits and familiars. Alongside that, I also granted them the temporary titles of [Sea Dragon Killer] for maximum efficacy!

These new and improved Classes were amazing, the System has been evolving so much that even something like this was completely possible, it simply leaves me completely surprised. But I cannot just sit around and play with this, we've got a dragon to slay.

FLAAASH!

"W-What is this power?! I feel like lightning is cursing through my body!" Aquarina felt shocked.

"Me too! My elements feel even stronger than before." Zack said.

"Sylphy, did you do this?!" Celeste wondered.

"There's no time to speak! We need to slay that thing right now! Celica, Mist, Zephy, stay behind and support us with your magic! Nephilim, you know what to do!" I commanded.

"I shall protect them with my life!" Nephilim quickly conjured a barrier around them.

"Mister Teddy! Go! Mister Bunny and Mister Rat as well!" Celica said, she didn't fight herself, but her three powerful golems jumped into action, becoming gigantic beasts and rushing forward to assist us. I had already conjured [Thunderstorm Mark] on them as well.

"NNNGGHH...! T-This damned beast body...!"

"Move already! I'm going to eat them!"

"RAAAAH!"

The three sisters quickly began moving their massive, over forty-meters-big body once more, shaking the entire room's walls and ceiling as they opened their jaws.

"DROWN TO DEATH!!!"

SPLAAAAASH!

And all three heads unleashed a massive dragon breath of water and... ice!

CRAAACK!

"Everything's freezing!" Zack said panicking.

"Don't worry about this on the slightest!" Aquarina smiled, leaping forwards as her two daggers slashed the ice in mere seconds, shattering everything and then conjuring her own ice, as it began to surround the dragon's four legs and its long and thick tail.

FLAAASH!

"GRAAAH!"

"Don't be afraid, ice and water has no effect on our divine scales!"

"Try harder, divine protected!"

The three sisters laughed, slamming Aquarina's ice in mere seconds, only for a massive lightning strike to come towards their chest coming from my Scarlet Sword!

"[Divine Thunder Dragon Fang]!"

CLAAAAASSHHH!!!

By combining Divine Lightning, Dragon Fang, and Lightning Blade, I was able to unleash a powerful piercing blow from afar, boosted by everything else within my classes felt an ugly wound on the three sister's chest.

"GGUUUHH...?!"

"T-That hurt more than it should have...!"

"W-What sort of power is the girl wielding!? Divinity?!"

As they wondered, the three furiously conjured countless icicles and massive familiars made of water in the shape of sea snakes, which we began destroying one by one while moving forward. Zack and Celeste stayed behind us as they unleashed destructive, lightning-imbued magic everywhere, blasting the dragon's magic attacks and opening the way for Aquarina and me.

"I've used Abyssal Embodiment too much, I cannot use it again or I will receive a heavy burden, Sylphy!" Aquarina cried, as she seemed really tired even after drinking an Elixir.

"It's fine! Stay by my side!" I said, as we began evading the attacks of the three headed dragon while leaping from place to place. Each claw and tail attack we evaded was an opportunity, as we used our weapons to inflict more and more wounds into the gigantic beast.

SLASH! CLASH! SLASH! CLAAASH!

"GRAAAHH! T-These wounds!"

"How come we are still bleeding?!"

"Aren't dragons regeneration abilities incredible? They're not working at all!"

The three goddesses slowly began to realize they were slowly digging their own graves as they attacked us physically, giving us even more opportunities to strike back.

Chapter 672 The Might Of {Draconification}!

CLAASH! CLAASH! CLAAASH!

The furious three-headed dragon continued its onslaught, slamming the ground constantly with its claws and tail. It was barely able to move properly, as the three goddesses within were incapable of foreseeing they would end up becoming so huge.

But that added to our advantage. As it was so huge, its entire body was barely able to move through the hall, and whenever it moved, it would often trip down and fall, giving us even more time to hit it with our lightning strikes.

FLAAASH!

With the power of [Thunderstorm Aura] overflowing through my body and that of my friends, we began jumping around thanks to the enhanced speed given by the aura, slashing at the dragon's body. Any part worked, as the attacks granted deadly wounds that wouldn't regenerate.

SLASH! SLASH! SLASH! SLASH! SLASH!

"W-We're doing it!" Aquarina said in disbelief. "It is huge and powerful, but thanks to these powers... We're somehow managing! Sylphy, what sort of magic is this?!"

"It's something that the giant dragon I befriended some time ago taught to me, I've been mastering it in secret." I said with a confident smile, making up a little lie.

"It's amazing, but don't lower your guards!" Zack said, as the dragon's tails suddenly divided into three out of nowhere and began slamming at us from three different positions.

CLAAASH! CLAAASH! CLAAAASH!

With Aquarina at my side, we managed to evade the first two but a third one reached us. I quickly jumped in front of Aquarina and put-up Sapphire in front of me.

"[Iron Defenses]! [Fortress]! [Lightning Shield]!"

BAAAAAMMM!!!

The enormous hit was still incredibly powerful, throwing me and Aquarina way. We hit the walls at the other side of the room while I ended vomiting blood, my entire body seemed like it was breaking apart even with all the buffs I had put over me.

"Uunnggh... Fuck..." I muttered, slowly taking out an Elixir. I only had two more before I emptied them completely.

"Sylphy!" Aquarina ran to my side as she saw me.

"I-I am fine, don't worry." I muttered, putting all the effort I could into standing back up to confront the monster.

Zack and Celeste, with everyone else's support wouldn't be enough to hold onto that monster for longer. My spirits were already helping me with their abilities and powers, but Curses and Poison were useless against a Dragon's scales unless I were to change classes to something that specialized on that, so Curse and Beelzebub couldn't do much anyways.

Ignatius flames were useless as well, and only Alice's light and Naturia's Life elements merged with my Lightning to create Divine Lightning were enough to deal some damage. Meanwhile, Furoh was too tired to fight in the frontlines, he was healed but still very tired and weakened, so he was supporting everyone in the backlines.

To say the least, our options were very few.

"Sylphy, we should run away!" Aquarina said. "That thing's defenses are insane, and its body keeps mutating, we've dealt so much damage yet it still moving... This is not something we can handle."

"I know." I sighed. "But I... I want to do this myself." I looked back at Aquarina's eyes. "I don't want to rely on my parents for everything. One day, they may not even be for us anymore. If we don't overcome these trials and tribulations, how will we grow strong enough to one day... confront the gods themselves?"

"Sylphy, you...?!" Aquarina felt shocked of realizing my true intentions.

"I told you I won't let anybody control you. I told you I will even beat the Gods to protect you, Aquarina..." I looked into her eyes, holding her hands. "Because I love you..."

"S-Sylphy... Agh, this is not the time for this!" Aquarina got completely red, blushing in embarrassment at my bold words.

"They're not real gods, they're but a remnant of their true minds. And that body is already falling apart. You may think this might never end, but I can see the future." I told her. "And we need to evade right now!"

I quickly grabbed her with my arms and then jumped off the ground before two enormous tails with sharp, spear tips were to fall where we were standing.

CLAAAAASSSHH!!!

"GRRRHHHH! You damn brats!"

"What were you chattering about in there?!"

"I read that white haired girl's mind... the divinely blessed! So disgusting, does she truly loves another girl?!"

"UGH! Only disgusting slaves like them would have such sinful thoughts!"

"We would be doing a favor to these slave's society if we kill them! GAHAHAHAHA!"

"Disgusting! DISGUSTING! DIE!"

The damned bitches began talking nonsense, which only pissed me off more. I quickly called out my Beast Aura and combined it with my [Thunderstorm Aura], transforming the blazing dragon into a powerful lightning dragon. Scarlet and Sapphire began glowing brightly, angered at our opponent's words as well.

"Will you let them get away after saying something like that?" I asked Aquarina.

"Of course not!" Aquarina groaned, her body began overflowing with darkness as she quickly shapeshifted into her Abyssal Embodiment form. "RAAAHHH!!!"

"LET'S GO!" I roared, as my body began to transform. This was time, now or never. "[Draconification]!"

FLAAAAAAAASSSSHHHHH!!!!

My Dragon Heart began beating faster and faster, as it imbued all of its powers into my body. Long dragon wings grew behind my back, and a gigantic heat started spreading across my body as I gained a beautiful armor made of red scales, a long tail, dragon-like horns, draconic eyes, sharp claws, and even a third draconic eye in my forehead.

"W-What with that power?!"

"One is a Vampyr?! One of the descendants of the Shadow Slaves!"

"And the other- What? That's... we've never seen something like that before..."

"What... WHAT IS SHE?!"

"I am your fucking doom!" I roared, raising my sword as it suddenly began growing larger and larger. Divine Flames started converging with Divine Lightning, as I unleashed all the leftover power I had within Heavenly Sun!

FLUOOOSH!

Chapter 673 All-Out Battle!

The power of [Draconification] was amazing, however...

[Draconification (1)]: By concentrating Mana into the Dragon Heart, it is possible to temporarily transform the user, gaining Draconic Characteristics based on the Dragon Heart's Dragon Force original dragon. Scales, Claws, and Dragon Breath will become available, and at higher levels, even Wings, Horns, and Dragon Eyes become available. Upon activation, temporarily increases All Stats by +100%, Automatic Physical and Soul Fatigue Recovery Speed is increased by +200% for 5 Minutes. Cooldown: 24 Hours.

It had a very short duration of 5 minutes! I've been saving this even after fighting Sarach because of how precious it was. But now that I don't have any other options, it is now or never that I must utilize its full powers, no matter what!

"[Blazing Lightning Dragon Breath]!"

FLUOOOOSH!

I opened my jaws, as Ignatius powers converged into my own body through Spirit Connection alongside Naturia, Alice, Beelzebub, and Curse. With all of their powers together, I unleashed a deadly dragon breath while slashing their entire bodies using my sword.

BOOOOOOOMMMM!!!!

"GRAAAHHHHHHH...!"

"T-THESE FLAMES... THEY BURN?!"

"UNNNGGGHHHHH....!"

They finally started getting weakened, enough for even the dragon body's immunity to status effects and curses to slowly weaken! The enormous dragon breath came accompanied by another powerful attack from Aquarina.

"[Abyssal Catastrophe]!"

Her entire body shapeshifted while in her Abyssal Embodiment, as her stomach opened a set of monstrous jaws with a single, red eye in the middle of it and then she charged an immense amount of mana and darkness, firing it as a deadly, all-destroying beam.

BOOOOOOOMMMMMM!!!!

"GGRAAAHHH...!"

"GGUUUHH..."

"T-THIS... Damned Abyssal powers..."

The gigantic three-headed dragon started to struggle. Its entire body was losing its energy as the three goddesses seemed royally fucked now... However, I underestimated their tenacity.

"Aquarina!" I flew towards her and imbued Dragon Force into Sapphire, suddenly making my shield transform its appearance as it gained countless blue scales and even dragon horns. "[Dragon Shield]!"

"GRAAAHHHH!!!"

The three-headed dragon roared in unison, in a split of a second, their entire body started to distort and grow more and more monstrous, losing their draconic elegance. Countless tentacles and eyes grew over their bodies, as the scales turned purple and black, their eyes glowed red, and a sudden fourth head appeared in their chest, unleashing a deadly, miasmic dragon breath back at us!

I quickly extended my tail and grabbed Zack and Celeste that were nearby, shielding everyone from the massive and unavoidable attack!

"DIEEEEE!"

TRUUUUUUUMMMMMM...!

The massive beam of pure Miasma was unleashed, shattering the barrier of sound and shaking the entire room, Sapphire managed to catch the attack, but it was so powerful it was pushing us all away constantly, and her body was gaining countless cracks already!

"DIE! DIE! DIEEEE!"

The other three heads unleashed similar Miasmic Dragon Breaths, combining with the main attack and powering it up even more!

BOOOOOMMMM!!!!

"S-Shit, we can't take this any longer!" I muttered. "Fuck...! [Heavenly Sun]!!!"

FLUOSH!

The last remaining gathered power of Heavenly Sun activated, boosting my stats even further as my height and size grew larger, as if I had temporarily grown into my adult form, with strong muscles and fiery red scales covering them, I unleashed all of this power.

I felt the power of my friends being imbued into me as they channeled their auras behind me. But this wasn't enough even now! Those three goddesses seemed to have undergone some sort of strange, bizarre evolution.

"Just why did they become even stronger?! We can barely hold on for much longer...!" Aquarina cried. "Damn it! Damn it!!"

"Could this be... have they become something similar to an Evil God now that they had fallen from grace?!" Celeste wondered. "If we let them metamorphose completely, they might become something that might destroy the entire city!"

However, as we despaired, an angelic figure emerged at my right side, while Aquarina remained at my left side. It was mechanic in appearance, yet she had an angelic wing and a demonic one, with two different colored eyes and hair, it was nobody else than Nephilim!

"Nephi?! But you have to protect...!"

"Don't worry, I've got that covered, master! I can help, but even with my current power it won't be enough... However, if we make a Familiar Contract, my true powers might awaken!"

"A contract...!"

"Yes, I... was designed to have a master, someone that controlled my powers. It was a task of the gods who had such immense quantities of divine power, but you, who has an endless quantity of mana... might be able to unlock a part of it!"

"Then let's do it!"

"Very well!"

Nephilim's body began overflowing with divine power, temporarily generating a powerful barrier that helped us resist the deadly, all-destroying Miasmic Beam from the three goddesses, as from within her very soul, threads made of gold began to connect with my soul.

I felt an enormous quantity of power overflowing into me, making a familiar contract with someone so powerful as her was tiring, to say the least! But thanks to my Draconification, I was able to bear the burden just fine.

And then, I saw it. Memories started flowing into my mind, the memories of Nephilim's creation, of how she was designed as a weapon to beat the first demon king, but then discarded and forgotten. Of the thousands of years she spent in solitude... I felt it all.

"Nephilim... I will make sure you never feel alone anymore." I promised her.

"And I promise you to protect you and those you love, master." Nephilim said.

The contract was done, and in mere seconds, we were brought back to reality. An enormous power started overflowing from Nephilim, as she imbued it into my shield.

Our minds were connected, and the two of us, at the same time, conjured a powerful spell, while Aquarina and my friends imbued their magical energies into my body.

This spell... it was the one she used to obliterate those golems back then. A power designed to annihilate the first Demon King.

And also a power that could even defeat Evil Gods.

"[Oblivion]!"

FLAAAAASH!

Chapter 674 Oblivion

A massive flash of bright heavenly light erupted, channeled through Sapphire as she utilized her [Sea Snake Protection] Skill, absorbing the deadly power which also contained the water element, and then mixing everything together, generating a gigantic sea snake made of light and darkness, which battled against the beam of Miasma and then reached the three goddesses!

"ROOOOOAAAAARRRR!"

CLAAAAASH!

The massive snake bite through the three-headed dragon's fourth head, destroying it, and then wrapping around the rest of the dragon's body, beginning to shine the brightest!

"T-This can't be...!"

"What sort... of power is this?!"

"STOP...! We have yet...!"

"To reclaim what is OURS!"

BOOOOOOOOMMMMMMMMM!!!!!!

The massive explosion completely blasted the dragon and everything around, turning our surroundings completely white. I felt dizzy, losing my consciousness in the process.

When I regained some of my own consciousness, I found myself not in the place I thought I would be. It was all dark, and there were three monstrous masses of miasma and water moving in the black skies.

"YOUUUU...!"

"To think you would find the Nephilim and make her your familiar!"

"How come are you not dead yet?!"

It was the wills of the three nymph goddesses. Strangely enough, this felt like that time I confronted the Evil Gods that were about to devour Celeste's soul.

I glanced at my hands and the rest of my body, I looked slightly different. For some reason, my "soul" had changed its shape. There was darkness and holy power flowing through it, and even... what seemed to be a monstrous, mass of jaws and eyes, which was shaped as a dress behind me.

Where did that came from? Is that the piece of soul I ate from the Evil God of Darkness or whatever was his name?

"Your soul... is so bizarre!"

"What is that power within it?!"

"We have to stop her before she completely annihilates us!"

The three goddesses didn't even waited for my response, moving towards my soul. It seemed they were directing their power into my own soul, so this is why I appeared in this strange form.

Though... compared to the actual Evil Gods, these bitches are nothing.

"[Great Curse of the Devourer of the Abyss]!"

TRUUUUMMMM...!

A black hole opened within the palm of my right hand, as I pointed it at them as they approached. I swung my hand and then felt one of them getting sucked in.

FLUOOOSH!

"GRYYAAAAAAHHHH!!!"

She only screamed, as it felt like I was munching on her until she was completely consumed, not even a voice was left behind.

"E-Eh?!"

"W-What?!"

The other two were left speechless.

"What did you DO?!"

"S-She ate... our sister?!"

I smiled back at them.

"You've committed the worst mistake of your lives by getting inside of my soul." I said. "Thank you for the meal~"

I quickly leaped towards one of them, swinging my hand once more.

TRUUUUMMM...!

"AAGGGGHH...! G-GET AWAY FROM MEEEE!"

She barely managed to escape, though half of her body was eaten anyways.

"S-She can eat divine souls?!"

"No, this is weird! I have never seen such a power before..."

"Such a powerful curse...!"

I quickly started chasing them around, eating them bite through bite. They began attempting to escape, but there was no way for them to escape to. Everywhere was concealed.

"This is a curse made by an ancient Demon King that desired to kill all heroes! I modified it into something even worse." I laughed. "This is the embodiment of my grudge, of my anger, of my hate against all of you, the gods."

"S-Stop! Please stop!"

"You can't eat us!"

"If we die now... our bodies will... They will remain forever stupid!"

"Please, don't do this! We're sorry for saying those things before...! W-We're sorryyyy...!"

They began asking for mercy, how cute.

"Sure, I forgive you." I smiled back at them.

The two were just as stupid as their true bodies, feeling slightly relieved, and even their eyes were filled with hope.

TRUUUUMMMM...!

But I had no time for mercy.

Swinging my hand, one of them disappeared completely.

The other looked at me with even more despair.

Yeah, that's the face I wanted to see.

"Y-You monster..."

"Monster? That's so funny coming from you, dear."

TRUUUUMM...!

Without giving her another second to speak, she disappeared as well.

My entire soul started to move around, wriggling and monstrosly shapeshifting. However, before I could even see what it was turning into, I woke up.

"Ah!"

I looked everywhere, as I found myself sleeping over my bed.

The morning was coming across the window of my big room, and the fluffy bed was inviting me to sleep more.

Aaahh, might as well-

Wait, what?!

"HUH?! When did I...?"

When I finally came to my senses I realized I was most likely carried back home by... my friends or maybe my parents. But we did defeat the three goddesses and the sea dragon for sure, though I fell unconscious after that.

"Aagghh... A-Alice, Ignatius, Natoria? Anybody?" I asked for my Familiars, as everyone showed up in front of me one by one. The only one that didn't was Nephilim, but she was probably somewhere in the house.

"Sylphy, you're finally awake!" Alice said, running towards me and hugging me with her spiritual body made of light. "I-I was so worried..."

"I am fine, don't worry... But what just happened there?" I wondered.

"Well, you kind of fell asleep after overusing all the power." Ignatius said.

"After that, your father and your mother showed up, with Aquarina's parents as well!" Beelzebub said. "I was really scared! I thought they came to kill me..."

"But it was out of concern. Seems like they came just seconds after you defeated the dragon with your friends. If you failed there, they would have eliminated it anyways." Sighed Alice.

"Ah, I guess I went a bit overboard there, wanting everything for myself..." I laughed.

"S-Sylphy this is no laughing matter!" Furoh said. "You should have really ran away... If it wasn't for Nephilim's help..."

"Ugh, I know! But the good thing's we survived, right?" I smiled back. "And now..."

BAAAM!

Before I could even sort things out, my room's door opened wide.

"Now that you're awake, we've got a few things to talk about, young lady!"

It was my mother.

Chapter 675 A Worrywart Mother

And like that, my mom dragged me downstairs and sat me down in front of the table. My father was there as well as my little brother and Nephilim. Both of them were already looking rather gloomy, as if they had undergone the torture that was my mother's scolding.

She started to lecture me about what had happened. She had come running here once her spirits sensed the presence of something incredibly malign, probably Sarach, but arrived when we had just slain something even worse. Her reaction was quite expected.

My father was more gentle with this, and seemed rather proud of what I did though, while my mother was talking about how she almost died of a heart attack.

"Zephyrus you're no longer allowed to go to the outside of this city until you grow up a bit more! I don't want you to risk your life." Sighed my mother. "And if we ever go outside, it will be with dad, alright."

"Okay... Mama don't get angry... Big sis protected me... She was very strong!" Zephy defended me.

"Was she? I can't believe you and your friends defeated a Demon Lord Servant and even that weird dragon monster! You guys are awesome! Just how strong are you right now, my princess?" Laughed my father, as he let me sit on his legs and started spoiling me.

"Uuuggh, Allan, stop being so unconcerned!" My mother began reprimanded him.

"But Faylen, it's not like the kids lose, right? Also they're already like fourteen now? At that age I was also slaying hordes of thousands of monsters! What are you even getting so worked up about?" He laughed.

"Don't you understand a single thing of what I was talking before?!" She began talking over and over about how dangerous the Demon Lords and their pawns were.

"Yet they still won." My father said with a smile. "I know. I am also worried, just as worried as you are. But instead of screaming at our children, don't you think it would be better to teach them better ways to fight and also to avoid danger? And also congratulate them for their efforts and victory! If you don't endorse that they're going to grow up hating us."

"I-I..." My mother felt slightly guilty after my father said that. "I guess... Yeah, I... well done, Sylphy. I just... I love you and Zephyrus so much... My heart hurts so much when I learn you two might be in lethal danger. You don't know how hard it was for me to allow you to go on dungeons on your own!" She sighed.

"I know mum... I get it, sorry. I fought that battle knowing I could win. If it wasn't the case, I would have quickly escaped. My Heavenly Eyes were showing me a path to victory, I merely followed that path." I said, my eyes shining brightly.

"Hmph..." My mother crossed her arms, looking like an adorable tsundere. "W-Well, well done then. But... if danger ever approaches, run as fast as you can, call our name and the spirits will hear you and we will come."

"I know, but I don't want to just rely on you two forever, right Zephy? We've gotta grow stronger ourselves as well!" I said.

"Yeah! I've grown stronger too, I am Tier 2!" Said Zephy.

"HUH?!" My parents reacted the same when I told them I had ascended to Tier 2 back then.

"Y-You're Tier 2 in both physique and magic circle, Zephy?!" My father smiled with fascination.

"T-This fast? Well... it makes sense, you must have fought many weaker monsters there, right?" My mother facepalmed. "Though this isn't exactly the best way to make someone stronger, it is certainly efficient... though rather rough."

"We only let him slay the Tier 1 monsters we found around." I said. "He did them all by himself using his new magic sword. His control over Darkness and Blood Magic have improved, and he's getting the hang of Curse and Poison Magic as well."

"Sheesh, such dangerous elements..." My mother sighed. "Zephy you make your mother proud as well, but please, PLEASE, don't try anything too dangerous, alright? Or mom will ban you from even going out of the house!"

"I-I get it..." Zephy nodded while feeling slightly suffocated by mom's reprimanding. "Sorry mum..."

He quickly got to her and hugged her. While I was more inclined towards dad, Zephy was a mommy's boy, he really was spoiled by her.

"Geez, my little prince... You're growing stronger but you have to realize you're young..." My mother sighed, hugging him tightly and giving him kisses on his forehead.

"I'll grow stronger to protect you mom, and dad and big sis too!" He said with shiny eyes filled with confidence.

"Well, your big sis said those same words back then..." My mother sighed. "Now, now, how about we have breakfast? I guess I've done a lot of reprimanding."

"Even you feel tired after a while, huh?" Laughed my father.

Like that, we slowly began our day once more. Mother also spoke with Nephilim and seemed rather surprised she became my familiar. She seemed thankful she helped us but told her she didn't had to overexert herself.

"You're a member of the family now, Nephi, so don't feel obligated to be a weapon for Sylphy, as long as you're there for her and her friends, I am happy with that." She said.

"Yeah, though good job. I guess only Sylphy could ever make a familiar contract with you, seeing how much mana she has..." My father sighed. "Seriously, we've tried to measure her mana quantity for so long but she just keeps having more and more."

"It might truly be endless..." My mother sighed. "I never thought that there could ever be a person born with endless mana, our girl is truly filled to the brim with talents, more than we can take, to be honest."

While the two chatted in the kitchen, I checked my Status, there was a quest that had been completed as well!

[Through sheer determination, powerful will, and the ability of your allies, you've managed to defeat an impossible foe through the most efficient way, by blasting them into smithereens! To make things worse, you've eaten the lingering wills using your strange abilities. Congratulations!]

[You have defeated the target in under an hour. You have received bonus rewards as a result!]

[You Received the Following Completion Rewards: [2500000 EXP] [1500000 Shared EXP] [Sea Dragon Flower (A Grade)] x6 [Divine Strengthening Elixir (A Grade)] x4 [Divine Skill Proficiency Potion (A Grade)] x4 [Divine Grade Rune Potion (A Grade)] x4 [Divine Sea Dragon Helmet (B+ Grade)] x1 [Sea Dragon King's Decree (B+ Grade)] x1 [Divine Nymph's Tears (B+ Grade)] x1!]

Woah, what with these amazing items?! I... Can barely believe it. There's an amazing helmet now, a Sea Dragon King's Decree, which is a blue metallic staff in the shape of a sea dragon, and then the Divine Nymph's Tears (lol) which is a beautiful silver blue-colored ring with tear-shaped jewels on top.

And that's without mentioning the enormous EXP reward and the other amazing potions, elixirs, and flowers... Which will come in handy at enhancing my strength even further, hehehe.

As of now, I've got 28 Million EXP, which is an insane number... I could probably spend these on forcefully leveling my Skills a bit, no? EXP can be used to level up skills, and now that I have so much it wouldn't hurt to max the level of some skills, although the cost will be a bit too big.

"Sylphy, the items you've acquired have been stored automatically inside the Dimensional Bag. Also, I have thought about granting a System Seed into that bag, so it could be better incorporated into the System, how about it?" She wondered.

"Better incorporated?" I wondered, talking through telepathy with her.

"Indeed, unlike weapons, the Dimensional bag is a magic item that possess a gigantic pocket dimension inside. If a System Seed is granted to it, it won't gain fighting capabilities or something, but it will begin growing even larger than before, and it will also be possible to connect it directly with the System, meaning you won't even need to carry it around as much, as you can open it even far away by using the System Interface." She said.

"Oooh, sounds interesting!" I said while thinking about it. "But is it really not possible to make it into a sentient familiar?"

"Well, I mean I am just talking about an objective point of view. System Seeds have already been proven to grant a "soul" to objects, so it is totally possible it might develop into a companion as well, or even something that could talk if that's what you want." She giggled.

"I wouldn't mind having a talking bag companion." I giggled mischievously. "Though granting a System Seed to a friend would also come in priority. There's also many other new candidates, such as the staff, the two new rings, and that parasite dagger that looks interesting as well."

"Yes, but it would be better if we make a System seed a day for now so I don't get too tired." She said.

"Yeah, no rush, let's take it slowly. Now that my parents know about Lolth and Arachne, they probably want to do something and I want to help, but it's not like we're departing tomorrow or something." I agreed with her. "For now I have a few other quests I haven't completed yet regarding the folk around here, and that I have to help some people too to prove my mom..."

"Right! You've already helped Saphaley, though that wooden sculpture thing of his isn't resolved yet, right?" Alice said. "And also regarding Saphira! I think you've got all materials now, you also collected Mithril beforehand."

"Yeah we collected a bunch after Sarach's death." I nodded. "I guess that's what I'll be working on the next days for now. Phew! Just when I thought I could take it easy, I remember there's always a lot to do, huh?"

"Well, you brought this upon yourself, Sylphy..." Alice sighed.

"I know, I just like helping the people around town anyways, its fun." I smiled. "And making stuff with Alchemy, Crafting, and spending time with my friends and my family... I love it."

"You sure do, seeing how you talk about that..." Sighed Alice. "Remember to evolve your Familiars as well! Oh, a System Seed for Nephilim wouldn't be bad now, wouldn't it?"

"Y-Yeah though explaining her the whole System thing might be a bit hard, but we'll try." I nodded.

"Breakfast is almost ready. Sylphy do you want pancakes?" Mother called.

"Oh! Yeah!" I said happily.

"Alright~" My mother quickly brought several plates with many pancakes piled up, with strawberries on top, some syrup, and whipped cream. They looked mightily tasty.

"Oooooohhh!" Both Zephy and I reacted in the same manner.

Now that mom was so busy lately, she had rarely made her classic pancakes. Eating these were a taste of nostalgia. Nephilim was also served a big plate, which she happily began eating with us.

"Ahh, mom's pancakes are sure the best out there." I said happily.

The fluffy texture, the sweetness of the syrup, the fruity flavor of the fresh strawberries and the whipped cream's softness all melded together made for an awesome taste. Zephy also loved them, and with some freshly squeezed Orange Juice, we ended devastating the pancakes in seconds.

"Pancakes... So tasty." Nephilim said, cleaning her mouth with a handkerchief. "I feel healed."

"Yeah, like all my stress just slipped away..." I sighed in relief.

"Yeah..." Zephy said.

"Well, that's because I've used Cooking Magic to add a Fatigue Relieving effect. It is... a small apology for having reprimanded you kids for a bit too long." My mother said with a charming smile.

"Thank you mommy!" We said in unison, even Nephilim ended joining.

Chapter 677 The Abyssal Grimoire Of Records

After filling myself with pancakes and orange juice I felt like starting the day and do some work, but my parents quickly stopped me from escaping their clutches...

"Young Lady, you can't leave yet. I know you've got your own problems and you're busy, but we need to adress more things." My mother said with a rather... intimidating tone of voice.

"It's nothing bad, we just need to talk about what happened there in more detail, and about Sarach, Arachne, and their connection with what's happening in the other side of the continent, in the Wild Lands." My father said. "And of course, we are quite worried about those future hero children's fates."

"We've put our own problems before those of these people, and I now feel rather... bad with myself. If they're really being chased by that new Demon Lord that popped out of nowhere, it would be better if we could adress things and plan something to stop her." My mother said.

"I agree... Now that I am a grown up, you're including me in your plans?" I wondered.

"Of course." My mother nodded. "You're more than proven your ability and strength, Sylphy. Though you still have to help the other people in the other task I gave to you. That task is so you can prove your sense of responsibility and ability with alchemy, while you've proven your strength, you have yet to prove those other two completely."

"I know..." I sighed. "I'll get it done through the week."

"Good girl." My mother gave me a kiss in my forehead.

"Now let's go, Aquarina's family should have arrived by now." My father said. "Here, let me carry you-"

"D-Dad, I am already big! Don't carry me like a baby!" I said while feeling slightly embarrassed, he really just tried to carry me like back then!

"Ah, my bad! Hahaha, just force of habit." He laughed while apologizing. "Then Zephy would surely not mind me carrying him?"

"Papa, give me piggyback!" Zephy happily accepted father's pampering, as he was carried.

After that, we gathered in the reunion hall of our overly massive manor and then we found Aquarina, Zack, Celeste, Celica, and Mist. Everyone that participated in that battle were called after all. Because this was a "formal" meeting between nobles, which also included the other heads of the noble families living here, we all had to dress really fancy.

Every of my friends was wearing some over the top and rather fancy, gorgeous dress. I was wearing a completely red one with white frills and green roses. Alice said it resembled a Christmas themed dress but I didn't knew what Christmas was, probably another weird thing from this "Earth".

"Sylphy! Are you feeling better now?" Aquarina wondered while feeling worried, hugging me tightly.

Aquarina was wearing an adorable blue dress with water decorations, and shiny white heels. She looked utterly adorable and my eyes were stuck on her cute ponytail as well, she looked so different from usual it was a delight to see.

"Yeah I am feeling way better now, especially now that you're here." I gave her a head pat.

"I was so worried when you fell unconscious..." She sighed

"Don't worry about it, I am super alright now!" I said with confidence. "Mom's pancakes healed me completely!"

"Your mom's pancakes...?" She wondered, completely confused.

"Sylphyyyy!" Mist showed up. "Aquarina! Hi! Are you feeling alright?"

"This little goober was all sad about you because you fell asleep after that battle." Celeste sighed.
"Feeling better now, girl?"

"Yeah, you don't have to worry about me." I said pridefully. After all, I have an HP stat that doesn't go down. Unless I am ground to bits I will be fine after healing.

Everyone else was fancy too, Mist with a white dress making her look more white than snow, Celeste had a black with dark blue dress, and she kind of sported it really well with her witch fashion.

"Hey, I see you're doing alright I guess." Zack said with a greeting.

"Oooh, I love your dresses girls!" Said Celica.

Meanwhile, Zack wore more formal clothing that males wear, it was black with a white shirt and a green-colored necklace, his hair being all tied down into a braid behind him made him look slightly hilarious. Lastly, Celica was wearing a similar dress than the one she often wears. Unlike us, she always wears fancy clothing, she really loves it.

"Well, we are here Lady Faylen, you've decided to keep this topic a secret until we arrived here, but what sort of topic did you wanted to discuss?" Wondered one noble.

"Indeed, it is a rather welcoming party but... I am quite worried..." Said another.

"It's monsters, right?" Cried a noble lady.

"Geez, calm down you three." My mother sighed. "Well, let's adress the most basic things that happened and slowly explain everything that happened..."

Like that, my parents gave an explanation of what happened according to what we explained to her truthfully. We also talked about the three nymph goddesses resurrected wills and the sea dragon, and of course, about Sarach, Arachne, and the Cult of Lolth.

The nobles were left speechless, but once that was explained properly, they calmed down. They started looking at us with new eyes as well, realizing how strong we were, perhaps. Nonetheless, once things were explained, we moved to the next topic.

"Arachne, just who is she? I don't remember her being any Demon Lord." Said my father. "And this Sarach guy neither... These are completely new threats. Has the new Demon King be reborn once more and created Demon Lords, and is trying to exclusively target us?"

"I don't... remember anybody named like this." Said my mother. "But it would make sense if she's an Arachspider if she's part of the Lolth Cult."

"I remember her, I remember all of the Demon Lords and their Apprentices." Said Shade, summoning a Black Grimoire out of thin air and beginning to read it. "This is the Abyssal Grimoire of Records, where I keep record of many things since we got it."

Chapter 678 The Demon King's Army Remnants

Shade suddenly summoned a gigantic black grimoire out of his own shadows. It honestly spooked me a bit.

"This is the Abyssal Grimoire of Records, where I keep record of many things since we got it. Amongst them, there's the detail information about every person that composed the last Demon King's army."

"Oh, that thing! So you had that Grimoire with you." My father instantly felt relieved. "So who is she?"

"Here, I found her... And Sarach as well." Shade said. "This is the info I gathered after we slain the Demon King and his subjects ran away, we didn't gave chase because we were tired of fighting, but just in case, I kept these records..."

Shade gave pretty much the same explanation to who Arachne and Sarach were that Beelzebub gave to us. It detailed her being a servant of Beelzebub and all of that, about her having the ability to tame and control insect and arachnid monsters, and Sarach being her first tamed monster, and one of her strongest ones at that time.

"A-A Servant of Beelzebub?! Wasn't that the Demon Lord you had slain over twelve years ago?"
Wondered one of the nobles.

"Indeed. At that time he was carrying a Demon King Fragment and brought a personal army of his strongest Beelzebflies, but we slayed them after an intense battle." My father said. "I wish we could have resolved things without fighting, but we couldn't. Beelzebub had the intent of killing us and killing my daughter, we did what he had to do to protect our families."

"He didn't brought Arachne with her though, and he was rather weak back then- or well, his strongest ability, which might had turned the tables, ended being miraculously deactivated..." Shade said. "I am still wondering how this happened, but it was what helped us defeat him once and for all."

Oops, I think this was when I discovered my EXP draining powers, isn't it? After all, the EXP I earn is also a part of a target's soul. It makes sense if they find it strange because nobody has a power like this.

Even those that have developed physiques know that they can drain a part of a defeated foe's power after defeating them, however, not to the extreme I've reached myself, which is quite insane to be honest.

"She must have probably grown stronger these last years since her master's defeat then." My mother concluded. "And probably reached a pact with the Evil Goddess Lolth to gain her powers and blessings in exchange for sacrifices and the like..."

"These Evil Gods, always tempting people..." Sighed Celeste. "Ugh, now I feel bad for her. What if Arachne is being manipulated?"

"It might be a possibility, but I feel it could be unlikely. She had always been a bloodthirsty and selfish woman, with a deep rooted hatred against humanity, and that doesn't treat her fellow demons any better." Shade sighed. "She probably did this willingly."

"We can't assume everything though, once we confront her, we'll try to reason with her. Although the first time this has ever worked is with you and Sylphy... most of the time, cultists of Evil Gods will prefer to die than to give up." My father sighed.

"I see..." Celeste remained in silence after that, her face seemed to be deep in her own thoughts.

"The good news is that Sarach has been defeated, we've got one less problem to care for. However, knowing that they desire the young heroes lives is worrying." My father said. "We have zero clues where they might be, but Sylphy's newly awakened ability might give us a direction to go to."

"Yes, I awakened a special power, a compass within my eyes that allows me to find the other heroes..." I said, trying to save the irritation I felt each time I spoke about the damn gods and their stupid blessings. "However, it is not completely accurate..."

"Well, it is better than nothing." My father said.

"So, our plan should be to prepare a special expedition into the Wild Lands, find the two hero children and then save them from Arachne's clutches using Sylphy's special ability." My mother said.

"S-Such a thing..."

"The Wild Lands are every dangerous, are you sure it is okay to send the young lady there?"

"Even after defeating Sarach and even that strange dragon possessing some evil goddesses' wills..."

"It is not as if we have any other options." I sighed. "I am willing to go, though after some preparation. I need at least a week."

"Yeah, we won't rush it any more than this, a week and a half should be more than enough preparation time." My mother nodded. "Due to my authority here, I cannot leave, so Sylphy, you'll have to go with your friends, and your father."

"I will also join." Shade said.

"Eh? You two?" Nepheline wondered. "Then I am joining as well!"

"No, Nepheline, you're strong and your abilities are the best at defending, stay with Faylen. If anything happens here, I'll be entrusting you with protecting the city." Shade said.

"Geez, you damn big idiot..." Nepheline sighed. She looked gorgeous in the fancy golden dress she was wearing, although it was clear she didn't like it. "Fine, but make sure to survive and bring the kids alive as well."

"I will, don't worry about it, dear." Shade said, the two began to kiss passionately, making Aquarina get all embarrassed over her parents.

"Geez stop kissing in front of everyone..." Aquarina facepalmed.

"A-Anyways, I wanted to go and I think my abilities might come in handy as well, but I should probably stay to strengthen the city's defenses." Ninhursag said with a nod. "Zack, this week and a half, I'll be teaching you even more things and you'll go through an intense training to prepare yourself for what's to come."

"Y-Yes!" Zack nodded nervously.

This looked more important than it seemed to be...

"It seems this might be a good opportunity for me to join in then~!"

POOF!

And then, out of a gust of winds, uncle Arafunn showed up.

Chapter 679 The Truth Is Hard To Swallow

"Uncle! Where have you been?!" I asked Arafunn, I was quite angered he hadn't showed up for breakfast.

"Hahaha, sorry, I kind of got a bit too busy in the bar last night and I enjoyed a nice night with a handsome and burly man that- Ahem! I mean, I've been busy strengthening my magic!" He said while trying to swallow the words he said seconds earlier.

"Huh, you're bad at lying." My mother facepalmed.

"C-Come on Faylen, give me a break." My uncle laughed.

These last years he had been getting more cheerful and less melancholic. I don't know if I've been able to help him though, but my mother said that part of his development was all the times I've cheered him up, and of course, the words of everyone else.

But now he's been having more "busy" nights lately. It is rather surprising the amount of bisexual elven men out there. But I guess not many can resist uncle's charms, he's way too handsome. I just hope he can get a boyfriend instead of just hopping from men to men, it would probably make him happier to have a more established relationship. But it seems he can't really find anybody like the one he truly loved.

"Ahem! So anyways, everyone! How are you doing? I was... overhearing the conversation. And I want to go as well!" Arafunn said with a smile, his eyes shining brightly.

"Err, well sir Arafunn, if you truly want to go..."

"Yes, sure?"

"Of course, if you want to?"

The nobles didn't seem to mind.

"Arafunn you've been ignoring our meetings for ages now and you just show up?" My mother seemed angry. "I bet you have some other ulterior motive behind this..."

"H-Hey, you're treating me like a villain or something! I am a hero too, right?" Arafunn sighed.

"Arafunn's Wind Magic would be very useful at helping us guide ourselves across the Wild Lands, to spot dangers from afar, and to find the children quicker." Said Shade. "We would appreciate your help, friend."

"Ahh, Shade! Thank you!" Arafunn felt happy.

"Well sure, you're welcome." Father nodded.

"Allan! Thank you as well, then I'll be joining! Let's depart!" He said.

"Not yet, uncle, in a week and a half from now." I said.

"H-Huh? So late...?!" He asked in disappointment.

"Are you hiding from someone or something?" My mom wondered.

"N-No..." Arafunn said while averting her gaze from her.

"Wait... Now I remember! In three more days mom's visiting. You don't want to talk with her?" Wondered Faylen. "She's your sister-in-law, you know?"

"I-It's not because of her..." Arafunn said.

He didn't had a good relationship with the family overall, and probably wanted to avoid any sort of interaction with them, I presume...

"Once mother arrives I'll also make sure to tell her about this. I've already sent a letter to my father, let's see what his response is. In the worst-case scenario he'll say this is a test and won't even help. Mother's more soft than him though, so she'll probably, at the very least, may provide monetary help to arm our forces and pay more knights, soldiers, or mercenaries to protect the city and increase the overall security." My mother said.

"Yes, let's make sure to treat her very well!"

"We shall make the grandest party for her! We've already begun preparations, in fact!"

"Indeed, it is known that the Fairy Queen is very fond of parties and carnivals, right?"

"I suppose we'll have to invest some money into this yes." My mother nodded, giving them her approval. "Let's continue those preparations as well. We'll have to use everything at our disposal to curry her favor."

Like that, conversations ended. However, as the nobles left, a new discussion began, one revolving around the three nymph goddesses, the dungeon, and the ruins left behind. Our parents seemed interested in the gods and what they did in the past. We trusted them, so we just told them everything.

"So those dumb Nymph Goddesses were evil in the past..." My father felt perplexed. "Heh, well, they got a good punishment. They became this dumb because their true minds were sealed in an artifact of their own creation! Ironical."

"I did knew through my research that we were considered the gods servants. But... slaves? We were simply made to become their slaves and disposals..." Shade sighed. "I knew of our family's bloodline powers and their origins, but... to think it was like this."

"Well, still, that's kind of in the past, no?" Nepheline sighed, crossing her arms. "Not like we are their slaves any longer. Even after receiving their powers, we've not done as they wish and they cannot do anything to us either way."

"Nepheline, they possessed Aquarina and tried to use her as their vessel." Shade revealed this to her.

"W-What?! They... what?! Fucking bitches! They dared to use my little girl like that?!" Nepheline hugged Aquarina tightly. "Damn gods... Okay, I get it now! Let's go kill them!"

"Don't go overboard..." Shade sighed.

"We cannot possibly let this information leak out. The church of the gods is spread all around the world, even in the Atlanta Continent, our entire Elven Kingdom is ruled also using religion and the Gods. We would all be treated as ultimate sinners if we said such things to the public."

"I knew this would happen." I sighed. "Even when there are proof of their damned attitude, we can't do a single thing."

"That's... realistically speaking." My mother smiled back at me.

"Huh?"

"We need even more proof. We need to research more. Once we can find undeniable fact of these things... I will show them to my father. My father might be a damn bastard sometimes, he might be rough, he might be harsh and cold, but one thing we have in common is that we dislike the church, and he's not someone fond of the gods either." Mother said. "This might take many years to complete, but eventually, we could bring the truth about the god's intentions, the past, and the origin of our creation to the entire world. That the gods are not our allies nor protectors, and that they only see us as a tool to fight to regain the planet they invaded, and as their disposable slaves."

Woah, mother really surprised me there. I guess I shouldn't had thought of her so low, she's really someone amazing.

Chapter 680 Nephilim's Status

Once the conversation was over, we were finally able to free ourselves from mother's clutches. Preparations quickly began as many people as possible inside and outside the house started preparing all sorts of provisions for the trip, while also making up preparations for the festival made to impress grandma. If we truly want to earn her monetary support, we'll have to curry her favor as much as possible, it seems.

We agreed upon investigating more, there are a few more dungeons in the Wild Lands that might be ruins from the ancient gods. Finding the truth inside and obtaining the ancient artifacts is now a new "side quest" we should slowly keep moving forward. Revealing the truth about the gods to the rest of the world should be something that we need to work forward to, if we ever want a chance in this world's endless cycle of destruction and war, we need to start from the root of all the conflicts, the Gods themselves.

It is already rather well known that Gods grow stronger through prayers and faith. If we can make people lose their faith for them, if we can make them slowly begin to believe they're not as good as they think they are, eventually they may weaken and either run away, or realize their mistakes and apologize... Nah, they're too selfish to ever apologize.

I don't know what's next with the Evil gods either, but eventually I might be capable of spooking them if I increase the level and power of Mana Disruption some more, and of course, with the Curse as well... Though it is better not to get too overly hyped about this. I need to be over a hundred times stronger than I am right now after all...

Nonetheless, once everything was over, I was finally able to go to my room to rest a bit and prepare what I wanted to do today. Aquarina wanted to stick with me for today and help me out with Alchemy, and Nephilim was coming as well. Everyone else went their separate ways. Zack was going to begin being trained to learn a "Very Special Technique" from Ninhursag starting today, and Celeste, Celica, and Mist had a million accumulated chores to do back in their own home.

So, while Aquarina went to the bathroom for a few minutes, I decided to finally give Nephilim a System Seed and explain her this power.

"Nephilim, now that you're my familiar and all, I wanted to gift you something." I said.

"A gift? For me, young lady?" She wondered, tilting her head mechanically.

"Yep! It is... a power that all of my familiars receive." I said. "It is called a System Seed. Did you not see any of that in the memories we shared?"

"I did see something, the origin of your powers... Alice and the System, and that you've reincarnated as well... I've not said anything because I wanted to keep these a secret." She said.

"You did well." I said happily, giving her a head pat. She felt confused, not really understanding the purpose of a head pat yet even now.

"I do know Systems allow for quick growth and development of special abilities, even evolution." She said while thinking. "But I am already strong, is it okay for me to have it? Wouldn't someone like Aquarina use this power better than me?"

"Nah, I need you be way stronger. Also I am already planning to give her one eventually, but it's going to be complicated to explain how this power even works." I sighed.

"That's... certainly true." She nodded. "How do I use it? Ah! Have I been already bestowed with its powers?"

"Not yet, dummy, don't be hasty." I said. "First, I need to spend EXP to create a System Seed using Alice's powers."

I showed Nephilim how I made it, as Alice absorbed this power and then generated a small, silver-colored cube with neon blue circuit-shaped lines covering its surface.

"This is a System Seed, it grants a System to anything I desire. Now, here, take it and obtain one."

"Very well."

Nephilim nodded, although she seemed expressionless, her eyes were shining with expectation, now that she was my familiar, she couldn't hide those emotions from me anymore.

FLAAASH!

The System Seed shone brightly, imbuing itself into her body and fusing with it. In mere seconds, it was done. A powerful aura of blue and silver light covered her body, filling it with circuits and the system powers.

"This power of endless growth... Is this your Unique Power, young lady? It feels so... refreshing." She sighed. "Thank you so much. I will make sure to utilize this power to protect you and everyone you love."

"Alright! I wouldn't expect anything less from you." I said with a smile. "But you also have to protect those you love, get it?"

"Those I love...?" Nephilim felt surprised. "Love is still a rather curious emotion for me, but I would assume the one I love the most would be Sylphy." She smiled back at me.

"W-Well, I know you don't mean it that way, but don't say this out loud in front of Aquarina, okay?" I asked her.

"Very well." She nodded.

Now, more importantly, let's check her Status...

<Status System>

"I see, she's really quite interesting- Huh?! What the heck with those stats? They're so high compared to all my other familiars! She's insanely strong... How can my soul even keep up with her being my familiar?" I wondered out loud.

"Well that's easy, although Nephi has high stats, they all depend on her Mana! And she has none of her own. Her stats lower the less Mana she has. Also, because she has no Mana, it is easy for your soul to link into her own and make her your Familiar." Alice explained.
