

A Snake 70

Chapter 70: Holding Tight to the Big Thigh

"Apologize to her?" Yu Rongling had an expression like his lungs were about to burst.

I saw Yu Longting let go of my hand and slowly stand up.

Yu Rongling's face changed abruptly, suddenly bending at a ninety-degree angle toward me, "I'm sorry, sister-in-law, I was wrong, I shouldn't have been disrespectful, please definitely forgive my young ignorance, rashness, and foolishness. If you don't forgive me, my brother will definitely beat me to death... ah... sister-in-law..."

"Uh... it's okay... I forgive you." I felt as if I saw four characters on his twisted handsome face.

Forced melon!

Yu Longting's thin lips lightly uttered, "Get lost."

"Brother, I'm going, I'm going now." Yu Rongling fled faster than a rabbit.

Yu Longting and I arrived at the front door of the Zhou Family.

There wasn't a single snake at the entrance.

It looked very peaceful.

Observing the shadowy corners closely, however, I could see pairs of dark green eyes.

From my experience, these snakes would only come out at night.

Zhou Ping, wearing a white hemp garment, approached me, "Su Wan... my son... my wife... my daughter... they're all dead..."

His voice wasn't human-like, hoarse and with a sibilant tone.

Smiling, his muscles stiff and eerie.

"Zhou Ping, are you okay?" I felt that Zhou Ping was not just possessed, he had no vitality at all.

Zhou Ping laughed strangely, extending his tongue.

The tip of his tongue slowly forked, hanging over his chin, "Su Wan... Spiritual Girl... Spiritual Girl... be my wife..."

"Yu Longting, Zhou Ping looks so weird." I hid behind Yu Longting.

Zhou Ping suddenly burst into numerous snakes all over his body, flying towards Yu Longting and me, "Wife... you can't escape... can't escape..."

"Trivial tricks." Yu Longting waved his sleeve, and even more black snakes darted from his sleeve.

The black snakes tangled with the flowery snakes.

For a moment, both sides were in a fierce and indistinguishable battle.

Zhou Ping, furious, rushed towards us with blood-red eyes, "Wife... my wife..."

"Be careful!" I saw snakes continuously flying from Zhou Ping's body, attacking Yu Longting, and my heart tightened.

Yu Longting sighed, a Spirit Talisman flew out between his fingers, "Afraid? Such things can't hurt your husband."

The talisman stuck onto Zhou Ping's chest.

Zhou Ping was instantly immobilized like a statue, more and more snakes crawling out of his body.

Until at last like a deflated balloon, only a human skin remained.

I had never seen a human skin before, and now seeing it right in front of me, I was so frightened my legs cramped, "Has... has his body become all snakes? I've heard about the venom of Silk Snakes; Silk Snakes eat the flesh and possess the body."

"Yes, his flesh had long been hollowed out and filled with snakes," Yu Longting wrapped his arms around my waist, kicked open the door of the Zhou family, and walked in, "Luckily, you have my inner core in your body, otherwise, that glance you exchanged with him last night would have been enough to get entangled by the snakes."

"Right, I've heard that anyone who locks eyes with Zhou Ping will get entangled." I timidly held onto his waist with both hands, and my walking posture became particularly ridiculous.

But compared to the fear of the Zhou family, I would rather hold this strong support without caring about appearances.

Yu Longting not only didn't mind but was quite pleased, "You have two of my inner cores in your body, you won't fear snake venom for a year or two, nor will snakes easily entangle you."

Boom—

Suddenly, a colorful Giant Python fell from the ceiling.

It landed in front of me and Yu Longting.

This python weighed at least five to six hundred pounds, the biggest snake I had ever seen.

I gasped, "So... such a big snake..."