Chapter 711 Infinity Vs Unity

Venganza drew every form of energy in a radius of several light-years into his body, which then would merge around his fists. Each attack carried an immense weight and gravitational force, twisting space-time to a point even Rank 9 life forms would not recognize them.

The Flame Emperor's attacks were different. While the Incarnation of Death and Destruction's Truth seemed to embody the consolidation of everything, his Truth was the absence of everything. Space-time would freeze before vanishing as those white flaming strikes drove forward.

Back when Venganza and the Flame Emperor clashed in the Prima Universe, neither used their full power as they understood how dangerous that would be for the universe. However, now they were in the Eldritch Universe, catastrophic collateral damage was something both were very happy to see.

The King in Yellow saw how his opponents acted totally unrestrained, and he did the same. He used all his power and forcefully drew the law matrix's energy into his body to enhance his might.

It may come as a shock to others, but the Eldritch Universe King did not really care about the Eldritch Universe. Although the universe still had some uses for him, he was a De-Facto Rank 10 life form, and in the worst-case scenario, he could survive in the Emptiness.

The yellow aura in the King in Yellow's extremities burst as he stopped a white flaming punch with his right palm and a shadowy leg with his left elbow. reigned for a moment as the trio clashed, but then a thunderous explosion that obliterated everything around them and echoed through the entire Eldritch Universe was heard.

"¡BOOOOOOOOMMMMM!"

Venganza and the Flame Emperor were at the blast's epicenter, and their eyes narrowed as they felt the power in the yellow aura.

The moment their fist and leg touched it, the duo felt endless space and time obstructing them. A second felt like a million years, and a centimeter gave the impression of equaling a light-year.

De-Facto Rank 10 life forms no longer obeyed a super-universe space-time's rules, so the space-time alteration that Venganza and the Flame Emperor experienced must come from the King in Yellow's Truth.

The King in Yellow had blocked the duo's attack and immediately countered with his own, sending two palms carrying an immense amount of yellow aura forward.

Venganza and the Flame Emperor used their arms to block the palms, but their eyes widened as they felt the power of the yellow aura. Unlike before that extended space-time to an impossible level, now the opposite happened.

They felt like a force containing millions of years in a second and light-years in a centimeter crushed them. It took Venganza and the Flame Emperor by surprise, and although they did not receive damage, it sent them flying away.

The Flame Emperor had just regained control over his body when a hand bathed in yellow aura approached his neck.

The space-time twisting force in the yellow aura attempted to seal the Flame Imperator's movements, but the eyes of this one glowed, making his Quietus annihilate it. He dodged it in the last second before connecting a counterpunch in the King in Yellow's face.

If it wasn't for the yellow aura covering his body, the King in Yellow was sure that attack would have caused immense damage, but he could not relax as a kick bathed in flaming shadows landed on his neck.

The King in Yellow's eyes widened as he felt that kick that resembled an ax trying to cut his neck. Not only was it extremely heavy, but it also contained a force capable of ignoring any form of defense below the Fourth Realm.

Now, it was time for the King in Yellow to be sent flying away.

Venganza and the Flame Imperator did not hesitate before pushing their Truths to the limit and chasing after the Eldritch Universe King.

The King in Yellow dodged a shadow kick aimed at his head before stopping a flaming fist that almost reached his throat.

Like that, the trio began to deploy physical feats and forces that destroyed their surroundings. Venganza and the Flame Imperator did not like it, but they had to admit that the King in Yellow surpassed them when it came to granular control.

The King in Yellow had already displayed his amazing control in the Prima Universe, but that was when he only deployed Four Evolution Extreme Rank 9 battle power. Comparing that amount of force with the one in a De-Facto Rank 10 life form was like comparing a serene river with a furious ocean.

Of course, that realization did not dampen Venganza or the Flame Imperator's fighting spirits. One of them came with the sole purpose of revenge, while the other had a hidden agenda, and neither of them would go back before fulfilling their missions.

"BOOM!" Another massive explosion occurred as the Flame Imperator, and Venganza struck the King in Yellow's chest at the same time.

They flashed forward but took different paths, as Venganza headed for the King in Yellow's back while the Flame Imperator took the front.

Venganza's fist was about to land on the back of the King in Yellow's head when this one reacted. He twisted his body, dodging the punch before grabbing the Depravita's wrist and using this one as a hammer against the incoming Flame Imperator.

After sending the Alpha Universe Leader flying away, the King in Yellow increased the amount of aura in his left fist and punched straight toward the Depravita's face.

Venganza felt that the force in that blow would send his head flying away, but the rage in his eyes burned with even more strength as he grabbed the wrist of the arm holding him.

Then, without wasting a second, the Depravita increased the power on his left arm and returned the punch toward the King in Yellow.

Neither of them let go of the other and punched with all the strength they could summon. Those exchanges gave an idea of the nature of the other's power.

The King in Yellow could feel how the Incarnation of Death and Destruction fused Astral Chaos, Nether Chaos, and Essence Chaos into a new force.

If the King in Yellow's Truth was Infinity, then the Incarnation of Death and Destruction had Unity.

Chapter 712 Quietus Sun

"¡BOOM!"

"¡BOOM!"

The punches between the Incarnation of Death and Destruction and the King in Yellow triggered explosions that broke the fabric of reality.

Although the powers of their Truths were around the same level, the King in Yellow drew energy of the Eldritch Universe's law matrix into his body, making his might greater.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction managed to endure, but things would not look well for him if the battle carried on like this.

Suddenly the King in Yellow's eyes widened as his instincts began to scream danger. His perception caught at the Flame Emperor above them and how a mighty white sun began to form in this one's hands.

That slight lapse of concentration drawn by the Flame Emperor gave Venganza the chance to tackle the King in Yellow before circling and grabbing his back.

The King in Yellow's aura exploded, harming Venganza severely. However, the Depravita's eyes burned with a desire to kill that no harm or pain could turn off. He would not let go of the King in Yellow no matter what. powerful intent manifested in the Flame Emperor's eyes as his blood and the fire covering his body gathered in the white sun.

"Quietus Sun!" The Flame Emperor roared as he sent the Rank 10 Spell toward the King in Yellow and Venganza.

The King in Yellow saw how the Quietus Sun came crashing toward him and was doing all he could to get rid of Venganza and escape, but the Depravita was not willing to let go.

"AHHHH!" The Eldritch Universe King's roared and unleashed a blast of yellow aura that clashed against the Quietus Sun, slowing it down and diminishing its might.

Venganza's eyes narrowed, and without hesitation, he also made his power explode, acting over the Quietus Sun, drawing the Rank 10 Spell toward him!

He knew the attack would harm him significantly, but he was more than happy to make that exchange since the King in Yellow would take the worst of it.

He was Venganza, and to fulfill the desire that burned inside his heart, no amount of damage was too much!

The Flame Emperor burned his life force and soul force, giving the Quietus Sun an even mightier drive. Along with Venganza's gravitational pull, it overcame the King in Yellow's aura.

There were no explosions, blasts, shock waves, or even sound as the Quietus Sun collided with the King in Yellow and Venganza.

A white light extended for countless light-years, and everything it touched, whether they were heavenly bodies, life forms, or even space-time, began to slow down until they reached a complete absence of movement.

After the absence of movement came the complete obliteration of everything that fell to the power of Quietus.

The King in Yellow screamed as the power of Quietus obliterated his legs and kept expanding all over his body.

Venganza also felt immense pain as the power of Quietus affected his arms, inducing a state similar to necrosis in them. He endured the most he could until his arms finally gave up.

The King in Yellow felt how the grip of Venganza finally weakened, and he made his yellow aura explode, sending the Depravita flying away.

The Flame Imperator saw how a yellow beam of light abandoned the Quietus Sun's core and soon left its range of annihilation.

Right after that, a shadow figure also left the core and headed toward the Flame Imperator. Only around the Alpha Universe Leader could one find a section that the Quietus force ignored in a radius of more than one billion light-years.

Venganza could barely move his arms after the Quietus force had invaded them. He was having a hard time suppressing it and stopping the power from expanding to the rest of his body.

The Flame Imperator glanced at the Depravita before raising his arm and making the Quietus force return to him.

Only after the Quietus force left him did Venganza regain control over his arms. The duo then looked at the effect of the Quietus Sun in the Eldritch Universe.

The white light kept expanding, and while the Universe Will did its best to stop it, there was nothing it could do. Only a super universe like the Pre-Epoch Prima Universe could endure a Rank 10 Spell.

Of course, the Flame Imperator and Venganza were happy with the destruction. Even if they were not, there was nothing they could do since, once fired, the spell had already left the Alpha Universe Leader's control.

Its white light extended for around fifteen minutes before the Quietus Sun finally lost its power and turned off. As for how much destruction the Eldritch Universe endured in those fifteen minutes?

7% of the Eldritch Universe no longer existed!

The destruction generated by the Quietus Sun was so thorough that nothing could ever fix it.

After the Quietus force no longer obstructed them, Venganza turned toward the direction where the King in Yellow had escaped.

"You know it is a trap." The Flame Imperator was sure his Quietus Sun severely harmed the King in Yellow but not to the point this one could no longer fight.

"I know, but it doesn't matter. I can not out-think him with the time I have left, so I will rely on pure brute power and savagery to fulfill my goal." Venganza then turned toward the Flame Imperator with a smile. "Anyway, I think now it is time for us to separate. I assume you will be using my fight as a cover for your plan."

The Flame Emperor did not try to deny it and stared at the Depraved for a moment before nodding and opening his mouth.

A stream of glowing white blood emerged from the Flame Emperor's mouth and entered the black hole around the Depraved.

Venganza felt how his power reached a whole new level after devouring part of the core life force of a De-Facto Rank 10 life form.

The Flame Emperor did not wait and left the next second. As for his destination, only he knew it for sure.

Venganza's power peaked, but he was not satisfied and commanded the black hole to devour the shadowy flames that had protected his body for eons.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction resembled a demonic divine being. His skin was metallic black, and there was a golden crown over his head with hair that resembled streams made of sunlight.

He was, by all standards, majestic.

Chapter 713 Lovecraft Infinity Avatar

Venganza could have directly teleported to the location of the King in Yellow but chose to fly toward it. He used the full power of Unity and devoured every form of energy and matter in his path, making his power grow by the second.

Every world, every flash of light, every iota of heat, the black hole devoured all, leaving nothing but an empty void where no life could be born again in billions of years.

Although Venganza devoured everything in his path, his perception never left the King in Yellow, and he knew that this one had entered the most massive and mighty world in the Eldritch Universe.

Venganza's eyes narrowed as he felt the presence of the King in Yellow grow incredibly weak after this one entered the Old World. The moment he approached the world, a force field began to reject him, but to a De-Facto Rank 10 life form, it was a child's game.

He did nothing, and his black hole began to devour the force field, growing even stronger.

Once the force field vanished and Venganza obtained a proper sight of the Old World, his eyes narrowed. Old World could be considered the next evolutive step of a Principal World, and while it could not pose a real threat to the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, it could weaken him just enough for the King in Yellow to connect a devastating blow.

"Hmph!" Venganza sneered as his black hole began to rotate, and the power of Unity invaded the Old World.

Although the world attempted to resist, there was no way something at the Law Realm could endure the might of a Truth. Pieces of its landmass rose to the sky, and the black hole decomposed them before transforming all into fuel for the Incarnation of Death and Destruction.

Venganza was sure the Old World was important for the King in Yellow, yet this one did not appear no matter how much the black hole devoured.

Although the Depravita had decided to take a forceful approach, that did not mean he would blindly march into a place he knew nothing about.

If the King in Yellow did not come out, Venganza would devour every piece of the Old World and continue consuming until there was no place to hide.

Venganza did not take long before the surface of the Old World had been wholly devoured, and the power of Unity carried on until it reached its core. It was only then that the power of Truth stopped advancing.

He fired that punch forward, unleashing an energy cannon that landed straight on the unique dimension.

"¡BOOM!"

Despite R'lyeh Void's sturdiness, it could not endure a straight blow from a De-Facto Rank 10 life form and collapsed, unleashing energy waves in every direction.

Immediately after R'lyeh Void collapsed, the fourteen Great Old Ones became visible. Pillars of yellow light emerged from every single one of the gargantuan monsters and converged on the largest of all.

They were in a formation, and its core was the mighty Four Evolution Extreme Rank 9 Azathoth. As for the King in Yellow, he had fused with the lobotomized Great Old One, leaving only his head visible.

Venganza's eyes narrowed as he saw the formation and felt a force that had sealed everything around him. He could not escape, but that did not matter since he was ready to use it all and won't back down no matter what.

The King in Yellow's eyes glowed as the Great Old Ones began to roar, burning their soul force and core life force, allowing their power to rise at an incredible level for a short amount of time.

Along with those roars of pain, the bodies of the Great Old Ones began to mutate, transforming into gory masses that merged with Azathoth.

Venganza saw all of that but did not interfere. He could feel Infinity's power covering the King in Yellow and the Great Old Ones.

Instead of marching forward in a futile attempt to stop his enemy, which would leave him full of openings, he focused all his power on preparing his Rank 10 Spell.

Unity's goal was to fuse Nether Chaos, Essence Chaos, and Astral Chaos into a single force that only manifested twice in the life of a universe and whose power was unmatched by anything else.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction began to bleed from his eyes and ears as the black hole around him began to condense, generating immense pressure over his body and soul.

Controlling a De-Facto Rank 10 life form and unleashing a Rank 10 Spell were very different things. Zatiel could have done the former thanks to En's seals, but only Venganza could endure the pressure of firing a Fourth Realm Spell.

"AHHHHHHH!" A scream of utter agony came out of Azathoth and echoed through the entire Eldritch Universe.

The lobotomized Extreme Rank 9 Great Old One seemed to have regained some cognitive functions thanks to the formation, but the only thing he could feel right now was an utter and absolute pain.

After the other thirteen Great Old Ones had fused in him, Azathoth began to mutate, growing larger and larger. It was not only his body the one improving as his aura soon reached Rank 10.

"Lovecraft Infinity Avatar!"

The King in Yellow smiled as his figure vanished inside Azathoth, just as this one changed into a monster like no other. It had a body made of tentacles with hundreds of eyes and a mouth that seemed a gateway to a nightmare dimension.

Venganza knew that the King in Yellow liked to use avatars, so he was not surprised that his Fourth Realm Spell involved one.

"ROAR!"

The Lovecraft Infinity Avatar roared and literally shattered reality around it before lunging toward the Incarnation of Death and Destruction.

Chapter 714 Epoch Explosion

The Lovecraft Infinity Avatar obliterated everything in its path as it marched toward the Incarnation of Death and Destruction. Its power was not something the Eldritch Universe could withstand, and even the Pre-Epoch Prima Universe would have endured great harm if such a creature had existed inside it.

The King in Yellow had designed the avatar not just as a weapon but as a vessel. After becoming a De-Facto Rank 10 life form, he had decided to explore the Emptiness.

Of course, the Eldritch Universe King would have done that after devouring the Prima Universe.

Venganza saw the Lovecraft Infinity Avatar's maws closing down on him. Inside the creature, there was a power capable of erasing his body, soul, and energy, and it could also do severe damage to the True Name.

However, the Depravita showed no fear and continued condensing his power. He stopped the lower jaw with his legs and the upper jaw with his arms, preventing the creature from closing its mouth.

The Lovecraft Infinity Avatar exerted an incredible force over the Incarnation of Death and Destruction as it continued its charge forward, leaving a trail of utter annihilation. felt how cracks emerged on his body as the pressure generated by the Lovecraft Infinity Avatar pushed him to the limit.

As Vengaza felt the burning power of Infinity inside the creature's stomach about to swallow him, he closed his eyes. Images of a blue-haired woman appeared in his mind, and they fueled the rage and desire in his heart, allowing him to compress the black hole into a small dot.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction freed his right hand and grabbed the dot before attacking.

In that dot, one could find the force that would result after all the Astral Chaos, Essence Chaos, and Nether Chaos were fused and condensed into their ultimate state.

"Final Unity: Epoch Explosion!"

The moment Venganza fired that fist forward, he triggered a blast containing the same absolute and destructive nature of an Epoch Explosion. It was a power that could end everything inside a super universe.

Silence reigned for a second before a thunderous explosion shook the entire Eldritch Universe, generating cracks in space-time that covered more than half of the super universe.

The collateral damage killed trillions upon trillions of life forms and split heavenly bodies in half. Still, that was far from the worst, as the Eldritch Universe could fix that damage given enough time.

It was at the core of the explosion where the damage was irreparable. Nothing remained of the law matrix, and the destruction was so thorough that the Universe Will could never fix it. Wild forces containing the essence of Truths flood the zone, making it toxic for Rank 9 life forms.

As for how much of the Eldritch Universe was lost when Venganza's Epoch Explosion landed on the Lovecraft Infinity Avatar?

13% of the Eldritch Universe collapsed into oblivion.

That plus the 7% obliterated by Quietus Sun meant that a fifth of the Eldritch Universe was gone!

Such a high number was especially concerning for the Eldritch Race once you understand that you don't need to erase all of it to kill a universe. As long as a considerable amount of it is gone, the universe would not endure the pressure of its own existence and trigger an Epoch Explosion.

The wild and chaotic energies that formed the explosion only vanished after ten minutes.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction's condition was horrible. His right arm, shoulder, and a considerable portion of his chest were gone. Bloody cracks covered every corner of his body, and it seemed they were ready to shatter at any second.

Venganza used everything he had on that attack, focusing his power solely on the offensive and disregarding any form of defense.

As for the Eldritch side's condition, it was much worse. Venganza's attack and the explosion erased six of the Great Old Ones from existence and scattered the other eight through the Eldritch Universe in a comatose state.

The King in Yellow floated in space without any legs or arms. Most of his body was scorched, and half of his face had melted. Despite that, he was still conscious and stared at Venganza with nothing but pure hatred.

Venganza smiled as he saw the King in Yellow's hateful stare. However, all the destruction he provoked and the death he caused were still not enough to satiate his thirst for revenge.

The King in Yellow perceived the weakened state of the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, but he was in no condition to fight.

Suddenly, the King in Yellow and the Incarnation of Death and Destruction narrowed their eyes as they felt a sudden change in the Eldritch Universe. The entire universe started to tremble, and portions began to collapse.

The duo found the cause of the Eldritch Universe's instability very soon, as they saw the Flame Emperor emerging from the universe's nucleus with a white orb containing a starry cosmos.

The Alpha Universe Leader was severely wounded, but he smiled as he flew toward the Final Gate with the Core of Existence.

Shock, rage, and terror appeared in the King in Yellow's eyes as he saw the Flame Emperor leaving with the Core of Existence. He could not help but feel regret as he saw the outcome of his plan.

"Hahahaha!" Venganza laughed as he saw the King in Yellow rage and remorse.

Even if the Depravita had conflicted emotions regarding the Flame Emperor's plans, since they harmed the King in Yellow, he was more than happy to see it happening.

"Good luck fixing this doomed universe." Venganza mocked the King in Yellow before flashing away and leaving the universe through the Final Gate.

The King in Yellow was left alone in a broken universe that might collapse soon.

Chapter 715 The Pain Of Revenge

En and the Justice Primarchs had all left the Styx River. There was nothing to do there, and the law matrix would heal faster without enduring the pressure of several Rank 9 life forms.

The World Tree, Salomon, Issac, Hyperion, Bahamut, Nut, and Noir were all waiting outside the Prima-Eldritch Universe Final Battlefield.

A massive structure with the form of a large red sword stood next to the Dark Tower. That sword-like construction was the headquarters of the Immortal Alliance, Bloodshed Sword.

The Justice Primarchs and En were not the only ones in the strongholds, as several Law Overlords from the different great powers had gathered.

Zatiel being the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, was not something that could have caused such a commotion since most Justice Primarchs already suspected it, but the birth of Venganza changed everything.

They had all agreed to follow the Neo-Demon Ancestor because this one's goal was to protect the Prima Universe and bring forth a time of peace and light.

However, the intelligent Depravita, Venganza, was different. He did not care about anything but himself, and the Prima Universe was at best a burden and, at worst, food.

Fighting against Venganza was not a feasible plan. Even if all the Justice Primarchs were willing to go down that path, En might protect the Depravita. After all, he was still Zatiel Daybreak.

Not to mention that while they were sure that Venganza could not use the Incarnation of Death and Destruction without some limitations, the Depravita would only need one attack to wipe out any of them, even if they hid inside their Principal Worlds. The image of Eligos screaming and the Mind Ruler World's Crystal Wall shattering was still clear in their minds. reason they all gathered together was to project the greater strength possible. If there was something any life form respected, even Depravitas, it was power.

En, Issac, and Salomon were at the lead of this coalition and were also the closest to the Final Gate. Although none of them could send their perception through the gate, they were close enough to feel it tremble from time to time.

The only reason for something like that was the trigger of destructive forces that affected the entire Eldritch Universe.

Of course, the idea of the Eldritch Universe enduring irreparable damage made the trio smile, but it also made them tense. Just how strong were Incarnation of Death and Destruction, King in Yellow, and Flame Emperor?

"Do you think he could fall in there?" Salomon made a question that only En and Issac could hear.

When the World Tree and the Magus Primarch heard that, they felt conflicted emotions. Just a few hours ago, the duo was ready to sacrifice themselves to protect Zatiel, but now they had to admit that if the Incarnation of Death and Destruction did not come back, things would be much easier.

The Depravita Race was an existential hazard to any universe. The only reason the Justice Primarchs did not feel threatened was their lack of intelligence and that they were under Zatiel's control.

However, now the one that controlled them became an intelligent Depravita and transformed the Virtual Dream Universe into a breeding ground for those creatures.

Suddenly the trio adopted a battle stance and readied their power as they felt someone coming through the Final Gate. En and the other two Extreme Rank 9 life forms saw a heavily wounded Flame Emperor crossing into the Prima Universe.

The Flame Emperor did not glance at the Prima Universe's coalition. As soon as he left the restriction of the Prima-Eldritch Universe Final Battlefield, he teleported into the artificial world on the border of the universe.

En's perception was able to follow the Flame Emperor and saw how this one returned to the Alpha Universe.

Although the trio was full of doubts as they saw the Flame Emperor's behavior, a new presence emerging from the Final Gate brought them back to reality.

The Incarnation of Death and Destruction's arrival made a solemn aura affect all those present. Although they saw his wounded body, none of them dared to even think of underestimating this monster.

Before any of them could utter a word, Venganza turned toward them.

"Do not bother me." Venganza did not say anything else before vanishing.

Although those words sounded simple, the intent behind them was evident. They would suffer the consequences if they got in the Depravita's path.

As for where the Incarnation of Death and Destruction went, the answer was obvious. He appeared inside the Neo-Demon Realm, where billions of Neo-Demons were all waiting for him.

They were a race without a single Rank 8 life form, yet they were also the mightiest power in the Prima Universe due to the presence of a single individual.

Nevertheless, that realization did not bring happiness to the Neo-Demons as they saw the coldness and indifference in the eyes of the man who once only showed love and care.

Venganza only glanced at the Neo-Demons before teleporting toward the Final Purgatory. He rose through the layers and entered the First Layer again.

All the Neo-Demons were waiting for their Ancestor, and when they saw this one reappear, shock and horror emerged on their faces.

The Ancestor's body which had always been in peak physical condition and vibrant with life now resembled that of a corpse. There seemed to be no blood left in him, and his skin tightened to his bones as if his muscles were gone.

Using the Incarnation of Death and Destruction dried Venganza's life force, soul force, bloodline, and energy. Luckily, thanks to Depravita's undying nature, he would heal given enough time.

Unlike the others, Venganza did not seem to notice his condition. Either that or he simply did not care.

Zitra stared at him, and she could not help but feel great pain in her heart. She was about to fly toward him when this one vanished again.

Venganza did not hide his presence, so Zitra located him in one of the High Worlds inside the Neo-Demon Realm. Just as she was about to follow him, Heinz stopped her.

The Cultivator shook his head toward the woman. It was better to leave Venganza alone for the time being since this one did not wish to be disturbed.

Venganza dismissed everything that happened outside of this world and waved his hand as he carefully took out Sophia's body.

Now that he could see her with more attention, the Depravita saw the smile on the woman's face. It was clear she did not feel fear or regret during her last moment of life.

"I am Depravita. I can not feel love. You are just an instrument for my path, and your death means nothing to me."

As those words echoed through the world, a tear fell on Sophia's smiling face.

"Then why..." More and more tears fell on Sophia's face as Venganza cried.

"Why I felt like I lost a piece of me, and your last words kept resounding in my mind."

Venganza could not understand why he had to suffer so much. Even if the King in Yellow were still alive, it would only be a matter of time before the Eldritch Universe was gone, so he fulfilled his goal. Then, why did he feel like this?

Venganza's Depravita aura exploded, making the world tremble as earthquakes shattered its landmass. The only thing that Venganza's aura did not harm was Sophia's body.

He exhausted himself almost immediately due to his weakened condition. Nevertheless, an unshakable resolution emerged in his eyes as he stared at Sophia's smile.

"I don't care how long it takes me or how strong I need to become. I will bring you back!"

End of Book 7. The Incarnation of Death and Destruction awakens.

Chapter 716 Reunited

Book 8. The light of daybreak

Venganza's eyes burned with a single goal. He would bring back the only person in the entire multiverse that could move his heart, the one that was even more important than himself.

The idea that a Depravita could care for others was laughable. As for those monsters choosing to sacrifice themselves for that person, that was simply impossible. Still, Venganza did not doubt that there was no price large enough to bring Sophia back.

The Law Realm lacked the power to resurrect someone whose Primordial Essence had ceased to exist, but that did not mean that the Fourth Realm was also unable to do it.

And even if the Fourth Realm lacked the power, who said that was the limit of cultivation. Life forms in the known multiverse took Rank 10 as the highest peak, but that was because of their low insight. It was like a farmer saying that a mountain was the largest in the world, only because he had not seen one larger.

Who knew what mysteries the Emptiness hid and what kind of powers those that manage to triumph in it could achieve.

Although Venganza differed significantly from other Depravitas, he still shared many of their qualities, and one that would help him significantly was the notion that nothing was enough. "If Rank 10 is not enough, then fuck Rank 10!" Venganza boldly pronounced those words as he buried his right hand on the High World's surface, making this one tremble.

He used the Concept of Gluttony to devour everything, the Concept of Envy to transform it all into something specially designed for his body and soul, and the Concept of Sloth to enhance the healing effect.

Venganza's blood which currently resembled a black coagulated mud began to move again. With every revolution that it took around his body, more and more vitality reached his cells and soul.

Hades and the Sky Breakers positioned themselves outside of the High World that Venganza was devouring.

As for the other Neo-Demons, the Sky Breakers ordered them to return to their worlds and remain there until further notice.

"What should we do? The world will collapse in less than a month at this rate?" Dante asked with concern as he saw the High World, once vibrant with life, transforming into a desert.

"Ahhh, what can we do?" Hades only sighed as he spoke those words. He had fused with the NRAI, but the highest authority always remained in the hands of Zatiel, now Venganza.

The Ancient Being of Laws knew they could not do anything to stop Venganza since this one had a higher authority and power than them, but he attempted to figure out a way to save the High World.

Just as the High World was about to reach a breaking point and Hades readied himself to redirect some of the energy of the formation covering the Neo-Demon Realm, a voice echoed through the world.

"Enough." That voice came from inside the Venganza.

Hades and the Sky Breakers saw with shock how a mighty demonic dragon emerged from the Depravita. They had monitored the events above the Styx River using the Neo-Demon Realm, so they had some idea of the demonic dragon's identity.

As soon as the Primordial Body Incarnation exited Venganza's body, this one grew incredibly weak, and the Silver Stars of Origin around his head vanished.

Venganza trembled at the sudden loss of power, but his eyes were firm as he stared at the mighty demonic dragon, and he did not stop devouring.

"You want to interfere with me again?" The Depravita's eyes were cold as he stared at the Primordial Body Incarnation.

Although Venganza was in control during their fusion, that did not mean the Primordial Body Incarnation would lose his ability to think or act.

After destroying the Rank 9 Archfiends and devouring them, Venganza intended to do the same with the Justice Primarchs. Good and evil did not matter to the Depravita, but the Primordial Body Incarnation stopped him.

Since Venganza needed to be in peak condition to dominate the Incarnation of Death and Destruction, he chose to concede. Still, now there was no reason to heed the Primordial Body Incarnation.

The Primordial Body Incarnation's eyes narrowed as he saw how Venganza kept devouring.

There should not be a conflict between the main body and the incarnations since they share the same ego, but by transforming into Depravita, Venganza became unique.

"You should submit toward me. After all, I am the original."

Venganza's voice was cold and full of might. However, the answer he got was equally strong.

"I am Zatiel Daybreak, and I submit to no one!" The Primordial Body Incarnation roared as his mighty aura filled the world.

Hades and the Sky Breakers all smiled when they heard that, and a sense of hope appeared in their hearts.

Venganza did not try to refute the Primordial Body Incarnation's words since they were true. Nevertheless, that did not mean he would stop devouring.

The Primordial Body Incarnation saw the Depravita's stubbornness, but he found a way to reach Venganza as soon as he stared at the blue-haired woman.

As he stared at Sophia, immense love, pain, and sadness emerged in the Primordial Body Incarnation's eyes. He was Zatiel Daybreak and loved her with all his heart.

"Do you think this would make her happy?"

Intimidation could have never worked in Venganza, but when he heard that, his eyes widened, and the devouring force extending through the world froze.

The idea of harming her in any way was something the Depravita could not tolerate.

"I understand now." The Primordial Body Incarnation's eyes glowed with enlightenment as he saw the Depravita's behavior.

Venganza frowned as he heard those words and focused on the Primordial Body Incarnation.

"Hmph, how could you know something I don't?" The oddness of his nature baffled him, and the idea that someone else could figure it out made him angry.

"You are smarter in almost every sense, except when it comes to her. You were born out of our desire for revenge, which originated from our undying love for her. You are the effect and can not ignore the cause."

Venganza's eyes narrowed, and those words made him think, but he was unwilling to comment on his nature with the Primordial Body Incarnation. He took his hand from the High World's surface before speaking.

"I will no longer devour this world. We should fuse to enhance our healing speed."

"I am fine with it, but I need to do something beforehand." The Primordial Body Incarnation did not say anything else before waving his wings and reaching the void in front of the Sky Breakers.

A large smile appeared on the demonic dragon, and he waved his claw in a somewhat clumsy way.

"Hello, sorry for scaring you all."

Chapter 717 Good And Evil

"Hello, sorry for scaring you all."

Hades and the Sky Breakers felt somewhat strange as they saw the mighty demonic dragon, but when they focused on the eyes of this one, all their doubts vanished.

"Brother!"

"Father!"

"Husband!"

"Lord!"

Their eyes glowed with light as they spoke to the Primordial Body Incarnation. Appearances did not matter for life forms like them. The soul and ego were the cores of one's identity, and the one they saw in the demonic dragon was that of Zatiel Daybreak.

The Primordial Body Incarnation smiled at Hades and the Sky Breakers. He then focused on one of them and used his claw to caress her head. trembled as she felt the giant claw. A beautiful smile emerged on her face as peace finally appeared in her heart. Although she had not spoken it out loud, Venganza terrified her not only due to his coldness but the fact she was sure he had no feelings for her.

The idea that Zatiel had stopped loving her was excruciating for the woman. Her smile grew larger as the Primordial Body Incarnation put her on top of his head.

"Lord, who is he?"

Hades made the question that was in everyone's mind as they focused on the Depravita in the deserted High World. Venganza could feel their stares, but he did not care and simply ignored them.

"He is also Zatiel Daybreak. Just a unique and ruthless version of myself." The Primordial Body Incarnation answered without hesitation as he had already expected such a question.

Although Hades and the others believed the Primordial Body Incarnation's words, they did not know how to feel about Venganza.

"There is no need to worry about Venganza. He disdains to bother with you, so let him be. I already found a way to at least stop him from destroying everything."

Hades and the Sky Breakers nodded. None felt comfortable around the Depravita, so avoiding him was not a problem.

"Lord, what should we do from now on?" The Ancient Being of Laws asked with a serious expression.

All the events above the Styx River changed the power dynamic of the Prima Universe drastically. Not only did the Neo-Demon Realm have the Champion of Justice and Order guarding it, but they also had the Incarnation of Death and Destruction.

Those two already made the Neo-Demon Realm the greatest force in the Prima Universe. Still, they were trump cards that Zatiel could not deploy easily, especially the Incarnation of Death and Destruction.

And even more importantly, the Prima Universe's common enemy, the Eldritch Universe, had been crippled. It was hard to say how the Justice Primarchs would act from now on.

Hades took his position as the Great Elder of the Neo-Demon Race with extreme importance since he knew his decision could affect the lives of billions of Neo-Demons. He could not ask Venganza for guidance since this one did not care, but luckily the Primordial Body Incarnation did.

"All Neo-Demons will remain inside the realm until I say otherwise. It is too dangerous to leave now." The Primordial Body Incarnation sent a command that affected the entire Neo-Demon Race.

Hades' eyes were cold as he heard that command. He did not think about disobeying that order, as he was sure it was in the Neo-Demon Race's best interest.

The reason for the Ancient Being of Laws' coldness was the last part about the dangers of leaving since it meant that someone could be targeting the Neo-Demon Race. He had changed a lot but was still someone capable of extreme brutality if needed.

"Would the Justice Primarchs dare to go against us?"

Heinz, Dante, and the other Sky Breakers frowned when they heard that. They had formed good relationships with the other races, especially after the Virtual Dream Universe connected them.

However, soon coldness also appeared in the Sky Breakers' eyes. If the Prima Universe was against the Neo-Demon Race, then there was no need for the Prima Universe to exist anymore.

That train of thought was extremely dangerous, especially if it emerged in a race with the power to fulfill it.

Luckily, the Primordial Body Incarnation's word made it clear things did not head in that direction.

"Although our relation grew tense due to the actions of Venganza, I am sure none of the Justice Primarchs would dare to target any of us. If not for respect, for fear. However, the Evil Primarchs are different."

"Father, did you not destroy their bodies and souls already? It will take time for them to return using their Omega Laws, and even then, they will be weak for an extended period. Should we not push harder to eradicate their races from the Prima Universe?"

Heinz, Juntu, Tyrus, Rax, and Kylo nodded as they heard Dante's idea. However, Totto and Hades shook their heads.

"What do you think?"

"A wounded animal is the most dangerous."

Dante, Heinz, and the others understood Zitra's words and considered the dangers, but sometimes, you need to risk it and take advantage of the wounds of an enemy to give the final blow.

"You both have valid points, but there is no need to risk ourselves. The Evil Primarchs know their time is finite, and there is no way out for them. Since they lost everything, they have nothing to lose. That transforms them into a danger I can not control. I have a plan to handle them, but first, I need to heal and grow stronger."

After saying that, the Primordial Body Incarnation lowered Zitra and flashed back into the High World, fusing with Venganza.

Hades and the Sky Breakers also left after that. They had their missions and would fulfill them.

Venganza's body regained its monstrous physical strength along with three Silver Stars of Origin and twelve demonic dragon wings.

"Good and evil. Say what you want about my kind, but at least we do not bother ourselves with such narrow concepts that are constantly changing."

The Primordial Body Incarnation did not reply to Venganza's words and just focused on his recovery.

Chapter 718 Third Ignition (I)

A massive Outlandish Beast of Emptiness moved through a mountain range of the Empty World. The creature's eyes were full of wildness, but that was not all, as one could also find frustration and a hint of fear in them.

Those feelings made sense if you consider the multiple wounds over the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' body, all in vital points or zones that diminished its battle power.

A creature like this, born to endure the harsh environment of the Emptiness, had incredible regenerative powers. Still, there was a silver aura with golden threads infecting the wounds, making it impossible for the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness to mend them.

Suddenly, the Outlandish Best of Emptiness' eyes narrowed as it raised its massive claw and stamped to its left, where a humanoid was emerging from the ground.

That attack completely shattered the humanoid's body, but just as the creature smiled, the clouds above its head also formed a humanoid.

The one in the sky had three silver stars with golden threads floating around his head, and a plasma halo over his back and forehead that drew an immense amount of World Strength.

Ezequiel descended from the sky, accompanied by an incredible amount of World Strength. His attack was swift and landed in the space between the creature's skull and s Outlandish Beast of Emptiness roared in pain, but Ezequiel had altered the vibrations around them to hide the signs of a battle.

Not even a millisecond after his strike connected, Ezequiel vanished from above the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness, right in time to avoid hundreds of bone spikes.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness was full of rage, but it was also surprised as it saw the humanoid not leaving. It had endured ambushes over the last years, and after every strike, the enemy would use some tactic to escape.

However, the humanoid not only did not escape, but his aura rose as World Strength increasingly entered his body.

"AHHH!" The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness roared again, this time with rage, madness, and killing intent.

Ezequiel's eyes also contained an overflowing killing intent as he focused on the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness. More than eighty years had passed since he entered the Empty World, and he had grown incredibly powerful.

The Sacred Trial seemed to have a power blocking him from evolving his True Soul Path of Power, but the good thing was that there was no such restriction on his True Doomsday Body Path of Power.

Killing the parasites had helped him develop Outer Origin Essence and Inner Origin Essence and train Return to Origin to the peak of Small Success.

Good things did not end there, as Entropy had awakened around thirty years after he entered the Trial of Life. Just like devouring those parasites was helpful for Ezequiel, it also helped the Sanctus Battle Partner's growth.

Once Entropy reached Peak Rank 7, Ezequiel chose to fight an Outlandish Beast of Emptiness. It seemed not to have fully grown, and its power only reached the Initial Beyond Limit Stage.

Nevertheless, even with Entropy, the fight was hard, especially since Ezequiel did not just want to kill it.

The Supreme Neo-Demon crippled the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness and then used it to ignite the Astral Black Hole in his liver.

Although Outlandish Beasts of Emptiness were strong, their minds and willpower were nothing impressive.

Ezequiel performed his Second Ignition without a problem, and to his surprise, not only did his physical power increase, but the Astral Black Hole began to release a black aura that mutated his body similarly to Return to Origin.

That is the reason for the golden threads in his Silver Stars of Origin.

Now that his body had fully adjusted to the rising Astral Origin and the power of the second Astral Black Hole, Ezequiel planned to use a fully grown Outlandish Beast of Emptiness to perform the Third Ignition.

The creature in front of the Supreme Neo-Demon almost reached the Beyond Redemption Stage and was several times stronger than one at the Initial Beyond Limit Stage, so Ezequiel did not dare to be careless and chose to weaken it before starting the final fight.

"¡BOOM!"

A massive blast of silver and black energy occurred as Ezequiel's fist and the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness claw collided.

The creature's power almost overwhelmed the Supreme Neo-Demon, but the pressure on its body worsened its wounds, making its claw tremble and lose control.

Ezequiel's eyes narrowed, and he took full advantage of that opening. He pushed the claw away and flashed toward the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' neck, using his entire body like a hammer.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness felt the blow crush its throat, but that did not stop it from using one of its claws to push the Supreme Neo-Demon away.

Ezequiel saw the massive claw coming at him, but there was nothing he could do to stop it or dodge it. The strike sent him flying away, blood leaking out of his mouth.

His body crashed against several mountains, destroying all of them before being buried under one.

Although the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness would have wanted to continue its onslaught, blood did not stop coming out of its maws due to the severe internal damage it endured.

"¡BOOM!"

A blast of energy drew the creature's attention, and it saw the Supreme Neo-Demon rising from the debris as a silver aura with golden arcs covered its body.

Ezequiel's six golden arms and three faces covered in blood made him resemble a divine asura.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness felt a great danger coming from the humanoid, but its wild nature made it react like an enraged beast.

They fought with all they had, unleashing powers that completely altered the terrain around them. If the battle had occurred in a Principal World, the damage would have enraged the World Consciousness, but the Lord of Emptiness designed the Empty World to endure fights at the Primarch level.

Chapter 719 Third Ignition (II)

"¡BOOM!"

A massive explosion occurred as six punches landed in the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' chest, sending it flying away while throwing up large amounts of blood.

Ezequiel's eyes burned with killing intent as he saw his attack landing point-blank in the enemy. Blood covered his body, part of it coming from the creature while the other from his multiple wounds.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness and the Supreme Neo-Demon had been fighting for over thirty hours. A testament to the duo's incredible resilience and might.

Ezequiel did not hesitate before flashing toward the creature to continue his onslaught, but before he could land another attack, the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness sent a kick toward him.

That attack was not only fast, but it took Ezequiel by surprise. He only managed to direct some energy to his arms and use them as a shield.

Now it was the Supreme Neo-Demon's time to be sent flying away while puking blood. Ezequiel felt that his arms that could equal a Middle Rank 8 Artifact's endurance fractured. had just clashed with a mountain when his instincts kicked in, and he saw how the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' maws lunged toward him.

Instead of moving back, Ezequiel flashed forward, dodging the creature's maws in the last instant before positioning himself beneath its belly.

"AHHHH!" The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness cried in pain as it felt six arms burying themselves in its belly, and things did not end there.

Before the creature could get over the agony of having his instincts pulverized, it began to rise into the sky.

Ezequiel's muscles bulged as he began to raise the massive and incredibly heavy body of the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness.

It did not take long for the Supreme Neo-Demon to push the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness against the Empty World's Crystal Wall.

Due to the Trial of Life's restriction, the Crystal Wall did not let anyone out, so the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness felt like it clashed against the hardest thing in the universe. Part of its spine shattered, and all its inner organs were now full of horrible wounds.

"¡AHHHH!"

Ezequiel heard the creature scream in pain, but there was also rage and killing intent. He felt exhausted, but a silver flame appeared in his eyes as he decided to make sure to crush the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' will.

Using a tremendous force, Ezequiel shifted the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness before pushing forward with every ounce of strength left in his body.

"BOOOOOOOOMMMMMM!"

Both fell to the ground at an immense speed, and the momentum they carried was so high that they made the entire continent tremble.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness could no longer scream in pain as it was drowning in his own blood.

Despite everything, the Supreme Neo-Demon smiled as he saw the will to fight vanishing from the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' eyes.

Without wasting time, he activated the Astral Black Hole in his lungs and brought the massive creature into his body before transforming into arcs of white lightning that fused in the clouds.

Less than ten seconds later, three Outlandish Beasts of Emptiness reached the place where the battle had occurred. Ezequiel's control over vibrations could not hide a blast that affected an entire continent.

Each Outlandish Beasts of Emptiness roared as they saw the blood from their comrade spread over the ground, but none of them could find the responsible. Without wisdom, how could they differentiate the nature of the arcs of lightning inside the storm clouds that covered the Empty World?

Arcs of white lightning reached a remote location of the Empty World. They vanished beneath the ground and assembled inside a large underground cave.

Ezequiel immediately adopted a meditative position inside the cave as he carried on with his Third Ignition. Destroying the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness' will was easy after shattering the creature's fighting spirit.

After Ezequiel ignited the Astral Black Hole using the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness, he felt a rush of vitality, strength and Astral Origin surging through his body.

A pleasant smile appeared on the Supreme Neo-Demon's face as he felt his wounds healing, and it only grew larger once the Astral Black Hole began to release a dark force.

That force fused with the oxygen in his lungs, soon altering every cell in his body.

Ezequiel's constitution improved as more and more golden threads emerged in the Silver Stars of Origin. The benefits did not end with his body, as his Outer Origin Essence and Inner Origin Essence began to tremble as they achieved a qualitative upgrade.

The law comprehension was extremely useful for the True Soul Path of Power, but Ezequiel could not take advantage of that inside the Sacred Trial.

Luckily, his enhanced understanding of the Outer Origin Essence and Inner Origin Essence helped the Supreme Neo-Demon in another aspect.

Ezequiel's eyes glowed with enlightenment as Return to Origin evolved from Small Success to Large Success, allowing the formation of the Fourth Silver Star of Origin!

Crossing that threshold in Return to Origin should have been impossible for a Primordial without entering Rank 8 before, but Ezequiel did it using the Trial of Life's lucky chances.

There was a dimension inside the Sacred Trial filled with a force superior to Astral Chaos, Essence Chaos, and Nether Chaos.

Its size would equal half of the Prima Universe, and there was a life form in it whose massive body occupied almost all of its space!

How strong could one's body be if it was as large as half a super universe?

The entity inside the dimension had a humanoid body with black skin and perfectly defined muscles. There were three faces in his head with four eyes in each and two sets of arms emerging from his torso.

Just as the Supreme Neo-Demon achieved a miracle, the entity opened his eyes, and a smile emerged on his face.

Chapter 720 Altar Of Emptiness

Ezequiel spent six years cultivating, soothing the raging power running inside his body after reaching Late Rank 7 and completing his Fourth Silver Star of Origin.

Although, the word silver was not accurate anymore since the golden threads had now become streams, and each star began to glow with such might that they soon might resemble suns!

When the Supreme Neo-Demon finally opened his eyes and felt the immense power he had obtained, he could not stop smiling from the excitement.

Ezequiel unleashed all of his power, making the cave he had used as a hideout crumble to pieces.

The Supreme Neo-Demon rose from the ground, pushing his perception to the limit. Without wasting time, he split his body into nine avatars, which flashed in different directions.

As a Rank 7 Neo-Demon with an Immortal Avatar True Doomsday Body, Ezequiel could form more than one hundred avatars.

However, if he wanted the avatars to reach an Initial Beyond Falsehood battle power after they used World Strength to enhance themselves, then nine was the limit. avatars went after the parasites that populated the Empty World and started an absolute carnage. Those creatures could barely reach Peak Rank 7, so none of them could pose any resistance, and Ezequiel slaughtered them!

He did not do it for himself since the dark force coming from the parasites could no longer help him due to its low quality. The reason why he killed those creatures was to feed Entropy.

With only one year left until the end of the Trial of Life and after devouring more than one million parasites, the Sanctus Battle Partner evolved into Rank 8. That was not all, as that dark force also improved its foundation, exponentially enhancing his control over World Strength.

When Ezequiel fused with Entropy, he felt his control over World Strength achieve a qualitative evolution. It was as if he could now communicate with the essence of the world.

"The origin!" Ezequiel's eyes glowed like a silver sun as he found out just how high his connection with the world had become.

"HAHAHAHAHAHA!" He began to laugh like a madman before focusing on a point in the distance and revealing a cold smile.

An Outlandish Beast of Emptiness suddenly trembled as it felt an immense force coming in its direction.

"Roar!" It unleashed a furious roar, but shock appeared in its eyes the next second as it felt the Empty World restricting it.

The Outlandish Beast of Emptiness did not understand what was happening, but its battle power went from the Peak Beyond Limit Stage to the Middle.

Ezequiel could not fully use the power of the Empty World. Still, that suppression was more than enough since after fusing with Entropy, his battle power reached the Initial Beyond Redemption Stage!

One could imagine what happened next. Ezequiel butchered the Outlandish Beast of Emptiness before devouring it. He could not perform his Fourth Ignition yet, but could still obtain the dark force from the creature by eating them!

While the Trial of Life had a hidden reward in the form of the dark force coming from the parasites, it was also supposed to test survival skills. The Lord of Emptiness never intended the Empty World to become an all-you-can-eat buffet where the challenger would become the world's apex predator.

"If it weren't for those Artificial Paths of Power that I can not seal, he would have died long ago. Fucking Singularity, he affected the entire universe."

He wanted to unlock the full power of those Outlandish Beasts of Emptiness so that they could tear Ezequiel to pieces, but he couldn't go against the Secret Trial's rules.

After the one hundred years were over and the Trial of Life ended, the entity brought Ezequiel out of the Empty World.

The Supreme Neo-Demon's slaughter aura was so intense that one could see a red force permeating his body. He had killed one hundred and twenty-five Outlandish Beasts of Emptiness, taking one hundred corpses and leaving the others for Entropy.

Both Sanctus Battle Partner and Supreme Neo-Demon had devoured all the corpses, but they had barely digested two percent.

It would be decades before they entirely transformed those creatures into nutrients for their bodies.

"Hmph!" The entity sneered as he saw the smile on Ezequiel, but this one did not even bother.

Ezequiel had chosen to disregard the entity's behavior completely. Since this one could not harm him and had to follow the Secret Trial's rules, it did not matter if they did not get along.

"You fused Emptiness Aura into your body and survived one hundred years inside the Empty World; therefore, you have the right to advance to the last trial."

Ezequiel narrowed his eyes as he heard those words, particularly the part about Emptiness Aura.

'So, if I had just hidden, I would have failed the Trial of Life. He did not tell me, so the Lord of Emptiness never intended to reveal that hidden requirement.'

The questions about the Lord of Emptiness inside Ezequiel's mind kept piling up. However, something shocking brought him back to reality.

After the entity waved his hand, the massive Empty World crumbled into pieces, killing every single life inside it.

Before Ezequiel could even understand what was happening, all those pieces reformed into a fifty-meter tall altar with ten platforms.

A world larger than the Titan World reduced to such a small construct was beyond shocking.

Despite the black altar releasing no form of power, Ezequiel would be a fool if he underestimated it.

"This is the Trial of Death, and that is the Altar of Emptiness. To finish the trial, you need to reach the last platform. There is no time frame for this trial."

Ezequiel grew serious as he heard the entity's words. He did not care about this trial having the name Trial of Death since that could have many reasons, one being that the Lord of Emptiness sucked at naming things.

What truly mattered for the Supreme Neo-Demon was the no time limit. He was sure there was an important reason behind it, but since the entity did not elaborate, it would be up to him to find it.
