

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2551

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2551—Although she was the daughter of the Mortal Dimension's clan leader, she could not afford to offend the people that have come from the Divine Dimension.

The guard looked at Brielle and said in a hushed tone, "Last night, a problem arose in the Labhrann Clan." "Huh? What kind of problem?" Brielle asked in bewilderment.

The guard replied, "A powerhouse broke into the mountain where the bodhi tree was planted.

The intruder distracted the tree's guardian and stole the bodhi tree." When she heard this, Brielle's delicate body trembled.

"The bodhi tree was stolen?" She was in disbelief.

Brielle was a member of the Labhrann Clan and understood how extraordinary the bodhi tree was.

Over the years, the bodhi tree had helped many of their clan members reach the Sage Rank.

Although not everyone that consumed a bodhi fruit could achieve greatness and enter the Divine Dimension, they could continuously produce Sage-ranked powerhouses with time.

The bodhi tree had contributed significantly to the Labhrann Clan's position as the top three clans in the Demon Realm.

However, it was stolen from them.

Who dared to steal the bodhi tree from the Labhrann Clan? Brielle headed to the main hall with her head clouded with doubts.

Upon arriving at the main hall, she found the Divine Dimension's powerhouses discussing the incident.

Afraid to interrupt them, she could only wait outside the door.

She waited for half a day.

Txomin led the discussion, and it lasted for a very long time.

However, they could not settle on the prime suspect that stole their clan's bodhi tree.

Brielle seized her opportunity, walked into the main hall, and said respectfully, "Lord Labhrann." Seeing Brielle appear, Txomin's grim expression lit up.

He asked with a gentle smile, "Brielle, you're here.

Where's James? Why didn't he come with you?" When she heard James' name, Brielle sported an awkward expression.

"He, he..." She stammered and was unable to explain James' absence.

Txomin asked, "What happened to him?" Right then, Brielle could not be bothered by the embarrassment and explained everything that happened last night.

"After James sealed my cultivation base, he left.

I don't know where he went." Brielle had a troubled look.

It was shameful to tell others that her groom had deserted her on their wedding night.

Txomin gasped in surprise.

He stood abruptly and asked, "Are you saying James sealed your cultivation base while you weren't paying attention and ran away?" "Yeah." Brielle nodded.

At that moment, a core member of the Labhrann Clan from the Divine Dimension stood up and said, "Lord Labhrann, could it be possible that the person that stole our clan's bodhi tree is James?" Txomin looked at him and replied calmly, "How could James have done it? He isn't even a Sage yet.

Didn't you hear the Great Elder just now? He himself wasn't able to keep up with the intruder.

It's impossible for James to have such strength." The core member insisted, "For James to enter the Demon Abyss in the Great Dividing Range, he must have someone powerful assisting him.

Perhaps, he joined forces with another powerhouse to steal our clan's bodhi tree." "T agree." "It's possible James' intention from the beginning wasn't to actually marry Brielle but to steal the bodhi tree." Some of the Labhrann Clan's powerhouse expressed their opinion on the matter.

Hearing this, Txomin fell into deep thought.

After hearing their conjecture, Brielle also considered it for a moment.

She recalled James asking her about the bodhi tree a few times.

She thought to herself, 'Could he never have wanted to marry me but only went through with it to steal my clan's treasure?' Although Brielle had doubts, she did not dare voice them out.

James would be in huge trouble if the powerhouses from the clan believed he was the culprit.

She stood in the main hall without saying a word.

After a while, Txomin took a deep breath and said, "Since the truth hasn't come to light yet, we shouldn't rush to conclusions.

Let's investigate the incident and find out the truth.

I'll return to the Divine Dimension and gather some people to activate a divining formation.

We'll use that to find out the identity of the thief that took our clan's bodhi tree."

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2552

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2552—All the powerful Labhrann Clan members returned to the Divine Dimension.

After returning to the Dimension Realm, the clan's powerhouses gathered together and cast a divining formation to discover the thief's identity.

Under normal circumstances, the Heavenly Path would provide some slight assistance to see whatever one attempts to divine.

However, they were not given any insight this time.

"This is very strange." Txomin's expression darkened, and he said, "We can't gain any insight into this person's identity?

Is it because the person that stole the bodhi tree from us is strong enough to block off the Heavenly Path? "What should we do now, Lord Labhrann?"

"Even the Heavenly Path can't help us." "What are we going to do from here? Without the bodhi tree, our clan will definitely weaken over time." Many of the Labhrann Clan's powerhouses had worried expressions.

Txomin thought for a while and said, "There's nothing much we can do for now.

We can only deploy as many powerhouses as we can spare to investigate the incident.” Meanwhile in the Mortal Dimension, Brielle sat in the yard that was constructed for her and James in a daze.

She was excited to marry James, but he abandoned her on their wedding night.

Since they had already gone through the wedding ceremony, she was officially his wife.

Brielle stood up and said with the resolution, “No matter what, I’m already your wife, James.

It doesn’t matter where you go, I’ll find you even if it means searching the entire universe.

Meanwhile, Thea had been diligently earning spiritual crystals.

She explored the primeval mountains to find rare Empyrean herbs and hunt powerful monsters.

Then, she exchanged these items for spiritual crystals.

After putting in all that effort, she finally obtained sufficient spiritual crystals and traveled to Labhstead.

Upon her arrival in Labhstead, she began to inquire about James’ whereabouts.

However, she learned that James and Brielle’s wedding ceremony had already concluded.

Thea decided to head to Mount Lutheran, where the Labhrann Clan was located.

Labhstead was not very far from Mount Lutheran and was only half a day’s journey.

Half a day later, Thea appeared at the foot of Mount Lutheran.

A stone tablet could be seen at the mountain foot, and several large words were engraved on it— Mount Lutheran.

Many of the Labhrann Clan’s guards patrolled the surrounding area dilligently, ensuring Mount Lutheran’s safety.

Thea walked over but was immediately stopped.

“Mount Lutheran is beyond this point and is the Labhrann Clan’s base.

Outsiders aren't allowed to enter." Thea chose her actions carefully after arriving in the Labhrann Clan's territory since she did not want to offend them.

She said hesitantly, "I'm here to see James Caden." "You're here for James Caden?" The guards looked at Thea.

Thea was dressed in a black dress with a veil covering her face, and in her hand was a long black sword.

One of the guards prompted her, "What business do you have with James Caden?" "7...

» Thea thought for a while and replied, "I'm his wife.

I heard he had married Brielle, so I came here to see them." "Hold on.

I'll go report your presence right away." Hearing that the visitor was James' wife, the guards treated her with caution.

Only the higher ups in the clan were aware of James' escape.

Therefore, the guards had no idea that suspicions had been cast on this woman's husband.

In a courtyard on Mount Lutheran, Brielle decided to leave and head out on an adventure while looking for James.

All of a sudden, a guard approached her.

"Ms. Labhrann, a woman showed up at the mountain looking for James," the guard conveyed what had happened with integrity.

"What? You said she's looking for James?" Brielle was surprised.

Hearing this, Brielle's face lit up.

James mentioned to her that he already had a wife.

After their wedding, Brielle was willing to be his second wife and hold lesser influence.

She did not expect James' first wife to come and visit her.

"Welcome her to the mountain immediately."

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-

Read The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2553

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 2553—"Alright," the guard replied respectfully and left.

Brielle waited in the yard.

After a while, the guard returned together with Thea.

"Ms. Labhrann, I've brought the visitor," the guard bowed as he reported to Brielle.

Brielle gently waved her hand and said, "Okay.

You're dismissed." "Understood." The guard turned and left.

Thea stood to the side and looked at Brielle.

Brielle sat on a chair in a gazebo and returned Thea's gaze.

After Thea finished giving Brielle a once over, she was amazed and thought to herself, 'James was in the Demon Realm for only a few years yet was able to attract such a stunning woman.

She's gorgeous and looks very suitable for James." Brielle stared at Thea but could not see her appearance since her face was covered with a veil.

She pointed to a chair beside herself and smiled.

"You must be Thea, right? Have a seat.

Please relax." After Thea heard Brielle calling her name, she was certain the man who married Brielle was definitely the one she had been looking for.

Thea sat down.

She glanced at Brielle and asked coldly, "Where's James? Tell him to see me now." Although she had accepted the fact that it was possible for James to take another wife, he s did not seek her consent before doing so.

as such, she was still slightly dissatisfied and was rude toward Brielle.

"What's up with you? Is there a reason your face is covered with a veil?" Brielle looked at Thea with interest.

Thea took off her veil.

Brielle was surprised after finally seeing Thea's appearance and inadvertently praised her, "You're beautiful! Your face is flawless!

Even a woman like me can't help but feel mesmerized by your beauty." Thea snorted and said, "Stop the useless flattery.

Where is James right now? Get him to see me." Hearing James' name, the smile on Brielle's face froze and was replaced with sadness.

"You were slightly too late.

James already left." Thea stood up abruptly and asked, "Huh? He left? Where did he go? "» A little upset, Brielle replied, "Why are you asking me? I was hoping to learn of his whereabouts from you.

That despicable guy ran away on his wedding night." Brielle gritted her teeth.

Puzzled, Thea asked, "What happened?" Brielle recounted the events of the previous night to Thea.

Then, she spoke through gritted teeth, "Don't you think he went overboard? He sealed my cultivation base while I was distracted and ran away by himself.

If he didn't want to marry me, why did he agree to it in the first place?" Hearing this, Thea could not help but chuckle.

Brielle moved closer to Thea and whispered, "Also, my clan's bodhi tree was stolen last night.

I suspect James was the culprit.

His marriage with me was just a sham, and his real purpose was my clan's bodhi tree.

"you're James' wife, right? Then, do you know if there are any powerhouses helping him?" "About that..." Thea looked at Brielle but did not reply to her question.

Instead, she asked, "What's this bodhi tree?" "It's an extraordinary tree.

The bodhi tree's fruit can make the person who eats it a Sage instantly." Thea immediately grasped the situation after hearing Brielle's explanation.

James was definitely the person who stole the bodhi tree and he did it with the help of Sophie.

Thea was well aware of what was happening on earth.

James took advantage of Brielle's feelings and stole the bodhi tree to save the Earth's humans.

It was definitely something James would do.

However, Thea kept it to herself.

After a slight pause, Thea replied, "There aren't any powerhouses helping James."
"That's weird.

If James didn't do it, who else could it have been?" Brielle rubbed her chin in doubt.

Since James escaped, Thea was unable to see him.

Thus, she did not want to waste anymore time.

She got up, turned around, and was about to leave.

"Hey, Thea! Where are you going?" Brielle called out for her.

Thea turned around and said, "Since James isn't here, I'll just take my leave." "I'm coming with you!"

Brielle stood up, walked over, and said with a smile, "Regardless of everything, I've already exchanged vows with James and am officially his wife.

I'd like to come with you and find him.

If there's no other choice, I'll return to Earth with you."

Most of the readers are now reading this novels:-