The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5733-A deep frown drew James' brows together.

However, he was not going to try and stop these people.

The Dark World was a vast area with seemingly endless horizons. Even if those invaders continued to collect the Dark World's Genesis, it would hardly cause much damage to their world.

Relatively speaking, they would only lose meager amounts of Genesis Power to those people.

James turned his attention away and concentrated on his cultivation.

After absorbing enough Genesis Power, James combined those powers with his powers. Then, he tried to break the cultivation barrier again.

James' renewed powers destroyed the barrier at once, and James entered the Yuraecea Rank instantly.

As soon as he achieved the Yuraecea Rank, he could sense subtle changes happening to his body and powers. James' powers were noticeably evolving to become the Genesis Power.

Even after sensing all that, James seemed completely unfazed. He kept a straight face and remained in the same position.

Days went by quickly as James continued to train his powers.

Eventually, the powers in James' body evolved into the Genesis Power.

Although his powers were derived from the darkness, James' Genesis Power nonetheless contained all powers present in their realm. His powers carried the paths and rules of their world.

James' aura and powers gradually stabilized over time. At some point, James managed to keep all his auras contained.

James did not end his meditation even though he had achieved the Yuraeceon Rank. He had yet to figure out the method Thea had come up with to exterminate Xayal.

James had considered using the Dark World's Genesis Power to defeat and eliminate Xayal.

However, Xayal had fused with the Dark Heavenly Path. The evil god was also absorbing the Genesis Power, and it must understand the power well.

Therefore, it seemed impossible for James to kill Xayal by using the Genesis Power.

"What could it be?"

James closed his eyes.

He could see a formation in his mind. Two men who looked just like James each appeared above and below that formation. The only thing that set those two men apart was their auras.

Those men represented the powers of the past and the future.

James had created the Tressencia Completare Art by coincidence in the past.

Moreover, James' past form came about during a Heavenly Tribulation in a rather mysterious way. It was formed from one of the paths James had mastered, the Dark Path.

The Dark Path grew into a shadow-like form at first. Then, it evolved into its current state, the past form, and possessed the powers of the past.

James stared at the past form.

Although his past and future cultivation ranks were not directly connected to his present form, the past and future forms had nonetheless reached the Yuraeceon Rank following James' current cultivation rank.

Also, James could sense a power that did not belong to the present time coming from the past form. It was a power of the past, and it emanated a terrifying energy.

Suddenly, James was struck by a thought.

He disappeared from his original spot and re-emerged in the River of Time.

James wanted to confirm his suspicion. He planned to travel back to the time when the battle between the cultivators of the Dark World and Xayal broke out.

He also wanted to check the time when the Dark Heavenly Path's consciousness first appeared.

James began traveling up the River of Time.

Just then, the place James had just stepped on broke and collapsed.

Something was trying to stop James from using the River of Time.

James instantly detected that it was the Dark Heavenly Path trying to stop him.

In other words, there was a new rule created by the Heavenly Path. No one was allowed to travel through time by using the River of Time. Those who did would inevitably cause the river to collapse.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5734-James was planning to travel back to the time when Xayal had fused with the Dark Heavenly Path after being severely wounded.

However, he could not travel up the River of Time as it would cause the space to collapse.

"Xayal!" James said bitingly.

James left the collapsed space found along the River of Time and materialized at the deepest area of the Dark World. He fixed his gaze on a spot somewhere several meters away from him.

Gradually, James could see clouds of black aura gathering over that spot.

In a matter of seconds, they formed the shape of a planet, which was scattered with various dents and holes on its surface. Then, a large, creepy eye appeared on the side of the planet James was looking at.

“Is this Xayal’s actual form?”

James frowned slightly as he studied the strange star before him.

“James Caden.”

The vague silhouette of a man appeared before the strange star. A brief moment later, a man in a black robe materialized at that spot.

One might think the man was an evil being who had crawled out of the underworld due to his ugly and distorted face.

“You entered the Yuraeceon Rank even sooner than I had predicted.”

Xayal’s hoarse voice resounded through the space.

James stretched his shoulders and said nonchalantly, “I couldn’t kill you last time. We should have another battle now that I have reached the Yuraeceon Rank.”

“Hah!”

Xayal scoffed, “I haven’t recovered my powers back then. However, I am only one step from attaining my full powers now. On the other hand, you’re only in the first stage of Yuraeceon Rank. You won’t be able to defeat me.”

He continued, “You shouldn’t act rashly if you had yet to figure out a way to exterminate me. Otherwise, it’ll be the end for you.”

“Is that so?”

James appeared completely unruffled.

“You can try if you want,” Xayal replied calmly.

“Why did you stop me from using the River of Time?” James asked.

However, the man and the strange star vanished at that moment.

James could hear Xayal’s voice reverberating through the air.

“You should hurry, James. Your time is running out. Once I recover all my powers, it will be over for you and the entire Dark World.”

His voice died down eventually.

James stood there, unmoving, with a slight frown on his forehead.

Despite having entered the Yuraeceon Rank, James did not launch an attack on Xayal just now since he was not fully sure he could overpower Xayal.

“Where is Thea right now?”

James could not think of any possible answer to that question no matter how long he pondered over the issue.

After a while, James teleported away and traveled through the darkness.

He had made a few conjectures, but he could no longer verify them by accessing the River of Time.

The only option left for him was to travel through the Dark World to confirm his suspicions.

Once he had gotten his answers, James could then fight and eradicate Xayal.

James started heading in the direction of the Mevryees’ territory.

The Mevryees’ territory had been subjugated. Their best fighters and their leader, Talvelai, were held captive.

The Mevryees were placed in the dungeons with seals placed over their bodies.

The cultivators from the unknown world put the Mevryees through various tortures to make them hand over the knowledge of their primitive inscriptions.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 5735-James realized what had happened to the Mevryees as soon as he arrived at a spiritual mountain within their territory.

Several guards spotted him, and they quickly dashed toward James and surrounded him.

However, those men instinctively backed away as they felt James' unfeeling gaze.

"Begone."

A wave of tremendous energy radiated from James, annihilating the men around him in an instant.

James showed no mercy to the invaders from the unknown world.

With his hands on his back, James took big strides and calmly made his way to the main hall within the Mevryees' territory.

Another group of guards appeared and tried to stop James. Before they could get close to James, knives materialized from his aura and flew toward the guards.

The guards were instantly killed as they were stabbed in the chest with those knives.

Without needing to use any of his other signature skills, James got rid of all the guards and reached the main hall.

A cultivator from the unknown world was waiting inside the main hall.

Currently, their enemy had stationed one of their best men in each of the different races' territories.

James entered the main hall and spotted the leader of these mysterious cultivators.

With a glance, James detected that the man had achieved the ninth stage of the Transcendental Bliss Rank. He was close to achieving the Yuraeceon Rank soon.

The cultivator from the unknown world was staring at James with a fierce gaze.

He did not expect to see a member of the Dark World roaming around freely as all beings in that realm were supposed to be subdued by his master already.

“Who are you?” The man asked in a frigid voice.

James started walking toward the man. He teleported and reappeared in the seat the man had been sitting in until just a second ago.

Meanwhile, the man was hurled out of his seat by a sudden force. He dropped onto the floor some distance away.

When the man tried to get up, he found that he could not even move a finger as immense pressure was pushing down on him.

James leaned back in his seat and asked in a monotonous voice, “Who are you people? What are you trying to do in the Dark World?”

James knew that these men served Xayal. Yet, that was all the information he had about these people. His superb extrapolation skills were of no use in helping him find out more information.

“Hmph!”

The man was Xayal’s loyal follower. He merely let out a snort.

‘You had your chance.’ James’ voice echoed through the hall.

At that moment, a sword made of countless inscriptions materialized above that man. Then, the sword started moving closer to the man, with its tip facing directly at the man.

The man could sense the ominous, vicious aura from the sword. Although he tried his best to break free from the force suppressing him, the man was still held in the same position on the floor.

As the sword pierced the man’s flesh, his body started disintegrating visibly.

In a matter of seconds, the man was annihilated. Even his soul was completely torn apart.

A Transcendental Bliss Rank cultivator in the ninth stage perished after receiving just a single hit from James.

Then, with a simple mental command, James released all the Mevryees trapped in the dungeons. Some of them were transported to the main hall with James' powers.

"James?" Talvelai had a surprised look on his face when he spotted James.
