

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6532

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6532-Matias settled onto the ground, summoning a wine gourd and taking a long draught. Though he remained silent, his actions spoke volumes, conveying his decision.

Princess Lumia and Wayra looked at him in surprise.

“Will you not reconsider, Matias?” asked Wayra.

“What about becoming the Jercente Sect’s Leader?” Princess Lumia chimed in, equally urgent.

Matias set down his wine gourd, and said, “While Forty-nine has only crossed paths with us once, his comprehension of us and the Genesis Worlds surpasses our own. While I can’t claim to represent my sect, I can certainly choose on my own behalf.”

With his declaration made, he turned toward James and said, “You’re right. I don’t know about the others, but I refuse to spend my life as a servant or become a pawn for someone else’s ambitions.”

Princess Lumia and Wayra exchanged uneasy glances.

Without a true understanding of James’ strength, the choice was easy to make. But after they realized his undeniable strength, it was clear their sects were unable to stand in the way of a powerhouse at the Xaeclon Rank.

Caught between choosing to side with Tai Chi, ruler of the Genesis Worlds, and James, an exceptional powerhouse who had ascended to the Xaeclon Rank, they found themselves balancing on a knife’s edge. If they were to choose the wrong side, it could spell disaster.

Sensing their hesitance, James waved his hand and a door materialized. Beyond its threshold lay the familiar landscape of the Genesis Worlds, offering a glimpse of the world they knew.

James said smilingly, “You don’t need to hesitate so much. You can either walk through the door or sit down like Matias to chat with me.”

Princess Lumia exchanged a glance with Wayra, seemingly reaching a decision. With determination, she gritted her teeth and sat on the ground.

Observing Princess Lumia's choice, Wayra's eyes widened in shock. "What do you two mean by this? Didn't we agree to stay in the same boat? Why are you two abandoning me?"

Princess Lumia looked at him and replied, "We can't choose for you. You must decide for yourself. After all, it's your life that will be on the line."

Wayra hesitated, then turned to James and asked, "This place isn't under Tai Chi's surveillance, right?"

James chuckled and answered, "It's my personal space, and isn't under Tai Chi's jurisdiction."

"In that case, what's there to worry about?" Wayra shrugged, then sat down.

retrieved three jars of Qhairs from his spatial storage, handing them over to the trio. The three were momentarily stunned, slightly caught off guard by the sudden gesture. "Not everyone gets the After seeing James drink, the three wasted no time. They opened their jars and took generous swigs.

For cultivators of their stature, cowardice was never an issue. Yet, even they found solace in the courage-imbuing effects of the wine. After all, they were preparing to confront the ruler of the Genesis Worlds.

Matias looked at James and said, "So, tell us. What's our next move?"

In response, James widened his eyes and emitted twin beams of light to extract the three individuals' Soul Energy Balls.

With deft precision, he injected fragments of information into the Soul Energy Balls before returning them.

The trio were instantly overwhelmed by a deluge of information, detailing the next steps to subvert the Tai Chi world. While it was not the entire plan, it allocated specific tasks among them.

After processing the information, Matias said, "We've nearly secured half of the elite forces from our respective sects. We're confident about sending them toward the Sky Bridge.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6533-Matias furrowed his brows and said, "The crucial question is, can this Sky Bridge truly create a formidable barrier between us and other forces in the Genesis Worlds?"

James offered a reassuring smile, nodded, and said, "I constructed it with the Direguard Lock. What do you think?"

The trio's astonishment was palpable.

Wayra interjected, asking curiously, "Isn't the Direguard Lock located in the Telhervo Holy Site, serving as a barrier against Skynet and imprisoning Yegor and Herodias? How did you obtain it?"

James looked at him with an enigmatic smile, saying nothing in response.

"How are you so dense? Forty-nine is really powerful now." Princess Lumia chided Wayra, delivering a light knock to his head.

Matias took over the conversation, asking, "Even if he is at the Xaeclon Rank, he might not necessarily be able to gain possession of Tai Chi's Direguard Lock, right?"

Staring at James, Matias pressed, "Can you disclose your current strength to us?"

"I'm at the Fifth Xaeclon Rank," James stated calmly.

The trio were stunned by his answer, unfamiliar with the rank. Even so, one thing they knew for sure was it must be higher than the initial Xaeclon Rank.

"Can you win the Four Symbols?" Wayra sought further clarification.

James did not respond. Instead, he summoned an energy ball before them. Within it, they could see the Yang Governor, the Yin and Yang Tai Chi, who were sealed within the Ying World."

Matias' eyes trembled after seeing the energy ball. He stood up abruptly and exclaimed, "That's the Yang governor!"

Wayra and Princess Lumia also had widened eyes, displaying baffled expressions.

“Why are you only paying attention to the Yang governor? Aren’t you curious about who this woman is?” James quipped.

The trio asked simultaneously, “Who is she?”

“She’s one of Tai Chi’s clones, the Yin and Yang Tai Chi. She’s currently sealed within the Ying World and is beyond Tai Chi’s reach,” James revealed, enunciating each word deliberately.

His words were like a thunderbolt, shocking the trio. Wayra’s reaction was particularly dramatic. He staggered back and nearly collapsed onto the ground.

The Yang governor, and a clone of Tai Chi. They were exceptional existences, yet they were sealed away in the Ying World.

As the shock of James’ revelations settled in, doubts lingered in the minds of the trio. Does James truly possess the strength to challenge Tai Chi?

James looked at them and said, “I’ve already laid out the plan. Your decisions rest on your convictions.”

“Time is of the essence,” James continued, rising to his feet with a smile. “My Sky Bridge will span the Xyndaros Genesis World and extend into the Forladdt Land. Once constructed, the Xyndaros Genesis World, Sanctum Genesis World, and the Iustus Sect’s Genesis Region will be under my control.

“If you really choose to stand with us, consider carefully whether you’ll rally your sects, leaders, and allies to our cause.

“You still have some time to consider. Once the Sky Bridge is in operation, it will become the boundary between our Solstice Alliance and the Genesis Worlds. By then, even Tai Chi wouldn’t be able to intervene in our territory.”

The trio looked at James, hesitance on their faces.

At that moment, Matias asked, “How much time do we have?”

James looked at him and replied, “An epoch at most. As for how to gather your forces will be up to you three. It’s your only chance.”

Matias nodded resolutely, then turned to his companions and said, “We can’t waste any time. Let’s depart right away, lest our plan might be compromised.”

Princess Lumia and Wayra sighed softly, on the verge of speaking, but James waved his hand and whisked them away in an instant.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6534-After Matias, Wayra, and Princess Lumia joined James' side, the tens of billions of creatures blocking the path of the Sky Bridge dispersed.

Jacopo and Xainte immediately panicked after observing them head in Skynet's direction.

Xainte turned to James and asked frantically, "What did you tell them, Sir? Why are they headed toward Skynet?"

Jacopo, on the other, hesitated to speak.

James smiled calmly and said, "Let's focus on constructing the bridge for now."

After speaking, James tapped the void and another spiritual body of the Direguard Lock materialized, then formed another pivotal point of the bridge on the edge of the Xyndaros Genesis World. Then, James continued to navigate through the air.

Initially, James had intended to utilize the Direguard Lock to partition the regions under Tai Chi's dominion to gain a strategic advantage. However, even though the bridge was constructed in a straight line, it was not enough to reach the Forladtt Land. There was still the distance of the Kunyunt Genesis World from reaching its destination.

Hovering on the border between the Xyndaros Genesis World and the Kunyunt Genesis World, James furrowed his brow in contemplation. "What should we do to fill this gap?"

Jacopo and Xainte could not provide him with an answer. The Biefren they came to know was an unparalleled powerhouse, and asking for their opinions sounded sarcastic.

"We can make this place the flying spirit beast's base." James decided, then summoned Yukha.

Yukha appeared in her true form, a colossal and majestic bird with an imposing presence.

Witnessing the grandeur of the colossal divine bird, Jacopo and Xainte found themselves profoundly astounded. They could sense that the creature was way stronger than them.

After Yukha circled in the sky, she transformed into her human form and stood beside James.

James inquired, "What do you think?"

Yukha released her Zen and checked the Kunyunt Genesis World, then shook her head, saying, "It's too cramped. We need more space."

James pointed at the Sky Bridge behind him and said, "The bridge will act as a boundary. On our side, we'll have Skynet and the Forladtt Land. That'll be about four Great Genesis Worlds and a hundred and twenty Micro Genesis Worlds. Is that still not ample space for your kind?"

Stunned, Yukha asked, "Can the bridge really serve as an impassable barrier for Tai Chi's subordinates?" James smiled faintly in response.

Yukha took a deep breath, and asked, "What about the Spirit Beast Clan? Will they return under my dominion?"

James replied calmly, "They have their own plans. Your task is to summon the flying spirit beasts from the Genesis Worlds here and will serve as the Forladtt Land's primary defense."

Yukha murmured with dissatisfaction, "So we're to be sacrificed first..."

James interrupted her, "I'm not asking for your opinion. It's an order."

Yukha fell silent.

The next moment, James waved his hand and summoned Yukha's Honlarne Sword. He urged his Marciais Power and unleashed a few Sword Lights, forming them into a Swoff Formation around the Kunyunt Genesis World."

Then, with another wave of his hand, a three-colored force of gray, black, and white, infused with traces of Hongrome Essence and Chaos Essence, condensed above the Sword Formation. A new Sky Bridge materialized, connecting to the one beneath James' feet, and extended toward the distant Forladtt Land, establishing a direct link between the two locations.

Witnessing this extraordinary display of power that reverberated throughout the world, Jacopo and Xainte were utterly astounded. Despite having countless experiences, they found themselves taken aback by the sheer magnitude of what they were witnessing.

Yukha turned to James and inquired, "Do I begin right now?"

"Yeah," James affirmed with a nod.

Yukha cautioned, "It's going to cause a very huge commotion, and the Tai Chi World's different sects will notice the spectacle, potentially jeopardizing your plan."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6535-With an ominous grin, James remarked, "The more attention we draw, the better. It'll be ideal to alert all the powerful figures in the Genesis Worlds."

Yukha was taken aback, casting a surprised glance at James.

'Is James finally prepared to unleash chaos and assert dominance in the Genesis World? If so, it would mean widespread destruction and carnage, potentially exposing James' identity.

"Proceed with it," James commanded once more.

Yukha nodded slowly, then transformed into her bird form, radiating brilliant bursts of light into the void.

The light rays were dazzling and potent, swiftly spreading in every direction, enveloping the entirety of the Genesis World in its radiant glow.

Moments later, it seemed as though a unified directive had been issued to the flying spirit beast across the various regions of the Genesis Worlds. As the rays of light pierced through their constraints, they responded en masse, gathering towards the luminous lights.

Among them, not only did countless flying spirit beasts at the peak of the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation heed the call, but even various ancestors of flying spirit beasts, that had remained unknown, made their imposing presence known.

The Genesis Worlds were thrown into a frenzy. Flying spirit beasts within different cities, planets, galaxies, planes, universes, and the very heart of all sects and formidable forces ascended into the sky.

Their collective might shrouded the sky and eclipsed the sun, their vast numbers densely clustered, instilling awe in all the denizens of the Genesis Worlds.

Inside the Timaeus Sect's main hall tensions ran high as Xachary and Gladwin engaged in a heated argument over a trivial matter, their faces flushed with anger.

On either side, their respective followers were equally impassioned, standing ready to defend their leaders and quick to accuse one another, their confrontation on the brink of turning physical.

Amid this turmoil, a messenger garbed in a blue robe burst into the hall, swiftly dropping to one knee.

The messenger reported urgently, "Sect Leader, Great Protector. A strange phenomenon is happening in the skies outside. A multitude of flying spirit beasts have abruptly emerged from their territories and are leaving toward the Xyndaros Genesis World."

Xachary and Gladwin were immediately taken aback, turning their attention toward the messenger.

"Reporting!" Another messenger burst into the room, breathless with urgency. "Sect Master, Great Protector! Our Demon-suppressing Tower suddenly self-destructed, unleashing a horde of malevolent flying spirit beasts into the world."

"Reporting! A dazzling light engulfed the Demon Taming Domain, prompting the sudden departure of a large number of flying spirit beasts." "Reporting! A multitude of flying spirit beasts have broken free from the Zirconia Genesis World, and are soaring unchecked across the skies. The Zirconia Tower is requesting reinforcements!"

Hundreds of messengers flooded into the hall, all bearing reports of flying spirit beasts on the loose. Each successive piece of news only served to deepen Xachary and Gladwin's confusion, instilling within them a sudden and profound sense of crisis.

Their loyal followers, including sect leaders from within the Righteous Alliance, also found themselves momentarily thrown into a panic, realizing the implications of the unfolding events within territories under their control.

The looming threat of catastrophe for the entire Righteous Alliance hung heavy in the air, leaving those present stunned into silence.

After a prolonged moment of silence, Gladwin furrowed his brow and queried, "Has anyone ever heard of a beast tamer entering the Quasi Daeclon Rank recently?"

The audience exchanged uncertain glances, collectively at a loss for answers.

"Gladwin," Xachary interjected coldly, "as the Great Protector of the Righteous Alliance, it falls upon you to investigate."

"Are you giving me orders?" Gladwin's expression darkened.

"I'm the leader of the Righteous Alliance," Xachary shot back angrily. "Am I not entitled to command you?"

Gladwin countered, "You're just the acting leader for now. Don't overestimate your authority."

After speaking, he swiftly departed the hall, accompanied by a cadre of loyal supporters, to address the escalating crisis.