

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6571-James felt as though he was facing a wall. A transparent wall made of golden energy. He could not sense any aura or energy of a living being from the wall. It made James feel strangely uncomfortable.

“Can you assume your true form?” James blurted.

The Law of Paths chuckled. “You’re a fearless young man, huh? I applaud your courage. Don’t worry. Once you gain enough experience, you will be able to see my true form.” ‘As expected, he’s sly and quick-witted. He avoided the question by giving a vague answer,’ James grumbled inwardly. Then, he asked after a brief pause, “Do you think that you’ve been fair and unbiased?”

The beautiful lady behind the Law of Paths snapped upon hearing the question, “How dare you question the Law of Paths?”

James cast her a sidelong glance. “The Law of Paths was a position created by the Path. Also, a living being is appointed to take that position.

“Since a living being holds that position, isn’t it only natural for others to doubt their fairness in making decisions?”

James’ words left the lady speechless.

On the other hand, the Law of Paths said smilingly, “Everyone has different standards and opinions about the fairness of a situation. They will think it’s fair if the situation benefits them. Those who face hardship or bad luck will find it unfair. Therefore, the answer differs according to people.”

James could not help but be amazed by how the Law of Paths had given another perfect yet ambiguous answer. He could not even come up with a retort.

A few seconds later, James stared fiercely at the wall and tried once more.

“Previously, Yehria broke the Law of Paths and put me through Heavenly Tribulations with unreasonable intensity. Why didn’t you stop her back then?”

The Law of Paths questioned him instead, "You had Yegor and Herodias disturb Tai Chi's job of managing the Heavenly Tribulations. What do you have to say about that?" "You're the Law of Paths. You should know better than anyone." James said frigidly, "Did I ever ask them to do that?" "The whole incident started because of you," the Law of Paths responded calmly, "If those who won found the situation unfair, do you think those who lost would accept the outcome without any objections?"

Once again, the Law of Paths made it out as though he had not done anything wrong.

James snickered inwardly, still, he was certain the Law of Paths was aware that James had almost sacrificed himself and his wife to succeed in defeating Tai Chi.

"Is there anything else that you want to say?" The Law of Paths asked.

"The current Tai Chi, Yehria, is obsessed with power. She abused her power and position to achieve her own desires."

James continued expressionlessly, "As the Law of Paths, why have you not done anything about this?" "What selfish and evil things did she do?" the Law of Paths asked.

James snorted. "Not a single Xaeclon Rank cultivator has been produced in the different worlds for ages.

"Isn't it because Tai Chi has used her position to limit everyone's cultivation? She is afraid others may replace her and take away her powers."

The Law of Paths paused briefly and said, "In that case, what is your current cultivation rank? Also, what's the cultivation rank of this man, who is about to go through a tribulation?"

James was at a loss for words upon hearing those questions. He never imagined the Law of Paths would use Truett and him as examples to prove James' argument wrong.

As he fell silent, James thought about how he probably would not be able to enter the Xaeclon Rank if he had not visited the Ying World.

As for Truett, without the Golden Body provided by James, he probably would have remained on the peak of Consummation Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation for a long time.

James felt what the Law of Paths mentioned was not enough to excuse Tai Chi's wrongdoings and crimes.

After giving it some thought, James explained the reasons for his past actions. He also brought up his wife, the Yin governor's situation. When he had finished, the Law of Paths and the lady behind him fell silent.
