

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6756-“What... What’s going on?” Lord Tzivya exclaimed frantically.

She moved her hand quickly and conjured a purplish-green Holy Shield around her.

The other cultivators hurriedly unleashed their powers as well to protect themselves against the powers of the decachrome lights, the Quasar Light, and the bell chimings.

Unfortunately, their efforts were useless. Most of them grimaced and writhed in pain.

Unlike the others, Marci who was also a Chosen One remained relatively calm.

She stood in the same spot, unmoving. A purplish-gold light enveloped her body.

However, anyone could see from her eyes that Marci was in a state of shock.

Meanwhile, a faint human-like figure shining with decachrome lights slowly As the figure took on actual form, a handsome young man in a black robe could be seen standing on the podium facing the crowd.

Marci’s eyes widened. “The Ultimate Golden Body! You’re the living being who has been picked to be the Chosen One! James Caden, you got out of the Forbidden Bloodshade alive?”

James paid no mind to what she was saying as he made another mental command.

In an instant, a blood-red light illuminated the space inside the hall.

Loud noises could be heard as James' targets' light shields exploded. Those cultivators from the six holy temples vomited blood and dropped to the floor.

Even Marci was about to lose her cool as she took in the level of damage those cultivators had sustained.

With her powers as a Chosen One, Marci was invincible in the Great Historial Land.

However, she could not give Yitro Daeclon Rank cultivators like these men from the six temples a critical blow without making any physical contact at all.

Marci could tell that James possessed immense, unfathomable powers.

Meanwhile, James raised his palms and flipped them over. Two shining towers were summoned out of his Ultimate Golden Body instantly.

Then, the towers started spinning quickly in circles around James.

A blinding light of blood-red shade radiated from James' body almost instantaneously. The light extended out of the Haurvatat Temple and traveled across the Great Historial Land.

Eventually, it even reached the edge of the Forladtt Land.

At the same time, a shadowy figure surrounded by black and white gases was dragging the unconscious Thea along as it rushed down the Hudde Passage on the second level of Forladtt Land.

The figure soon spotted the red lights coming from afar at a high speed. It immediately sped up and shot through the mysterious formation placed around the Forladtt Land.

As it escaped into the Demon Region, the figure transformed and revealed its true appearance.

It was Xachary. The man laughed mockingly. “Hahaha! You may be matchless in the realm of the Forladtt Land, James. However, I am now in the Tai Chi World.

“I also have your wife! There is nothing you can do to harm me now. You can try leaving the Forladtt Land to kill me if you want! Haha!”

Just then, the entrance to the Hudde Passage shone brightly with a blood-red light. The light shot toward Xachary at lightning speed.

“Huh? What?!” Xachary’s eyes bulged in horror.

In a flash, a beam of red light pierced through Xachary’s body, leaving a bloody hole in his chest.

Xachary coughed up a mouthful of black-colored blood the next instant.

Simultaneously, he was encapsulated in a ball of red light.

His face scrunched up a brief moment later. It was as if he was in a lot of pain.

Still, he did not loosen his grip on Thea. “James... James Caden! You bastard, how dare you destroy my Demonic Body! I will get my revenge even if I die now and be reborn again!”

The ball of red light trapping Xachary started spinning at that moment.

It was a gruesome sight as the red light mysteriously sliced into Xachary’s flesh over and over again like a meat grinder.

His agonized screams echoed through the area.

Suddenly, a faint purplish-red figure flew out of Xachary’s body and snatched Thea away. It tried to make a run for it.

On the other hand, Xachary’s body exploded with a loud boom. Not only was his body completely torn apart into bits, but Xachary’s soul was also irreversibly shattered.

The famous cultivator who was once a leader of the Timaeus Sect died, leaving not a trace of himself behind.

“How dare you abduct my friend’s wife! I won’t let you get away with it!”

Another purplish-red form came from a different direction and shot toward the first figure.

Boom!

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6757-Those two purplish-red figures collided forcefully in the air. The force generated from the impact hurled the unconscious Thea away.

At that moment, a gigantic mass of gas making up a Tai Chi diagram materialized high up in the sky.

As thunder crashed, a shadowy figure of black and white colors shot out of the huge mass of gas and charged toward Thea.

However, a ball of mysterious purplish-gold energy appeared out of nowhere just then. It zoomed through the air and enveloped itself around Thea.

Then, the purplish-gold energy disappeared, along with Thea. All of that happened in a matter of seconds.

“Who was it? They dared to take away my captive!” The shadowy figure just arrived at the spot where Thea was last seen. It assumed the appearance of one of Tai Chi’s clones and shouted furiously.

Unfortunately, no one was there to answer her. She could not even find any hints of where Thea had been transported to.

Meanwhile, James was watching all this from inside the Haurvatat Palace at the Great Historial Land.

He succeeded in locating Thea earlier. When he did, James used every means possible to stop the abductor. Still, someone else was one step ahead of him.

James could do whatever he wanted in the Forladtt Land since he was practically invincible in this space.

However, outside of the Forladtt Land, James could only try his best to unleash the powers that he himself was unsure of their potency to attack his enemies.

Earlier, he managed to use the power derived from Emperor Yarden's legacy to kill Xachary and crush his soul.

Still, James failed to rescue Thea.

The first purplish-red form that appeared was most likely Morgott's spirit from a Level Five Demonic Body. In that situation, James had no choice but to fight Morgott's spirit first to be able to save Thea.

When Thea was flung aside due to the force of the collision, one of Tai Chi's clones nearly had the chance to capture her. However, she was suddenly transported away by a mysterious energy.

Judging by the clone's reaction, James could tell that the mysterious energy belonged to neither the real Tai Chi nor someone from Zymurgy.

Unfortunately, he could not think of anyone who would do this.

While James was lost in deep thought, Marci spotted her opportunity and swiftly swung her fist. She generated an immense amount of purplish-gold power and cast it at James.

At the same time, a ball of colorful light moved into James' line of sight and stopped before his face.

In an instant, Lesia materialized in the spot where the ball of light was. She performed the Terrastride Step and took several steps. Marci's blast of the purplish-gold power was instantly frozen in the air. The mass of purplish-gold power was only a meter away from James at that point.

"Master, you need to focus! This is a Soma Daeclon Rank cultivator you are facing," Lesia exclaimed. Her warning pulled James out of his reverie. He demonstrated the Dawnblaze Form and re-emerged before Marci.

“You dare pull a sneak attack on me?” James threw a heavy punch on Marci’s stomach. The force sent her flying in the air.

“Don’t let her get away!” Lesia shouted.

James immediately sent a mental command. In a matter of seconds, the entire Great Historial Land’s space started spinning.

The millions of planets found at the edge of their space caught fire as they were pulled by the spinning force.

In the blink of an eye, the Great Historial Land was encircled by a ring of fire.

Marci had just steadied herself. Her heart dropped when she noticed she had lost all escape routes.

Without any better options, Marci swiftly entered the Forbidden Bloodshade and vanished from the spot.

James narrowed his eyes. “She ran off into the Forbidden Bloodshade.”

“Excellent!” Lesia smirked. “It’s even easier for us to catch her there.”

“We can take care of that later.” James said calmly, “Anyhow, we should settle things in the order of priority.”

James directed his gaze to the men sitting or lying on the floor. Then, he walked down the podium.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6758-The cultivators from the six holy temples were scared out of their wits when they saw James move closer.

All of them got on their knees and lowered their heads. Some of them unconsciously held their breath.

terrified eyes. She did not expect the man she had looked down upon earlier to possess such frightening powers.

Even Marci, who was also a Chosen One, did not manage to defend herself from James' attacks.

lost to her.

"Greetings to the Chosen One!"

The first group of cultivators who greeted James respectfully was the men from the Yunara Temple.

These men were so shaken after seeing the display of James' powers earlier.

They immediately placed their foreheads against the cold floor as a gesture of submission.

The other cultivators quickly followed suit.

"Greetings to the Chosen One!" all of them chanted in unison. However, their shaky voices betrayed their fear and nervousness.

These arrogant, powerful Daeclon Rank cultivators of the Great Historial Land finally realized the man they were trying to hunt down had become someone whose powers were unsurpassable.

The Chosen One before them could even end their lives at any moment if he wanted to.

Furthermore, they even foolishly abducted James' wife to force him to surrender himself.

It was only at this moment they realized how foolish and naive they were to have picked a fight with someone they should not have.

"Which of you captured my wife?" James stopped before them and asked.

Those men paused thoughtfully for a moment. Then, most of them turned their eyes to Lord Tzivya, one after the other.

"Why... Why are you all looking at me?" Lord Tzivya flinched. "It wasn't me who did that!"

“You didn’t do it, but you suggested it.” Lord Yunara scoffed.

“You were the one who said we could force the Chosen One out of the Forbidden Bloodshade by capturing his wife. Then, the Chosen One will fall under our control.” “That’s all nonsense, Lord Yunara!” Lord Tzivya retorted in an agitated voice, “Have you forgotten who spoke ill of the Chosen One the most, you imposter!”

Lord Yunara was about to respond when a middle-aged cultivator added, “It’s no use even if you try to deny it now, Lord Tzivya.

“You were also the person who suggested we hand over the Yin governor to Yehria. It was because you and her share a good relationship.”

“He’s right!” A ravishing female cultivator yelled at Lord Tzivya, “You also suggested that we turn against the Haurvatat Temple and join forces with Yehria, the current Tai Chi.

“Do you honestly think we can’t tell what you’re trying to do?”

“Lord Tzivya, you are one of the lords of the Ten Holy Temples. You should take responsibility for your actions”

An elderly cultivator commented, “All of this happened because of your greed and selfishness.”

Lord Tzivya was flabbergasted to see everyone blaming her. She stood up and pointed at several people. “All of you greedy and ungrateful people— “Did you forget how you all got on your knees and begged me when you found shamelessly pushing the blame on me now that Marci has failed?”

Despite her saying that, the other cultivators merely glanced at each other and looked back at her without any hint of remorse.

Lord Toviyyah who had remained on his knees silently all this while lifted his head just then. “Are you done talking, Persephone?”

“What?” Lord Tzivya looked in his direction. “Are you going to say it’s all my fault too?”

Lord Toviyyah snickered. He got to his feet and bowed slightly to James.

“Chosen One, I have a few questions for Lord Tzivya. Would you permit me to ask them?”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6759-James furrowed his brows. Still, he gave the elderly gentleman permission a brief moment later.

James wanted to gather more information about the Great Historial Land and the people in it. These men had the exact information he wanted.

After receiving permission, Lord Toviyyah looked at Lord Tzivya.
“Persephone, I have three questions for you.

“Firstly, what is your relationship to Yehria? Why were you so supportive of her becoming Tai Chi?

“Secondly, was the gathering at the Forty-Ninth Heaven a plot designed to bring down the Ten Holy Temples? Were you aware of it all along?

“Thirdly, we were told to use the Haurvatat Temple’s name as a cover in hunting down the Chosen One who was also a living being.

“We even had to abduct his wife. Who exactly gave you these ideas or orders?”

The other cultivators fixed Lord Tzivya with intense gazes as they listened to Lord Toviyyah’s questions. It even seemed like they were ready to pounce at her.

Meanwhile, Lord Tzivya appeared more and more anxious upon hearing those questions. She quickly knelt. “Chosen One! You mustn’t fall for all that nonsense! That is not the truth. I have never—”

“Enough!” James cut her off. “It’s either I examine your soul memories or you come clean yourself. This will also affect what happens to the Tanataya Temple.”

Lord Tzivya froze. Then, she slumped to the floor with an ashen face.

She never imagined their perfect, elaborate plan would fall through so soon.

Moreover, she was even exposed as one of the main culprits.

couldn't bring yourself to share here.

"You are Yehria's mother. However, she was conceived during a fling you had in the Tai Chi World."

A small commotion erupted among the cultivators almost instantly.

"A child born out of wedlock? Ha! Who would have guessed something like that had happened?"

"No wonder she was so willing to help Yehria assume the position of Tai Chi.

She even offered up the Tanataya Temple's eighty-one powers!"

"So, this is the truth! Persephone was not fit to hold the position of Tai Chi because she had too high of a number for her tribulations. So, she had her daughter take it instead!"

"So, who's the father? Is it Wesley?"

"Stop fooling around. Wesley wouldn't do something like this."

James' eyes narrowed as he watched the cultivators discuss fervently amongst themselves. He never would have guessed that Yehria was actually Lord Tzivya's daughter.

In that case, there was a good chance it was Lord Tzivya who helped Yehria enter the Tirta Sect, where the latter met Yegor and Herodias.

child of Persephone and Emperor Qadeer.

"Emperor Qadeer traveled to the Tai Chi World for inspection duties on the Supreme Path's orders in the past. It was during that time he and Persephone developed feelings for each other."

“Emperor Qadeer?” James frowned slightly. He transmitted his voice to Lesia.

“Who’s that?”

“He was one of the top five students of the Supreme Path. People consider him and Emperor Yarden to be on the same par,” Lesia replied unhurriedly, “He is now one of the Five Path Emperors in the FortyNinth Heaven. His full title is the Quintavius Supreme Path Emperor.”

James took a deep breath. He had suspected for quite some time now that Yehria had backing. However, James did not expect it was someone of such high status.

It explained why Yehria did not seem to bother showing the Law of Paths any respect all this time.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6760-James’ gaze drifted across those cultivators’ faces. He could tell these sly, calculative men would not share everything with him honestly.

Thus, he activated the Chaos Yin-Yang Eyes and examined everyone’s soul.

After a few minutes of arduous work, James finally understood what had happened in the Great Historial Land.

It all started with Emperor Yarden’s ten students being dissatisfied with how Zymurgy was treating the living beings. They found it to be a violation of Emperor Yarden’s teachings.

Therefore, they left Zymurgy and returned to the Great Historial Land. Here, each student established their own temple. Altogether, they were referred to as the Ten Holy Temples.

As time went on, Emperor Yarden’s ten students passed away one after another. However, not a single new Daeclon Mahayana Rank cultivator was produced among the members of the Ten Holy Temples.

Eventually, the Haurvatat Temple's members, who acted as representatives, reached out to Zymurgy's beings and tried to negotiate with them.

They were willing to offer Emperor Yarden's legacy, the Waltraud Power and the Vital Energy Appraisal, in exchange for the opportunity to achieve the Daeclon Mahayana Rank.

At present time, the Great Historial Land and Zymurgy established a deep connection. You could find members of one side on the other, and vice versa.

Those from the Great Historial Land were the most proud about having put Yehria in the position of Tai Chi through negotiations with Zymurgy's Five Path Emperors.

They managed to have another member hold the position of the Law of Paths by using the same method too.

Similarly, several members from these six temples held important positions in Zymurgy.

However, none of them could have predicted that Yehria, whom they had given all support and resources to make her Tai Chi, would turn against them.

Not only was Yehria no longer under their control, but she was also trying to seize control of the Great Historial Land!

That was also what led to Marci, the Chosen One receiving help and training from the Haurvatat Temple, forming a pact with Yehria and the Forty-Ninth Heaven's Path Emperor.

They used an event as an excuse to invite the only three Soma Daeclon Rank grand patriarchs the Great Historial Land had left. Then, they mercilessly killed the grand patriarchs.

By using his status as a Soma Daeclon Rank cultivator and the Great Historial Land's Chosen One, Marci then ordered the cultivators of the six holy temples to attack the Haurvatat Temple.

If James were not here, Marci and the six holy temples' men would have seized the Haurvatat Temple by now.

With the manpower of seven holy temples combined, it would not be difficult for them to crush the Zazen Temple, Xephyr Temple, and Yarrowvale Temple, which had members that still lived by Emperor Yarden's philosophy.

After learning all this information, James felt that whether it was the Haurvatat Temple or the other six holy temples, they all had it coming.

These men only had themselves to blame for ending up in their current predicament.

On the contrary, Lord Zenda from the Zazen Temple truly went beyond James' expectations. Not only did she not join the seven temples in their schemes and plans, but Lord Zenda also believed and remained faithful to Emperor Yarden's teachings.

After some time, James finally deactivated the powers of the Chaos Yin-Yang Eyes. Everyone was freed from the sealing powers instantly.

Meanwhile, James turned around and flipped his hands over again. In an instant, two towers shining with bright colors materialized next to his body.

With a loud whir, the two towers began spinning slowly around James in a circle.

The lights coming from both towers grew brighter gradually.

Suddenly, the entire Great Historial Land started shaking. All the powers and vital energies stored in the seven holy temples started flowing toward James and were absorbed into the two spinning towers.

The cultivators in the hall stared at the sight before them with rounded eyes.

They quickly noticed that the powers and vital energies flowing this way were their temples' precious, secret treasures.

Judging by the situation, James was trying to take away all of their treasures, which would deal great damage to each temple's power and influence.

Lord Yunara leaped to his feet. "You can't do this, Chosen One!

"It took a long time for the different temples to combine and produce these powers and vital energies.

It might not be suitable for you."

"Chosen One!" Lord Xandurr bellowed, "Those powers and vital energies are ours! Even those from Zymurgy are not allowed to take them away from us.

Who are you to..."

Before he could finish, James lifted his hand and sent two blasts of blood-red powers at Lord Yunara's and Lord Xandurr's Golden Body.

A bloody hole was made in each of the men's chests. A few seconds later, their bodies exploded, followed by their huge Soul Energy Balls.

The only traces left of those men were their torn body parts and the bloodstains on the floor.
