

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6771-James said calmly, "She's a valuable asset. If we use her correctly, it will save us a lot of trouble."

Lesia looked at James and nodded in agreement. 'Master is becoming more cunning and devious,' she thought.

James's greatest concern was not fighting Yehria. Instead, he was worried about his wife, who was held captive, as well as Light Thea and Abelard.

With these distractions, James could not fully commit his strength to battle Yehria. His chances of victory would diminish significantly unless he could forsake Light Thea and Abelard's safety. However, he simply could not bring himself to be so ruthless.

Lesia understood the circumstances. She smiled and offered, "Shall I take over?"

Before James could respond, Lesia transformed into a burst of light and darted at Marci.

Seconds later, Marci, who was subjected to Hemera and Fennec's attacks, found her agony intensified when Lesia joined them.

James trusted Lesia and had no doubts about her methods.

Just as he was about to find a good spot to drink, he suddenly heard Marci screaming miserably. Seconds later, she transformed into a purple-gold light and appeared before him.

James looked at her in surprise. 'That quick?' Marci gently tapped James' shoulder, gazing at him with a playful smile.

Coming to a realization, James exclaimed, "Lesia, you! Did you possess her soul?" Marci shook her head and replied smilingly, "It's not possession. I'm controlling her soul"

At that moment, a hint of pain and anger flashed across her beautiful face.

Moments later, her distorted face returned to a playful smile.

Marci's soul was fighting Lesia over her body's control. However, Lesia was much stronger and easily dominated, forcing Marci into submission.

James chuckled after learning of the answer. He was surprised Lesia had obtained such an exceptional Supernatural Power after the last evolvment.

Lesia, who was controlling Marci's body, smiled and said, "Let's go. Yehria probably won't even notice."

James eyed her warily and asked, "Are you sure?"

Lesia sensed his doubt and replied irritably, "You're worried I'll slip up and expose myself in front of Yehria?"

James answered, "Yeah. It could make or break our plan."

Lesia retorted, "You're not the only one who can search her soul with the Chaos Yin-Yang Eyes. Don't forget, I'm your second body and possess all your Supernatural Powers. One thing I don't want from you is your foolishness."

James said bitterly, "Did you already make arrangements for the Great Historial Land's powerhouses?" Lesia responded, "Yeah. However, I believe we still need someone to oversee the three holy temples. After all, they must fuse their strengths for appraisals to prepare our empire's people to enter the Daeclon Rank.

James nodded, then waved his hand. Two spectral figures shrouded in essence materialized in the void.

"Are they your picks? Lesia was taken aback.

James replied smilingly, "Stephen is my disciple. Plus, he was born from Hongrome Essence, a real divine being. He was my complete trust.

"As for Leuko, she can be a little mischievous. However, she is faithful to Stephen. Moreover, she was born from Chaos Essence. It'd be beneficial for her to stay here."

Lesia nodded in agreement. "Alright. Then, we'll go with them. However, their strengths..."

"I'm the Great Historial Land's ruler. Whoever I choose will become invincible here," James said confidently, then he cast two crimson lights at Stephen and Leuko.

Following the two loud booms, they emerged from the essence shrouding them and appeared before James with their newly formed physical bodies.

Stephen scanned his body and said excitedly, "Have I really been resurrected, Master?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6772-Leuko rejoiced, "I'm back to life too! You're amazing, Chosen One!"

James looked at them and explained, "I'll cut to the chase. From now on, you two are to remain in Great Historial Land, taking command of the three holy temples. Your focus will be on fusing powers and appraising energies. Given that you're both born from essence and have undergone the cycle of life and death, you should understand your duties well."

Stephen opened his mouth, attempting to reply to James. However, before he could get a word out, Leuko had rushed to his side and affectionately linked arms with him.

Leuko vowed, "Don't worry, Master! We'll live up to your expectations."

Stephen struggled from Leuko's grasp and said, "Master? I'm his disciple, so why are you calling him master too?"

Leuko retorted, "Isn't your master also mine? We're already a couple and even died together once. Are you trying to back out now?"

Caught off guard by her words, Stephen turned to James with a pleading expression. "Master, look at her. I don't..."

"Don't what?" James laughed, "If you ask me what love is, I'd say it's a promise to die alongside each other. She already died once for you. Isn't that enough testament to her feelings toward you?"

Stephen looked at Leuko helplessly, then mumbled, "Since Master already acknowledged her, I suppose I have to as well."

Leuko's face immediately lit up, and she bounced excitedly.

Stephen quickly pointed at Leuko and added, "But you must promise not to bully me. Master has taught me a true man should never harm his wife. However, if you force me, I."

"What will you do?" James interrupted him.

Stephen immediately swallowed his words after meeting James' glare. His voice dropped to a mutter, "I...I'll tell Master."

Leuko and Lesia chuckled, and even James could not help but smile.

James thought to himself, 'This guy just doesn't grow up.' Suddenly, Lesia interjected with a reminder. "Master, it's best you leave your two children in their care."

James looked at Stephen awkwardly, then said, "Uhm, Stephen. I have a pair of twins. They're somewhat naughty, so, you see."

Stephen interjected, "I'll treat your children like my own siblings. Taking care of them is our duty. I understand you have more important tasks on hand. Don't worry, and leave them to us."

James nodded thankfully at him.

The decision to leave his two children in Great Historial Land was not a desire to evade responsibility but a strategic measure to safeguard them. The impending battle with Yehria was more than a personal vendetta. It was a confrontation that could potentially draw in the powerhouses of Zymurgy.

The stakes were high, and the outcome was uncertain. If they could be raised in the Great Historial Land and develop their strength, then Thea's efforts to bring them into the world in such a place would be in vain.

With this resolve, James turned around and waved his hand. A ten-colored light emerged from his palm and swept the area, instantly turning the desolate Forbidden Bloodshade into a beautiful paradise full of greenery and lakes.

At the same time, a panorama of floating caves materialized in the void. With a deft hand motion, James released the souls of his friends and allies into the suspended caves. By doing so, they could benefit from the Waltraud Power of the Forbidden Bloodshade and the Great Historial Land.

Amongst the souls were Biefren and Faela, for whom James had high expectations. The group of powerhouses that had sacrificed in the sealed space were also released.

Lesia suddenly asked, "How about forging golden bodies for them?"

James shook his head and said, "No. They've been resurrected from death. I want them to walk their journey and cast their own golden bodies. It would be more meaningful since they would be getting another chance at life."

Lesia nodded, refraining from making further comments.

Afterward, James gave Stephen and Leuko some instructions. Then, he proceeded to leave the Forbidden Bloodshade with Lesia.

Before leaving, James glanced at his children a few more times. The two troublemakers were born as Hongrome Children and could easily travel around the Great Historial Land. They did all sorts of things and were having a blast.

James smiled as he watched them. Then, he said sentimentally, "Perhaps when we next meet, you two will surprise me."

After speaking, James instantly transformed into a crimson light and left the Great Historial Land.it

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6773-Lesia had strategically arranged tasks for the divine temple's powerhouses.

The Zazen Temple, Yarrowvale Temple, and Xephyr Temple were retained.

Zenda was in charge of leading the powerhouses at the Xurxo Daeclon Rank, which was tasked with safeguarding the Forladtt Land.

Meanwhile, powerhouses at the Yitro Daeclon Rank were sent out of the Great Historial Land and Forladtt Land.

Toviyyah from the Toviyyah Temple took charge in the Xyndaros Genesis World.

Zolten from the Zazen Temple was stationed in the Timbuktu Genesis World.

Ysanne from the Dynastia Temple was appointed to guard the Dark World's entrance.

These three powerhouses, scattered in the east, center, and west, protected the Sky Bridge, providing nearly impenetrable defenses.

Quintia from the Yarrowvale Temple and Huard from the Xephyr Temple led four other powerhouses at the Yitro Daeclon Rank to the Sky Bridge, ready to assist wherever needed.

On the other hand, Lesia ordered Adina of the Haurvatat Temple to serve as James' helper. After all, she was the strongest in the Great Historial Land.

James was satisfied with Lesia's other arrangements, except for letting Adina serve as his helper.

Lesia insisted it was because he was now the Great Historial Land's ruler and was equal to Tai Chi. Hence, it would be a blow to his reputation if he had to personally fight insignificant battles.

More importantly, although James had invisibility skills and could hide his aura, everything under the Thirty-Third Heaven was still under Yehria's control. Even though she could not easily detect him, he could still be discovered if a peerless powerhouse appeared.

Lesia understood James' plans very well. He would not want to be exposed before Light Thea and Abelard were rescued. This was the very reason they wanted to take control of Marci.

After departing from the Great Historial Land, James did not pause in the Forladtt Land. It was when he reached the outskirts of Skynet that he stopped.

He stood on a massive planet and gazed down, gasping after seeing Skynet's expanse.

His journey to the Great Historial Land had been fruitful, and he was eager to share his experiences with Truett and Xitlaly. However, his plans were suddenly disrupted when Morgott's spirit kidnapped Herodias. He felt ashamed to meet his friend after what had happened.

Above all, James felt a pressing need to locate Thea and prioritize the rescue of Light Thea and Abelard, who were captured by Yehria. With limited time to spare, he knew he could not stay any longer.

After thinking momentarily, James suddenly asked, "Is Yegor still in seclusion?"

Lesia replied, "He's been out a long time ago but is keeping up with the pretense."

'Pretense?' James frowned. Then, he waved his hand and the scene of Yegor within his soul space.

At that moment, Yegor was sitting in a lotus position in the void, radiating a sacred and majestic aura of a powerhouse at the Yitro Daeclon Rank.

James called respectfully, "Mr. Yegor, it's time to go home."

Yegor remained silent, seemingly oblivious to James' words.

James paused for a moment, then let out a soft sigh.

Yegor might have learned about Herodias being abducted some time ago. He chose to stay in seclusion because he could not accept the reality.

James felt he could no longer hide it and had to break the news to him. He raised his head and said, "About Ms. Herodias..."

Suddenly, Yegor coughed violently. He opened his eyes and scanned the surroundings.

"Look at this! Where are we?"

Stunned, James smiled bitterly and said, "You're back home."

"I'm home?" Yegor exclaimed, then appeared beside James. He unleashed his Zen to scan Skunet's headquarters. A trace of helplessness flashed across his face but was quickly hidden by a chuckle.

“Truett has been managing Skynet well with his wife’s help! He’s finally proving useful!”

James attempted to suggest, “How about.”

Yegor put his hands behind his back and laughed, “You want to go and scare them? Or have them pay their respects to us because we’re at the Daeclon Rank now?”

James was at a loss for words.

Yegor waved his hand and said, “Forget it. With their current strengths, it’s impossible to come close to our ranks. It’s best not to show them what’s out of their reach. Otherwise, they might become impatient.”

James had no words to counter him.

Yegor looked at James and said, “Our priority is to find and eliminate Yehria.

Only by doing so will the Greater Realm’s beings finally have hope.”

James asked surprisedly, “Do you intend to come to the Thirty-Third Heaven with me?”

Yegor replied, “Why not? Aren’t we already comrades? Plus, didn’t you bring us to the Great Historial Land so we could grow stronger to fight her?”

James suddenly burst out into laughter after seeing Yegor’s carefree attitude.

Yegor was a wise man. The reason he refrained from mentioning anything related to Herodias was to not distract himself from their main goal, not because he did not care about her.

To have such a loyal friend, James felt blessed. He stretched out his hand and said, “Alright! Let’s fight our way to the Thirty-Third Heaven!”

Yegor took his hand and said, “Let’s go now without any further delay.”

After speaking, the two transformed into light rays and disappeared into the Tai Chi World.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6774-In a mysterious realm with a purple-red glow, a woman with an enticing figure and stunning looks was seated cross-legged on a vast lotus. Her eyes were tightly shut, and a sinister purple-red aura enveloped her. She was breathtakingly beautiful but also emitted an ominous aura.

Numerous blue spirits swirled around her, bearing fangs and claws at her. The spectacle was terrifying.

Suddenly, a vibrant purple-pink lotus materialized behind her. Countless spectral hands immediately materialized and devoured the surrounding spirits.

Shortly after, a brilliant purple-red radiance erupted from the woman's body, causing tremors to spread throughout the area.

After what seemed like an eternity, the woman opened her eyes, and a purple red glow shot out.

At that moment, a sinister laugh echoed through the void.

"What a surprise. Although only half of your powers are left, you still possess such great comprehension skills. It seems there's still hope for Hokuwn."

Thea slowly lifted her head and said, "We're merely working together for now, Emperor Harlan. I do not belong to Hokuwn."

Harlan said with a sly smile, "You're a being born from energy, so naturally, you hold disdain for demons of Hokuwn. However, to trigger the Tai Chi Tribulation and annihilate Yehria, you'll need all my inheritance to gain the necessary strength."

Thea snorted, not replying to him.

Harlan sighed. "I understand you've pinned all hope on your husband, the Chosen One. However, I must warn you. He can't stand against Zymurgy by himself."

Thea sneered, "All I need to do is kill Yehria!"

Harlan raised his voice, saying, "Don't you understand? Yehria is Zymury's representative. To get rid of her, you'll have to fight all of Zymurgy."

Thea refrained from replying to him.

Harlan persisted, "Although you've regained full strength through Hokuwn, you're still only at the Xurxo Daeclon Rank. You should be much clearer about Zymurgy's strength than I am."

Thea silently closed her eyes.

Harlan was unwilling to give up. He persuaded again, "Becoming Hokuwn's ruler isn't that bad. Zymurgy portrays us as demons, but it's simply a mischaracterization.

"Accepting my inheritance would grant you not just the power to defeat Yehria, but it'll also greatly help your husband resist Zymurgy."

Despite his relentless persuasions, Thea maintained her stance and completely ignored him.

Harlan said furiously, "Fine, I'll show you what your husband will have to face in Zymurgy."

Thea immediately opened her eyes and saw a mass of light materializing before her.

A projection of a grand temple could be seen within its mass of light.

Thea immediately recognized the Tai Chi Grand Temple on the Thirty-Third Heaven. More than a dozen men and women were dressed in robes, surrounded by purple-gold lights.

Judging by their auras, Thea could tell they were mostly at the Yitro Daeclon Rank. Amongst them, she spotted three familiar faces. She exclaimed, "Emperor Quinlan, Lord Finnian, Lord Dorian?"

Harlan sighed. "It seems you still recognize them. Then, you should know what their cultivation ranks are, right?"

Thea took a deep breath and fell silent again.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6775-Thea had minimal memory of the powerhouses within the Tai Chi Grand Temple, but the three she recognized were ranked amongst the top ten in Zymurgy. They were powerful supreme beings at the Soma Daeclon Rank.

Her memories of them were paused many years ago. After such a long time, they must have also improved significantly and were much stronger than ordinary beings at the Soma Daeclon Rank.

Additionally, Yehria was also a powerhouse at the Soma Daeclon Rank. In total, they had four at the Soma Daeclon Rank.

Meanwhile, the other supreme beings were at the Yitro and Xurxo Daeclon Rank. If James were to recklessly make his way to the Thirty-Third Heaven, he might fall into danger, and escaping would become incredibly difficult.

Thea asked, "Where's Yehria? What happened to her?"

Harlan responded calmly, "Who knows? I can't detect her presence within the Thirty-Third Heaven."

Thea quickly rose to her feet and said, "Something is fishy. She handed over control to these supreme beings but is nowhere to be seen."

Harlan responded, "You're a wise one. Let's see whether your husband is equally perceptive as you."

After speaking, the light mass flickered with a purple-red glow. Then, the scene changed. Shortly after, James and a few others appeared and were projected.

James had already altered his appearance and concealed his aura, adopting the guise of a white-haired old man.

Yegor, who accompanied him, made no effort to disguise himself. He continued chatting with James as usual.

What took Thea by surprise was the presence of a mysterious woman next to James. She had a striking figure, but a white veil obstructed her face. Although she had hidden her aura, it was still easy to tell she was also at the Soma Daeclon Rank.

The three of them had already entered Zymurgy and had reached the Sixth Heaven. Along the way, they killed the Tai Chi disciples that had stood in their way.

At that moment, they had encountered old acquaintances—the Celestial and Earthly Sages.

Thea said anxiously, “I must go to them immediately!”

Harlan said calmly, “With your strength, you won’t be able to leave yet. Although there is only this one space left in Hokuwn, it still has very defensive strength of the Soma Daeclon Rank.”

Thea roared, “What do you want?!!”

Harlan replied, “I already told you. I want you to accept my inheritance and become Hokuwn’s ruler.”

Thea shouted coldly, “Your ruler is Morgott! Since you’re Hokuwn’s founder, why don’t you lift his seal? Wouldn’t he be more suitable than me?”

Harlan sighed. “No, no! Emperor Kaelisar is too tyrannical. It was already a mistake to hand Hokuwn to him. I can’t make the same mistake again.”

Thea grew impatient with Harlan’s persistence. Obtaining Harlan’s inheritance and gaining control of Hokuwn was a huge blessing that was hard to come by.

However, Thea knew the consequences of accepting his offer. She would never be able to return to becoming the Yin governor, and it would be hard for her to stay by James’ side.

Hokuwn had already been recognized as a place for demons. Although Thea could not care less about what people thought of her, she did not want it to affect James.

After all, James had vowed to forsake his cultivation path if she were to become a demon. However, watching him enter Tai Chi’s trap made her feel helpless and in a dilemma.

Harlan persuaded, “Are you going to watch him fall into Yehria’s trap?”

“I’ll impart my inheritance to you and will not request you to sever any emotions or desires. Hokuwn will be completely under your control. As for whether it’s a righteous path or a corrupted path, it will be up to you to decide.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6776-After hearing Harlan's comments, Thea lifted her head and took a deep breath.

"I don't care about being labeled a demon. However, I'm worried about James' future. If I were to seize control of Hokuwn, he'd forsake his chance to become the Supreme Path."

Harlan burst into laughter.

Thea scowled. "Why are you laughing? Do you find this amusing?"

Harlan replied, "Indeed. It's pretty amusing to me. You're the Yin governor, renowned for being wise. Yet, you're being foolish right now."

"The position as Supreme Path is a mere title. If one possesses great strength, why bother with a superficial position?"

"If being the Supreme Path gave one complete control over the Greater Realms, how did the previous Supreme Path perish without a trace?"

"To be honest, unless you can completely regulate the Three Treasures and Five Spirits, becoming the Supreme Path will still not grant you immortality or invincibility."

Thea remained silent, offering no counterargument.

She was already aware of everything he mentioned, but she made her decisions based on the person she loved. She did not care what happened to her but could not risk her husband's future.

"Your inner demon has already surfaced a long time ago. You harbor deep hatred toward Yehria, and this resentment can't be resolved. Even if you were to kill her, will your anger truly be extinguished? Will you finally find a sense of belonging?"

"Unfortunately, that won't happen. If you don't accept my inheritance, Hokuwn will vanish. Your resentment will remain unresolved, and you will never be able to accompany your husband on his cultivation journey."

"It hasn't been easy for you both, bearing misfortunes and coming this far together. All you desire is to live together, but your fate has been sealed because you're the Yin governor. You can't expect an ordinary and tranquil life like others.

"If you don't confront and eliminate Zymurgy's hypocrites and the Five Path Emperors, how can you ever live in peace? Will they ever allow you such a life?"

Thea's eyes snapped open, and she said, "The tree wants to be still, but the wind refuses to cease..."

Harlan stated again, "You have no choice. To become a demon or walk a bright cultivation path can be decided in just a thought, which you can find in the Hokuwn.

"If you and your husband can overthrow Zymurgy and the Five Path Emperors, you'll hold the reins of power. What you declare righteous will be acknowledged as such, and what you label as corrupt will be recognized as such. You will have the authority to redefine and shape the new order.

"There will be no strict terms or restrictions. You'll be free to do as you please and finally realize your deepest desires."

Thea remained unmoved by Harlan's persuasive speech. She understood that Harlan's desires colored his words, and he would say almost anything to convince her into a position that suited his needs. If she were to agree, the consequences were potentially unimaginable.

She looked at the projection within the light mass, and a significant moment unfolded before her eyes. James and his companions were conversing with the Celestial and Earthly Sages.

Thea gritted her teeth and slowly knelt on one knee. "Okay, I'll do it. But, I have a condition."

"I'm imparting my inheritance to you, but you're negotiating terms with me?"

Harlan was furious.

Thea asked coldly, "Yes or no?"

Harlan replied helplessly, "Okay, fine."

“No matter what the situation is in the future, Hokuwn will never stand opposing my husband, nor will I force him to join me.”

Harlan sighed. “This...you’re very cautious.”

Thea urged, “Answer me.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6777-Harlon persuaded, “Don’t you want to stay together? Why not take this opportunity...”

Thea interrupted, “He’s Emperor Yarden’s successor. He’ll reign over the Great Realm very soon. How can Hokuwn be enough to contain him?”

Harlon was completely speechless.

Thea stood up abruptly and scoffed, “Like master, like disciple. I don’t believe a single word you say.”

Harlan interjected, “Hey! Your husband is walking straight into Yehria’s trap. Are you not going to do anything?”

Thea responded calmly, “My husband has two Quintessential Hearts. Forget these lowly beings in Zymirgy, even the Five Path Emperors might struggle against him.”

Witnessing Thea’s resolve, Harlan let out a resigned sigh. “Alright, I accept your condition.”

Thea turned sharply and said coldly, “Act quick, or I might change my mind.”

With a bitter sigh, Harlan summoned a purple-red light that swiftly engulfed Thea.

Suddenly, Thea was lifted into the air by the dense purple-red light. She sat cross-legged, and a black lotus formed beneath her. Shortly after, numerous black lotuses sprouted around her.

Seconds later, the immense purple energy permeated the area and instantly consumed her, encasing her in a purple lotus.

Meanwhile, James sat on a boulder in Zymurgy's Sixth Heaven, sipping his wine. To keep his identity under wraps, he pretended to be a detached owner and influential figure while traveling through Zymurgy. He left the fighting to Yegor to practice. Even Adina, who was at the Soma Daeclon Rank, had no chance to engage.

However, Yegor found himself in a delicate position when facing the Celestial and Earthly Sage. They had an intricate relationship, transcending simple comrades. He treasured the chance they could have a heartfelt chat.

Suddenly, Adina asked, "Why can't we go straight to the Thirty-Third Heaven, Master?"

James smiled calmly and replied, "Shouldn't your question be why I can't use my real appearance?"

Adina sighed. "It's not impossible with your current strength."

James held his wine and said meaningfully, "It's not just about Yehria anymore.

She has great influence in Zymurgy. Since we'll be going to war with them, we should at least find out their overall strength, right?"

As James spoke, he gestured towards Adina and said, "Here we are, mere mortals, imparting wisdom to you, divine beings. To win in all battles, one must understand both oneself and the opponent."

Adina was infuriated by James' mocking remarks but restrained herself from showing it.

Just then, Yegor appeared before James and said, "There's a change of situation."

James asked, "Is everything under control?"

Yegor replied solemnly, "They haven't been completely controlled. Also, it seems we might be caught inside a trap."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6778-Seeing the gravity on Yegor's face, Adina felt anxious.

“Master, our current situation...”

“Let’s seal the Celestial and Earthly Sage, then bring them back to Skynet. I’ll lift the control once I return.”

Yefor’s expression darkened. “You’re asking me to leave now? Do you think I’m afraid of death?”

James played with his white beard and said smilingly, “My wife was abducted, and I’m clueless about her whereabouts. However, your wife had also been taken by Morgott.”

Casting a solemn glance at Yegor, he said, “I’ve been searching for traces of Morgott since we entered Zymurgy. However, he hasn’t been in Zymurgy.”

Yegor retorted, “Did you think I came with you to find my wife? I.”

James interrupted him, “You and I are both devoted husbands. Our love for our wives binds us more than anything else. We would risk anything for them.

“We will face a very fierce confrontation soon. If we can’t fully focus and are distracted by other thoughts, we’d be defeated by Yehria and Zymurgy’s powerhouses. All hope would be lost if that happened.”

Observing James, Yegor exhaled deeply and slowly shut his eyes. To James, he must have appeared like someone hindered by familial affection and incompetent in the grand scheme of things.

Although he had reached the Yitro Daeclon Rank, he was probably a burden to James.

At that moment, James placed a comforting hand on Yegor’s hand. Then, he flicked his fingers at the Celestial and Earthly Sages, instantly sealing them with two light rays.

He withdrew his hand and traced a large arc in the air to open a spatial rift that radiated with sacred, multicolored light.

Yegor quickly said, “James.”

James commanded, “Go. Let’s endure for a little bit. We’ll decide further plans after finding our wives.”

“You.” Yegor’s protests were cut short as he and the two sages were plunged into the spatial rift.

After the space returned to calm, James finally felt relieved.

Adina looked at him and asked, “Are you considering ascending to the higher heavens?”

James turned and looked at her. “What do you think?”

Adina said, “I don’t think we should waste our efforts. Since we’re already here, backing down will only show weakness, and boost their arrogance.”

“Are you not scared it’s a trap?” James questioned.

Adina snorted, “With our strength, besides Yehria, everyone else in Zymurgy is ants. So what if it’s a trap? We’ll make it.”

James said smilingly, “Alright. As expected of the Haurvatat Temple’s Leader, you’re courageous.”

Adina asked curiously, “But why do you insist on sending Yegor away? He’s a powerhouse at the Yitro Daeclon Rank. He can charge in front of us. Moreover, he’s Tirta’s disciple. He’d have more reason to break into Zymurgy than us. After all, his wife was kidnapped...”

James interrupted and said, “You must remember that you’re a slave. Yegor is a senior whom I respect dearly.

“Do you think mortal beings are fools? Why would I send my friend as a shield while you leisurely hide behind him?”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6779-Sensing James’ anger, Adina quickly bowed her head and said, “Master, that wasn’t my intention...”

James cut her off, “There’s a grand banquet happening on the Thirtieth Heaven.

Let’s sneak in so you can practice with powerhouses close to the Soma Daeclon Rank.”

Adina gasped, "A banquet? What kind of banquet is being held there? Where did you get the news from, Master?"

James locked eyes with her and smiled mischievously. "Why are you so nervous?"

Adin stammered, "I-I'm not. I'm just scared you've been deceived. Besides the former Tai Chi's alter, there isn't anything on the Thirtieth Heaven..."

James asked smilingly, "But what if Yehria is there?"

"This..." Adina frowned. "If that's true, then we shouldn't consider going there.

Instead, we should use the opportunity to ascend to the Thirty-Third Heaven and save your friend. By doing so, you'll be able to fight Yehria without worrying.

"Perhaps your wife is also captive in the Thirty-Third Heaven?"

When he heard her concerns, James merely flashed a mysterious smile. With a swift gesture, he propelled both of them upwards, heading to the higher heavens.

Meanwhile, a multitude of guests had gathered inside a majestic palace on the Thirtieth Heaven.

It was a momentous occasion where Tai Chi's two disciples would be officiated as the Yin and Yang governors.

Numerous influential powerhouses from below the Thirty-Third Heavens with Ousias attended. Additionally, several of the supreme beings from above the Third-Third Heaven sent their best disciples or envoys to pay their respects.

James and Adina had eliminated two representatives of the supreme beings, securing themselves invitations to the event.

As James surveyed the assembly, he was taken aback to discover that most of those gathered were only at the Xaeclon Rank, while only a few representatives were at the Xurxo Daeclon Rank.

Unfortunately, Light Thea and Abelard were among the attendees, and it seemed unlikely that they would attend the event.

However, James recognized a few familiar faces in the crowd. He spotted his archenemies from the Genesis Worlds, including Xaiden, Xolani, and Yzert.

Additionally, Iustus Sect's Grand Patriarch, Mattaniah, was present.

It seemed they had been abducted and subjected to rigorous control. Even so, their cultivation had advanced impressively and were at the Ninth Xaeclon Rank.

Adina whispered, "The attendees seem to be very weak. Leave it to me. You can go straight to the Thirty-Third Heaven."

James frowned, displeased that Adina had been constantly urging him to rush to the Thirty-Third Heaven. Just as he was about to lash out at her, an announcement at the hall's entrance caught his attention. "Celestium Temple's chief disciple, Clayton, has arrived."

James' eyes immediately lit up, excited to meet an old acquaintance. He turned to the entrance and saw an imposing old man in a black robe and a few servants walking into the hall.