

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6806-Immediately after, the Yuraeceon Genesis Bell transformed from the umbrella back into a bell. It slowly rotated, emitting a dazzling purple light and exuding unparalleled sanctity.

“Wow!” James chuckled. “This should be the ultimate form of the Yuraeceon Genesis Bell, right?”

“It shouldn’t,” Lesia transmitted through her voice. “However, it should be strong enough to withstand the full force of a Soma Daeclon Rank powerhouse.”

With that, she reminded, “Master, this place is unpredictable and dangerous. It’s better to use the Yuraeceon Genesis Bell as armor.”

James did not hesitate and used his Zen. The slowly rotating Yuraeceon Genesis Bell in the void immediately transformed into a beautiful suit of purple armor, which enveloped his body. James looked at himself and nodded in satisfaction. He looked around and saw that it was no longer a bleak landscape but rather verdant mountains and rivers, with black-and-white gas lingering.

Various spirit beasts roamed in the void, amidst picturesque scenery reminiscent of paradise.

“So beautiful!” Lesia exclaimed. “This is the world before the opening of heaven and earth. Who said it was all gray?”

James seemed lost in thought as well. “The Chaos Essence here seems even denser than the Great Historial Land.”

“The Great Historial Land is just the evolution of Emperor Yarden’s Golden Body,” Lesia explained. “However, here is Xyloria Kronosia Realm that has experienced the evolution of the Xyrisia Five Great Naturals. It is where the Xyloria Tai Chi condenses into human form, and also the origin of the Yin-Yang Aura.”

‘The Yin-Yang Aura! Does that mean this is where my darling truly comes from?’

Is this her true birthplace?' Thinking of this, James asked, "Do you perceive any living beings?"

"Yes, various spirit beasts are emerging endlessly." Lesia smiled.

"I meant..." James said.

"I know, I didn't perceive any," Lesia retorted.

This left James speechless. Just then, Adina appeared beside him after a streak of purple-golden light crossed the void.

James could not help but exclaim, "Why are you so slow?"

"I got trapped at the entrance," Adina muttered. "My cultivation base is insufficient. I simply dare not enter the thunderous tribulation."

Hearing this, James laughed heartily.

Lesia's transmitted voice sounded somewhat surprised. "You knew it all along?"

"What?" James countered. "You dared to come in boldly because you were confident that Adina would follow," Lesia replied. "Of course," James boasted.

"She is my slave. She has to follow wherever I go." This left Lesia speechless.

"Look at this world." James pointed around and asked Adina, "Where are Light Heavenly Path and Abelard?"

Adina was taken aback for a moment, then sighed helplessly, "I haven't been here either. According to the information provided by Clayton, both of them are imprisoned here."

James did not reply to her. Instead, he searched this world with his Zen, but found no trace of Light Heavenly Path and Abelard. However, he sensed a vast Tai Chi Gas in the extreme north of this world, which raised his interest.

Withdrawing his Zen, he said in a deep voice, "Let's go northward."

He instantly transformed into decachrome lights and rushed toward the extreme north.

Adina hesitated for a moment, then looked around and muttered softly, “He is truly insane! He can even break the Xyrisia Yin-Yang Tribulation.”

Then, she quickly followed suit.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6807-The environment of the extreme north of Kronosia Realm was starkly different from the verdant mountains James and the others had seen before. Instead, it was a vast expanse of white, covered in ice and snow, devoid of any living beings. However, there floated a massive palace shrouded in swirling black and-white gas in the void of this icy world. It was far from divine. Instead, it exuded a sinister, terrifying aura that sent shivers down their spine.

James looked at the palace and furrowed his brows slightly. “I can’t penetrate it with my Zen.”

Without waiting for James’ response, she leaped into the air and struck out with a powerful palm. In an instant, a vast golden-purple light surged toward the massive palace, erupting into a deafening boom upon impact. Following that, the palace trembled violently, and three black lights shot out at lightning speed, immediately sending Adina flying. With a dull thud, Adina crashed to the ground.

She clutched her chest as she coughed up a mouthful of blood.

“Master, it’s dangerous!”

Hearing this, James executed the Dawnblaze Form to avoid the black lights that shot out from the palace towards where he had just been.

Boom! Boom! Boom! The intense explosions caused the world to tremble violently. Ice and snow flew into the air, transforming into ferocious snow-white living beings that lunged aggressively toward James and Adina. Despite being severely injured, Adina got up immediately and swept out with a purple light longsword in hand.

Boom! Boom! Boom! Another series of earth-shaking explosions ensued as the purple Sword Energy shattered several of the nearest snow-white living beings.

Then, she turned to James in the void and shouted, “Master, I’ll hold off these snowmen! You deal with that palace.”

Upon hearing this, James furrowed his brow. However, a stunning figure suddenly emerged from the floating palace ahead just as he was about to act.

“Don’t come any closer, Forty-nine. This is a trap. You’ll never get out once you enter!”

“Darling!” James’ heart skipped a beat, and he shouted immediately.

The next moment, countless black illusory hands surged out from the palace and forcibly pulled the stunning figure back inside.

“Darling!” James’ heart was filled with grief and anger. With a sudden clap of his palms, two terrifying Decachrome Holy Lights enveloped in crimson power surged towards the palace at lightning speed.

Accompanied by a series of thunderous explosions, the massive palace remained unmoved. However, more black energy burst forth and spread in all directions. Countless snow-white living beings swiftly emerged from the surroundings and rushed towards them like a tide.

James was like a cat on hot bricks seeing that his attacks were not working. He unleashed the Terrastride Step and took eight consecutive steps in a breath.

The Decachrome Holy Light expanded and imprisoned the world completely.

The next moment, he executed the Dawnblaze Form and rushed into the palace. He was completely engulfed by countless black energies.

Adina outside the palace saw this scene clearly and suddenly burst into laughter. “Oh, James Caden! Despite your intelligence, you’re still so pathetic when faced with your wife. Go ahead! You’ll never come out again once you’re in Xyloria Kronosia Realm!”

As her words fell, an explosion rocked the massive palace. The next moment, a huge black gas burst forth from the palace, instantly transforming into rapidly rolling black Tai Chi Gas in the void. Following that, a hoarse female voice emanated from the gas.

“How could he be so strong? I’m a powerhouse infinitely close to the Soma Daeclon Rank, yet I couldn’t even withstand a hundred moves from him.”

Upon hearing this, Adina could not help but chuckle.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6808-“Leah, who asked you to confront him head-on? He’s already entered Xyloria Kronosia Realm, and his strength will be weakened. We can deal with him properly once his cultivation base is gradually sealed by Innate Energy.”

Upon hearing this, the black gas rolled rapidly and transformed into an illusory black female silhouette in front of Adina.

“You’re just talking nonsense standing here. If you’re so brave, why don’t you set an ambush in Xyloria Kronosia Realm?”

Adina smiled faintly with her hands behind her back. “I’m responsible for the Great Historial Land, and you’re responsible for Xyloria Kronosia Realm. Is there any comparison?”

The illusory figure called Leah snorted. “Yes, you’re the apple of the Master’s eye, so you naturally live the good life.”

Adina let out a disdainful snort and looked up proudly.

Leah suddenly nudged Adina. “Hey, this living being is so handsome. Have you taken a liking to him?”

Adina gave her a resentful glare. “Yes, I even bore him two children in the Great Historial Land. They’re both Hongrome Children. Are you jealous?”

Leah became annoyed instantly. “You ungrateful person! You’re hogging such a handsome living being all to yourself?”

Adina chuckled. "To be honest, it would be even better if it weren't for the Yin governor. Such a dominant, decisive, handsome living being is much better than those old folks from Zymurgy. Which woman wouldn't be tempted?"

"Unfortunately, he has become our enemy," Leah sighed lightly. "For the sake of a mere Yin governor, he is standing against us. Otherwise, it would have been so much better if we could come together."

Glancing at Leah, Adina flashed a trace of disdain. "Since you're so fond of him, why don't you go in and accompany him? It'd be best if you could strip him naked. If the Master is pleased, she might even let you go independent."

Leah hesitated for a moment, then looked towards the evil aura emanating from the massive palace. She wished to do this but not now. She had to wait until the living being inside had all its cultivation base and power completely sealed before she could do as she pleased.

Thinking of this, she spoke again, "You brought him here. Wasn't he discovered by those old folks from Zymurgy?"

Adina burst into laughter. Then, she recounted the incidents of the Demonic Spirit and Lady Herodias breaking into Tai Chi Grand Temple.

After listening, Leah also burst into laughter. "Excellent, indeed a godsend!

Herodias Thrude is really more trouble than she's worth. Now she's even colluding with her enemy, Morgott, against us. She has completely ruined the reputation of the Tirta Sect. Even Wesley couldn't save her."

Adina looked at Leah, then back at the massive palace. Suddenly, she furrowed her brows.

"Huh, why is it so quiet inside? Normally, James should be suffering the torments of the vilest disasters."

"Yeah!" Leah immediately looked at the palace. "Could it be that he truly has the willpower to resist the vilest disasters?"

"Let's see." With a flash, Adina rushed into the void. Leah followed closely behind. Just as the two landed on the roof of the palace, a blood-red light suddenly erupted from within and instantly imprisoned them both.

“Oh no! We’ve been tricked,” Adina exclaimed.

Leah slapped Adina, sending her flying out. The next moment, she was instantly engulfed by the light and dragged into the palace.

“Leah!” Adina shouted as she landed on the ground.

Unfortunately, the response she received was the agonizing screams of Leah coming from inside the palace.

“No, this can’t be!” Adina shook her head in panic. “That’s Xyloria Kronosia Realm. No matter how high his cultivation base is, it should be immediately suppressed by half. As the imprisonment lasts longer, the seal of the Innate Energy becomes heavier. How could James still have such strong power?”

Just then, a terrifying black-and-white gas rushed over in the dim void, shrouding the entire world instantly. Seeing this scene, Adina, who had been shocked beyond measure, immediately knelt with a thud. “I pay my respects to you, Master!”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6809-Within the vast black-and-white gas shrouding the void, a black and white radiance descended from the sky, materializing into a mysterious masked woman clad in a black robe and cloak.

She stood upon clouds of black and white, surrounded by swirling black and white radiance, exuding divine majesty and fragrance that pervaded for miles.

Though her face remained covered, she captivated observers, leaving them unable to resist the urge to catch a glimpse of her true appearance.

Adina, who had been kneeling, was too terrified to even lift her head.

The mysterious woman furrowed her brow slightly upon gazing at the massive and eerie palace, hearing the wails of Leah emanating from within. In the next moment, Adina hastily retrieved the Xyloria Tai Chi Pearl and presented it with both hands.

“Master, I have fulfilled the mission as planned, successfully luring James into Xyloria Kronosia Realm. Now, I would like to return the Xyloria Tai Chi Pearl intact.”

Before she could finish her words, Leah's heart-rending howl echoed from within the palace, accompanied by countless black lights erupting from the entire palace. In an instant, the once composed mysterious woman trembled violently, blood spraying from her mouth as she clutched her chest in agony.

Simultaneously, the black-and-white gas enveloping the area surged rapidly, accompanied by flashes of lightning and deafening thunder.

"Master!" Adina exclaimed urgently. "What's happening?"

"This is what you said as your fulfillment of duty!" the mysterious woman's voice trembled as she spoke, "Half of my Natal Primordial Spirit has been seized by him!"

With these words, Adina jerked her head up, her eyes wide with shock. Leah and she were both the Natal Primordial Spirit of Tai Chi, commonly known as Sappho Tai Chi, with Leah representing Evil while she represented Good.

'Leah's suppression by James in the Xyloria Kronosia Realm indicates that half of the power of Tai Chi was also suppressed. With Tai Chi power halved, can she still control the Thirty-Three Heavens and myriad realms? Can it still sit on an equal footing with the supreme beings of Zymurgy and receive their respects?' Thinking of these dire consequences, Adina paled in horror.

Once again, she raised the Xyloria Tai Chi Pearl high before prostrating herself on the ground with a resounding thud. "I deserve to die, it's just..."

Before she could finish her words, with a wave of the mysterious woman's hand, a black-and-white divine light immediately engulfed her. Immediately after, the woman rode on the black-and-white clouds and rose into the void.

"Since you knew I would come personally, let's talk." Her words echoed from the void, authoritative and sacred. Yet, she received no response.

At this moment, the vast palace suddenly fell into a deathly silence, as if nothing had happened. The slightly embarrassed mysterious woman sighed softly as she removed the black hat from her head, revealing beautiful, jet-black hair and a pair of enchanting, lively eyes. Those eyes blinked gently, their long lashes fluttering like brushes, captivating even with the veil still partially covering her face.

"Is this enough?" the mysterious woman called out again.

There was still no response inside the immense palace.

The mysterious woman's impatience boiled over as she interjected, "Our wits are evenly matched. We're at a standstill. Even with Emperor Yarden's inheritance and all of Yianni's Supernatural Powers, you won't endure the relentless tide of calamity. Innate Energy will gradually seal your cultivation base. Persisting in this deadlock won't serve you well."

As her words fell, the immense palace remained silent. Impatience flickered in the beautiful eyes of the mysterious woman. "James, do you want to be trapped here forever? Do you only seek the Light Heavenly Path and ignore the Dark Heavenly Path? Don't forget, you have so many children out there, so many life and-death brothers. I can snuff out their lives at any moment."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6810-At this point, she paused, feeling increasingly anxious as she observed the immense palace remaining unresponsive.

'No matter how hard I try to persuade him, this stubborn jerk refuses to budge.

He's just naturally obstinate. It seems that the Yin governor has thoroughly brainwashed him, giving him an extraordinarily strong will. It looks like I'll have to play my final card, or else things might take a turn for the worse with this stalemate.' With that in mind, the mysterious woman took a deep breath. "I reveal my true face to you, and we can have an honest conversation to find a feasible solution.

I can also explain to the Yin governor."

As soon as these words were spoken, the massive palace finally stirred. With a burst of decachrome lights erupting from within, it immediately enveloped the entire sky. In the next moment, a blood-red light shot out from the palace, transforming into several illusory large hands, sweeping towards the mysterious woman in a sudden assault.

Crash! With a series of crisp sounds, the black robe and cloak draped over the mysterious woman were torn off, revealing a perfectly sculpted, alluring figure floating in the void.

“How dare you!” The woman reacted swiftly and immediately enveloped herself in a mass of black-and- white gas. Facing the approaching blood-red illusory hands, she exclaimed, “I only said I would reveal my true face, not that you could undress me!”

As her words fell, a lazy voice came from the top of the palace. “Then undress yourself, or else we have nothing to discuss.”

At these words, the woman raised her head and saw a handsome young man holding a jug of wine lounging at the top of the palace.

“You...” The woman grew exasperated. “James Caden, you’ve gone too far.”

“Too far?” James smiled lightly. “You were the one who suggested revealing your true face and having an honest conversation. Now you want to back out?”

“You...” The mysterious woman clenched her fists slowly. “Since I’ve revealed myself, let’s have a proper conversation.”

“Nope.” James shook his head. “Although your figure is smoking hot and tempting, I haven’t seen your true face yet. If you turn out to be an ugly woman with a great figure, won’t I be at a loss?”

“You’re the ugly one!” Tai Chi angrily retorted. “If I take off my veil and reveal my true face, you might develop a crush on me and become an obsessed lapdog.”

James took a sip of wine, then burst into laughter. There was contempt and mockery in his laughter, further enraging the mysterious woman.

After a while, she spoke in frustration, “Fine, this is your choice.”

In the next moment, she immediately reached up and removed the black veil covering her face. Suddenly, an incomparably beautiful face appeared before James. This instantly lit up James’ eyes. His entire being seemed to undergo a spiritual onslaught, every cell in his body tingling with excitement.

This face was beyond description with words. All descriptions like dazzling and seductive, radiant and stunning, paled in comparison. Her beauty surpassed that of Thea and Lesia, not in features or skin, but in aura. It was a natural, inherent aura that exuded grace, charm, and elegance, beyond mere appearances. Perhaps everyone had their own definition of beauty, but upon seeing this face before him, even the most critical person would be captivated and forsake everything else.

“Have you seen enough?” The mysterious woman snorted coldly and pulled the black veil back over her face. “Are you still going to be my enemy?”
