

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6841-Before he could finish his sentence, he noticed the woman had swiftly waved her hand, releasing a burst of purple-red light beam to surround him.

“Argh!” Neville’s agonizing scream filled the air as he was surrounded and assaulted by numerous vengeful spirits. From his feet, they worked their way up, gruesomely chewing off his flesh. The purple-red light finally faded only after the resentful spirits had reduced him to bare bones.

Witnessing this, Zoltán panicked and fled. However, he suddenly stopped when Neville’s skeleton collapsed, and a soul energy ball emerged, floating toward the woman.

Zoltán’s lips trembled. “You...you’re so cruel. Are you a demon?”

The woman toyed with Neville’s soul energy ball before swallowing it whole, causing Zoltán to shudder in fear.

After a brief silence, the woman calmly declared, “For the sake of power, you can betray your master and sister so readily. What right does he have to pass judgment?”

Zoltán stumbled backward, his face filled with horror. “You... who are you?” “The Dark Heavenly Path, Thea,” As she spoke, she lunged toward Zoltán.

Then, another terrifying purple-red light beam shot out and enveloped him.

Just as the vengeful spirits were about to begin their assaults, Thea abruptly halted them.

The next moment, a purple-gold light emerged from her body, and Zenda materialized from it.

“Zenda! Save me, Zenda!” Zoltán cried out desperately, clutching onto what seemed like his last hope.

Zenda heaved deeply, turned to Thea, and clasped her hands. “Ms. Thea, I Thea squinted and asked, “Do you intend to ask me to spare him?”

Zenda replied, “No. His fate is already sealed. But I do have one request.

Please allow me the duty of ending his life. I’d like to spare him from a painful death.”

Thea crossed her arms, pondering briefly before giving a subtle nod.

The next moment, Zenda summoned a purple-gold sword and approached Zoltán.

Terrified, Zoltán pleaded, “No, Zenda! I’m your brother! You can’t do this to me.

You can’t...”

Swoosh!

Zenda slashed her sword, immediately slicing through Zoltan’s golden body.

Zoltan’s face contorted in horror after seeing the gaping wound in his abdomen, ‘This is to sever our bond as siblings and punish you for betraying me,” Zenda said in a quivering voice. Then, she thrust her sword into Zoltan’s body from behind.

‘This strike serves as retribution for violating the sacred traditions of the Zazen Temple, as well as your disloyalty and disrespect.”

She retracted the sword once more and thrust it into his body once more.

‘This is for your disloyalty toward our master and being ungrateful for his generosity.”

Zoltán was covered in blood from his injuries. However, he resisted the urge to cry out in pain. Instead, he seemed to have become calm.

Zenda raised her hand and drove her sword into his body again.

“This is to punish you for colluding with your alliance with the wicked and inflicting suffering upon other beings.”

Zoltán coughed up blood, then burst into a woeful laugh.

“Your reproaches are just, and your actions warranted. I hold no regrets in death. Since you insist on following James, I know I cannot dissuade you. My only wish is for you to succeed and honor the Zazen Temple.”

As his last words echoed, his body erupted in a brilliant purple-gold light, and with a resounding blast, he self-destructed.

“Zoltán!” Zenda screamed in anguish, collapsing to the ground with a heavy thud.

Witnessing Zoltan’s tragic end, Thea remained detached from the grief. She stepped forward but ignored Zenda. Her focus shifted, and she extended her hand to unleash a purple-red light beam toward the swirling black-and-white mass before her.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6842-Boom!

The black-and-white air mass quivered intensely under Thea's powers.

However, it was not destroyed.

Thea frowned and waved her hand.

The next moment, Yegor suddenly appeared before her.

His seal was lifted as the purplish-red light surrounded him.

Thea asked, "You're a disciple of Tirta. Do you have a solution?"

Yegor observed the black-and-white mass. Then, he lifted his hand and unleashed a powerful wave of righteous aura.

Just before the righteous aura could get close to the black-and-white mass, it was unexpectedly intercepted by two purple-gold lights from the sky.

Boom!

The residual force forced Yegor backward, etching his face with fear.

Shortly after, two purple-gold beams pierced through the void, morphing into the forms of a man and woman. They immediately positioned themselves before Thea and Yegor.

Yegor stared at them in awe. "Sir Zeux, Ms. Beatrice?" "You've got a sharp memory." Zeux acknowledged with a smile, then scanned him. "I'm surprised you've reached the Daeclon Rank already.

You've surpassed a certain fool I know."

Thea said coldly, "Do you intend to stop me?"

Zeux and Beatrice were taken aback by her hostility. They promptly clasped their hands at her and greeted, "Yin governor."

Thea responded with an icy tone, "I'm no longer the Yin governor. Now, I'm Hokuwn's Master."

She fixed her gaze on Zeux and Beatrice, then raised a brow. "You supreme beings label me as a demon." Zeux and Beatrice simultaneously registered shock, their expressions turning to discomfort upon hearing her declaration.

Thea commanded flatly, "Step aside! Otherwise, I may disregard our past camaraderie."

Sensing that Thea was about to take drastic actions, Zeux and Beatrice exchanged a glance. Then, they decisively moved closer to her.

Thea clenched her fist, and a murderous aura emanated from her.

Zeux shouted, "You're walking into a trap! Do you truly believe you can defeat Yehria on your own?"

Beatrice added urgently, "You're no longer the complete Yin governor and can't trigger the Tai Chi Tribulation. Please don't act recklessly. Otherwise, going through the eighty-one reincarnations will be in vain."

Yegor looked at Thea and said anxiously, "Uh...Yin governor, these two are our old acquaintances. They wouldn't-"

Thea cut him off and said, "I know. But my husband is in there. Even if it's a trap, I must go."

As Thea declared her determination, Yegor, Zeux, and Beatrice were stunned.

"Move aside. This is not up for debate." Thea brushed past them and resolutely strode forward.

Just then, Zeux turned and urgently called out, "Have you forgotten about the Chaos Storm that happens every one million entrapochs?"

Thea immediately halted in her tracks.

Beatrice quickly chimed in, "Your husband is a wise man. He wouldn't have so easily fallen to Yehria's schemes."

Thea lifted her head and pondered their words. A few moments later, a realization dawned on her, and she quickly turned to them.

Zeux and Beatrice looked at her meaningfully and nodded.

Thea eyed the tumultuous black and white air mass once more, then turned to them with a smirk.

"Zeux, Beatrice, how cunning of you to conspire with a demon."

The two were taken aback by her remark but immediately burst into laughter.

“Let’s find a place to talk,” Thea suggested, then transformed into a light beam and darted into the void.

Zeux and Beatrice exchanged a glance, then hurriedly followed after her.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6843-Yegor helped Zenda up from the ground and chased after them.

Adina and the others inside the Gate of Kronosia let out a sigh of relief upon witnessing the scene. Just as they relaxed and sat down, a sphere of Tai Chi Gas suddenly enveloped them.

Startled, Adina quickly attempted to rise to her feet to greet it. However, she was knocked away. She fell to the ground and spat out a mouthful of blood. Even so, she hurriedly got up and knelt at the Tai Chi Gas.

Yehria cursed angrily from within the Tai Chigas, “Rubbish! Are you so afraid of death? Why did you close the gate so quickly?”

“Don’t you know I set this up to trap her? If she had rushed in, her fate would be sealed, and the Tai Chi Tribulation would’ve resolved itself.”

Adina trembled and quickly bowed her head to the ground.

Meanwhile, Toviyyah, Ysanne, and other powerhouses were completely stunned by the turn of events.

They were surprised that Adina, who usually commanded and flaunted power before them, acted submissively before Tai Chi.

“You’ve ruined everything. We had the chance to solve this problem once and for all, and just as we were on the brink of success, it all came to nothing. All our planning and preparation have now been wasted.

“Not only that, we’ve helped James to become a formidable enemy. He is a variation that even Zymurgy can’t predict. We’re likely to meet tragic deaths,”

Yehria roared, causing the Tai Chi Gas to swirl violently.

Adina trembled, burying her face into the ground.

She thought after this success, she would finally be freed. However, her careless mistake at a crucial moment laid the ground for a catastrophe.

The fluttering Tai Chi Gas suddenly emitted beams of black and white lights, enveloping the several powerhouses and sucking them toward it.

Hysterical screams and curses followed, coming from within the Tai Chi gas.

“No, you can’t do this! We’re supreme beings as well!” “You’ve betrayed our trust! I hope you die tragically!” “We helped you gain that position, but you repay US with betrayal?!!” “I don’t want to be devoured! James, save me! Please, save me, Master!”

Amid the chaos and cries for help, the Tai Chi gas whirled violently. Soon, it calmed down, and a striking woman emerged and stood before Adina.

Adina was scared out of her mind. She quickly apologized, “I was wrong, Master. I thought she would’ve chased after US. I spread the news that James was trapped, but...”

Yehria took a deep breath and said, “I also didn’t expect Zeux and Beatrice to interfere. It seems she has quite a few loyal hounds in Zymurgy.”

Adina raised her head and urged, “We must punish her, Master! Did you notice she wields power similar to that of Morgott...”

Yehria snorted, “Do you think I need your reminder? She has obtained Harlan’s inheritance. She thinks that’s enough to kill me? She had just made herself a public enemy.” “Even if she was once greatly respected in Zymurgy and had a few allies, I doubt they’d dare to support her now.”

Adina stood up and asked with urgency, “What do we do now, Master?”

Yehria spread her hands, and five vibrant energies spiraled upward.

“The Five Spirits? I didn’t know you’d already regulated the Five Spirits, Master!”

Adina gasped, covering her mouth in surprise.

Yehria lifted her head and said coldly, “Previously, I never had the time to truly delve into the mysteries of the Xyloria Tai Chi Pearl. After my recent seclusion, I benefited significantly.

it’s laughable. James had to venture into the Chaos Storm, risking his life just for a chance to regulate the Three Treasures and Five Spirits. Yet, these are achievements that come so effortlessly to me.

“Even if he succeeds, his cultivation rank is too weak to even pose a threat against me.”

Adina, clearly thrilled by this revelation, nodded eagerly.

The next moment, a booming laugh echoed from the void.

“You’re that confident, fishy?”

Upon hearing the unexpected voice, Yehria and Adina turned toward the void in shock, their expressions a mixture of horror and bewilderment.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6844-In the void, a spectral shadow surged forth with terrifying force, closing in on Yehria.

Caught off guard, Yehria swiftly embraced the challenge and engaged the shadow in close combat, employing both hands and feet. She wielded her Tai Chi Power with fluidity, defending against the attacks.

Suddenly, the entire surroundings erupted with thunderous lightning, unleashing chaos. The clash of Innate Energy and Tai Chi Power resulted in a series of explosions.

The surroundings quaked violently as if the world was on the brink of destruction.

Meanwhile, Adina watched in a panic from the ground. Before she could evade, she was engulfed by Yehria’s black-and-white aura.

The next moment, Yehria’s strength was enhanced. Standing atop her Tai Chi gas, she shifted from defensive to offensive.

She unleashed a torrent of black-and-white gas, sweeping in the mysterious opponent’s direction.

However, her opponent was unfazed. He calmly summoned numerous divine swords in the sky, instantly dispersing the Tai Chi Gas.

The remaining divine swords continue their path toward her at rapid speeds.

“Zemra’s Qreiyll Sword Formation? Nothing too impressive,” Yehria scoffed dismissively.

Her body radiated black-and-white energy as she spoke, which transformed into lightsabers.

These lightsabers clashed violently with the onslaught of divine swords, leading to an explosion.

Yehria and the mysterious opponent were knocked backward.

Hovering in the void, the other party finally revealed his identity.

It was a dashing young man dressed in a black robe. He stood with one hand casually resting behind his back as he stared at Yehria. He had no evident aura or energies yet exuded an air of dominance.

It was none other than James who had shattered the Gate of Wonders and successfully integrated the Three Treasures.

Initially, he had expected Lesia to be waiting within the Xyloria Kronosia Realm, but upon emerging from seclusion, he was greeted by an empty void.

With his Zen, he quickly understood the events that had transpired within the Xyloria Kronosia Realm. Overcome with fury, he shattered the place and made his way here.

After that, he witnessed Tai Chi consuming several of his empire's traitors, as well as eavesdropped on the schemes between Yehria and Adina. He quickly discovered that his wife, Thea, had ascended to the Thirty-Third Heaven.

Now, motivated by the desire to rescue Lesia and support his wife, he was determined to confront Yehria in a battle to the death.

At this moment, Yehria, still hovering in mid-air, finally got a clear view of James' face. Surprised, she burst into laughter. "I truly didn't expect you to survive the Chaos Storm, James. Quite the calamity you avoided there."

James sneered, "You're quite compliant, aren't you, fishy? You waited patiently in the Kronosia Realm for your death."

Furious, Yehria snapped back, "You're a demon that goes against natural order!

Don't you dare act arrogant before me! Your journey through the Chaos Storm is nothing! You still don't pose a threat to me!

"And let's not forget, I hold a very precious person to you. One wrong move, and I'll end her life." As he spoke, a swirling black and white light radiated from her body, and he swiftly grasped the sealed Lesia in her hands.

Lesia lay motionless, her beautiful eyes shut tightly, enveloped in a cocoon of black and white aura. She appeared to be in a deep, undisturbed slumber, silent and still.

James' brows subconsciously furrowed at the sight.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6845-As James expected, Lesia had been captured by Yehria.

Yehria boasted smugly, "Do you see this, James? This is your second body.

Without her, you're not whole. Even if you manage to regulate the Three Treasures and Five Spirits, conquering the Greater Realms will still be out of the question."

James asked coldly, "Are you threatening me?"

Yehria replied arrogantly, "Yes! For now, I have the upper hand. It's up to you to decide her fate!

"Of course, if you'd like those supreme beings in Zymurgy to have it easy, be my guest. I'm Tai Chi, one of the Five Evolutions, master of the Greater Realms. I can't be killed."

"As for the portion of my Primordial Spirit that has been suppressed, there's not much I can do. If need be, I can always force it to self-destruct and cultivate it again. It likely will have no impact on my standing as Tai Chi." James laughed, "Then why waste your breath on me? Let's continue the fight." After speaking, James flipped his hand and summoned countless divine swords to encircle him.

Seeing that James was insistent on a fight, Yehria cursed, "You! Do you really want both of us to end up destroyed? Are you that foolish?"

James snorted, "I see you as nothing more than a deceitful and shameless fish.

I have no intention of negotiating with someone like you. Besides, I could always get my second body back after killing you. It sounds like the better option than being threatened by you, don't you think?"

Yehria felt a surge of anger after hearing James' resolve. However, she forcibly suppressed it.

Their recent battle had made it glaringly apparent to her that James, having braved the Chaos Storm, had become exponentially stronger than before. He seemed to have no evident aura, but his strength was terrifying. He had even mastered the Supernatural Power of Zemra, the Qreiyll Sword God. Even if he failed to regulate the Three Treasures, his recent venture had significantly enhanced his capabilities.

Yehria knew it would be tough to defeat James without her complete Primordial Spirit. Continuing to confront him would harm both sides and potentially jeopardize the grander scheme.

After much deliberation, Yehria cast another glance at James and said, "You are a clever man. I can't deny that. With the animosity between us, a battle to the death is inevitable. However, now is not the time for that.

"You are incomplete without your second body and are unable to harness your full strength. Meanwhile, I am handicapped without half of my Primordial Spirit and can't wield my full power. It's in both our interests to stop the fight for now." Yehria grew frustrated after seeing James' impassiveness. With a tone of anger and desperation, she shouted, "I know you don't trust me, so I'm willing to show my sincerity first."

She waved her hand, and three lights flashed, revealing Lyla, Yukha, and Taotie.

James' eyes narrowed in slight frustration. It had not crossed his mind that Adina had formulated a contingency plan when capturing individuals for Yehria.

Likely, Thea did not have the time to thoroughly inspect when she rescued the captives, resulting in the oversight of these three significant figures.

'This is my sincerity," Yehria said, snapping her fingers. The black and white light that was around them swiftly vanished.

Instantly, the three beings floated toward James.

James utilized his Chaos Yin-Yang Eyes and noted their cultivation ranks had been sealed. Although it was not permanent, it would be hard to reverse in a short period. Yehria was as cunning and cautious as usual.

After teleporting them into his soul space, James looked at Yehria and asked, "Since you went to the Ying World, you must've captured more, right?"