

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6901-James replied, "Apart from abolishing the prerequisite that one has to sever their emotions and desires to enter the Xaelm Rank, we keep everything else the same. Yuraeceon Xaelm and Daelm Ranks will continue in the Wanith Tai Chi World.

"Anyone who reaches the Yuraeceon Daelm Rank's Ninth Tribulation's Consummation will be allowed into the Wohrdaemon Tower's first to fifth levels.

They can forge golden bodies there, and then, after successfully going through their Karma Tribulations, they'll enter the Xaeclon Rank and be permitted to ascend above the fifth level, where they can cultivate Marciais and Historial Path.

"Individuals who master both powers can proceed to the Forladtt Land to merge them to create an Ultimate Golden Body. After that, they will go through the baptism of the Great Historial Land to merge their powers with the Chaos Essence and Hongrome Essence to be appraised, as well as determine their Daeclon Rank."

"For those exceptionally gifted or practicing unique powers, an alternative path lies in the three towers. Here, they can assess and fuse their energies to become peerless powerhouses.

After listening to James' explanation, Lesia nodded. "This seems like a clear path for beings to embark on, starting from scratch and progressing toward the Soma Daeclon Rank. It all comes down to their fate, luck, and diligence."

James looked at Lesia and said, "Karma is the best measurement for everything! There's no such thing as fate, much less control or regulations. It's the survival of the fittest. It's up to them to succeed."

Lesia responded, "It may sound harsh, but the natural order. External forces won't be able to affect the outcome.

"You've matured significantly after integrating the Three treasures, Master!

You're starting to resemble the Wuia."

James snorted in annoyance, "Honestly, I hold little respect for the so- called Wuia."

Lesia chuckled, "Not only do you lack respect, but you also seem to harbor a hint of disdain. Am I correct?"

James shook his head and said, "No. I won't fault him for the mistake caused by his desire. After all, I'm just a human, and he is our creator. However, I don't think he is as sacred as some believe."

Lesia smiled and nodded. Then, she gestured at Thea sitting nearby.

James turned his head and gasped instantly upon seeing her. "Is my wife also enlightened?"

Lesia said, smiling "She is a cultivator, after all. As the Hokuwn's ruler, she is of equal status as you, the ruler of the Great Historial Land and Greater Realms."

James looked at James silently.

Throughout their journey, Thea had endured a lot. With her resentment, her experiences would have gone to waste if she had not chosen to walk a corrupted path.

Regardless, not all demons are evil, nor are all those who walk a righteous path necessarily good. James' only hope was that Thea continued to uphold virtue despite choosing a corrupted path.

Lesia said, 'You can merge worlds and establish order in the Tai Chi Worlds to benefit all the living beings. But I fear you may be unable to fuse your wife's two halves to restore the Yin governor.'

Upon hearing Lesia's remark, James felt a twinge in his cheeks. With just one word, this girl had pinpointed his greatest worry.

Assisting others was often simpler than addressing one's own problems, especially involving a loved one.

On many occasions, he contemplated summoning Light Thea for a heart-to heart conversation with his wife, allowing them to determine the best course of action.

However, Light Thea seemed uninterested, and his wife appeared terrified at the prospect of encountering her other half. Thus, this notion had to be set aside.

Just then, Lyla and Rubella emerged from the void, wearing tense expressions as though the world were collapsing around them.

"Master," Rubella greeted with a bow as soon as she approached, her demeanor respectful.

However, Lyla looked at James with a complicated expression.

James looked at them and asked, "Did you two not have any enlightenment?"

Rubella lifted her head and said, "We did. But we're unsure of how to choose now."

James facepalmed after coming to a realization and said, "I gave you the option to abolish your cultivation rank or to enter the Wohrdaemon Tower, right?"

Rubella nodded tentatively.

James' gaze swept over the two women, and an idea formed in his mind. "Rubella, since you haven't entered the Xaeclon Rank, there's no need to forsake your cultivation. You can proceed directly to the Wohrdaemon Tower to cultivate your two powers first. After that, come see me."

Rubella furrowed her brow and turned to Lyla, who had remained silent. "And what about her?"

James reprimanded, "Just worry about yourself." Visit En.novelxo.com to read full content

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6902-Rubella lowered her head in deference to James, extending her hands before embracing Lyla. She instantly transformed into a light beam, vanishing into the Wohrdaemon Tower.

Lyla, on the other hand, seemed sorrowful. It was as if she had many unspoken worries.

Looking at Lyla, James instructed, "Lesia, return to the space for now." "Another love-struck damsel," Lesia remarked with a sigh and shook her head before returning to James' soul space.

Just as James was about to speak, Lyla interrupted him.

"I'm not here for you. I came to see her," Lyla explained, gesturing toward Thea.

James replied solemnly, "She's focused on cultivating right now. If you have a message for her, telling me will be the same."

Lyla shook her head and disagreed, "No, it's not the same. It will have a great impact on my decision."

James sighed in resignation and said, "You..."

Suddenly, Thea interjected, "It's time we talked."

James turned to Thea surprisedly and rose to her feet.

“Weren’t you cultivating?” James inquired.

Thea rolled her eyes and reprimanded, “Could you be more of a gentleman?

You shouldn’t intervene when we women are talking.” James fell silent.

Lyla urged, “Leave.” “Quick! Leave!” Thea also chased him away.

James promptly made his exit after they insisted he left them.

At that moment, Lyla finally locked eyes with Thea.

The two beautiful women stood face-to-face, painting a beautiful and serene sight.

“I understand that I can’t compare to you. But I still want to have an answer before death,” Lyla said with a sorrowful tone.

Thea inquired, “For that brute?” Lyla nodded and answered, “Perhaps I may be really shameless, but I...” Thea said while smiling, “You can’t control who you fall for. If we label human desires shameless, many will have to bear the title.”

Lyla sighed and said, “Thank you. Don’t blame him. It’s on me.”

Thea countered with a smile, “I should be thanking you. For a woman with your beauty to favor my man validates my judgment that I chose the right man.”

Lyla fell silent, and her thoughts veiled in contemplation.

She initially expected Thea to be hostile, quarrel with, ridicule, suppress, or use her superior status and strength to destroy her instantly.

Thea’s cheerful, confident, and generous response was unexpected.

At that moment, she realized that she was not only inferior to Thea in terms of appearance, figure, temperament, cultivation, and status but also in mind, self-discipline, and conduct.

She had overestimated herself and was too self-righteous. In the eyes of others, she was not even worthy of being considered a love rival.

What more could be said? Her action only resulted in a more profound humiliation.

Having realized this, Lyla bowed deeply to Thea and suddenly struck her forehead with her palm.

Thea was startled and screamed, “Lyla! Are you crazy? Why would you self destruct? You won’t be able to reincarnate.”

Lyla said slowly, “It’s my final dignity. You’re indeed the only man worthy of him, Thea.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6903-After Lyla spoke, she slapped her head decisively.

A moment later, she trembled all over. However, her beautiful face was illuminated by an extraordinarily bright and relieved smile. Vast amounts of Genesis Power and Marciais Power surged forth, instantly filling the entire void.

Boom!

With a deafening explosion, Lyla self-destructed, and a powerful shockwave spread out. Thea was instantly knocked away.

“Lyla, you silly girl...” Amid Thea’s hoarse cries, the void where Lyla had self destructed gradually returned to calm. Her dispersed powers merged into the Wanith Tai Chi World.

Lyla left nothing behind as if she had never existed.

“Lyla!” Thea slowly closed her eyes, tears streaming down her cheeks. She knelt in the void, overwhelmed with regret.

Though she had not interacted much with Lyla, she knew quite a lot about her.

Lyla was cold as ice, wise, capable, and, above all, loyal. Beneath her beautiful appearance was a heavy and conflicted soul.

To her, James was a complicated existence. She loved him but could not have him. Even though she knew it was impossible, she could not give up. However, this led to the current consequences.

After a moment, Thea, still kneeling, wiped away her tears and suddenly stood up. “Why didn’t you stop her?!”

James sigh came from behind. “There was no way to stop her.”

Thea stood up with tears flowing down her cheeks and snapped at James, “ You have the Terrastride Step. You could have stopped her before she self-destructed. You’re the Greater Realm’s ruler and have successfully integrated the Three Treasures! There are many ways to stop her!”

James remained silent.

Thea stared at James with teary eyes and said, "What are you afraid of? Do you not believe me, yourself, or the depth of her affection for you?"

James still said nothing in response.

Thea shouted, "She's dead! Gone! Because of her love for you, she killed herself! She killed herself to express her love for you! Why are you pretending not to know?!!"

James did not utter any words.

Thea took a deep breath and growled, "You're despicable, James! I don't think I know what you've done all these years because we've been apart for a long time! I know everything! I just never had the time to deal with you!

'There are many things you could resolve and end in advance to prevent these tragedies! But you have her hope and caused her to fall deeper for you!

Ultimately, she killed herself because of you!!!"

James finally raised his head from the silence and looked directly into Thea's angry eyes. "Are you finished?"

Tears still rolling down her face, Thea replied, "I don't want to hear your excuses. Can she be resurrected or even reincarnated?"

James shook his head and replied, "I don't know."

Thea waved her hand dismissively and said, 'That's enough. You're the Greater Realms' ruler and have integrated the Three Treasures. I can't understand your inscrutability, nor do I care to.

"But, James. I must tell you. If Lyla doesn't return, you and I will carry a burdensome guilt forever. I'll never be able to overcome this, never."

With that said, Thea transformed into a purple-red light and vanished into the void.

James did not follow and silently closed his eyes.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6904-Lesia's regretful voice resounded. "Sigh. Beautiful women are indeed a curse!

Love sure can make one blind and torment one's soul."

James retorted, 'You speak as if you're not a woman yourself.'

Lesia responded proudly, "I am, but I would not act that way. Master, you have every right to express your reasons to Thea. She's not a fool.

"Lyla's intense love for you attracted a tribulation for herself. Ultimately, she chose to end things in the most extreme way. It isn't your fault. You can't control another person's affection."

James raised his head and took a deep breath. "Even so, people will say that she wouldn't have fallen so deep if I hadn't given her hope or rejected her early.

Silence is allowing it to happen, which is betrayal. I'm a scumbag."

He hissed, "But she never expressed her feelings for me directly. Do I have to tell every woman close to me to stay away because I have a wife? Or to warn them not to fall for me, or else they will suffer?"

Lesia burst into laughter. "If that were the case, you're either crazy, or people will think you are."

James sighed and said, "Right? Besides, everyone knows I've been searching for my wife. Which woman beside me doesn't know about Thea? When have I ever hidden it from anyone?

"I don't think I didn't make myself clear, but I'm still at fault. I might as well just take the blame." "Haha!" Lesia laughed. After a long pause, she said, "If you act like this, people will say you're arrogant. A woman just self-destructed for you, yet you feel wronged."

James replied, "It's not that I feel wronged. It's just that there's really nothing I can do. As a man, explaining too much would look like I'm making an excuse, and that would imply guilt. Whatever it is, I'd be to blame. I'll have to bear it anyway."

He suddenly reached out and looked at the gleaming energy in his palm. "

Lyla's self-destruction wasn't solely a result of being ensnared by love.

Instead, it stemmed from a loss of hope in life itself. Love merely served as the final blow to shatter her heart.

After hearing James' remarks, Lesia agreed, "Her life has been pretty tragic.

She lost her parents to Xachary and then was manipulated by him. He was like her religion but ultimately discovered the truth. Back then, she already had thoughts of going down with him. But after encountering you, she found a new beacon of hope and faith."

With a sigh, Lesia said, "I don't know if you figured it out. I'm still not sure whether she was in love with you or held great respect for you."

James looked at the flowing energy in his palm and shook his head with a sigh.

"Regardless, she made a mistake. Instead of living for herself, she chose to live for others. Entering the Xaeclon Rank is already her limit."

Lesia suddenly realized and asked, "Is that why you chose not to stop her?" "Nobody isn't scared of death. However, some never find a purpose for living. If Lyla isn't able to grasp this, I'll only be extending her suffering if I resurrect her."

James gently released the energy within his palm into the surroundings. "Since you're uncertain of your reason to live, take some time to think about it and decide whether you'd like to return."

Seeing the energy dissipate, James closed his eyes.

Lesia asked, "Ms. Thea is still angry. How will you resolve it?" James replied frustratedly, "Resolve my ass. My wife is also grappling with confusion and can't concentrate. Perhaps the anger might prompt her to reconsider whether to merge with her other half or devise an alternative.

"Then, I'll be able to focus on the Greater Realms affairs and find the remaining three pearls to cultivate the Five Spirits."

After speaking, James vanished into the void.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6905-James was consumed by a flurry of activity in the following years.

First, he boldly decided to abolish his allies' cultivation base and sent them into the three towers to be reborn through Nirvana.

Next, he supported Yegor in establishing an extensive intelligence network that spanned the Greater Realms, even infiltrating the most remote corners of mortal planets. Their primary objective was to identify and monitor individuals with exceptional talents without directly interfering with their destinies. All gathered intelligence was meticulously cataloged at Skynet's headquarters and kept as an essential database.

This strategic initiative was important to James' plan to quickly assemble an elite team. After all, his opponent was the entire Zymurgy.

Subsequently, he orchestrated the relocation of the two prominent holy temples led by Zeux and Beatrice to the Great Historical Land. The Zazen, Shadow Yarrowvale, and Xephyr Temple were also migrated alongside. Ultimately, they collectively became known as the Five Great Holy Temples.

Their responsibilities extended beyond appraising energies. They were also tasked with helping Zeux and Beatrice safeguard the Wanith Tai Chi World, maintaining internal order, and defending against incursions from the heavenly realms.

To bolster their defenses, James bestowed upon Zeux, Beatrice, Zenda, and the leaders of the Shadow Yarrowvale Temple and Xephyr Temple a Supernatural Power to harness the Spiritual Providence of living beings.

Empowered by the blessings of spiritual Providence, these five powerhouses were well-equipped to confront powerful opponents below the Historical Daeclon Rank, ensuring the security of the Wanith Tai Chi World.

Once Yegor, Truett, and Xitlaly had completed their tasks, James instructed them to abolish their cultivation, to be placed within one of the towers for a journey toward nirvana and rebirth.

Having concluded these arrangements, James embarked alone for the Great Historical Land.

Standing before the entrance of the Forbidden Bloodshade, his gaze fell upon Thea, seated in a crossed-leg position with a purple light enveloping her.

James looked at her and took a deep breath.

After Lyla's demise, Thea stayed within the Forbidden Bloodshade. James knew she was really mad.

Nonetheless, her aura indicated remarkable progress in her cultivation over the years. She had ascended to at least the Tenth Level Demonic Body and had reached the Soma Daeclon Rank's peak. She had become a formidable powerhouse.

With her at the helm, the Wanith Tai Chi World would be in capable hands.

However, as James contemplated addressing her, uncertainty seized him.

Ultimately, he decided to leave without saying a word.

As he walked away, two purple light beams pierced through the void and stopped at James' shoulder, manifesting into two children.

The two children were about seven to eight and had an adorable appearance.

Remarkably, they were gleefully munching on sparkling lightning bolts.

“How much trouble have you stirred up, Zuriyin?” James inquired with a playful tone.

The little girl huffed and promptly leaped off James's shoulder, clearly displeased by his question.

James chuckled softly, extending his hand to affectionately pinch the cheek of the boy perched on his other shoulder.

“You're still without a name, right? I'll give you one now,” said James.

The little boy replied, “I already have a name! It's Lyall Caden!”

James was momentarily taken aback. “Lyall Caden? Where did you get that name from?”

Lyall ignored James' question. Zuriyin, who was nearby, answered, “Mom gave it to him.” James was rendered speechless.

‘Lyall Caden? Lyla, Lyall? It seems the impact Lyla's death had on Thea was tremendous. She used such a way to remember Lyla,’ thought James.

At that moment, potent Hongrome Auras filled the air. Then, two bursts of purple light shot through the void and materialized into Stephen and Leuko.

“Zuriyin, Lyall, didn't we agree not to disturb Mom...oh?” Leuko's words trailed off after noticing James.

With palpable excitement, Stephen rushed over to James and instantly knelt on the ground. He greeted respectfully, “Master!”

Leuko followed suit, quickly calling out, “Master!”

Seeing the couple's display of respect, Lyall immediately leaped away. Together with Zuriyin, they also assumed kneeling positions.

Amused by their sudden mannerisms, James chuckled and said, “Why don't you look at that? These two rebellious little ones actually learned some manners.

Alright, up to your feet.”

James promptly supported Stephen and Leuko in standing. However, the two children remained kneeling, seemingly afraid of the couple.

James gently prompted, 'You can get up now.' Leuko swiftly instructed, "Listen to your dad."

In response, the children promptly rose to their feet, their demeanor shifting from impudent to respectful.

James was surprised by their behavior.

Stephen leaned into James' ear and explained.