

The Almighty Dragon General

Chapter 6942

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6942-Thea replied telepathically, "It's a secret. James is attracting all these bees and butterflies to him. I'll settle this account with him sooner or later."

While speaking, Thea stood up, snatched the teacup from Lesia's hand, and splashed it on her face. "That's not enough to fool me, bitch!"

Soaked by the tea, Lesia instinctively took two steps backward in shock.

The next moment, she immediately grasped the situation and laughed.

"Don't be so ungrateful, Yin governor! I didn't think you would be brave enough to show up. Since you're here, don't think about escaping!"

"Just you?" Thea snorted coldly and suddenly unleashed a colorful force at Lesia.

James immediately grabbed Lesia and dodged away.

Thea's attack struck the position where Lesia was just seconds ago. A loud explosion ensued, causing the surroundings to shake violently.

Witnessing such terrifying power, the group of onlookers were instantly thrown into an uproar, both horrified and excited.

They were surprised that the beautiful woman in the white robe was the Yin governor. Everyone immediately thought about the possibility that her husband, along with two powerhouses who had stirred chaos in Zymurgy, killed several supreme beings, and captured Yehria, had also shown up. If that were the case, they would definitely meet their doom.

Lesia, who was disguised as Yehria, shouted, "Kill her, Morgott!"

James was momentarily stunned by the turn of events. He slowly rose to his feet but hesitated to act.

Although he was aware it was an act between the two women, he still could not bring himself to attack his wife.

'You traitor!' Thea glared at Morgott, then roared, "My husband has been kind to you and treated you as a friend. Yet, you helped Yehria escape! Today will mark the end of your existence!"

After speaking, Thea's body flickered, and several clones materialized. Dazzling lights immediately illuminated the surroundings.

She leaped toward James and attacked.

James, on the other hand, carefully defended against her.

To avoid exposing himself, he refrained from using his Supernatural Powers.

Instead, he instructed Morgott to attack but repeatedly warned him not to hurt Thea.

The battle took off into the void, shattering the surroundings with each fierce confrontation.

Once they got close, Thea immediately warned, 'You must leave instantly. This is a huge trap.'

After a momentary shock, James laughed, "If my wife is here, I'll naturally have to follow."

"Why are you being so stubborn? I haven't settled the score with you for attracting so many women. On top of that, you don't want to listen to my advice now?" Thea said, evidently displeased.

Startled, James replied, "I know you've obtained all of Silver's inheritance, and your strength has increased dramatically, but you need to go into seclusion to cultivate now."

"I'll know you out first before that," Thea replied, hastening the pace of her attacks.

She unleashed a burst of punches and kicks, accompanied by divine lights.

Unable to react, James was knocked away.

He spat out a mouthful of blood as he stumbled backward, staring at Thea in extreme shock.

Morgott complained, "I know you told me not to hurt her, but with her strength, we might not even be a match against her."

James looked shocked but was secretly ecstatic at Thea's current condition. He could sense that the malevolent energy within Thea had been cleansed and replaced with pure energy. This proved that Silver had helped her and allowed her to return to her natural state. Additionally, her strength had increased dramatically.

He was glad Thea could protect herself as he would no longer have to worry about her safety.

“Impressive! As expected of the last entity to be formed from Xyloria Aura.” A boisterous voice resounded in the void.

The next moment, a young man in a gray robe floated down, positioning himself between Thea and James.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6943-The being had long, flowing hair, striking charm, and unbridled confidence.

His presence stirred a commotion among those around him.

“It appears we’ve encountered Zorion Darkwood, the mysterious young master of the Eastwind Temple from the Thirty-Ninth Heaven.”

“It’s him? Rumors are that he traversed the formidable Soma Daeclon Rank in three hundred entrapochs, becoming the second to reach the Daeclon Mahayana after the Wesley Shepherd.

“I know about him. He’s always been a figure cloaked in mystery, seldomly seen below the Fortieth Heaven.”

“He has been dubbed the anomaly of paths. How can such a young powerhouse exist below the Fortieth Heaven? The Forty-Ninth Heaven noticed and recruited him a long time ago.”

“Then why has he returned to compete with US for the position of Supreme Path?”

“Well, he is from the Fortieth Heaven. Hence, he has a rightful claim.”

Amid the surrounding creatures’ chatter, Zorion turned his gaze towards Thea, offering a gentle smile.

‘You’re the first in the Greater Realms to have reached the Daeclon Mahayana.

Why engage with this lowly spirit and weak woman? That’s a stain on your reputation.”

James and Morgott’s expressions soured.

“Who is he referring to as lowly?” Morgott inquired furiously.

James replied telepathically, ‘You, duh.’

Lesia queried coldly, “So I’m the weak woman?”

“No, to be precise, it’s Yehria,” James chuckled softly.

Morgott seethed, “Damn it. How dare this insignificant brat act with such arrogance in our presence?”

James sneered, “Well, can you take him on? Don’t forget that even though you’ve gained eighty percent of your strength back, you’re still a fragmented spirit.”

Morgott retorted, “I may not be able to, but don’t I still have your help? You’re the first in the Greater Realms to have integrated the Three Treasures. Plus, haven’t you already defeated two emperors?”

James countered, “If I could’ve easily defeated him, do you think I’d allow him to continue his charade in front of my wife?”

Morgott suddenly faltered, unable to reply.

Thea looked at Morgott and Lesia with a meaningful gaze.

‘You make a valid point. They’re merely ants in the grand scheme of things and can be squashed at any moment.’

Zorion laughed, then placed his hands behind him.

“You and I both are at the Daeclon Mahayana and are naturally set apart from these beings. There’s no need to waste our time with them. Let’s proceed straight to the main hall.

“Securing a position from the Ultimate Cosimeonar Path is only a matter of uttering a few words. We can easily ask to become the Path Emperor that governs the Fortieth Heaven and below.

Thea scrutinized Zorion and asked, “Oh? Do you intend to contend with me for the position?”

After being momentarily taken aback, Zorion shook his head and chuckled, “I’ve long admired you. I’d give up the position for you.”

His words ignited a cacophony among all the crowd present. They were startled at his audacity to be so arrogant in the presence of so many powerhouses from below the Fortieth Heaven. It was evident he held no regard for anyone.

Even so, James and Lesia remained remarkably composed as they observed the unfolding spectacle.

Unexpectedly, Thea responded to him with a smile and said, "If you truly desire the position, fight me for it. I want it fair and square."

With those words, she cast a meaningful glance at James and Lesia. Then, she turned to leave.

"Wait for me, Yin governor! We share a history, don't you remember? You don't need to act so distant!" A follower implored, catching up with Thea and Zorion as they entered the Palace of Law.

James and Lesia exchanged bemused gazes.

Morgott goaded, "He is interested in your wife, James! Shouldn't you get him?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6944-James did not respond.

Lesia softly remarked, "His origin and intentions are still unknown. It's better to be cautious."

Morgott retorted, "Cautious? His wife is about to be kidnapped! How could he still be called a man without at least killing a few people to make a statement?"

"Since you can't expose your disguise, then return the last of my spirit and let me kill him. I'll definitely get your wife back!"

James stayed indifferent.

Morgott urged frantically, "At least return my spear so I can plunge a few holes into him!"

Lesia warned, "You better stay quiet, Morgott. Master has his own plans."

"Besides, Zorion is nothing compared to our master. It's absurd to think Ms.

Thea will choose him over our master."

Morgott grumbled, "But the fact is, she still went with him-"

James interrupted, "It's because she wants to force me away and bear this for me."

Morgott and Lesia were both stunned at his words.

Naturally, they believed that Thea loved James deeply and would do anything for him, even if it meant risking her life. However, she never considered whether James would agree to it or the possibility of him coming out victorious.

James would have been able to move freely and escape under the guise of Morgott's Spirit. Now that she had shown up, he could not just leave.

After a moment of silence, James said, "We need to find a secluded place to create new Supernatural Powers to deal with future situations.

Lesia reminded, "What about the Xloria Taishi Pearl? Nobody will be able to detect what's happening within it."

Without hesitation, James teleported their group into the pearl and vanished without a sound.

After the crowd returned to their senses, James and Lesia were gone.

Suddenly, an old man with white hair winked at the middle-aged man beside him and said, "The two of them are important.

"Finding Morgott and Yehria is crucial for US, much more important than this competition over a position," the old man emphasized.

"I understand, Sir. We've already laid a trap within the Fortieth Heaven. Nobody will be able to escape," the middle-aged man replied.

The old man twisted his white beard, nodding in satisfaction.

At that moment, an elderly woman with a cane approached from behind. She coughed twice, then said smilingly, "Let's join forces, Lord Gary."

Gary looked at her and laughed, "Lord Priscilla, you command nine powerhouses at the Soma Daeclon Rank. Your forces are far stronger than ours..."

Priscilla lowered her voice and said, "Now is not the time for mockery.

According to my original plan, working together to handle those pesty little fries would've been easy. But now, with the Yin governor and Zorion here, I'm afraid..."

Gary said solemnly, "Even with all our strength, we're not a match for them. I think we should negotiate with the Yin governor. As long as the Greater Realm secures the position as Path Emperor, there is still hope."

Priscilla raised her head, took a deep breath, and said, "The Yin governor is backed by James, a ruthless and brutal demon who despises Zymurgy. If we seek her out, wouldn't we play with fire?"

Gary slowly closed his eyes and said, "Then we must go elsewhere and find another powerful ally."

Priscilla turned around abruptly and looked at Gary as if he were insane."

The two exchanged glances and then reached a silent agreement. The next moment, they disappeared simultaneously.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 6945-After entering the space of Xloria Taishi Pearl, he immediately split into three.

To save time, James did not waste words and had Lesia and Morgott start fighting immediately. He needed to develop new tactics, Supernatural Powers, and offensive routines from their battle.

He aimed to avoid exposing his trump cards and preferred to use new ones to demonstrate the power of the Three Treasures.

As Lesia and Morgott fought, James saw flashing figures before him, dazzling his vision.

Lesia, his second body, utilized his Supernatural Powers, whereas Morgott had a completely different fighting style. Morgott's approach lacked subtlety or finesse, relying solely on brute force and violent attacks.

In desperation, James had to give Morgott his Tyrant Spear.

With his treasured weapon back in hand, Morgott's power increased drastically, and his attacks grew faster, slightly overwhelming Lesia.

From their fight, James finally discerned a pattern.

Morgott excelled in speed and strength, while Lesia excelled in nimbleness and refined martial arts.

Using this insight, James combined their strengths and joined the battle.

He restrained Lesia's Jozo Sword with Innate Energy. Then, he formed a spear with this energy and plunged it at Morgott's throat.

Seeing this, both Lesia and Morgott were utterly dumbfounded.

Morgott suddenly shouted, "What kind of weird trick is this? I don't accept it!"

Lesia also muttered, "That's not a real move, Master!"

"Then, let me show you a real move," James replied. Then, a dazzling divine light burst out from his body and knocked the two away.

The next moment, he flipped his hand, and a myriad of divine lights around him transformed into numerous Tyrant Spears, swirling rapidly around him.

Simultaneously, he gently tugged his arm backward, and a spear immediately entered his grasp.

He thrust forward, and the spears darted toward Morgott.

"Mommy!" Morgott screamed in horror as he faced the overwhelming Tyrant Spears sweeping across the sky. He hurriedly tried to defend himself.

However, within a few moments, his defense was shattered. The wave of spears immediately overwhelmed him.

James, showing mercy, halted the spears just a few feet away from Morgott's body.

Lesia, who had retreated to the distance, returned.

"This Supernatural Power is pretty impressive, Master. Although it has no defensive abilities, it has extreme offensive power. It's perfect for maximizing the power of Morgott's Tyrant Spears.

"It's still not enough." James suddenly shook his head and withdrew the spear.

"Morgot, let's merge! I'll teach it to you. How much you learn will be up to your comprehending skills."

After a brief stun, he transformed into a purple-red light and merged into James.

James said, "Your soul aura and my Wuia Energy can be combined to form a new power to utilize the Three Treasures.

Morgott caught on quickly and channeled his soul aura into blending with James' Wuia Energy.

James sat down and fused the two forces into a black-and-white gas with a colorful light glowing in the middle.

Lesia exclaimed, covering her mouth. "Is this an enhanced version of Wuia Energy? It doesn't even exist in the Xanadu Realm!"