

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7026-When James seized the Great Historical Land and confronted several of the holy temples, he experienced similar emotions and entertained the same notions as Qadeer. However, James was not naive enough to believe that Qadeer would truly advocate for the creatures of the Greater Realms.

James looked at him curiously and asked, "Do you harbor animosity towards all beings born from Xyloria Aura and resent the Waitara Path?"

Qadeer calmly admitted. "Yes. If he truly succeeds this time, he will become the eternal master of the Greater Realms, impervious even to the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness.

Suddenly, Qadeer's eyes gleamed with uncontrollable greed as he asked," Do you grasp the significance of the Xanadu Realm?"

"It not only has powers and Vital Energy beyond our comprehension but also about opportunities and mysteries waiting to be unraveled. It could even propel US past our current cultivation limits.

"Moreover, the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness exist there. They are capable of manifesting any creation desired. Whoever commands them wields the ultimate power over existence.

"In addition, one entrapoch there equals one epoch in our world. Meaning, that if we accumulate ten thousand entrapochs of cultivation in the Xanadu Realm, only ten thousand epochs will have passed here.

"Consequently, we could bring the cultivation accumulated there back and become unmatched in the Greater Realms!"

James countered, 'That sounds good. Then, we should enter the Xanadu Realm.'

Qadeer retorted, "It's easier said than done. In the Waitara Path's eyes, apart from the beings formed from Xyloria Aura, everyone else is mere ants.

"How can someone with so much pride allow us to enter the Xanadu Realm and have the opportunity to challenge his authority?"

James looked at him meaningfully and asked, "So once they open the Xanadu Realm, they can widen the gap between our kind and theirs, ensuring their perpetual dominance?"

Qadeer smiled and praised, "You're really smart. To be honest, as one of the Path Emperors, I've already reached the limits of living beings."

"If the Waitara Path were to return, then my position would suffer, and I'd become a mere fish to them."

James quipped, "Are you really a fish? No offense intended. Since we're inclined to work together, let's be more casual with each other."

At the mention of working together, Qadeer's demeanor visibly shifted. If James were sincere, it was a great opportunity to turn the tide in his favor.

James stared at him and asked, "What's wrong? Do you not trust me?"

Qadeer said calmly, "You..."

James shrugged and said, "Then, forget it. We'll just waste time. I'm quite curious to see what the Leere Tribulation will be like."

Anxiety flickered across Qadeer's face. "You're playing with fire, James."

When the tribulation strikes, you and your wife will be the first to be affected."

James looked at him and said, "To work together, we need to establish a foundation of trust. Or, at least, we both need to gain significantly. What can you offer me?"

Qadeer was suddenly rendered speechless.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7027-Morgott suddenly rose to his feet and said, "Do you want to meet the same fate as mine, James? Why are you even considering partnering with him?" James turned to Morgott and asked, "Have you partnered with him?"

Morgott sneered, "Of course. His persuasion back then was more convincing and heartfelt than what you're hearing from him right now. He spoke of righteousness and defending the Greater Realms. It really swayed me and lowered my guard."

"Yet, at a crucial moment, he struck me with the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword and sealed me away for eons."

James looked at Qadeer with a questioning expression.

Qadeer snapped, "The audacity you have to bring that up! I carefully laid out a plan, but you didn't follow it!"

“Your plan would lead me to an even more agonizing demise!” Morgott retorted, then he eyed James and said, ‘Trust no one but yourself!’

Qadeer interjected, “It’s not like that, James. While my partnership with Morgott did put him in a bad situation, it wasn’t completely fruitless. We unveiled the true nature of the Waitara Path and prompted the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness to force him to reincarnate.”

Morgott snorted, “It also allowed you, an unwelcomed existence in the Forty□Ninth Heaven, ascend to become a Path Emperor.”

Qadeer was seething with rage after Morgott had exposed him. However, he was still restrained by the black dragons and could not take action. He turned to James and said, “You’re so much smarter than that fool, James. After all, you’re the first in the Greater Realms to have integrated the Three Treasures. In the future, you’ll definitely be stronger than me.

“While our paths may lead to conflict in the future for dominance over the Greater Realms, for now, we share a common enemy.”

“Our disputes are but internal struggles among our kind. What’s more important is to prevent the Leere Tribulation. For if our worlds are destroyed, what’s the point of existence?”

James remained enigmatic, offering no response.

Suddenly, Lesia burst forth and stared at James furiously. “After all I’ve said, you still don’t trust me? Instead, you trust this despicable man over me? If he really were righteous, why would he keep silent about the Tai Chi Tribulation? Why hasn’t he spoken a word about Thea? Instead, he is defending Yehria!”

Qadeer was flustered at Lesia’s sudden outburst.

“I can prove my sincerity, James. As for your wife, I’ll definitely make it up to you.

But as I’ve said, your wife isn’t a while yet, and now is not the time.

“How about you release my daughter? I’ll punish her and make her apologize to your wife. Whatever retribution your wife wants, we’ll comply. Spare her life.”

James raised his eyebrow at the proposal but maintained silence.

Lesia scoffed, ‘You talk of justice, but Yehria is the Tai Chi. The Yin governor won’t be able to trigger a Tai Chi Tribulation if not whole. Even if Yehria dies, she can still reincarnate.

“If you truly are righteous, order her to self-destruct.”

Qadeer was at a loss for words.

Lesia turned to James and said, “I warned you not to trust-“

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7028-James frowned and coldly interjected, “Enough. Whether you’re Frona or Lesia, from this moment onward, you’re no longer my second body. I’ve already voided our soul contract.

“Seeing that we’ve gone through a lot together, I’ll spare your life. Return to Void World.”

James’ ruthless words left Morgott and Lesia in shock. Even Qadeer lifted his head abruptly, scrutinizing James’ face for any hint of deceit or pretense.

However, James’ determination was unwavering and left no room for negotiation.

“Master, you...” Lesia stared at James in disbelief, her eyes welling with tears.

“Get lost.” James raised his hand dismissively, and a terrifying light suddenly engulfed Lesia.

The purple-red flames consumed Lesia’s body, and her aura gradually dissipated.

Morgott lost his composure and growled, “What madness is this, James?!!

That’s your second body! How could you do that to her?” James closed his eyes, remaining indifferent to the situation.

As Lesia burned in the flames, a sorrowful smile appeared on her face.

“Fine. I’ve stood by your side for hundreds of thousands of epochs, only to be cast aside so ruthlessly. You choose to believe a scheming man’s words over my explanation. Not only did you sever our contract, but you also want to kill me.

“I hate you, James! I won’t let you kill me! I’d rather self-destruct!”

With those words, Lesia struck her forehead.

Morgott screamed in despair, “Frona! No!!!”

Unfortunately, it was already too late. Lesia exploded into the flames, filling the void with a gruesome mist of blood.

Morgott roared in anguish, "You ungrateful bastard! I regret calling you my friend!"

Qadeer, who was still restrained by the black dragons, was equally stunned. He never imagined James to be so heartless to even destroy his own second body.

While caught up in the shocking scene, Qadeer did not notice a translucent figure being absorbed by James.

Eventually, the shock on Qadeer's face gave way to a smile. However, he quickly hid it with an expression of regret.

"Frona is really arrogant. She never respected you. Although you've lost a second body, you've eliminated a great threat. From now on, you're the real master of your destiny."

James frowned at his words and said, "Enough nonsense. What can you offer to our deal?"

Qadeer said with a smile, "It depends on what you desire and whether I can provide it for you."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7029-James said coldly, "You won't regret letting me set the terms?"

Qadeer was taken aback, his heart skipping a beat. He realized his triumphant attitude was too obvious after witnessing Frona's selfdestruction, and he nearly exposed himself.

He laughed and said, "How about a marriage?"

James raised an eyebrow and looked at him perplexedly.

Qadeer explained smilingly, "Don't misunderstand. I know of your deep affection for the Yin governor and that you won't accept another woman. What I am suggesting is we become in-laws."

James was rendered speechless.

Qadeer elaborated, "You have sons and daughters, and so do I. It'd be perfect to have an arranged marriage."

James frowned and said, "Explain in detail."

Qadeer said calmly, i'll be direct then. You've already met my son, so you should more or less know about him."

James inquired, "Youcef?"

Qadeer nodded. "Yes. What do you think of him?"

James did not respond but began assessing Youcef. Back in the Tai Chi World, Youcef's sudden appearance prompted him to recombine the Tai Chi World and gain the living being's worship, allowing him to become their lord.

He was surprised Qadeer would use his son as a bargaining chip.

James looked at Qadeer and said, "Don't beat around the bush. What's your goal?"

Qadeer smiled and said tentatively, "You can have him as a son-in-law. It doesn't matter which one of your daughters he marries."

James was at a loss for words.

Qadeer added, "We can become even closer in-laws. You've met my daughter, Yehria. Although she's a little mischievous, she's really beautiful. You can also have her as your daughter-in-law. You've two adult sons.

However, I do prefer Jacopo."

James was completely dumbfounded by Qadeer's scheme. Knowing Thea and Yehria had an irreconcilable feud, he wanted to use a marriage between their children as a resolution. Moreover, he did not propose just one marriage, but two, to bind James to his ambitious plans.

Qadeer was indeed one of the smartest, most insidious, vicious, and difficult opponents James had ever encountered before.

Qadeer stared at James and asked, "What do you think? We'll become a family that is in the same boat. Together, we can conquer the Greater Realms. Neither the Waitara Path nor the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness can stop US."

James suddenly laughed.

In response, Qadeer joined in the laughter. However, it was rather unnatural and guilty.

James waved his hand and opened a jar of Chaos Absinthe, then took a few swigs.

Qadeer grew uneasy, unable to determine if James was willing to accept his proposal. It was the best way to ensure they were on the same side. Moreover, he could resolve the hatred between Yehria and the Ying governor as well. It would be killing two birds with one stone.

After a while, James put down the jar and looked at Qadeer.

“Does this marriage mean my children will become your servants?”

Qadeer hurriedly shook his head and answered, “No, of course not! I know you’re not interested in the position of the Supreme Path. To be frank, neither am I.

“Once we resolve the Leere Tribulation, we can retire together. Then, we’ll head to the Xanadu Realm and travel as a family.

“As for the Greater Realms, we can leave it to our children. Your son and my daughter can become the Supreme Path together and handle the rules and affairs here.”

James smirked at Qadeer’s persuasive words.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7030-James replied, ‘The vision you’ve described is too distant. Let’s focus on our current situation.’

Qadeer was momentarily taken aback before responding, “If you and I agree to have an alliance through our children’s marriage, I will immediately release Morgott and open the Gate of Mystery for you to leave.”

“I don’t care where Morgott goes. However, you can join my venture to the Forty-Ninth Heaven to reclaim everything that belongs to US.”

James squinted his eyes.

Morgott shouted from within the formation, “Are you out of your mind, James?

Do you really believe his words? You even let Frona self-destruct!

You...”

“Shut up,” James snapped at Morgott. Then, he turned to Qadeer and said smilingly, “Let’s change our terms a little. I want to temporarily use the Gate of Mystery for three entrapochs. During this period, you can’t intervene. Otherwise, the deal is off.

“As for the marriage, I’m open to it. But I would like to see your sincerity first before making a decision.”

“Just three entrapochs?” Qadeer’s eyes lit up.

James nodded in response.

Qadeer laughed, "Deal! I'll wait for three entrapochs, James. I'm confident you'll ally with me through our children's marriage."

James smiled at him but said nothing.

Qadeer suddenly asked, "Why don't you release me first?"

James waved his hand, and a soul contract appeared before Qadeer.

"We'll discuss the rest after you sign it."

Qadeer looked over the contract and was taken aback.

James asked coldly, "What's wrong? Is that too much to ask for?"

Qadeer scrutinized James and replied, "Of course not. However, I'd need the same sincerity from you as well."

James responded, "What do you want?"

Qadeer demanded, "I want you to release my daughter. Keeping her imprisoned is pointless."

James waved his hand, summoning a black-and-white energy. Yehria instantly appeared in the void. Although her elegance had returned, her cultivation base was diminished.

Seeing his daughter, Qadeer attempted to rush toward her. However, he was still restrained by the black dragons. He quickly turned to James and signed the soul contract.

James raised his eyebrow and withdrew the black dragons.

Qadeer rushed over after being freed and caught Yehria.

"Go away, old man!" Yehria roared and shook Qadeer off. She stood up and glared at him.

"You..." Feeling embarrassed in front of James, Qadeer became enraged. "

Have you no remorse, Yehria?"

Surprisingly, Yehria hid behind James. Both Qadeer and James were puzzled by her actions.

Yehria shouted, "I'd rather be James' prisoner than go with you! You're a cruel, ruthless demon! I don't want to be with you!"

Qadeer fumed, but James shrugged and said, "You've seen it for yourself, right?"

It's not my fault."

Qadeer glared at Yehria, his teeth grinding and fist clenched.

'You rebellious girl. How dare you..."

Yehria retorted, "Get lost, old man! You have no right to concern yourself with my affairs! Be the master of the Greater Realms or whatever! You don't deserve to have children! You're not qualified to be my father!"