

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7106-Quintus paused, then nodded with a smile.

“Human?” Thea asked again.

Quintus’ face twitched. “Young Lady, do you mean to discriminate against us living beings like those Alcide beings do? Don’t forget, your husband is also a human.”

Thea chuckled upon seeing his near outburst. “Why are you so anxious? I didn’t say anything about you being a living being or a human.”

“You...” Quintus was about to speak when Emperor Qadeer interrupted him with a wave.

He turned to Thea and asked with a smile, “Yin governor, although you are an Alcide being, you have never looked down on or bullied living beings. You have even shown kindness to them. That’s why we treat you differently from other Alcide beings.”

“Is that so?” Thea smiled slightly. “Is that why, during the gathering, instead of stoking hatred and seeking justice for the dignity of all living beings, you put on a self-pity act?” Thea’s words cut sharply. Even Emperor Qadeer, with his thick skin and deep scheming, found it hard to maintain his composure.

Quintus frowned and asked, “Yin governor, what are you trying to say?” “Whether it’s living beings or Alcide beings, I don’t want to get involved,” Thea said as she picked up her teacup again. “I only care about my husband. When will you release him?”

Emperor Qadeer, Quintus, and Quentyn exchanged glances.

After a while, Emperor Qadeer smiled slightly as he held his teacup. “Yin governor, you should cooperate with US if you truly care about your husband.

“You are now the Young Lady of the Wyrmscale Source. If you lead the Wyrmscale Source to assist me, I can sign a soul contract with you right here, ensuring that you and your husband attain high status and enjoy the reverence of all living beings forever.

“It’s not impossible whether you want the position of Tai Chi or the Law of Paths, or even to become the supreme god of Zymurgy.”

Thea raised an eyebrow at this, but remained silent, continuing to drink her tea.

Quintus immediately chimed in, "Yin governor, the Emperor is offering such generous terms, something that many supreme beings dream of but cannot attain. Aren't you satisfied?"

Thea looked up again. "I've said it before. Unless I see my husband, the Wyrmscale Source will not take action." "You..." Quintus said.

Emperor Qadeer took a deep breath and asked solemnly, "Would you accompany me through the Gate of Mystery?"

"No way," Thea replied.

"You're being arrogant!" Quintus shouted angrily. "You reject everything.

What do you want?"

Thea glanced at the furious Quintus and then said calmly, "Emperor Qadeer, can you control your dog?"

"You..." Quintus started again.

"Quintus," Emperor Qadeer interrupted once more. He turned to Thea and said, "You should know, that both you and your husband will suffer if we fail. Facing Lord Goyo's faction alone, you stand no chance of winning."

Thea stood up slowly and smiled. "You want to enter the Gate of Mystery, right?"

Discuss it with my husband first, and then decide."

With that, she turned to leave. At that moment, Quintus unleashed the Bohnwer Light to seal the palace door.

Thea stopped and turned back. Her expression was cold. "Do you want to use this trick on me too?"

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7107-Emperor Qadeer stood with hands behind his back, turning to gaze at the impulsive moves of Quintus.

"Emperor, she knows our entire plan," Quintus squinted and voiced his concern.

"How can we launch a sudden attack if we let her go?"

At his words, Emperor Qadeer furrowed his brow. "Yin governor, I am about to enter the Gate of Mystery to discuss with your husband. Can you wait a moment?"

Upon hearing this, Thea raised an eyebrow. "Is it waiting or detaining?"

Emperor Qadeer hesitated. "Well..."

Before he could finish, Thea turned on her heel, returning to her seat and calmly lifting her teacup, ignoring everyone around her. This unexpected reaction left both Quintus and Quentyn momentarily stunned.

The saying goes, "When things go awry, there must be a reason."

The Yin governor obviously had everything under control and was not afraid of being detained.

Only Emperor Qadeer knew that this lady was the most influential figure in his hands. On one hand, she was the Young Lady of the Wyrmscale Source, honored by the Divine Marius, and on the other hand, she was the woman James loved the most. She was capable of influencing these two transcendent forces. And it was these two forces that could determine the outcome of the battle of the Forty-Ninth Heaven. Subsequently, it would affect the control of the entire Greater Realms, including his grand ambitions. Thus, despite appearing isolated now, she could sway nations with just a word. Even someone as esteemed as he had to treat her with deference.

Thea smirked as she held her teacup, observing Emperor Qadeer's dilemma.

"The three of you, do whatever you need to do. Rest assured, I won't run away, because you'll be begging me to leave by then."

At this statement, Emperor Qadeer's heart skipped a beat, while Quintus and Quentyn exchanged uncertain glances.

"No!" Quintus twitched his cheek. "Yin governor, since you entered the Qadeer Temple, I have treated you as an honored guest, never showing any disrespect, right? Why would you cause such trouble for me at this critical moment before the great battle?"

"Are you blaming me?" Thea shrugged with her teacup in hand. "Seems like you want to imprison me, don't you?"

"No," Emperor Qadeer hurriedly waved his hand. "You are the Young Lady of the Wyrmscale Source, an eternal guest of the Qadeer Temple. You are completely free to come and go."

Quintus became anxious. "Emperor..."

"Enough." Emperor Qadeer's face suddenly turned cold. "Anyone who disrespects Yin governor is against the Qadeer Temple."

With that, he glared at Quintus. "Quintus, lift the blockade. Don't make things difficult for me."

Quintus clenched his fist slowly, then waved it reluctantly. The next moment, the Bohnwer Light that had blocked Thea's departure vanished abruptly.

Only then did Thea stand up. "Emperor, you are generous, and I appreciate your righteousness. Although we have a soul contract, I will remain neutral on behalf of the Wyrmscale Source until my husband gives his definite consent.

"However, I wish to convey a message to my husband. If the Qadeer Sect truly represents the living beings in seizing control of the Forty-Ninth Heaven and pledges to benefit all living beings upon success, I am inclined to ally with you."

With that, Thea waved a hand, and a shimmering silver-white jade pendant floated to Emperor Qadeer. 'This is a token from me and my husband. Seeing this jade is akin to seeing me. He will understand."

Facing the jade pendant shimmering with silver-white light, Emperor Qadeer's eyes gleamed as if he had found a treasure, and he grabbed it eagerly.

To him, this was not just a piece of jade. It represented the Yin governor's attitude and the true attitude of the Wyrmscale Source and the Divine Marius.

With the Yin governor's words and this jade pendant, even James from the Gate of Mystery would likely have an eighty percent chance of joining in.

In an instant, Emperor Qadeer seemed to see the control of the Greater Realms right before him.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7108-It would be like adding tenfold strength with the addition of James and the Divine Marius. Even the formidable Lord Goyo, leader of the Five Path Emperors, and his forces would be easily swept away.

Seeing Emperor Qadeer's barely concealed excitement, Thea cupped her hands toward him, then turned and left. At that moment, Quintus hurried over.

"Emperor, do you really trust this woman..."

"We must trust her." Emperor Qadeer's expression suddenly turned cold. "This woman can influence two great factions and determine our success or failure this time. My grand ambition rests on this moment. Hahaha!"

Quintus was stunned and hesitated to speak further. However, Quentyn turned away disdainfully, not even wanting to glance at him.

At the same time, within the Gate of Mystery, James created a shared vision with Thea through Lesia's Supernatural Power. The scene shifted from Draethorn Palace to the void of the Qadeer Temple.

Watching the rapidly moving images, Harper squinted. "Do you really think this collaboration will ease Emperor Qadeer's worries? It's not that simple."

"Of course," James replied with a smile. "Emperor Qadeer is a cunning and suspicious guy. To ensure he fights Lord Goyo without hesitation, we must completely eliminate his concerns. Being a fisherman in this scenario is not easy."

He suddenly flipped his hands as he spoke. In the distance, the Primordial Spirit of Emperor Yevgen, refined by the Zenthur Rank, lined up in front of him. These refined Primordial Spirits were now immensely stronger, radiating divine and majestic auras.

James only selected three of these refined Primordial Spirits. With the black, white, and gray lights of the Zenthur Rank shining, the chosen spirits transformed visibly.

One Primordial Spirit became a graceful female figure, while the other two reshaped. In a flash of dazzling light, the three transformed spirits appeared as Lesia, Morgott, and Yianni.

Seeing this, Harper covered her mouth in astonishment. "Wow, this is amazing!"

They almost look real, even the aura and cultivation bases are identical. You can even create beings at the Daeclon Mahayana Rank."

James remained silent, shaking his head in dissatisfaction at the female Primordial Spirit resembling Lesia. Although he could replicate her cultivation base, Supernatural Powers, and aura, he could not recreate the Nothingness Aura as Frona Soremsia.

If he presented the fake Lesia to Emperor Qadeer, it would be immediately detected. Realizing this, James waved his hand and merged the fake Lesia back into Emperor Yevgen's main self.

"Why did you discard it?" Harper was surprised.

"I can't replicate the Soremsia of a God of Creation." James sighed. "Rather than being exposed by Emperor Qadeer, it's better not to create it at all."

He then looked at the Primordial Spirits of Yianni and Morgott he had created.

"These two are nearly perfect. They will easily deceive Emperor Qadeer."

“Why go through so much trouble?” Harper asked impatiently. “If you agree to cooperate with Emperor Qadeer, his concerns will naturally be resolved.”

“Cooperating means we have to leave the Gate of Mystery.” James glanced at Harper. “I can’t leave until I seize the source of the world within the Gate of Mystery.”

“Since you can create Morgott and Yianni, why not create yourself?” Harper smiled seductively. “Make Emperor Qadeer believe we are willing to cooperate and leave the Gate of Mystery with him. Meanwhile, your main self can remain hidden inside.

“As long as the created being doesn’t act, it won’t be exposed,” Harper added with a mischievous smile. “This way, Emperor Qadeer will be reassured and can focus on fighting Lord Goyo.

“Once they start fighting, they won’t have time for US. By the time Emperor Qadeer realizes the truth, it will be too late to stop. We’ll have succeeded as the fisherman in this situation.”

Hearing this, James turned abruptly and stared at Harper like she was a monster.

“What?” Harper was startled and took a few steps back. “You don’t want to attack me now, do you?”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7109-James stared at the panic-stricken Harper and suddenly burst into hearty laughter.

“Are you so crazy that I won’t let you touch me?” Harper pouted, then spread her arms wide. “Fine, come on then. I’ll indulge you.” She closed her eyes, seemingly prepared for anything from James. After laughing for a while, James rolled his eyes at her. “It was just when you seriously offered your suggestion that I finally saw Sophie’s shadow in you.’ Harper’s eyes shot open in surprise.

“You’re right.” James pointed at Harper excitedly. “All we need to do is to alleviate Emperor Qadeer’s worries and let him fight Lord Goyo without hesitation.

“As long as they engage in battle, it will be too late to turn back even if he discovers our trick.” James squinted slightly as he continued. “However, I won’t let him see through US that easily.”

As he spoke, James suddenly radiated a dazzling black and white light, which then fused into gray and finally turned into a purple-golden hue. In a flash, James split into two, both identical in aura and cultivation base.

Harper was stunned. "Is this a clone or a Primordial Spirit? I can't tell which one is the main self."

"Both are the main self," James said simultaneously. "One is the main self of the Path at the Zenthur Rank, and the other is the main self of the Name at the Zenthur Rank."

Harper's eyes widened in shock.

In the next moment, one James turned into a beam of Sword Light and merged into the Nothingness Formation. He merged with the entire formation and disappeared completely.

The other James smiled at Harper and said, "For this theatrical performance, let's use the main self of the Path. It's a bit stronger and has all the necessary Supernatural Powers to handle the situation outside."

Harper tiptoed closer to James and poked his arm. Then, she quickly recoiled with a gasp.

"What?" James asked impatiently.

"Oh my, it's real flesh and blood, not a clone or a Primordial Spirit," Harper exclaimed, covering her mouth. "How can you have two main selves?" James chuckled. "When you reach the Zenthur Rank in both Path and Name, you can have two main selves and souls."

Harper's eyes twinkled mischievously at this. "Does that mean one main self can stay with me, while the other stays with your wife, and no one will notice?"

James nearly stumbled at her words. He wondered what this mischievous spirit was thinking. Regardless of the number of main selves, they were all him. The main self of Path cultivated the Path, while the main self of Name could cultivate things beyond the Path. If Path and Name were seen as good and evil, the Path would be considered good and the Name would be considered evil, both under James' control.

At that moment, Emperor Yevgen's main self, refined and surrounded by light, finally opened his eyes. Twin beams of red light shot from his eyes as he appeared before James and knelt in the void. "Your Majesty, thank you for granting me rebirth." "What are you doing?" James frowned. "Stand up. You are Emperor Benevolence in the Nothingness Daoism."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7110-"How could I comprehend the benevolence of the Nothingness Daoism without this refinement?" Emperor Yevgen bowed to James. "Your Majesty, I shall always defer to you from now on..."

“Alright.” James waved his hand, a beam of light lifting Emperor Yevgen. Then, he said, “The appointed time with Emperor Qadeer is here, he should be arriving soon. Let’s perform our act well.” As his words fell, the entire Gate of Mystery suddenly shook violently, as if a catastrophe had descended. Then, the soul contract light on James’ body flashed, abruptly canceling the contract with him and Emperor Qadeer. At the same time, the temporary control of the Gate of Mystery recovered instantly, creating a perilous situation.

Amidst the myriad energies and countless substances and forces sweeping over, James waved his hand, carrying Harper, Emperor Yevgen, and the crafted Yianni and Morgott into the Nothingness Formation.

In the void outside the formation where James and the others had just been, a trace of Nothingness Dead Energy flickered, and Emperor Qadeer appeared.

With one hand behind his back, he looked towards the Nothingness Formation and revealed a sinister smile. “James Caden, our appointed time has arrived.

It’s time for you to give a response.”

Hearing this, James smiled indifferently. ‘You are indeed impatient.”

“I heard you were injured by the second hidden emperor, so I’m just concerned about you,” Emperor Qadeer chuckled. “How come you’re not even daring to come out of the Nothingness Formation now?”

James remained silent, causing a moment of silence on the scene.

With a laugh, Emperor Qadeer waved his hand and shouted, “Rest assured, I am a man of principle! I won’t take advantage of your weakness.

Moreover, we still need to cooperate to reclaim the Haleth Realm for all living beings!”

No response came from James.

“James,” Emperor Qadeer took a deep breath. “Between US, there is favor, justice, affection, and friendship. Even if there are some misunderstandings, they are insignificant.

‘You can come out with peace of mind. I’ll never harm you, let alone embarrass you. otherwise, the moment I regain control of the Gate of Mystery, you will be completely sealed here.”

James remained silent.

After waiting for a while, Emperor Qadeer frowned. "James Caden, are you trying to play dumb? I've given you time to consider. At this moment, you can't hide anymore. I control the entire Gate of Mystery. Even with the Nothingness Formation protecting you, you can't leave here without my consent."

Watching Emperor Qadeer transition from giving orders to offering kind advice to suddenly becoming angry, James and Harper were nearly breathless from laughter. They wondered how many faces this old guy had, and which one was the real him. He changed so much. It was hard to keep track.

After laughing, Harper suddenly grabbed James and shouted at the formation, "Emperor Qadeer, you frightened us! We're scared. How can we talk?"

At this remark, the enraged Emperor Qadeer narrowed his eyes once again.

"Harper, I kindly let you out, not to be mischievous. Help me persuade James.

We must consider the bigger picture.

"After all, he is the lord of all living beings in the myriad realms. Surely, even his followers shouldn't be neglected?" Upon hearing this, James within the formation smiled calmly. "He seems to have forgotten how he was beaten last time. Now he's acting all high and mighty again."

Harper asked maliciously, "Shall we give him another beating?"

"No need for that trouble," James looked towards the Nothingness Formation outside. Then, he suddenly shot out two beams of black and white light from his hands, instantly transforming into two black and white dragons, charging directly at Emperor Qadeer outside the formation.