

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7116-James' main self of Path transformed into a ball of purplish-gold sword light.

He sliced through the space underneath the Nothingness Formation and entered the Gate of Delmuna.

There were sounds of fire crackling as the Nothingness Formation went up in flames.

At some point, the formation exploded. Millions of shattered glass from the empty bottles that once held the Chaos Absinthe were sent flying away.

A few minutes later, as if nothing had happened, it was peaceful again inside the vast Gate of Mystery.

With Xanthakos' help, James and the others arrived somewhere near the Qadeer Temple in the Forty-Ninth Heaven.

"How long has it been since I last felt natural light on my skin?" Harper mused as she gazed at the Qadeer Temple, which floated in mid-air.

Xanthakos beamed at her. "Harper and Yianni, you are both living beings who have succeeded in becoming skilled, exceptional cultivators.

"I hope you won't blame me for what I did in the past. To be honest, it was too rash of you guys to try and revolt against Zymurgy's laws while attempting to help the living beings. It wouldn't work.

"If I hadn't stopped you guys before the Alcide beings did, you two probably wouldn't still be here today. Instead, you would have perished permanently back then."

Harper scoffed. "Should I give you a peck on the cheeks to thank you for not killing me at the time, then?"

Xanthakos chuckled and turned his eyes to James.

"James, I'll introduce you to the other divine beings on our team. I'm sure you'll win them over instantly with your charisma."

James shook his head adamantly. "I need to see my wife first."

Xanthakos furrowed his brows. "Uh... She happened to have left for the Wyrmscale Source not too long ago.

"If you send her a voice transmission now, she'll be able to get back here very soon."

James had a curious look in his eyes. "The Wyrmscale Source... What kind of place is the Wyrmscale Source?"

Xanthakos paused thoughtfully. 'To put it simply, it is the place of origin for all of Haleth Realm's beasts and plants.

"It is an unusual place. The Wyrmscale Source does not fall under the Five Path Emperors' jurisdiction. It was also once considered a place on the same level as the Waitara Path.

"Its original ruler was Emperor Yeresen, the only Nothingness God the Haleth Realm had.

"Eventually, Emperor Yeresen went into seclusion for his training and meditation. Before he did, he handed over his duties to his only disciple, the Divine Marius."

James nodded. "Would it sound suspicious if I said that I would like to visit the Wyrmscale Source?"

Xanthakos' eyes widened. Then, he smiled awkwardly. "We are in the midst of a sensitive time, James. Also, the Forty-Ninth Heaven is different from other places in the sense that-

"With the powers I have, do you think there's anything that can pose a threat to me now?" James interrupted.

Xanthakos chuckled dryly. "I'm sure nothing and no one can harm you with how powerful you are now. What concerns me are Lord Goyo and the Alcide beings..."

"Oh, I know!" Harper looked at James and blurted, 'This old man is worried you'll betray him! He's afraid you'll choose to work with Lord Goyo to bring him down instead."

Then, she and James turned their gazes and peered at Xanthakos through narrowed eyes.

Xanthakos gave an awkward laugh. "Ha! I'm not that narrow-minded! It's just..."

"I won't go." James said flatly, "You should send someone to fetch my wife, then."

When he finished, James walked over silently to a huge boulder and sat on it with his legs crossed.

Xanthakos opened his mouth but could not pick the right words to say.

Harper nudged his arm with her elbow. "Believe me, he's way more sensitive than you. You need to think of a way to put him in a better mood.

Otherwise, it's your loss if he decides not to help you instead."

Inwardly, Xanthakos was extremely annoyed, still, he managed to hide those emotions and keep a helpless look on his face.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7117-Thea had just reached a shiny pavilion found at the Wyrmscale Source's entrance when she ran into someone.

It was Taichu, one of the five Xyloria gods. Thea could guess why Taichu was here. However, she did not mention anything about it since Taichu had not brought up the matter herself.

After savoring the Sremdoa Tea prepared by Taichu, Thea calmly stood up. "Ms.

Taichu, why don't we enjoy your tea inside the Wyrmscale Source instead?"

"I don't think that's a good idea." Taichu sighed and got up as well. "The Divine Marius and I are not on good terms." Thea smiled softly. "As a Xyloria god, you're afraid of him?" "It's not that I'm afraid of him." Taichu shook her head. "The Divine Marius prefers quiet and solitude. He also needs to maintain impartiality during critical times like now."

Upon hearing her response, Thea shrugged and gave a slight nod. "Alright. I'll take my leave first, then. I have a few errands to take care of."

As Thea walked away, Taichu said, "You choosing to work with Xanthakos is suicidal. In addition, you'll bring your husband down along with you."

Those words halted Thea in her tracks. She turned around. "What do you mean by that, Ms. Taichu?"

"Xanthakos is a liar and a hypocrite." Taichu continued expressionlessly, "You won't gain any benefit from working with him. I hope you two will reconsider it." Thea beamed. "You finally said what you came here to tell me, Ms. Taichu."

Taichu let out another sigh. "I witnessed the fierce battle that broke out in the Fortieth Heaven back then. I also recall the horrible things Yehria has put you through time and time again.

“What has Xanthakos offered to make you give up on taking vengeance and decide to help him instead?”

Thea pressed her lips together and treaded slowly toward Taichu. “I see! Ms.

Taichu is here today to persuade me to change my mind.”

“Frankly, I shouldn’t be doing this.” Taichu gazed at Thea. “You’re an Alcide being, which makes you inherently different from the living beings...” Thea’s expression hardened. “Ms. Taichu, my husband is the lord of all living beings. If you’re going to compare the Alcide beings and living beings this way, it’s better for US to be enemies instead.”

Taichu heaved a deep breath. She knew how much the Yin governor and James cared about each other. They were practically inseparable after everything they had been through.

Taichu regretted a little for making those earlier remarks hastily.

She sat in her seat. “Almost everyone knows how I feel about the living beings.

However, this isn’t about the conflict between the Alcide beings and living beings. What’s happening now is a war between factions.”

Taichu’s gaze fell on Thea. “Xanthakos claims to be fighting for the right to reign over the Haleth Realm for the sake of all living beings. However, he actually has a personal agenda.

“Once he seizes the Wuia Palace and the Path Designation Bead, he’ll show his true colors and most likely has the living beings grovel at his feet.

‘You knew very well that Lord Goyo had nothing to do with the many unfair treatment and biased laws the living beings were subjected to.

“It was Xanthakos who came up with those things to gain the Waitara Path’s favor. Also, if it weren’t for the fact that Yehria was Xanthakos’ illegitimate daughter, Wesley could have punished her early on with the authority of the Law of Paths.

“She would not have been able to torment you the way she did by using the power and authority a mere Tai Chi had.”

Thea fell silent.

After quite a while, she asked, “What is it that you want me to do?”

Taichu slowly closed her eyes. "I've always tried not to interfere with the Haleth Realm's affairs, but now..."

"Don't act like you're troubled." Thea shook her head. "Just tell me what you want. I know Lord Goyo sent you here."

Taichu's eyes flew open. "I'll get straight to the point, then. Lord Goyo announced during the gathering that Alcide beings should step down and let living beings manage the Haleth Realm.

"As the existing sovereign god, he did not want to appear as though he was doing it because he had surrendered to external forces and threats.

"Instead, Lord Goyo wants to preserve his dignity as he steps down. He wants to make sure that we retain the Waitara Path's teachings and laws.

"In other words, the Alcide beings and all of the Waitara Path's followers will work together to defeat Xanthakos and his men. They must and they will win the battle."

Taichu met Thea's gaze. "Lord Goyo wanted me to pass on this message. If you and your husband are willing to help US in exterminating Xanthakos, Lord Goyo, as a representative of the Alcide beings, will make your husband the next governor of the Haleth Realm once all threats have been eliminated.

"James is a Chosen One, which makes him fully qualified to be the next Supreme Path.

"Lord Goyo said that he would rather abolish the position of the Supreme Path than let Xanthakos have it. The position should be held by someone like James instead." Thea picked up her cup and took a sip of tea.

Lord Goyo's side was willing to offer up the Supreme Path's position. It showed the level of determination and concern they had about the upcoming battle.

It also meant that these high and mighty divine beings sensed a real, imminent threat from the rise of the living beings.

However, Lord Goyo was a follower of the Waitara Path. If the Waitara Path's Soremsia were to make a comeback, it would bring about the Leere Tribulation.

Choosing this path would lead to another possibly catastrophic outcome as well.

Thea directed her gaze to Taichu. "Ms. Taichu, are you helping Lord Goyo or the Waitara Path?"

Taichu was momentarily stunned. She was one of the two gods with the higher position out of the five Xyloria gods. Naturally, she was aware of the Leere Tribulation.

“Why bother saying all this to her? Just kick her out of here.” A deep voice ringing with annoyance reverberated through the air.

Taichu shot to her feet and looked in the direction of the Wyrmscale Source, where the sound came from.

Meanwhile, Thea sighed and shook her head.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7118-A gigantic, colorful light orb came out of the Wyrmscale Source’s entrance just then.

The light orb sent four beams of powerful light attack in Taichu’s direction.

Boom!

Taichu had shot out of the pavilion. Instead of backing away, she dodged the light beams and moved closer to the gigantic light orb. She levitated in mid-air and put up a light shield around her.

“Damn it!” As the voice cursed from inside the light orb, the four light beams coming out of the structure were instantly transformed into four huge hands.

Those four hands positioned themselves to surround Taichu and pressed against her light shield forcefully. “Marius, you brute!”

Taichu released four purplish-gold light beams from her body almost instantaneously to stop the hands from crushing her.

The energies emanated from Taichu’s light beams obliterated everything found even thousands of light years away.

For a moment, Taichu and the gigantic light orb remained in the same spots, still trying to overpower the other person. However, none of them seemed to have a way of beating their opponent.

Thea was still sipping on her cup of tea when she heard Yiulia’s voice. “Let me out! It’ll only make things worse if you let them continue fighting each other. We won’t benefit from this.”

Thea looked at the cup in her hand. “Oh, are you on Lord Goyo’s side too?”

“Aren’t... Aren’t I on your side now?” Yiulia snapped, “Unlike me, Taichu doesn’t share any form of relationship with your group of people. If you make her feel cornered, she may see US as her enemy instead!

“Don’t forget that she has over ten billion followers. They can make a formidable opponent.”

Thea yelped and put down her cup. She got to her feet. “Ms. Taichu and Mr.

Marius, we shouldn’t be fighting like this! We’re all friends, aren’t we?” The person inside the light orb and Taichu shouted almost simultaneously upon hearing her words. “Shut up! I’m not friends with that thing!”

Thea flinched. She transmitted her voice to Yiulia. “See. They won’t listen to me.”

“Quit fooling around, Yin governor!” Yiulia yelled at her. “Let me out! I’m the only person who can resolve the conflict and misunderstanding between them.”

“Well...” Thea lifted her hand and released Yiulia into the outside world.

Yiulia shot up into the air instantly. “Divine Marius! Taichu! I have your knot of love!”

The light orb and Taichu froze as soon as they heard that. Yiulia produced two puppets made of jade. Each puppet had a red thread tied around its body. “You two are a couple according to the Nothingness Daoism. Are you going to defy your destiny?”

Marius, who was inside the gigantic light orb, and Taichu stopped attacking each other simultaneously.

Instead, both of them charged toward Yiulia.

On the other hand, Yiulia put the two jade puppets together. In an instant, the red threads tied around the two puppets appeared to fuse.

“No!” Taichu screamed.

“Don’t!” Marius bellowed.

Just as the two of them reached Yiulia, the two puppets had fused and emanated a blinding light. Both Marius and Taichu were basked in the light.

Meanwhile, Yiulia teleported away and reappeared next to Thea.

From outside, they could see the shadows of two human forms struggling helplessly against countless fiery red threads. The threads went around those two forms to tie them together tightly.

Taichu’s irate voice came from that direction just then.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7119-“Get away from me! Who on earth would want to be connected to this brute spiritually? I am a Xanadu Nothingness God!”

Marius scoffed, “I’m the one who should be saying that. Who on earth would want an ignorant wench like you as their partner? Well, I don’t.”

Taichu shouted, “Yiulia, you evil wench! Cut off the knot this instant! We are a terrible match! I don’t want this!”

“Yiulia, I’ve helped you once. Now’s your chance to return the favor,”

Marius growled, “Stop this and you won’t owe me anything anymore!”

Thea and Yiulia stared with rounded eyes at the fiery red threads that went around the pair nonstop.

Thea turned her eyes to Yiulia a brief moment later. “Are you trying to force them into becoming a couple?”

“This isn’t my doing.” Yiulia shook her head.

“They always fight whenever they see each other. It’s gone on for many eras. The knot came about from all that fighting.”

Thea narrowed her eyes and scrutinized Yiulia’s face.

“You’re in charge of the Gate of Creation, right? Why are you suddenly doing a matchmaker’s work?” With an innocent look on her face, Yiulia shrugged. “Their knot was somehow created in the Gate of Mystery. I have no idea how it happened either.”

“Interesting.” Thea crossed her arms and grinned mischievously, “If Mr. Marius and Ms. Taichu are dating, my husband will be able to obtain the Xyloria Taichu Pearl. He’ll be one step closer to completing the Five Spirits Integration.”

Yiulia’s brows twitched.

“What? Why are you looking at me like that?” Thea asked.

“You’re constantly thinking of how to please him.” Yiulia said teasingly, “No wonder he’s head over heels for you.”

“Oho!” Thea’s grin broadened. “You make it sound as though I’m lower than those who offered themselves to James but were rejected.”

Yiulia snapped, “Why you...”

"I know. I know." Thea put her arm around Yiulia's shoulders. "Let's work together and do our best."

"Once everything is over, you and I should just live in seclusion and forget about men."

Yiulia was rendered speechless by her remarks.

Meanwhile, the red threads had wrapped around Marius and Taichu so tightly that those two could not even move a single muscle.

Still, the pair bickered incessantly. At some point, the bright light surrounding them disappeared. The red threads stuck to their bodies seemed to fuse into their skin and fade away.

Then, two balls of beautiful, bright red light exploded above Marius and Taichu, as if declaring and congratulating the union between those two.

However, Marius and Taichu looked like they were about to fight again as soon as they could move.

Thea and Yiulia swiftly flew toward the pair. One of them pulled Marius away by his arm while the other held Taichu back.

"Even if our souls have fused and the union is unbreakable, I will never admit that you're my partner!" Taichu glared at Marius and spat angrily.

"Hah!" Marius countered, "You think I would want a cloud of gas that could be blown away at any second as my partner? What a joke!"

Taichu fumed, "Why you..."

"Alright, that's enough." Thea cut them off. She said smilingly, "We are all friends now. So, let's head inside the Wyrmscale Source first."

"The thing is, James, whom you two are so concerned about, is putting on his best act and executing his plan at the Qadeer Temple right now."

The pair stopped yelling at each other and asked almost simultaneously, "What do you mean by executing his plan?"

Thea sighed wearily. She followed James' request and shared his entire plan with Marius and Taichu.

After listening to Thea's explanation, those two rushed toward the Wyrmscale Source right away.

They knew very well what James was trying to achieve through his plan. It was not the time for them to bicker anymore.

Thea and Yiulia exchanged a glance. Then, the two of them quickly followed behind the couple.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7120-After an arduous effort, Xanthakos finally managed to persuade James to see some of the Qadeer Sect's members he wanted James to meet.

James had already seen Quentyn and Quintus, the two hidden emperors, before.

Still, he gave them a friendly greeting and tried his best to act as though he was meeting the two for the first time.

James was introduced to quite a few people after that.

However, he could only remember the gods of the Four Seasons since they were four beautiful goddesses who looked identical.

Apart from them, those who stood out to James were the Fourfold Emperors and the five Jadron Holiness, whose powers were pretty much on par with that of the two hidden emperors.

These men were high-ranking members of the Qadeer Sect. All of them were Daeclon Mahayana Rank cultivators with millions of entrapochs worth of cultivation.

James could not help feeling amazed by the number of exceptional cultivators they had in the Forty-Ninth Heaven. Any one of these men could head to any lower levels in Zymurgy and overpower everyone found there.

However, what James really wanted to know was Xanthakos' strategy in attacking Lord Goyo and his men.

According to these guys, the Forty-Ninth Heaven was formed from nine Daonus Realms.

The Wuia Daonus Realm found at the center of the Forty-Ninth Heaven was where their leader had set up base.

Xanthakos' plan was to seize the Wuia Palace, the most important location in the Wuia Daonus Realm, and take the Path Designation Bead.

By doing that, he would be able to gain the right to govern all realms.

However, the Wuia Palace was not found at a fixed location. Similar to the previous Hokuwn, the Wuia Palace was a dangerous, ever-changing structure.

The Five Path Cauldrons owned by the Five Path Emperors made up the key required to enter the Wuia Palace.

Without the cauldrons, one would never be able to find the Wuia Palace even if they searched the entire Wuia Daonus Realm.

Even if they did, it was almost impossible for anyone to enter the palace as it was surrounded by an eight-trigram-shaped Wuia Sea.

Countless seals and formations that even the supreme beings were terrified of could be found inside the Wuia Sea.

The sea also contained black holes, vicious winds, and Wuia Illusions that could devour and obliterate almost anything.

Furthermore, all cultivation, signature skills, tools, or talismans would lose effect as soon as one entered the Wuia Sea.

Even a superior cultivator like Xanthakos might not be able to survive in a place like that.

One needed to gather the Five Path Cauldrons, the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword and in Lord Goyo's possession, and the Xyloria Pearls belonging to Taichu and Taiyi.

With all those items, they could then access the Worrud Bridge and enter the Wuia Palace safely.

After the Waitara Path's passing, the Five Path Emperors, Taichu, and Taiyi worked together to visit the Wuia Palace once.

They made the trip there to check who the five Chosen Ones were.

Currently, some of the Path Emperors had decided to take the opposing side.

Taichu and Taiyi had not made their stance clear either.

It was a difficult mission for them to locate the Wuia Palace under these circumstances. However, judging from Xanthakos' sharings, James got the impression that Xanthakos already had information on the Wuia Palace's location.

What they needed to do now was to battle Lord Goyo's men, retrieve the remaining Path Cauldrons, and seize the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword.

Then, they would be set for their next step. As for Taichu, Xanthakos had already considered her to be on Lord Goyo's team. While Taiyi had not made an appearance so far, the Xyloria god seemed to have given Xanthakos his support.

Xanthakos also explained how each Path Emperor had control over one Daonus Realm while he had two. Taiyi and Taichu each governed a Daonus Realm as well.

The remaining realm out of the Nine Daonus Realms was the Wyrmscale Source.

Thea was the current lord of the Wyrmscale Source.

Also, several emperors and a majority of the members who used to serve Emperor Stavros, Emperor Cosimeon, and Emperor Zdravko had decided to join Xanthakos' team.

As of now, Xanthakos planned to conquer the Daonus Realms owned by Emperor Stavros, Emperor Cosimeon, and Emperor Zdravko first.

Then, he would have enough manpower to attack the Daonus Realm where Lord Goyo and Taichu were based.

Xanthakos looked at the Eight Trigram Formation before him and asked, “

James, you're one of the wisest men I know. Do you have any suggestions for us?”

James smiled faintly. “Is this a rough representation of the Forty-Ninth Heaven's geography?” “Yes.” Xanthakos nodded. “The red areas you can see in the top section are areas under our control.”

James replied, “Oh. So, you're saying we should seize control of the Daonus Realms belonging to those three Path Emperors first? Then we'll attack the realm where Taichu and Lord Goyo are?”
