

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7191-Goyo spat out another mouthful of blood. Before he could defend himself, his left hand was severed.

Just as he was about to speak, a purple-gold light flashed behind him. As soon as James materialized from the light, he delivered a powerful elbow strike.

Goyo plummeted from the sky, but James did not stop his attacks. Just like a puppet, he was battered by the successive attacks and rendered completely unable to mount any defense.

James could have ended Goyo's life with a single strike, but instead, he seemed to be deliberately toying with his opponent, as if testing new techniques.

The battle stretched across eons. Goyo endured blow after blow, his limbs shattered and meridians destroyed. He gasped for breath and spat blood until he finally collapsed into the void.

James appeared beside Goyo's right side with a flash. He picked up the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword and ceased his relentless assaults.

"The Upper Three Swords," James mused, twirling the sword in his hand. "If I combined with my Lower Six Swords, would their strength be amplified?"

"Could I slay gods and demons alike with ease? Alcide Beings would be but fodder for my sword."

Goyo gasped desperately.

"No, no! You can't treat US, Alcide Beings, like this!"

"You've used such dirty tactics to win! This is not a righteous path! It's wicked!"

James responded smilingly, "You've just lost my respect."

Goyo frowned, attempting to rise from the void, only to find his powers drained and suppressed, leaving him unable to support his weight.

He was the mightiest being of the Greater Realms. Yet, he lay defeated by a mortal. The different realms would be in shock if the news were to spread.

James said coldly, "Have you ever heard of Yianni?"

“Yianni.” Goyo’s eyes widened.

James said smilingly, “He’s my master. The Supernatural Powers I used were the Dawnblaze Form and Terrastride Step! I also utilized the Zenthur Anonymous Rank.”

Goyo looked at the battered James, who was also covered in blood and chuckled weakly, “Seems like you’re no better off. You can barely stand yourself, can you?”

James shrugged, turning to face Goyo with a calm expression. “I admit, if you were to unleash the Endless Exploration, I might not be able to withstand.”

“Unfortunately for you, I possess not only the Dawnblaze Form and Terrastride Step but also the Chaos Yin-Yang Eyes, which can foresee your every move.”

Goyo scoffed, “Did Yianni truly impart all this to you?”

James confirmed with a smile, “Yes. I was kind enough to give you an option, but you insisted on fighting me in close combat. Do you regret it now?”

“If I were to use the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword and unleash my full cultivation, you would never surpass me,” Goyo said.

James replied lightly, “Possibly. However, I’ve also only used half of my strength.”

At his words, Goyo spat out another mouthful of blood, nearly toppling headfirst from the void. 1

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7192-After a moment, Goyo shook his head in disbelief.

“No, it’s impossible for you to be so strong. You’re just a mortal being. There’s no way your strength could improve as rapidly as our Alcide beings.

“Even Xanthakos, the first mortal to ascend to Zymurgy, can’t defeat me with only half of his strength!”

Listening to Goyo’s desperate and almost hysterical rant, James shook his head with a hint of pity.

Despite being the leader of the Alcide beings, Goyo’s foresight, strategy, and knowledge were inferior to Xanthakos, a mortal who had exploited loopholes to ascend and become a leader of the Five Path Emperors.

Just then, a clear, feminine voice suddenly came from nearby. “Is your battle over, Honey?”

James turned around abruptly. When he saw the beautiful figure, joy immediately flooded his face as he rushed toward her.

“You’re awake, Darling!” James exclaimed excitedly, grasping the shoulders of the beautiful figure.

Thea smiled and replied, ‘This turned out to be a blessing in disguise. Not only did I awaken, but my injuries are healed, and it seems I have attained the Zenthur Anonymous Rank.’”

James burst into laughter, lifting Thea off her feet and twirling her thousands of times in the void.

Meanwhile, Goyo, lying on his back in the void, observed these scenes with a complex expression.

Where was the fierce and merciless James from moments ago? Facing Thea, he seemed transformed into a playful and affectionate lover. The stark contrast left Goyo bewildered.

Was this still the Chosen One who had battled him fiercely just moments ago?

How could these two sides of him be the same person?

Thea playfully tapped James’s forehead. “Alright, enough. We have company.

Mind your manners.”

James nodded obediently, then turned to look at Goyo. “Do you know her?”

Goyo murmured, ‘The Yin governor. She’s one of the last Alcide beings left. Is she also going to fall victim to your blade?’”

Upon hearing Goyo’s words, James and Thea exchanged glances before bursting into laughter simultaneously.

Goyo said tremblingly, “What? Aren’t you sworn enemies of Alcide beings?”

“From now on, you will address her with respect. If you slip up, I’ll cut a piece of your flesh off,” said James.

Goyo bristled with humiliation and rage at the indignity.

However, Thea playfully punched James' arm and then turned to Goyo with a gentle expression. "Don't mind him, Goyo. You saved my life before."

Goyo was taken aback, then sighed deeply. "So you'll also spare my life as a token of gratitude?"

Thea smiled gently and replied, "James never intended to kill you.

Otherwise, you would've already been reduced to Anonymous Gas."

Goyo sighed and uttered defeatedly, "You're also an Alcide being. You wouldn't deceive me, right?"

Thea nodded gently in response.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7193-Goyo asked doubtfully, "Did James really only use half of his strength to defeat me"

"Yes," Thea affirmed.

Struggling to sit up in his weakened state, Goyo found himself unable to move his body at all. In desperation, his soul swiftly departed from his physical body and sped towards James with alarming speed.

"Wow, the old man had a backup plan," James remarked, surprised by Goyo's tactic.

Goyo roared, "How could it only be half of your strength? It had to be all your strength!"

James chuckled, wrapped his arms around Thea's waist, and said, "This old man is persistent. You should talk to him, Honey."

Thea pinched James' back lightly and said, "Don't be disrespectful to him. He's not like Xanthakos."

She proceeded to explain James' main self of Path and Zenthur Anonymous Rank to Goyo.

Goyo's soul stood stunned for a long while, motionless as if struck to the core.

After some time, Goyo staggered back several steps and slumped to the ground. It seemed he could not immediately accept the truth. In his understanding, even the highest attainment among Alcide beings only reached the Daeclon Mahayana.

Amongst those who reached the Daeclon Mahayana, strength was determined by practice, mastery of Supernatural Powers, and combat experience. The concept of the main self of Path and Zenthur Anonymous Rank was entirely foreign to him.

Even as the strongest of the Greater Realms, Goyo was only capable of merging clones and his Primordial Spirits into 81 forms. He had never encountered the notion of two main bodies before.

Observing Goyo's stunned reaction, James and Thea let him process without interruption. After all, the truth was not easy to digest.

Meanwhile, atop a mountain in the Xanadu Realm enveloped in black and white energy, three enigmatic figures, whose faces obscured by swirling gas, observed the events within the Gate of Anonymous.

A man with red hair asked, "Isn't he improving too rapidly?"

Another white-haired old man sighed and said, "It's insane. In our Nothingness Daoism, the Zenthur Rank doesn't exist. He is defying our Daoisms."

The beautiful woman seated among them raised her head slowly and said,

Why must everything in the Haleth Realm adhere to our Daoisms? Can they not innovate?"

The red-haired man said solemnly, "Our Daoism treasures three virtues, kindness, frugality, and humility. If they break free from our Nine Daoisms and assert independence, what then what offense did the Waitara Path commit?"

The white-haired old man said, "But that's not the crux. The issue is that the Haleth Realm must unify fully before the Xyrisia Gate opens. Otherwise, how will it resist the Shadowborn?" "The gap between US and the Xyloria Shadowborn is vast already. And now, at such a critical juncture..." began the red-haired man.

"Enough," Frona declared firmly. "He is my chosen master, and certain matters are not for your deliberation or concern. I trust he can uphold our Daoism. Even if the Five Shadowborns strike together, he can handle it." With that final statement, the beautiful woman waved her hand, and the projection of the Gate of Anonymous vanished abruptly.

In the next instant, she too dissolved into a swirling ball of white energy and vanished.

The red-haired man sighed heavily. "Frona is exceedingly biased towards this boy, given her position as leader of the Nine Creation Gods. We may need to intervene."

"Let's see how it goes first." The white-haired old man shook his head.

The next moment, they disappeared from the spot.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7194-Inside the Gate of Anonymous, Goyo's soul remained stagnant for a long time.

Suddenly, he sighed and said, "Xalvador was right. If we could provide enough time and resources for creatures to develop naturally, the Haleth Realm wouldn't need to rely on Alcide beings to guide them."

"What are the Five Path Emperors, supreme beings and deities? We created them because of our self-righteousness and self-deception.

"Our original intention was to differentiate between right and wrong, good and evil, to guide creatures and benefit the Greater Realms. Yet, it has become a burden weighing upon the heads of these living beings and a shackle binding them.

"It would have been fine if we were simply unappreciated, but instead, we became hated by them, making them foster such resentment."

Goyo closed his eyes once more.

"Emperor Stavros was also on point. His words to the supreme beings in my temple were harsh but accurate.

"Us, Alcide beings are the true calamity of the Greater Realms and an obstruction to them. The realms should be returned to them. They should be the ones to determine their own fates.

Goyo opened his eyes and looked directly at James. "However, if we relinquish control over the Greater Realms, are you confident in managing and dealing with everything that is to come?"

James frowned slightly but chose to remain silent.

Thea interjected, "Lord Goyo, are you concerned that my husband cannot defeat Xanthakos, or are you worried that Xanthakos will seize everything?"

Goyo took a deep breath before responding with a laugh, "You should direct these questions at your husband. After all, he boldly declared to handle the Alcide beings first before dealing with Xanthakos."

Thea turned to James and declared, "With my husband's current strength, killing him should not be a problem."

Goyo lifted his head and burst into laughter, filled with scorn and derision.

Thea was about to respond but was silenced by James' gesture.

After a brief pause, Goyo said solemnly, "Do you truly understand Xanthakos?

Do you comprehend the kind of scourge he represents? Do you know the depths of his deceit and cruelty?" Thea and James exchanged glances, their silence profound.

"Think about it. I am the leader of the Five Path Emperors, with prestige and strength only inferior to Waitara Path and Taiyi. Yet, I fell prey to his schemes and machinations. What you see isn't everything."

Thea and James remained silent.

Goyo said gravely, "We've been defeated. However, it's not time to be celebrating, believing this victory was through your efforts alone. Xanthakos' plotting and schemes contributed greatly to this outcome. Had I not been infected by his Nothingness Dead Energy, I wouldn't have been so easily defeated."

Thea glanced at James again, but James extended his hand suddenly, drawing Goyo's physical body from the void toward him.

Upon careful examination, James was stunned to discover that Goyo had been affected by Xanthakos's Void Death energy. His powers were suppressed and he could not utilize them to their fullest potential. At most, he could only fight with 30% of his real strength.

James realized he might not have been victorious if he were to have faced Goyo in his prime.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7195-Unless James summoned his main self of Path from the Gate of Mystery is taken out, it would be impossible for him to defeat Goyo in his best state.

James began to question whether Xanthakos was putting on a show when he was trapped by his dragons in the Gate of Mystery.

'Even with the strength of Goyo, he could not resist the Nothingness Dead Energy. How much strength does Xanthakos have concealed? What was his plan to seize the Wuia Palace and the Path Designation Bead?

it seems Goyo is the only one who can answer my questions. After all, he knows Xanthakos the best.' James grabbed Goyo's body, raised his hand, and slapped his forehead. Vast Annonymous Gas penetrated his limbs and bones and immediately forced out the Nothingness Dead Energy in his body.

At the same time, it also made Goyo's physical body completely healed.

As he watched this scene, Goyo's Primordial spirit showed doubt. "James, what are you doing..."

James struck the body, sending it flying until it merged with Goyo's Primordial Spirit.

A flash of purple-gold light appeared, and the recovered Goyo looked at him in disbelief.

Thea, who was standing by, immediately understood what had happened. She looked at Goyo and said smilingly, "Congratulations on your rebirth."

Goyo raised his head and asked, "Why? Why do this?" James replied, "I needed a really strong opponent to fight. As for why I humiliated you, it was to shatter your arrogance as an Alcide being and to express an attitude on behalf of the Greater Realms' living beings.

"From now on, the Greater Realms' living beings are no longer ants whose fates can be controlled by Alcide beings.

James looked directly at the shocked Goyo. "As for why I let you go, there are two reasons. First, you were infected by Nothingness Dead Energy and are no longer at your peak strength. Hence, I will give you another chance.

"Also, I need you to assemble your forces and rectify them. Then, go retake the Goyoan Temple. After that, just wait for me to come pick a fight with you."

At this point, James waved his hand and threw Maria and the Supreme War Saint before Goyo. "I brought your confidants. If you use the information you have well, you might be able to outsmart Xanthakos."

After listening to James, Goyo's lips twitch in disbelief. He wondered whether James was naive, or being generous. The possibility of James trying to use kindness to win the Alcide beings over also crossed his mind.

However, he dismissed the thoughts. James was acting out of arrogance and was mocking them. It was his way of showing them that he did not need their support and that nobody stood a chance against them. He declared that he could trample the dignity of Alcide beings and supreme beings under his feet.

James wanted them to use his strength to prove they were beneath him and force them to submit to him.

The titles of the Chosen One and Supreme Path were nothing to him. He did not care for these superficial things because his strength was absolute.

He was the ruler of the Greater Realms, the one that would determine the Greater Realms' fate.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7196-James' behavior was so arrogant that it struck fear into the very fabric of the heavens and all worlds.

Upon grasping the deeper implications of James' words, Goyo trembled and pointed an accusatory finger at him.

"You... you're so audacious! Do you genuinely intend to defy the natural order and obliterate everything created by the Waitara Path?"

James, unfazed, gently wrapped his arm around Thea's waist and smiled serenely at Goyo. This simple gesture conveyed his intentions.

"You... you are simply..." Goyo stuttered, his entire body shaking as he staggered back several steps. "Is there no room for negotiation?"

James remained silent, merely making a gesture that invited Goyo to leave.

Goyo suddenly roared, "The Alcide beings have not committed any grave sins.

Must you annihilate and disgrace US to such extents?

"Don't you see? It's not the Alcide beings that oppress the beings of the Greater Realms, but the first batch of your kind that entered Zymurgy!" As he spoke, Goyo clenched his fists and bellowed, "Since the Waitara Path vanished, though I am the leader of the Five Path Emperors, and was permitted to temporarily oversee the affairs of the Greater Realms.

Xanthakos is the real culprit that has been causing trouble.

"Whether it was the various supreme beings, Wesley Shepherd, or Yehria, they serve under Xanthakos!

"We, Alcide beings, have remained in the Forty-Ninth Heaven. We never had conflict or suppressed the Greater Realms' living beings! We're innocent!"

Goyo's last words were a near-hysterical shout. Observing his breakdown, James narrowed his eyes slightly.

Thea sighed and said softly, "Don't you understand, Lord Goyo? The Alcide beings' hatred toward mortals is not in form but in the heart."

Goyo's eyes widened in shock.

Thea stepped forward and asked, "Tell me the truth. Before Xanthakos cultivated Nothingness Dead Energy, you were more than capable of controlling him, right?"

"With the resources and strength you Alcide beings command, with your prestige in the Forty-Ninth Heaven and the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword in your hand, you could have easily crushed Xanthakos and his followers back then.

"But you didn't. It was not out of kindness, or because he curried favor with you.

Instead, you wanted to use him as a scapegoat.

"By letting him stand in the front and oppress the Greater Realms' living beings, you'd be able to achieve your motive without having to do it yourselves. He will take the blame for the misfortune of the Greater Realms.

"Your biggest sin is for pinning the Greater Realms' living beings against each other, while you reap the benefits.

These words struck Goyo like a thunderbolt. He trembled again, collapsing into the void as if his soul had been drained.

James said calmly, "You should know very clearly whether Alcide beings deserve to die. However, to US, this is just only one of your crimes. You should also be held accountable for the Leere Tribulation.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7197-Goyo, who had initially appeared lifeless, suddenly raised his head upon hearing the Leere Tribulation. A terrifying light suddenly shot out from his eyes.

He stood up and asked with a ferocious expression, "How do you know about the Leere Tribulation? Who told you?"

Seeing Goyo's reaction, James and Thea exchanged silent glances.

Goyo shouted, it was Xanthakos, right? He went to such extents to seize the Forty-Ninth Heaven and the Greater Realms, huh? He sure is doing whatever it takes! You'll regret it if you believe his nonsense! You'd walk the wrong path, and perish!"

James raised his eyebrows and smiled without saying a word.

Suddenly, Thea laughed and said, "We only mentioned the Leere Tribulation.

What do you think he said to have such a big reaction?"

Goyo coughed awkwardly.

Thea stared at him and asked, "I have a question, Lord Goyo. Do you have a Soremsia that descended below Zymurgy?"

After a long silence, Goyo gradually calmed down and then sat cross- legged, facing James and Thea. "Is the reason you want to exterminate Alcide beings because of the Leere Tribulation?" he asked.

Thea and James looked at each other, not responding to his question.

Then, they silently sat opposite him. It was finally their chance to get the information they needed the most. They firmly believed Goyo, the Waitara Path's most trusted subordinate, would know of secrets that others did not know of, including everything about Xanthakos.

Goyo sighed, and said, "Did Xanthakos tell you that the Waitara Path's Soremsia will return to Zymurgy after eight hundred and ten thousand entrapochs and enslave the beings of the Greater Realms?"

Thea looked at James, but he did not respond. Turning her focus back to Goyo, she asked, "Is that not true?"

Goyo shouted angrily, "Ridiculous! It's malicious slander, a lie concocted to confuse the public! Do you know why the Waitara Path left? Do you know what he did for the Greater Realms?!"

Seeing that James and Thea were silently paying attention to him, Goyo closed his eyes and said, "Fate, life and death, good and evil, cause and effect, time and space, nature, spirit, creation, covenant, were the main Nine Daoisms, which then gave rise to the Forty-Nine Daoisms. After uniting, the Waitara Path and the Haleth Realm were born."

"It can be said that the Waitara Path is the Haleth Realm and Greater Realms' source." Goyo suddenly opened his eyes. "If you have the opportunity to enter the Wuia Palace, you will see the forty-nine cauldrons where the Forty-Nine Daoisms manifested. It's the origin of our worlds, which is why has such a sacred status.

“After the Haleth Realm formed, the Waitara Path realized the Forty-Nine Daoisms were almost non-existent and not practiced by the living beings.

Hence, he made multiple journeys to the Void World to propose a modification to the Haleth Realm

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7198-Goyo explained, “However, such actions were severely reprimanded by some God of Creations, who thought it went against the natural order and was excessive. Daoism has three principles-compassion, simplicity, and humility.

‘The Waitara Path’s suggestion had violated these three principles.

James and Thea exchanged glances upon hearing this. They were aware of why the Waitara Path had created humans. However, Goyo’s story gave them a new perspective.

Goyo elaborated, ‘The Waitara Path is an entity comparable to the God of Creations. Even though they disagreed with him, he argued relentlessly with reason.

“During the eighty-first Leere Daoism, they had a fierce conflict with them. After that, the Waitara Path sealed the Xyrisia Gate and blocked all passages between the Haleth and Xanadu Realm.

“The Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness could no longer intervene with the Haleth Realm. Henceforth, the Haleth Realm became independent and he was able to make changes.

“He created from nothing, adjusted the Five Evolutions, and formed the Historial Daoism, which was separated from the Forty-nine Daoisms.

“Moreover, the Waitara Path worked with the Four Evolutions to create the first tangible body in the Haleth Realm, which he called human.

With admiration, Goyo added, “From then on, the Haleth Realm regarded humans as the primates and human form as the most respected, guiding all living beings to cultivate.

Upon hearing this, James glanced at Thea. “Did you already exist back then?”

Thea replied, “No. The Alcide beings gradually developed into humans. When the Xyloria created me and the Yang governor, we took on human forms.”

Goyo sighed and took over the conversation again. "Starting from Tai Shi, the rest are gods under the Historial Daoism. By the way, the Great Historial Land is where the first human was born." James frowned and asked, "If humans are respected, why are we suppressed?"

Goyo answered, 'That came later. After the Waitara Path created humans, too many expectations were placed on them and they were given many advantages. However, excessive desires led to chaos, chaos led to evil, and evil led to degeneration, becoming uncontrollable and unpredictable.

"Especially emotions and six derived from humans themselves seriously hindered the pursuit of cultivation. Thus, some branches of humanity became addicted to these desires, giving up the pursuit of truth and eventually becoming what you used to know as normal human beings.

'The reason why humans ended up with a lifespan of no more than a hundred years, experiencing birth, aging, sickness, and death, unable to escape the cause and effect of reincarnation, is not due to suppression, but self- degradation."

Upon hearing this, James fell silent again.

Goyo looked directly at him and suddenly asked, "After hearing what I said about what the Waitara Path did, do you sometimes feel a sense of familiarity?

James raised his head and asked, "Are you referring to the fact that I used the Spirirual Providence to prevent interference from Zymurgy and united the Greater Realms?"

Goyo nodded and said, "Yes. To put it bluntly, the two of you did almost the same thing. The only difference is his opponents were the Gods of Creations, whereas yours are supreme beings and Alcide beings."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7199-James shrugged and said with a smile, "But you still haven't clarified the so -called Leere Tribulation." "I was just about to explain," Goyo replied, looking confidently at Thea and James.

"What you and the Waitara Path have done is quite similar, but the Waitara Path didn't have your luck.

"Because it created the Historial Daoism and created humans, the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness saw it as going against their Daoisms, and ultimately, he was tortured and annihilated by them through the alteration of Daoism."

Goyo looked up with a face full of regret. "When the thirty-six unorthodox sects and seventy-two unorthodox factions caused chaos, the Waitara Path had already foreseen it.

“Then, when Morgott suddenly rose, causing havoc across Zymurgy, slaughtering Xyloria Tai Chi and the Xyloria Law of Paths, it confirmed his suspicions.

“Morgott, originally known as Emperor Kaelisar, was a Historial being, essentially a human. But he is fundamentally different from you, a pure human.”

“How so?” James squinted his eyes.

Goyo answered, “You were reproduced and birthed by another human. Morgott, however, was the last human to be naturally formed in the Great Historial Land.

“In your common parlance, he is a Soremsia, but not even the Waitara Path could determine his main identity.

“One thing is certain. He isn’t a Soremsia belonging to an entity Haleth Realm but from the Xanadu Realm.

These words sent a shiver through James. Reflecting on how Lesia recognized Morgott immediately, acting as if they were old friends, he thought, ‘Is Morgott really a Soremsia belonging to an entity from the Xanadu Realm? Could it be one of the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness?’ In retrospect, it seemed there was much more to the story.

Seeing James deep in thought, Goyo sighed and continued, “Morgott’s havoc across Zymurgy, accompanied by the chaos caused by the thirty-six unorthodox sects and seventy-two unorthodox factions, led the Waitara Path to foresee his impending demise.

“After all, Morgott’s origins were unclear. Despite being a Historial being, he opposed the Waitara Path and spread the message that creating the Historial Daoism was a huge mistake.

“The false accusations significantly diminished the Waitara Path’s prestige.”

Goyo paused and sighed, then continued, “Later events proved the Waitara Path’s premonition correct. When it observed the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness gathering at the Summit of Leere, he knew his end was near.

“So, before his catastrophe descended, he made final arrangements for the Haleth Realm. He chose Five Path Emperors, each managing a Path Gate, restricting Alcide beings from descending to the Greater Realms, paving the way for them to cultivate.

‘Then, he appointed the Five Path Emperors, the Xyloria Taiyi and Taichu, to jointly oversee the Forty-Ninth Heavens and guard the Wuia Palace.

“Below the Forty-Ninth heavens, down to the Forty-First Heaven, he set up the Great Historial Land, the source of paths, to be personally overseen by the Emperor Yarden.

“Below the Forty-First Heaven, the first batch of Historial beings to enter Zymurgy to establish holy temples to accept the elite creatures of the Greater Realms that walk the path of cultivation. The Waitara Path paid special attention to this measure. He chose one of the most outstanding Historial beings, Wesley, and appointed him as the Law of Paths, to oversee and guard Zymurgy.”

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7200-Goyo looked at James and Thea once more.

“As for the Greater Realms, they centered around the Tai Chi world, but the position of Tai Chi remained vacant.

‘This was because the Waitara Path believed that the Tai Chi, who would govern the Tai Chi world, would be the master of all mortals. To be able to guide the mortals in the pursuit of cultivation, the candidate required a god of great virtue and benevolence.”

Goyo pointed at Thea and said, “The Waitara Path initially favored you for this position, but you suddenly disappeared, leaving the position vacant.” James looked at Thea and said, “After you disappeared, Yehria took the opportunity.”

Thea sighed and said, ‘That happened a little later. Goyo is talking about the arrangements made before the Waitara Path perished.

“It’s the same thing, no?” James turned to Goyo and asked, “After everything, did he leave behind a Soremsia?”

Goyo replied calmly, “If by Soremsia you mean a Historial being, then of course.

Remember, the Waitara Path created the first Historial being in the Haleth Realm. This was his own Daoism derivation and would not disappear just because the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness altered their Daoisms.

“Moreover, if you believe that this Historial being will cause the so-called Leere Tribulation, then wouldn’t that be a fortunate thing for supreme beings?”

James had the confirmation he sought.

The Waitara Path’s Soremsia certainly existed, which was the basis of Lesia’s claim about the Leere Tribulation. Though the Waitara Path had been reclaimed by the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness of the void, the first Historial being he created had inherited everything, including this hatred.

According to Goyo's reasoning, even if the Waitara Path's Soremsia returned, he would not target the beings of the Haleth Realm but rather the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness and their associates.

A new dilemma arose. His second body was Lesia, the Soremsia of Frona.

James was curious about what their connection implied.

Moreover, Thea, his wife, had willingly endured eighty-one reincarnations at the hands of Yehria, all to find the Waitara Path's Soremsia. This seemed a direct command from the void's creator gods. What did this connection signify?

Perhaps, as Goyo suggested, the Waitara Path was not wrong. He might really have the intention to benefit the Haleth Realm. Having been harmed by the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness, his enmity was understandable.

'But where do I and Thea stand in all this? Would we become enemies of the Waitara Path's Soremsia, or should we align with him and Haleth Realm's supreme beings against the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness?' thought James.

He did not have an answer yet, as the true definition of the Leere Tribulation remained unclear. For now, increasing his strength and remaining adaptable seemed the best course of action.

Regardless of right or wrong, good or bad, he owed both Thea and Lesia clarity and a truly acceptable answer.

Of course, James never intended to sacrifice his wife or his second body for the so-called Haleth Realm, and the grudges of their ancestors. He would never let anyone else do it either.