

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7201-At that moment, Thea suddenly turned to Goyo and asked, "What about the Path Designation Bead?"

Goyo smiled faintly and began slowly, "After the Waitara Path perished, he left behind three supreme treasures, all of which became the Haleth Realm's foundation.

"The first is the forty-nine cauldrons in the Wuia Palace. Inside lies everything of our Haleth Realm. Whoever obtains it can freely modify the Haleth Realm, including controlling all beings.

"The second is the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword, divided into the Upper Three Swords and the Lower Six Swords. Whoever possesses all of them can slay anyone in the Haleth Realm. No matter how high their cultivation or strength, under the nine swords of the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword, there is no chance of survival, nor any possibility of reincarnation. It's the Haleth Realm's greatest treasure.

With a sigh, Goyo continued, "As for the third, it is the Path Designation Bead.

Originally, it did not exist..."

Thea suddenly interrupted, "It's the Waitara Path's spiritual essence, isn't it?"

Goyo nodded and said, "Yes. His spiritual essence contains the power to control everything in the Haleth Realm. Whoever holds it can rule the Haleth Realm."

Upon hearing this, James and Thea exchanged glances.

Then Thea asked, "These supreme treasures, except for the Wuia DemonSlayer Sword, are all kept in the Wuia Palace, right?" Goyop said helplessly, "Originally, even the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword was also kept together in the Wuia Palace. However, outstanding powerhouses like Chuba, Zemra, Harper, and Yianni, reached the Forty-Ninth Heaven with ease.

Their existence threatened the supreme veins. Hence, the Five Path Emperors, Taiyi and Taichu, opened the Wuia Palace, to deterthem.

"Unfortunately, during the battle with them, a mysterious figure in black joined them. It led to the loss of the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword's Lower Six Swords.

Since then, I've only had the Upper Three Swords."

James had a meaningful look.

He could almost conclude that this mysterious figure in black must have been Xanthakos. After all, he obtained the Lower Six Swords from one of his subordinates.

Considering how powerful Chuba, Zemra, Harper, and Yianni, were back then, they fell into Xanthakos' trap and fought with Goyo, believing they were doing good.

Meanwhile, Xanthakos recruited four powerhouses. His status in the Forty Ninth Heaven grew rapidly, instantly changing the power structure, even threatening the Five Path Emperors and Goyo's power.

James voiced his suspicion.

Goyo nodded and said, "You're right. Xanthakos used the opportunity to gain favor from Taiyi and rose from the bottom ranks to nearly rival my position.

"After that, I rarely intervened in the Greater Realms' affairs and went into seclusion under the guise of wanting some peace. Then, I wandered around as a leisurely deity." Goyo smiled and said, "After Xanthakos secured his position, he pushed his daughter, Yehria, to become the Taichi.

"From then on, the Haleth Realm descended into chaos, rife with power struggles and deceit, marking the onset of suffering for beings across the Greater Realms.

Goyo sighed and said bitterly, "So when you accused US of being the masterminds using the Historial beings as puppets for our goals, it was truly upsetting."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7202-Since assuming control of the affairs across the Greater Realms, Xanthakos favored those who were among the first to enter Zymurgy. Of course, some Alcide beings ingratiated themselves with him, pledging their loyalty.

"But think about it, his influence is already enough to force me to such an extent.

He is also backed by Taiyi, even the other three Path Emperors have no choice but to follow him. So what can we, as Alcide beings, do?"

Listening to Goyo pour out his frustrations, Thea glanced at James and asked, "Does this mean we misjudged the Alcide beings?"

James replied calmly, "Not entirely. Their attitude toward US indeed had scrutiny, perhaps even excessive, but there are underlying reasons.

Ultimately, the cause of it all is Xanthakos.”

Goyo frowned and said, “Exactly. In our eyes, Xanthakos represents all of the Greater Realms’ beings. For his own selfish ambitions, he had brought such devastation to the Haleth Realm and has been actively suppressing our kind.

How can we not be angry?”

James shrugged and stood up.

“You’ve already answered me very clearly. Whether or not it’s true and worthy of my trust, I’ll still have to verify. I still have one more question...”

Goyo smiled and said, “You want to know where the Wuia Palace is, and how to gain entry?”

James raised an eyebrow and said, “I love being straightforward. Since you’re very sensible, let’s not beat around the bush.”

Goyo nodded and said, “I agree. But first, you must help me with something.”

Thea chimed in with a smile, “You need help reclaiming the Goyo Daonus Realm?”

“Not only that,” Goyo chuckled. “James, Cosimeon, Zdravko, Stavros, and Tai Chi, they’re all likely waiting for your command to determine the outcome of the Forty-Ninth, right?”

“That I can’t agree with.” James shook his head.

His words stunned Goyo momentarily. He had expected James to show some trust after hearing so much, but this outcome surprised him.

James asked, “Xanthakos is there right now. If I help you, do you think he wouldn’t be alerted?”

Goyo twitched his cheek at James’ words.

“Are...are you really not going to pick a side?”

James shrugged and said, “I’ve no choice. You’re all cunning foxes whereas my bower is limited. I have to keep my guard up.”

Goyo sighed heavily and then nodded.

“Very well, then. Come with me. At least help me reclaim the Goyoan I Temple, Otherwise, nothing will be able to proceed.”

James had no objections. He waved his hand and immediately retracted the Gate of Anonymous. The next moment, he and Thea disappeared from the valley.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7203-The Jawdat Region exists amidst the expanse of the Forty-Ninth Heaven, a pristine domain dedicated to the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness. It is also revered as the birthplace of the Waitara Path, acknowledged as the Genesis of Paths.

Situated eighty-one billion light-years beyond the surface of the Forty-Ninth Heaven, neither gods, demons, nor even the Xyloria Gods could use their divine powers to reach the place. The only access to the Jawdat Region is through the unpredictable Whirlwind Sentinel, which was a very rare phenomenon.

After one enters the Jawdat Region, regardless of their level of cultivation or strength, they are purified by the boundless energies within. All powers are stripped away, reducing them to their primal state and leaving them devoid of everything they possess.

Thus, the Jawdat Region is known as the first taboo of the Haleth Realm. Even the Taiyi and Taichu would hesitate to venture into its depths.

However, at this moment, on the normally quiet edge of Jawdat Region, three unexpected guests appeared. They stood before a massive and brilliantly gleaming temple, but none dared to take a step beyond.

It was none other than Xanthakos, Quintus, and Quentyn, who had stealthily infiltrated here while the Forty-Ninth Heaven was in turmoil.

Gazing at the majestic and awe-inspiring temple ahead, Quintus sucked in a breath of cold air. 'The Covenant Temple. Is this one of the nine legendary Caeloros Temples?'

Xanthakos said smugly with his hands behind his back. "Naturally. Fate, life and death, good and evil, cause and effect, time and space, nature, spirit, creation, and covenant, are collectively known as the Nine Daoisms. The Nine Caeloros Temples were created after them.

"It's rumored that the Waitara Path had cultivated in each of these temples for eighty-one billion entrapochs before the Haleth Realm formed.

Quintus exclaimed in astonishment, "Amazing! If the Waitara Path still existed, we would have no chance to resist and would forever be oppressed."

Xanthakos said confidently, "It's different not. With no ruler in the Haleth Realm, we must take up the role!"

“Wise as always, Emperor Qadeer! To be able to see the origin of the Haleth Realm in my lifetime, I will have no regrets in death,” Quintus proclaimed, then turned to Quentyn. “Why are you so quiet, Quentyn?”

Xanthakos raised an eyebrow at their exchange.

Quentyn looked at Xanthakos and said, “I don’t have much to say. However, I do have a question.

‘You’ve been beating around the bush this whole journey, Xanthakos. Can you give US a straight answer now?’

Quintus also looked curiously at Qingxu.

After all, ever since they left the Qadeer Temple, Xanthakos had been secretive towards both of them, not informing them of anything, treating him and Quentyn like puppets.

After a moment of contemplation, Xanthakos smiled confidently with his hands behind his back.

‘The answer is right in front of US. We three once swore a blood oath. Today, we shall join forces and rule the Haleth Realm together.’

Quentyn frowned, cursing Xanthakos inwardly for his cunning tactics.

Quintus, on the other hand, looked bewildered. “Emperor, are you saying that once we’re here, we can faule the Haleth Realm? What about the Temple of the Wuia Palace and Path Designation Bead? Are we abandoning them?”

Xanthakos chuckled and said, “What’s the rush? We’ve managed to find the Whirlwind Sentinel quickly and arrive here smoothly. That alone means our plan is already half successful.”

“But how do you know where the how did you know how to indiano.

Also, how were you so sure it will bring US here?”Quentyn Stared intently at Xanthakos.

Quintus looked at Quentyn, then back at Xanthakos, curiously.

Xanthakos chuckled, and said, ‘You’re always so persistent in getting to the bottom of things; Well, let me tell you the truth. We brought three things when we left the Qadeer Temple.’

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7204-Xanthakos stated, "First, I have the Sealstone Pearl, a treasure that my wife, Mirella Windrider, had left behind. It's capable of locking onto any passages.

That's how I accurately pinpointed the Whirlwind Sentinel."

He sighed, looked at Quentyn, and explained, "The second thing we had brought were the three hundred billion female servants. After we entered the Whirlwind Sentinel, their yin bodies helped US determine the exact coordinates.

They played a huge role and proved their worth."

Quentyn's face darkened instantly. "You sacrificed three hundred billion lives just to find the coordinates of the Jawdat Region?

'They were devout followers who worshiped you. Even the weakest among them was at the Yitro Daeclon Rank. Yet, you used them as sacrifices?"

Quintus quickly grabbed the enraged Quentyn to prevent him from exploding.

Meanwhile, Xanthakos sighed regretfully. 'There was no other choice. How else could we fulfill our plan and wrest control of the Haleth Realm from the Alcide beings, to benefit all living beings?"

Quentyn finally erupted in anger, trembling as he pointed at Xanthakos.1 You're insane, Xanthakos! You speak of benefiting the Greater Realms, but all I see is you treating them as pawns to be sacrificed so you can seize control of the Haleth Realm.

"For this goal, you provoked a war in the Forty-Ninth Heaven, causing suffering to countless deities. Now, you sacrifice another three hundred billion lives. You are truly a hypocrite!"

Listening to this furious rebuke, Quintus was terrified, hastily waving his hands at Quentyn, desperately seeking a way to remedy the situation.

Meanwhile, Xanthakos suddenly burst into loud laughter.

"Emperor..." Quintus, his face pale with fright, hurriedly spoke up. "Quentyn has always been straightforward. Please don't..."

Xanthakos smiled coldly as he stared at Quentyn. "You don't need to defend him. I'm well aware that he has always harbored dissatisfaction toward me. He never genuinely respected me, nor wanted to help me.

"He's only here because he has not found a new master to support him. Hence, he can only rely on me for now."

With that, Xanthakos slowly approached the furious Quentyn, a grim smile on his face.

“Originally, out of consideration for our brotherhood, I didn’t want to confront this issue so soon. But since you insisted on going your way and holding onto your views, it’s time for US to settle our accounts.”

At these words, Quintus hurriedly pulled the enraged Quentyn back.” Quentyn, please apologize to the Emperor quickly...”

Before he could finish his sentence, Quentyn pushed Quintus away. He faced Xanthakos calmly, ready to meet his fate.

Xanthakos locked eyes with Quentyn and asked, “Tell me. When did you collude with Lames? How did you determine he is stronger than me and is capable of defeating me.”

As these words came out, Quentyn’s expression turned icy. He met Xanthakos’ gaze without flinching.

Meanwhile, Quintus was instantly terrified because these words also implicated him. After all in the Brolith Formation outside the Gate of Mystery, he had sworn allegiance to James alongside Quentyn.

Quentyn was a stubborn man, willing to seek death with single-mindedness to defend his beliefs, but Quintus was not. He had not lived enough.

Seeing that their grand plan was about to succeed, and being able to rule the Halgth Realm together with Xanthakos, how could he expose his disloyalty at this moment?

Seeing Quentyn locking eyes with Xanthakos in silence for a long time, Quintus immediately drew a sharp dagger and rushed toward Quentyn’s back.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7205-With a sudden, muffled sound, Quintus lunged forward, stabbing Quentyn in the lower back with a dagger.

Quentyn trembled, turning around in disbelief.

Xanthakos also glared sharply at Quintus, completely taken aback by the situation.

“I...” Quintus panicked, shouting, “How could you betray Emperor Qadeer and side with James? He’s not even a match against you. He’s a defeated foe. How can he compare to Emperor Qadeer?”

“You’ve gone mad, absolutely mad. I won’t allow anyone to betray Emperor Qadeer, not even you!”

With a roar, Quintus pulled the dagger from Quentyn's back and aimed for his head.

Bang!

Quentyn countered, thrusting his palm forward. Quintus was instantly sent flying upon impact. The force of the blow sent Quintus hurtling towards the barrier of Jawdat Region.

Xanthakos waved his hand, enveloping Quintus in a shroud of Nothingness Dead Energy, halting his fall just before he hit the formation.

The next moment, he fumed, "You've truly gone insane, Quentyn! We're sworn brothers who made vows to stand through thick and thin together! Yet you tried to kill him?"

Quentyn sneered, "Sworn brothers? Can he really be considered a brother when he stabbed me in the back, who flatters and sycophants, who aids and abets your tyrannies?"

Xanthakos pointed at Quentyn, taking two steps back slowly. "Very well. It seems you've forgotten our brotherhood for James. Despite enduring so much in the Forty-Ninth Heaven, I saved only you two at the crucial moment.

"What kind of spell did James cast on you to make you so loyal that you disregard our years of brotherhood with US?"

Quentyn took a deep breath, about to speak when he felt a searing pain from his lower back. He staggered, retreating several steps before steadying himself, feeling weak and collapsing to the ground.

He reached for his wound, and upon seeing his blood turn black, he understood the meaning behind Quintus's treacherous stab.

Enduring the pain, he crushed a radiant jade scroll in his hand, sending a beam of golden light shooting down toward the Forty-Ninth Heaven.

Seeing this, Quintus, still within the shroud of Nothingness Dead Energy, shouted, "Your Highness, he's signaling James. You must stop him!"

Yet, Xanthakos remained still, watching the beam disappear before taking a deep breath.

"Abandoning such grand ambitions for nothing. You must be eager to die."

Quentyn said through gritted teeth, "You asked what kind of spell he had cast on me. Let me answer you. He is the Chosen One, embraced by all living beings.

He is also the Greater Realms' master, supported by their Spiritual Providence.

"He entered Zymurgy, not for power or ambition, but to seek justice for all beings, to forge a path for all to pursue cultivation.

"That's why the likes of Yianni, Harper, and even the Morgott have submitted to him. He received the legacies of Chuba and Zemra.

"He genuinely fights for the Greater Realms' beings. Compared to you, he is so much more bolder, determined, and knows what he wants."

"He is a mortal with so little experience on the path of cultivation.

He has gone throughki solite Prials.

ahditribulations. What gives him the confidence to challenge me for control over the Haleth Realm?

"Don't you remember? I'm one of the first to enter Zymurgy. With my talent and wisdom, I overcame countless obstacles to seize the opportunity..."

Quentyn interrupted, "An opportunity that came from shameless deceit, Your underhanded schemes and treachery only confirm the Alcide beings' prejudice against US.

"You taint our kind's reputation and reinforced the Alcide beings view of US as deceitful and despicable beings. You are the reason for the Greater Reams' sufferings."

Faced with Quentyn's furious rebuke, Xanthakos opened his mouth but found himself at a loss for words. He had nothing to refute.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7206-n front of outsiders, even his own wife and children, Xanthakos could maintain the facade of a virtuous and compassionate man. But in front of Quentyn, he could not pretend to be righteous. Quentyn had been with him since they embarked on their path of cultivation. They knew each other's pasts and deepest secrets.

Quentyn sighed and said, 'You're no match for James. In terms of benevolence, righteousness, decisiveness, wisdom, and strength, you fall short in every aspect compared to him.

"Perhaps once, you brought hope to the beings of the Greater Realms. They revered and worshiped you, seeing you as someone who could become their lord. However, your desire and selfishness for power destroyed all of that."

Quentyn's face twitched with extreme pain, and he instinctively reached for the wound on his lower back.

Seeing this, Xanthakos clenched his fists, his face twitching with barely contained rage.

Quentyn sighed and said sentimentally, "Our brotherhood has come to an end. I didn't understand your intentions when we set out, but I certainly do now.

'You've been here more than once, given how seamlessly you've made arrangements. That means the thirty billion lives just now was just a fraction of the countless lives that you've sacrificed.'

'Your Nothingness Dead Energy must have also come from this place, right?'

Xanthakos' eyes widened in shock at these words.

Quentyn, trembling with pain, continued, 'Your goal is to pass through the Nine Caeloros Temples and enter the Wuia Palace to seize the forty-nine cauldrons and Path Designation Bead to fulfill your dream of ruling over the Haleth Realm, right?'

Xanthakos retorted, 'You...'

Quentyn interrupted him, it's too late. I've already sent the information to James.

He will find you, kill you, and rid the Greater Realms of this plague, restoring our honor.

"For the sake of our brotherhood, I will give you one last advice. Join hands with him and resolve the Leere Tribulation together. Do something good for the Greater Realms and the Galeth Realms to atone for your sins."

Xanthakos laughed angrily. 'You're quite delusional, Quentyn. Do you think placing all your hopes on James will bring you the results you desire?'

"So what if you've contacted him? He's busy contending with Goyo over the Forty-Ninth Heaven. Even if he does come here, he won't be able to find the Whirlwind Sentinel. Assuming he somehow manages to find it, he won't have what it takes to reach this place."

Xanthakos' voice turned cold as he said, "Since you've betrayed me, don't blame me for being ruthless..."

He waved his hand, summoning a vast and terrifying cloud of Nothingness Dead Energy.

But before he could strike, Quentyn laughed bitterly, 'There's no need, Xanthakos. My time is up, and I won't have the chance to be reincarnated.'

Before I die, we must settle this.”

Struggling to stand, Quentyn grabbed his robe, slicing off a section with a flash of Sword Light.

Xanthakos’ expression changed drastically at the sight. “Our bond is severed now. We don’t owe each other anything.”

As he finished speaking, Quentyn burst into wild laughter, his body that in insanity to dance,.

Region was filled with flying blood and mist.

“Quentyn!” Xanthakos roared, losing control.

Gradually, the Jawdat Region returned to silence.

Quintus, still enveloped in Nothingness Dead Energy, watched Xanthakos, who had collapsed to the ground. A fleeting, almost imperceptible look of hatred crossed his face.

After a long silence, Xanthakos asked, “Do you also want the same?”

“No.” Quintus quickly shook his head.

Perhaps, for Xanthakos, Quentyn’s death had finally freed him from his last emotional tie, allowing him to face the world without any more feelings.

‘Then we must continue with the plan.’ Xanthakos stood, looking deeply at the spot where Quentyn had exploded. He then wrapped Quintus in his aura and entered the Covenant Temple.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7207-Meanwhile, James had arrived at the Goyoan Temple.

Amid the shattered walls and ruins, corpses lay scattered everywhere, blood flowed like rivers, and a mist of blood filled the air, creating a scene of utter carnage.

For the Alcide beings and the treacherous divine beings who had taken over this place, Goyo showed no mercy, slaughtering them all.

Even when the traitors panicked and begged for mercy upon his arrival, Goyo’s disciples and followers continued their ruthless massacre without hesitation.

Betrayal is a one-way path. Any ruler with ambition knew that in a life-or-death struggle, there could be no leniency.

“This is quite a bloodbath.” James sighed as he stood in the main hall of the temple.

“Are you being so ruthless to intimidate me?”

Goyo shook his head and replied solemnly, “No, of course not! Sometimes cleaning up requires drastic measures.”

With that, he waved his hand and shouted, “Everyone, clean up the mess!”

Following his command, a large number of Goyo’s disciples and followers rushed in. With tens of thousands of flashes of light, the once-bloody scene was quickly tidied up.

Only then did Goyo make a gesture inviting James, then he walked to his main seat.

James, holding Thea’s hand, sat down. Suddenly, Goyo was surrounded by black and white rays, and a gate appeared behind him.

“Please wait a moment,” Goyo said, and then he entered the door.

Thea gently nudged James. “How credible is Goyo?”

James shrugged and answered, “It doesn’t matter. I won’t judge him by what he says, only by what he does.”

Just as he finished speaking, a purple-gold light suddenly shot towards him, which he caught in his hand.

“What is it?” Thea asked suspiciously.

James examined the purple-gold light with his Zen, and his expression suddenly changed.

“What happened?” Thea sensed something was wrong.

“Quentyn...Quentyn has fallen. It was his final message.” James sighed with sorrow.

As he spoke, the purple-gold light in his hand transformed into a jade slip, which floated to Thea.

After quickly reading the contents, Thea looked up abruptly and said, "According to Quentyn's message, Xanthakos is already in the Jawdat Region. He intends to pass through the Nine Caeloros Temples and enter the Wuia Palace."

James slowly stood up, looking out toward the Goyoan Temple's main entrance.

"It seems Xanthakos is more cunning and smarter than I thought. It's a pity to lose Quentyn. He was such a loyal and righteous person, devoted to the safety and future of all living beings."

Thea could see that James was deeply saddened. Ever since the great battle against the Evil Gods, he had not shown such emotion. Quentyn held a place of great respect in his heart.

She stood up and hugged James from behind. "Don't be sad. If you can resolve the Leere Tribulation and become the master of the Haleth Realm, you might have a chance to revive him."

James turned around abruptly, gripping Thea's shoulders. "Really?"

Thea nodded and answered, "Yeah. Quentyn has high accomplishments in cultivation and doesn't vanish completely right away. As long as some part of him remains in the Haleth Realm, there's a chance to resurrect him."

James squinted his eyes, gritting his teeth. "Good! Since Xanthakos has already taken action, I see no need to keep pretending."

At that moment, Goyo hurried out from the door.

"I know about the Jawdat Region!"

James released Thea and scrutinized the approaching Goyo.

Thea asked urgently, "Do you have a way to get there?" Goyo shook his head and said, "No. However, if the information you've received is accurate, it just cleared up a doubt I've had."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7208-James furrowed his brow and urged, "Get to the point."

Goyo stared intently at James and responded, "His Nothingness Dead Energy!"

If Xanthakos can truly enter the Jawdat Region, obtaining Nothingness Dead Energy wouldn't be difficult because the Jawdat Region was once the Xyrisia Gate."

Thea rolled her eyes and said, “We need a way in.”

Goyo shrugged and said, “I don’t have a way. But I do have something that can roughly pinpoint the Wuia Palace’s location.”

He immediately handed over a shimmering box.

James turned away without taking it, but Thea accepted it and opened it directly.

Inside, she found a purple-gold compass, looking surprised.

“Is that it?”

Goyo nodded and answered, “Yes! With this, you can avoid a lot of troublesome situations. Once the position of the Wuia Palace is locked down, the rest will be about navigating through the three layers of tribulations that surround it.”

Thea turned to James and said, “Regardless of whether Xanthakos has gone to the Jawdat Region, his ultimate goal is to seize the Wuia Palace and the Path Designation Bead. Perhaps we should beat him to it and go straight into the Wuia Palace.”

James pondered for a moment before asking, “Are you sure we can beat him to it?”

Thea was stunned, exchanging glances with Goyo beside her.

Suddenly, James looked at Goyo and said, “I remember you mentioned that you’ve been to the Wuia Palace once before and retrieved the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword.”

Goyo nodded and replied, “Indeed. However, that required the combined powers of Taiyi, Taichu, and the Five Path Emperors.”

James questioned, “Be more specific. Was it their combined strength, or something else?”

Goyo sighed lightly and said, “The Natal Pearls of the Taiyi and Taichu, combined with the Five Path Emperor’s Path Gates...”

James interrupted, “I see. Then, immediately invite Taichu, Emperor Zdravko, Emperor Stavros, and Emperor Stavros to the Goyan Temple.”

Goyo looked at him in surprise.

Thea hurriedly interjected, “But we’re still in the middle of a war. Is this the right time?”

James said coldly. “I’m inviting them here to stop the war. As for Taiyi...” He turned back to Goyo. “How do you compare to Taiyi?”

Goyo hesitated, then replied, "We haven't fought before. However, Taiyi is a Xyloria god created by the Waitara Path. Hence, her strength should be above mine."

James narrowed his eyes slightly, conjuring an energy ball in his hand and embedding a soul sigil before handing it to Goyo.

Goyo asked skeptically, "What is this for?" James instructed, "I need you to make a trip. Deliver this to Taichu. She'll understand as soon as she sees it."

Goyo twitched his cheek, visibly speechless, then sighed lightly and turned to leave.

"He looks rather unwilling," James muttered as he watched Goyo leave.

Smack!

Thea slapped James on the shoulder. "That's Lord Goyo, the leader of the Five Path Emperors, and the strongest in the Greater Realms. Would you willingly run errands if you were him?" James murmured, "Well, that's true."

Thea put her hands behind her and accused, "I've noticed you've been getting more and more arrogant recently."

James looked at her innocently and said, "But if I can't possibly let my wife go through so much trouble, right? It had to be him."

Thea burst out laughing at his reply. He proved to be a devoted husband, and she could not possibly fault him.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7209-In the Taichu Daonus Realm, within Taichu Temple, Taichu sat serenely on a cushion dressed in a pristine white robe. Below her, eight Great War Saints delivered reports, updating her on the ongoing battles in the Forty- Ninth Heaven. At this point, she had developed a thorough grasp of the situation on the battlefield.

After a moment of contemplation, she suddenly said, "Does any of you know where Goyo is?"

The War Saints exchanged glances, then simultaneously shook their heads.

Taichu sighed lightly, a tinge of regret in her expression. "He is the esteemed leader of the Path Emperors, the strongest of the Greater Realms. He couldn't have really been killed by a bunch of small fries, right?"

As soon as she finished speaking, a beam of purple-gold light suddenly shot into the hall, instantly transforming into a divine being with a stunning appearance, kneeling on one knee.

“Reporting! We’ve acquired news that Lord Goyo has reappeared and has retaken the Goyoan Temple, clearing out the traitors in the most ruthless manner.”

Taichu stood up abruptly and asked, “Is this information reliable?”

The woman nodded and replied, “Yes! It seems Lord Goyo is planning to assemble disciples to prepare for a counterattack.”

Taichu inquired, “And what about Xanthakos? Where is he right now?”

The woman shook her head and answered, “His whereabouts are still unknown.”

Taichu paced slowly with hands behind her back. ‘This is strange. Since the beginning of the battle, all the powerhouses and experts from various realms have shown themselves, but Xanthakos has been hiding. What exactly is he up to?’

“I think it’s a bluff.”

Just then, three beams of purple-gold light shimmered outside the hall, revealing two men and a woman.

Upon seeing them, Taichu immediately descended the steps to greet them. “The simultaneous presence of you three makes my temple shine brightly.”

Yulia, Cosimeon, and Stavros, the three Great Dao Emperors, had come to visit Taichu.

They had all come at Taichu’s urging and had chosen to observe from the sidelines rather than participate in the conflict between Xanthakos and Lord Goyo. Of course, it was not solely due to Taichu’s prestige but also because of James’ influence behind the scenes.

Yulia’s Soremsia was Lyla, who had a tangled relationship with James.

Naturally, she leaned toward siding with James.

Cosimeon, having been scared witless by James’ second body Lesia in the Forty-Ninth Heavens, had long known James’ true identity and naturally bowed to him.

As for Stavros, his Soremsia being Xayvion, he had gained a vivid understanding of the Goyoan Temple, enough to prove her loyalty.

The three of them and Taichi were like-minded, resulting in the current situation.

However, after the tides had turned against Goyo, they became restless and unsure of what was to come next. Hence, they collectively gathered in the Taichu Temple.

Cosimeon nodded respectfully to Taichu and said with furrowed brows, "What is James doing? He asked US not to intervene, but secretly caused Goyo to be at a disadvantage. Is he trying to help Xanthakos gain control over the Forty-Ninth Heaven?"

Stavros mocked, "You're one of the Path Emperors. How can you be so easily deceived?"

"Don't you know James? He's smart and very scheming. He would never do something that would benefit others, and not himself."

Cosimeon looked at him irritatedly and asked, "Then what do you think is going on?"

"Didn't I already say it just now? Xanthakos must be the one responsible for dirty tricks against Lord Goyo. Perhaps not even James had realized."

"That's why after his army captured the southern end of the Goyo Daonus Realm, they stopped advancing further."

Yukia looked at them and asked, "The key question is where is James? I can't locate him."

Stavros sighed and said, "He is completely different from before. He is no longer inferior to Xanthakos. The three of US together are probably still far behind him."

It'd be impossible for US to locate him."

Taichu smiled and gestured for them to be seated. Then, she said, "There's no need to worry about the current situation. Goyo had already reclaimed the Goyoan Temple. He is most likely preparing for a major counterattack."

The Three Path Emperors raised their head in astonishment.

Suddenly, a radiant light flashed into the hall and another beautiful woman approached them.

"Reporting! Lord Goyo is waiting outside to see you!"

Taichu and the three Path Emperors instantly froze upon hearing the announcement.

Lord Goyo was the Five Path Emperor's Leader and the strongest of the Greater Realms. If he wanted to visit, he would not need to wait for anyone to report his arrival.

They were confused by Goyo's actions, and why he would set aside his dignity.

However, the surprise was not over yet. The reporting woman raised her hands and revealed a dazzling energy ball.

“Lord Goyo asked me to deliver this to you with the message that you will understand after seeing it.”

Taichu’s beautiful eyes widened in complete disbelief. She took the energy ball and examined it. Shortly after, an expression of incredulity appeared on her stunning face.

Cosimeon hurriedly asked, “What’s this about?”

Stavros and Yulia also watched confusedly.

Taichu’s voice trembled as she replied, “Lord...Lord Goyo, he...he came to deliver a message!”

The Path Emperors almost fell to the ground in shock.

Lord Goyo, the esteemed powerhouse, was delivering a message. They began who he was running the errand for. At that moment, they thought of the possibility that the Waitara Path’s Soremsia had returned. They could not think of anyone else capable of making Lord Goyo serve as a messenger.

After a momentary silence, Yulia shouted, “It’s James! It must be him who sent Lord Goyo to deliver the message!”

Cosimeon and Stavros instantly felt like they had been struck by lightning at the revelation

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7210-Yulia asserted confidently, “It must be James! Besides him, nobody else could do something so absurd and unreasonable.”

Stavros’ eyes widened in disbelief. “James? Has he gone mad? How could he send Lord Goyo on an errand run?”

Cosimeon looked at Stavros and said, “It’s quite possible. After all, he does have a very extraordinary background.”

Stavros retorted, “Even so, he can’t just order Lord Goyo...”

Taichu finally snapped back to reality and said, “You’re right. It’s James. He asked me to contact you three and gather at the Goyoan Temple at once.

Stavros' jaw immediately dropped at the confirmation. He could not believe his former nemesis in the Dark world had grown to such terrifying heights.

Goyo wielded the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword's Lipper Three Swords and was capable of influencing the fate of divine beings. Yet, he was dispatched as a messenger. He was puzzled and pondered on whether Goyo had submitted to James. If so, what were they, who were far inferior to Goyo, even worth?

In contrast to Stavros' disbelief, Cosimeon and Yulia were simply dumbfounded by James' actions.

Yulia's Soremsia was Lyla, and she had spent a considerable amount of time with James. Hence, he understood his personality and way of doing things.

To him, there was never a sense of hierarchy. Nobody was superior or inferior to one another. He was carefree and liked doing whatever he pleased without caring too much about the judgment of others.

Cosimeon, on the other hand, was thinking about James' terrifying second body.

He was aware she was the Soremsia of one of the Nine Caeloros Gods of Nothingness, Frona.

With such a powerful figure backing James, he could do anything he wanted in the Forty-Ninth Heaven. He might even be able to have his way in the Void World.

After pondering for a while, Taichu took a deep breath and said, "Since Lord Goyo is here, we should go welcome him."

"That won't be necessary. I'm already here." Suddenly, a voice came from outside the hall.

The next moment, Goyo walked into the hall and appeared before them.

At the sight of Goyo, the Path Emperors froze for a moment before instinctively kneeling simultaneously and greeting him, "Lord Goyo!"

"You're all here? Perfect." Goyo smiled faintly.

"You may rise now."

The Path Emperors looked at each other, then thanked Goyo and rose to their feet.

"Since you're already gathered here, it saves me the trouble of having to visit you all one by one."

Goyo turned to Taichu and asked, "Have you read the message?"

Taichu nodded, but her gaze toward Goyo seemed unusually intense. She wanted to confirm whether the person before her was genuine or an imposter.

She could not believe Lord Goyo would put aside his dignity and pride to run errands for another entity.

Goyo scanned himself up and down, then asked, "What's the matter? Is there something wrong with me?" Taichu shook her head and asked, "Are you with James?"

The Path Emperors immediately paid close attention, waiting for an answer.

Although they were fearful of Goyo, their curiosity could not be suppressed.

Goyo sighed and said bitterly, "Yes. That kid is something else. He never plays by the book or conforms to rules."

Taichu stepped forward and asked, "Are you injured?"

Although Taichu's question sounded like it was out of concern, Goyo could not help but feel embarrassed because he understood the underlying meaning of it.

She was questioning why he would listen to James' orders if he were not in a vulnerable state.

Taichu immediately realized her mistake and hurriedly explained, "That's not what I meant! I heard you were..."

Goyo smiled and said, "There's nothing to hide. Unfortunately, there was a traitor in my sect. Xanthakos sure is cunning. However, it's nothing too serious.

"Alright. Let's dwell on these matters for now. More importantly, James has extended the invitation to you four to see him in the Goyoan Temple. Are you coming or not?"

They exchanged silent glances with each other. Who would dare to refuse?

James was already insane enough to send Goyo as a messenger. If they did not comply, they might be in for a beating.

However, if they so easily agreed, it would seem like they were incredibly faithful to James. In contrast, they did not seem that enthusiastic when Goyo called for the assembly of divine beings.

Goyo asked, "I need answers. Don't you know how crucial the situation is? Stop wasting time."

Taichu replied, "We'll go, of course. He is the Chosen One, after all, and has the power to summon US."

Cosimeon hurriedly agreed, "Yes, we must go! He will be our future Supreme Path."

Yulia said calmly, "I'm going for sure. Even if not for him, you have come all the way to invite US, so how can we possibly refuse."

"Let's go." Stavros sighed resignedly.

Goyo smiled faintly and said, "Alright. But please bring your treasures with you.

Otherwise, you might have to make another trip."

Taichu and the Path Emperors were momentarily stunned. They soon grasped the treasures that Goyo referred to were their Natal Treasures.

They began to wonder if James was trying to seize their Natal Treasures