

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7366-Outside the seal, James' formation wreaked havoc in the void.

James, seated at the highest point, suddenly opened his eyes to the chaotic scene below him.

The columns within the formation were gradually collapsing under the relentless attacks of Yefrenes' Caeloros Lights.

The Xwem Chessboard also shrank rapidly under Yefrenes' control, causing the diagram to contract.

Fennec and Hemera were severely injured in the process, and the countless restrictions and formations crafted by the Historial Pestle cracked.

Yefrenes repeatedly dodged the Nothingness Neon Pen, which James had used as his main attacking weapon, leaving him no choice but to recall it.

If the Zirconia Path Scroll had not acted as the formation's wall, the entire formation would have collapsed under Yefrenes' counterattack.

"I haven't formed a genuine spiritual bond with Fennec and Hemera yet, and having them lead the formation now is proving insufficient to trap a Caeloros God," James murmured and urged his Primordial Spirits to restore the formation.

"Stop being a coward hiding behind a formation! Face me head-on, James! Are you too scared to fight me? Didn't you claim to be invincible in the Haleth Realm? How can you chicken out from a battle in front of me? I've only got half of my strength right now." Yefrenes' taunts echoed within the formation.

Her enraged appearance totally contradicted her previously gracious demeanor.

Just as James was about to engage in direct combat, the Historial Palace's seal shattered after a loud explosion.

The two Path Protectors appeared above the palace, instantly thrusting their palms forward to channel their Waltraud Power toward James' formation.

The formation quickly absorbed the energy.

After being replenished, James urged it to quickly repair itself, instantly making it more stable and defensive.

James nodded gratefully to them, and then his other half suddenly emerged from his body.

Zbynek shouted, "What are you doing, James?!" Lilibeth warned, "You shouldn't summon your Primordial Spirit now! She's the second-ranked Caeloros God of Nothingness! A divine being from the Haleth Realm can't possibly compare to her!" James smiled at them as his other half became a tangible body emitting Hadufen Lights.

With a whoosh, James' main self of Path turned into a Sword Light and implanted itself into the formation.

Instantly, the formation seemed to gain a backbone, bursting out with dazzling sacred light, and expanded to its maximum size again.

Yefrenes, still complacent about breaking James' formation, was enraged to see the broken columns rapidly repairing themselves.

At that moment, a ball of fire and a wave of Galeat Wind emerged under the influence of the dazzling lights.

"A Caeloros God isn't that special after all!" The ball of flames instantly erupted with a purple- gold flame dragon, rushing at Yefrenes with lightning speed.

Yefrenes raised her hand and shot out a Caeloros Light to collide with the dragon.

The dragon roared as it was Devoured by the Caeloros light !!!

However a gush of Galeat Wind instantly followed.

"Even if you're a Caeloros God, you'll have to lose today the Galeat wind merged with the dragon, turning it into a blue, purple, and gold color.

Then, the dragon charged forward again and devoured the Caeloros Light Boom! The aggressive dragon knocked away Yefrenes.

After steadying herself, she raised her head.

"What loyal servants you two are.

Fine, I'll get rid of you two first, then your master.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7367-Yefrenes erupted in dazzling, colorful light, and her aura grew stronger. The terrifying pressure quickly spread through the column, suppressing Fennec and Hemera, rendering them helpless.

She roared, "Say it. James is despicable and shameless!"

Hemera and Fennec writhed in pain under the oppressive force. However, they refused to utter a word.

"Then, I'll send you two on your way." Yefrenes' hands morphed into claws, summoning two terrifying dragons, one black and one white.

Suddenly, a dazzling black-and-white, purple-gold Sword Light shot from the left, piercing Yefrenes' body with a swift swoosh.

Yefrenes trembled violently, screaming in agony. The dragons that were about to charge forth collapsed to the ground.

Puff!

Blood spurted from her mouth, her eyes bloodshot with fury. She stared at the Sword Light that had pierced her, which transformed into James' main self of Path, clad in a white robe, before Fennec and Hemera.

"Heaven and earth have righteous energy. They can take on various forms. On land, it becomes the rivers and mountains. In the sky, it becomes the sun, moon, and stars."

As James finished the sentence, a massive black-and-white, purple-gold light ball condensed in his palm, emanating terrifying power.

Seeing the unfolding scene, Yefrenes quickly attacked first. She thrust her palms forward, unleashing numerous Caeloros Lights mixed with Nothingness Aura at James. Simultaneously, the enormous black-and-white, purple-gold light ball in James' palm flew out, transforming into numerous 'path' words that collided heavily with the Caeloros Lights.

Boom!

An explosion erupted, sending shockwaves in all directions and shattering the newly repaired formation walls.

The beast roared, devouring the Caeloros Lights and the Nothingness Aura that Yefrenes had unleashed, causing her to momentarily panic.

"I'd like to see how powerful you really are, James!"

A golden tower appeared above Yefrenes' head, expanding rapidly as it approached James.

“Careful, Master!” Hemera and Fennec cried, leaping to block the giant tower with their bodies. Suddenly, a shining divine sword emerged from James’ body, rushing toward the giant tower. Boom!

With another loud explosion, the giant tower collapsed under the impact.

Yefrenes trembled once more as James’ light ball shattered her Caelgros Lights and Nothingne.net Aura, knocking her backward.

Puff!

Yefrenes spat out another mouthful of blood, then raised her mouthful disheveled hair covering her face.

“You forced me to do this, so don’t blame me for being ruthless.”

She erupted with a dazzling light again, and her body began to expand to the size of a mountain. Boom!

en

Seeing the massive fist swinging toward them. James quickly left the air, bringing Fennec and Hemera into the sky.

A massive black hole was left where they had stood.

The next moment, another giant hand swung at them and grabbed James’ main Self of Path.

Yefrenes laughed, “Hana! Now that I’m serious, you can’t even withstand a single attack.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7368-Yefrenes’ maniacal laughter echoed. James, held tightly by a giant hand, suddenly felt the scene before him twist and whirl violently. When his vision stabilized, he found himself in a vast universe.

Countless star clusters spun rapidly, raging furiously, and the cosmic winds they generated tossed James into countless planes. He felt like a small boat adrift in a stormy sea, perilously close to destruction.

While battling these cosmic winds, James had to fend off countless star clusters. He was in a precarious situation where a single misstep could mean his death. Yefrenes, the second-strongest Caeloros God of Nothingness, wielded exceptional Supernatural Powers and could dictate her opponent’s life and death.

Boom!

James unleashed another Sword Light, blowing up an approaching star cluster.

Then, he shot into the sky.

At that moment, Hemera shouted, "You can't let her lead you by the nose, Master!"

"You must find a way to counter her attacks," Fennec added, casting a gust of wind to sweep away several aggressive star clusters.

James, frowning, continuously waved his hands, quickly blocking the star clusters and stars invading from all sides.

He had trapped Yefrenes within the formation, but she had used her powers to trap his main self of Path in another space. The battle reached a deadlock, with both sides holding each other in lethal circumstances.

"Haha! How does my universe space compare to your formation?"

Yefrenes' sinister laughter echoed through the vast universe.

James snorted, "You caused such a big scene and enlarged just to flaunt your huge body?"

Yefrenes chuckled, "If that's all you sensed, then you're doomed today.' "I don't care much about the competition between the Chosen Ones of the Haleth Realm's affairs. However, you must hand over Frona and the Caeloros Supreme Scepter.

"Actually, now I have one more thing I want. I'd like to keep you to myself."

Yefrenes laughed, "Frona is a high and noble god, but not me. What I want, I get. Nobody can stop me."

James kicked away a star and sneered, "So you're attracted to me and want me as your cultivation partner?"

Yefrenes chuckled, "Smart, very smart. Since a peaceful negotiation is out the window, there's no need for pretenses.

"I'll offer you two choices. First, you hand over Frona and the Caeloros Supreme Scepter. I'll allow you to rule over the Haleth Realm while ret continue as my Xanadu even Nothingness God. I could give you a chance to be my cultivation partner.

"Your other choice is to resist stubbornly and be captured by me.

Then, you'ì become my first slave."

Faced with her blatant threat, James was not enraged. Instead, he laughed disdainfully and arrogantly.

As she spoke, the universe that trapped James grew violent.

Yefrenes suddenly grew furious and asked, "What are you laughing about?

You have na Night to laugh right now."

Countless star clusters accelerated their attacks, intent on utterly destroying him

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7369-As the violent power intensified, Hemera and Fennec, struggling to fend off the attacks behind James, were severely injured once more.

James swiftly dodged and teleported them into his space, then spread his hands wide and cast a Treasures Formation.

Boom!

Another earth-shattering explosion erupted, and the Three Flowers formation collapsed under the onslaught of countless star clusters. James' body trembled violently, but he had no choice but to resist the barrage of star clusters with his body.

An explosion ensued, and countless star clusters instantly engulfed James, causing the shockwaves to trigger a colossal cosmic explosion.

Yefrenes said regretfully, "What a pity. You were such a promising talent, but you chose to follow Frona and refused my offer to be my cultivation partner. Such foolishness."

Just as her words trailed off, a buzzing sound emerged from where James had stood. A dazzling Hadufen Energy burst forth, and the star clusters and stars that had engulfed James exploded one after another under the pressure of a terrifying force.

Emerging from the explosion was a bloodied figure in a white robe, hair disheveled, holding a shiny long sword. He rose into the air like a vengeful, bloodthirsty god.

Yefrenes was stunned. "You...you're still alive? You make me so excited, James."

James, drenched in blood, slowly turned around. "Are you truly confident of winning, Yefrenes?"

Yefrenes sneered, "Unless you can break free from my universe's restraints, my victory is guaranteed I also forgot to mention that's the universe you're from. I don't have any objections if you're willing to destroy it all."

James smirked. "Let's make a bet. If I break through your universe's restraints, you'll surrender."

Yefrenes laughed, "Sure, but if you lose, hand over Frona and the Caeloros Supreme Scepter willingly.

I don't want to make this too hard for you either."

James nodded lightly, then raised his divine sword and cut his fingers. His blood stained the sword, causing it to emit a radiant glow.

Yefrenes mocked, "Isn't that the Wuia Demon-Slayer Sword? That alone won't break my Supernatural Power."

James did not respond, continuing to infuse his blood into the sword to enhance its strength.

Meanwhile, James' Anonymous main self, located at the highgst paint of the formation; slowly opened his.

eyes.

Meanwhile, James' Anonymous main self, located at the highgst paint of the formation; slowly opened his.

eyes.

"Please watch over the formation. I'll return soon."

Before the Path Protectors could respond, James' Anonymous main self turned into a sword Light and sank into the formation.

Zbynek and Lilibeth exchanged glances and increased the infusion of their Waltraud Power into the formation. They also activated the four Path Cauldrons in the corners of the formation, making them slowly rotate.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7370-In the vast universe, James' main self of Path continued to feed the sword with his blood, bolstering its strength.

Under Yefrenes' command, countless star clusters and nebulae formed an enormous cyclone around James' main self of Path. Caeloros Lights fused with the cosmic storm, rumbling with a dreadful hum, threatening to tear James apart.

Yefrenes roared, "I don't have time for your games, James! I know you won't accept defeat. In that case, prepare to die!"

With Yefrenes' furious declaration, the massive cyclone surrounding James began to attack from all directions. Massive stars and planets, like a barrage of bullets, hurtled toward James' main self of Path. At that moment, James' main self of Path opened his eyes. The divine sword in his hand multiplied from one to two, then from two to four, eventually forming a dense sword formation around him, destroying the oncoming stars and planets.

Violent explosions reverberated through the universe, and the shockwaves spread out, shattering the stars and planets emerging from the cyclone one by one.

Yefrenes screamed hysterically, "Damn it! Feel the wrath of a Caeloros God of Nothingness!"

A rapidly expanding, dazzling light ball formed outside the cyclone, growing at a visible rate. Its energy and aura reached unparalleled levels. In the center of the expanding light ball, a graceful figure appeared, dancing elegantly, each movement filled with a sacred aura.

Phantom figures with potent and mysterious auras emerged from her body, rushing toward James.

Boom!

James shattered the first phantom figure with his sword, then the second.

However, the endless onslaughts overwhelmed him. Despite his speed, he could not fend off all of them.

After a few thousand blows, he was forced to retreat, blood spilling from his mouth.

Disheveled and bloodied, James stood like a defiant ghost in the vast starry sky. His eyes burned red, and his body, though battered, remained upright. This was the most severe blow he had suffered since the Genesis Words.

Yefrenes' voice rang out. "Haha! You're just an ant from the Haleth Realm, overestimating yourself by challenging a Caeloros God of Nothingness."

"Since you want to protect that damn Frona, you can die together. I'll still be able to seize the Caeloros Supreme Scepter after killing you."

With another loud shout, a huge phantom figure that danced continuously emerged from the expanding ball and charged at James.

James did not dodge this time. Instead, he smiled as the massive phantom approached.

Just before the phantom figure reached him, it exploded with a thunderous roar less than halla!”

meter away. The potent shockwaves blew James’ main self of Path away.

Bang!

James’ main self of Path slammed into a wall, nauseous and vomiting blood from the impact He was M severely injured and depleted of energy. However, his strong will allowed him to see the scene before him.

Yefrenes’ universe restraints had vanished. James’ Hadufen Energy had split her enormous body Within the formation in half. Her Nothingness Aura and Caeloros Light leaked rapidly, which was then absorbed by the formation