

The Almighty Dragon General

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7556-The handsome man lowered his head shamefully. "Are you blaming me? Then I'll return everything to you."

After a brief shock, the black-robed man laughed and pointed at the handsome man. "Now that you've become the Haleth Realm's ruler, how can you still be so unruly? You haven't changed your unrestrained personality."

James raised his head, looked at the black-robed man, and laughed.

After a while, Yianni waved his hand and summoned several wine jars from one of the rotating universes.

James quickly raised his hand, and a table with two chairs appeared in the void.

"Drink before you speak." Yianni slammed three jars of Chaos Absinthe in front of James.

James laughed, "Isn't this Chaos Absinthe? Do you feel sorry for me, or are you trying to make me drunk so I'll blurt out everything?"

Yianni urged, "Try it."

James stopped talking and opened a jar, immediately gulping it down.

After emptying the jar, he felt a hot, cramping pain in his abdomen. Shortly after, a powerful force spread through his body, making him feel dizzy. James frowned. "It's not Chaos Absinthe. It's something much stronger. How is this possible? I'm the ruler of the Haleth Realm, the Supreme Path. Is there any wine that can make me drunk?"

Yianni sneered, "You aren't contaminated by the mundane things of the Greater Realms, but that doesn't mean you can't get drunk!"

James was about to speak but was interrupted by a hiccup.

Feeling tipsy, James swallowed his saliva. "So being the Supreme Path isn't as majestic as the legend claims. I still have many weaknesses." Yianni flicked his robe and sat down opposite James. "It depends on who you are and what you do. You still have two more jars."

James struggled to keep his eyes open. He blinked a few times to concentrate.

The wine had a very strong aftereffect and seemed more like a potion.

James shook his head, waved his hand, and said, "I can't get drunk. I still must enter the River of Time to find the Waitara Path's Soremsia Time is running out. If he triggers the Leere Tribulation, I fear what happened in Sk will occur all over the Greater Realms. The damage would be even worse.

"To be honest, I find it hard to accept. Though I know it's just an act and everything can be restored to its original state, it still hurts."

James burped and said drunkenly, "What the hell is this shitty position? There are so many duties and responsibilities. Who said becoming the Supreme Path would allow one to return to nature? Liars! They're all liars!" Yianni chuckled as he watched James open the second wine jar and take large swigs.

"Indeed, everyone's a liar, including you. You've already tested me, and it almost cost me my life in Sk. So, did you get what you wanted? Am the past, present, or future over Reincarnation Soremsia of the Waitara Path?" James suddenly stopped drinking and slowly put down his jar. He stared at Yianni with a drunken look and laughed.

Yianni shouted angrily, "Go on, tell me. Or else I won't forgive you."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7557-After examining Yianni closely, James picked up the wine jar again and finished its contents.

Yianni watched him, waiting for a clear explanation. After a long time, James tossed the empty jar away and reached for the third one. As he was about to open it, Yianni pressed it down with his hand.

The two locked eyes, their gazes filled with complex emotions. After a while, they shared a knowing smile and then simultaneously withdrew their hands.

Yianni took his time, then said, "I'll be leaving, but before that, I want to tell you something from my heart."

James shrugged and replied with a smile, "The greatest responsibility of a teacher is to answer their disciples' questions and solve their doubts. I've been waiting for a long time, and I am all ears."

Yianni took a deep breath, slowly stood up, and turned his back to James.

"Since you're already the ruler of the Haleth Realm, what new understanding do you have of Paths?"

James replied calmly, "I don't need to understand. Every move of living beings can become a Path."

Yianni turned around and said with a smile, "If all living beings can become a Path, then what is the point of cultivation and striving for the Daeclon Mahayana? What's the purpose of your position, the Supreme Path?"

James answered, "Cultivation is to improve one's abilities, body, mind, and soul. As for the Daeclon Mahayana, it's just a ranking system. There will be no end or peace if you're too persistent about it."

Yianni raised his head and took a deep breath. Though he may not have agreed, he did not want to refute it either.

James asked with a smile, "You've stayed hidden in the Haleth Realm for so long; you must have your own understanding of it already."

Yianni returned to his previous seat and sat down. After a while, he over looked at James and said, "If I tell you that in the near future, the Destiny Sect might cease to exist, will you still insist on your statement?" James looked at Yianni confidently and said, "Of course. Paths are universal, and all beings are on their own journey, including you, whether you admit it or not."

Under James' sharp gaze, Yianni lowered his head helplessly.

"With your vision, generosity, and principles, you deserve more than just the title of ruler of the Haleth Realm." Contents belongs to Nô(v)elDr/a/ma.Org James laughed, "Do you want to give me a better future?"

Yianni said solemnly, "Your intelligence, wisdom, and talents should not be wasted in their power struggle. You can have a much brighter future." James smiled silently in response.

Yianni stood up with some excitement. "You didn't start the Destiny Sect. It isn't the only force out there. With your current prestige, you can start your own. There's no need to sink with this broken ship." James said calmly, "Broken ship? How would you know this broken ship won't be able to ride the winds and waves?"

Yianni burst into laughter. In his eyes, James had completely comprehended the Forty-Nine Daoisms and was indeed the Haleth Realm's Supreme Path. However, the crisis and dangers he faced were by no means solvable by the strength of just a Supreme Path.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7558-James glanced at Yianni, letting the laughter wash over him. He didn't refute or get angry; instead, he became even more composed.

After a moment, Yianni leaned in closer, his eyes narrowing slightly. “You’ve become the Haleth Realm’s ruler, but the Supreme Path Radiance only covers the Zymurgy and doesn’t extend into the Greater Realms. You’ve neglected your foundation.

“I know you’re trying to build a righteous force distinct from the Waitara Path. You’ve been cautious about who to trust, subjecting even your closest friends to harsh tests. However, you’ve overlooked the fact that the Waitara Path’s Reincarnation Soremsia is hiding within the Greater Realms. His cunning tactics could easily make your foundation crumble, fracturing or completely destroying it.

“A catastrophe like the one at Sk’s headquarters could break out at any moment, but it would be even more tragic, cruel, and bloody.”

Yianni straightened up and continued, “Given your deep sense of loyalty, it will be hard for you to handle these schemes. How will you avert the impending Leere Tribulation?

“Even if you give your all, the best outcome for the Haleth Realm is a prolonged standoff, divided into two factions-yours and the Waitara Path.” James looked at Yianni with amusement. “Isn’t that good for you? Your faction could easily strike and dismantle the Destiny Sect.”

Yianni froze, then pointed at James and sneered. “Are you trying to get information out of me?”

James shook his head and said with a smile, “No. Your master’s wisdom seems to surpass the Waitara Path, am I right?”

Yianni sighed, his expression neutral as he sat down.

James looked at Yianni and said, “The core of the Marcias Combat Form is its ability to instantly unleash a cultivator’s ultimate potential and achieve peak power to overpower stronger foes in close combat. It’s different from traditional cultivation, which progresses gradually and strengthens all aspects of energy.

“However, the sudden surge in strength can mislead cultivators into believing that traditional energy cultivation is pointless. The more exhilarating combat advantages of the Marcias Combat Form. “As a result, many may abandon challenging energy cultivation, neglect the development of body, mind, and soul, and forsake principles of kindness, frugality, and humility.

“When violence, bloodlust, and restlessness dominate the Haleth Realm, a horde of power-obsessed beings will emerge.”

James met Yianni’s gaze. “In that scenario, you won’t need to attack because my Daoism will collapse on its own.”

Yianni slowly caressed the wine jar, laughing softly.

James allowed him his triumph, remaining silent.

After a while, Yianni pointed at James again, "You're just realizing this now? Isn't it too late for regrets? I owe you my thanks, James. I once championed the Marcias Combat Form in the Greater Realms, but Harper's Historial Power prevailed, and I fell behind. Just as I had abandoned it, you appeared and revived the grand scheme I had forsaken." Yianni spread his arms, turned around, and laughed ecstatically. "Under your influence, all beings in the Greater Realms now revere the Marcias Combat Form. The el Jademora Empire you established holds Wyrth Selections, a direct testament to this."

to Yianni smiled triumphantly, turning to face James again. "Thank you, my good disciple. You've realized the grand plan I could only dream of." James smiled calmly at his jubilant demeanor.

"You're too elated, Master. This isn't how the powerhouse of a Shadowborn hidden for countless years should behave."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7559-Yianni leaned back in his seat with a laugh. "I couldn't hide my excitement. Putting aside our identities, you're indeed my best disciple. However, I must say, as your master, I'm thrilled to be able to use someone as intelligent and wise as you. How can I not be overjoyed?"

James asked with a smile, "Of course you can be. However, don't you think it might be too soon?"

Yianni was slightly taken aback but laughed in response. "I know you're prideful, but this is a secluded place separate from the Haleth Realm. You can vent your anger here. No one will see, and it won't affect your authority as the Haleth Realm's ruler."

James sighed at Yianni's smug expression.

"Wisdom is not about understanding others but about understanding yourself. Kindness is not about loving others but about loving yourself. Bravery is not about controlling others but about controlling yourself."

James looked at Yianni with sympathy. "Do you truly understand wisdom, kindness, and courage, Master?"

Yianni, who had been smiling in triumph, was suddenly stunned.

James stood up slowly and spoke calmly, "Although the power of the Marcias Combat Form isn't from the Destiny Sect, it's still a valuable combat skill. Not only do the Marcias appreciate it, but I also really like it. That's why I shared it with my trusted friends and the Greater Realms. I have no regrets."

Yianni looked at James and asked, "Even now, you don't reject it?"

James smiled, "Why reject something useful and practical just because it's not from the Destiny Sect?"

Yianni frowned. "Is that not how it should be? This is the power of Shadowborns. To you, it should be disrespectful and a serious violation. For someone of your stature, it should be an unacceptable humiliation." James suddenly laughed out loud, surprising Yianni. He pointed at him and said, "I've already told you, every being is their own Path. To me, there's no difference in where power is from. Whether it's Historial Power or Marciais Power, they are manifestations of Paths "It's just that sometimes different paths can't work together. However, I believe mutual exclusion and an either-or approach are the most foolish." Agitated, Yianni stood up and shouted, "Can you tolerate integrating other Daoism into the Nine Daoisms or Forty-Nine Daoisms?"

James turned around and shrugged, "If it's something everyone can accept then why not? You just mentioned the Xanadu Realm is much bigger, and the Destiny Sect isn't the only force. "Does that mean what the Destiny Sect can't allow doesn't exist, or do we have to pretend not to see them?"

"You..." Yianni asked furiously, "Then what are you fighting for? What are you trying to protect? What is the foundation governing the Haleth Realm?" James shrugged and said, "I've already told you the answer. Your comprehension abilities can't be this weak, can they?"

Yianni rushed towards James. "No, impossible... The Nine Daoisms and Forty-Nine Daoisms are your supreme beliefs. As the Supreme Path, don't you have any reverence for them?"

James replied calmly, "Of course I do. I also respect the beliefs of all living beings, no matter what they may be."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7560-Yianni was utterly stunned. His faith was in the Marciais Power, and for it, he would sacrifice everything, including his own life. Furthermore, his belief was exclusive; there could not be another belief, or it would be blasphemy.

However, James' words suggested no reverence for his belief. Despite being the Haleth Realm's Supreme Path and having comprehended the Nine Daoisms and the Forty-Nine Daoisms, James showed no sign of maintaining or upholding the beliefs of the Destiny Sect.

Yianni thought to himself, 'Could it be that this guy has no belief at all? Then what separates him from a beast? How can he be the ruler of the Haleth Realm?' Pointing at James, he retorted, "No. You still haven't made it clear. What exactly do you believe in?"

James looked at him innocently and said, "As long as it's practical, I'll believe in it. Also, my wife. She's the reason I've come so far."

Yianni trembled and suddenly spat out a mouthful of blood. 'Impossible. How could this be possible? Supreme Caeloros, Frona, chose someone who completely disregards the Destiny Sect's beliefs to become the Supreme Path, and he somehow succeeded. This is unbelievable.' James asked puzzledly, "What's wrong, Master?"

"You shouldn't be losing too much blood yet. I haven't answered your question about the Marciais Combat Form. Wait until I finish. Then, you can let it all out!"

Yianni was entirely at a loss for words.

et James rubbed his chin thoughtfully and said, "Regarding the Marciais Combat Form, I did inherit it from you. After understanding its pros and cons, I modified it accordingly and integrated it with Emperor Yarden's inheritance before passing it on to others. "Your excitement and loss of composure were unnecessary. The Marciais Combat Form in the Greater Realm is no longer the original version."

Yianni trembled, staring at James in shock. "How is that possible? With your cultivation and strength back then, it's impossible to change or integrate another power with the Marciais Combat Form."

James said earnestly, "Did you forget the soul spirit you left behind in the Marciais Combat Form's Origin? With Lesia's help, I turned it into a Marciais Combat Pearl, then integrated it with Emperor Yarden's inheritance." Yianni staggered backward. "You... you! Puff!"

Furious, he spat out a large mouthful of blood again. Already seriously injured from the explosion of the Celestial Sages, he now suffered another blow from Joel. ne revelation. He swayed, then collapsed with a thud.