

Read the latest chapter The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7563 here

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7563-Frona looked at James and said, “Even after learning everything, he believed in you but not me. Did you hide it too well, or did I leave a terrible impression?”

James did not turn to her but continued to stare at the scroll. Frona took a deep breath and followed his gaze. After a while, she said emotionally, “My Soremsia had known him for countless years, but he refused to say anything about the Waitara Path’s Reincarnation Soremsia. I never expected him to share such information with you before his departure.”

“That’s not all. He promised that until I resolve the Leere Tribulation, the Five Shadowborns will not launch large-scale attacks on the Destiny Sect,” James said, then turned to Frona. “You must be so envious of me.”

Frona burst into laughter, then lowered her head. “Yes, yes. You two share a great bond, and I’m just an outsider. But his promise is somewhat insincere. He is just playing the emotional card and manipulating his naive disciple again.”

James was stunned, then frowned. “What do you mean?”

Frona flicked her cloak, turned around, and proudly said, “If the Five Shadowborns really had great capabilities, they would have already invaded and caused significant damage.”

James was rendered speechless.

Frona turned to James and said, “However, everything he left for you is sincere. After many confirmations, it’s indeed true the Waitara Path does have three Reincarnation Soremsia. Yianni only revealed information about his past form but nothing about the present and future forms. Do you still insist on the original plan?”

“Of course.” James narrowed his eyes.

Frona said deliberately, “I think you need to strengthen your foundation. The Supreme Path Radiance needs to permeate the Greater Realms and solidify your position as the Haleth Realm’s Supreme Path. It will leave the Waitara Path no chance to take advantage, then you can accumulate strength to resolve the Leere Tribulation.” James said with a smile, “I don’t like sitting around waiting for death.”

Frona retorted, “It’s much better than wasting time and energy. Moreover, your plan will come at a huge cost especially emotionally and for your soul. Do you want to see another tragedy like in Sk in the Greater Realms, James? “Do you want to have to reincarnate so many of your friends and comrades one after another?”

James remained unusually calm in the face of Frona's anger. He neither refuted nor showed anger. Instead, he opened the second item from the energy ball-a purple swastika token.

The swastika was full of unknown power, like a vast sea of smoke, instilling fear in one's heart. James pondered while playing with the token in his hand. Suddenly, a message rang in his mind.

"I told you I would give you time to consider. I'm not going to give up so easily. Think about it carefully, and when you have an answer, pour your soul sight into this token. It can help you and the beings you care about escape the impact of the Leere Tribulation. "The token can also help you find a lost treasure. If you find it, you'll also obtain what you want to find."