

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7631 – 7635

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7631-“I think you’ve forgotten about me,” said the mysterious being with a smile.

James smiled back. “If you’re Wynton, then everything makes sense.”

At that, the mysterious being laughed. “You must be very surprised.”

Just as James was about to speak, Zella covered her mouth and exclaimed, “Wynton, h-how can you be...”

“Zella, we share a deep connection,” Wynton said, looking at her. “In the past, you were a prophet, and I was a prelife. We experienced being siblings, and life and death together.

“I miss those days. I have faith in your prophetic abilities. I hope you can...”

“No,” Zella immediately cut him off.

Wynton frowned. “So, you’re going to follow him.”

“This has nothing to do with him,” Zella said clearly. “It’s because of your actions.”

Wynton shrugged. “Did I not treat you well enough?”

“In the past realm, aside from you, the rest of the envoys became Alcide puppets of the past. Only you protected yourself with your main self. I’ve never made things difficult for you.”

“So, should I thank you for that?” Zella retorted coldly. “But it was my humiliation.”

Wynton shuddered at her words. He then turned his gaze to James. NôveID\(ram\)a.ôrg owns this content.

“James, you’re amazing. With your charm, you have good relationships with all the women.”

“Is that so?” James took a sip of wine and smiled. “I don’t think that’s all.”

Wynton hummed curiously.

et James put down the wine glass. “Compared to you, a lonely person who betrayed his family and can only rely on control to gain loyalty, living in the River of Time, I’m upright and righteous. I’ve made many friends along the way.”

Wynton's response was a loud, mocking laugh. It was filled with ridicule, disdain, and endless arrogance.

After a while, he snorted and said, "It seems that you still respect the Path. At least, you didn't speak ill of it in front of me. You have great self-control."

James smiled but stayed silent, continuing to drink his wine.

I Wynton took a deep breath. "Frona's thoughts might have painted me as the most ruthless and cruel Supreme Path. Meanwhile, you transformed the Path with emotion and gained popularity for your kindness. "I have all the bad reputations in the Haleth Realm, while you have all the good ones. You think you've become the kindest person because you've achieved your ambition."

James still didn't say anything. He merely lifted his wine glass in a toast before drinking it all.

"But I have to tell you something," Wynton said, staring at James. "For us, who have become the Lords of the Haleth Realm and Sacred Spirits, emotions are the most unreliable. "Because we can control all the divine beings of the Haleth Realm. We can do everything, know everything. We are everywhere.

"To gain favor from us, people will do anything, including using emotions."

Wynton sighed. "So, heaven and earth are unkind, and all beings are considered lowly. As Lords, we should be ruthless in our actions."

He looked at James with relish. "People like you, who act emotionally and rely on loyalty, are the real harm and injustice to the Haleth Realm."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7632-Wynton's words were clear and logical, but James didn't respond. He only smiled.

"You don't seem to agree with me." Wynton pointed at James. "It's fine. After all, you only hold the title of Lord of the Haleth Realm. You aren't a god yet. Managing the divine beings..."

"No, I share your thoughts," James lifted his wine glass, still smiling. "But you seem confused about the difference between being heartless and violent versus acting for everyone's benefit and being selfish."

Upon hearing that, Wynton frowned.

"If you truly were heartless and ruthless, that would be a blessing for the divine beings of the Haleth Realm," James took a sip of wine. "If that were the case, you wouldn't have needed to reincarnate."

It was evident that these words stung Wynton. His expression darkened, and anger flashed in his eyes.

“Do you think I wanted it to happen? If it weren’t for Frona and the others, I...”

“Every debt has its debtor and every injustice its perpetrator,” James played with his wine glass nonchalantly. “Why do you hold grudges against the Xanadu Realm but implicate the divine beings of the Haleth Realm?”

Wynton was at a loss for words, his eyes wide with lingering upset.

“If it’s really as you say, you had a choice,” James looked at him, emphasizing each word. “You could have gone to the Xanadu Realm and fought them. The countless divine beings behind you would have been your strongest supporters.

“But you didn’t, proving the situation isn’t as you described.

“Everything you’ve done has been part of preparations and plans since the inception of Historial Daoism.”

“You created the Historial beings and established the form of the divine beings of Greater Realms. Your merits are immeasurable, but none of the divine beings expected it was your cover to subvert the Forty-Nine Daoisms for personal gain and domination over the Path Gate.

“For that, you regarded the people of Greater Realms as expendable. You not only absorbed the awakening of their providence but also kidnapped their past, present, and future. You killed them for your return.”

James sighed deeply before continuing, “This isn’t just heartless and ruthless. It’s insanity and cruelty.”

As Wynton was exposed, he lost his calm and collected demeanor.

Nevertheless, James had no intention of letting him off easily.

“You might argue that I’m just another Historial being you created, and yet I choose to side with Frona.”

James turned to face Wynton again.

“That’s because she has boundaries, unlike At least, she won’t I eradicate all naturallyin divineCòntens bel0ngs to Nô(v)elDr/a/ma.Org s as if they never existed.”

Facing James’ piercing gaze, Wynton suddenly laughed.

This time, his laughter was that of a madman, devoid of the previous arrogance and pride.

Taking this moment, James turned around and made eye contact with Zella.

In the next second, Zella vanished from the spot.

A later, Wynton sneered, "James, is this why you took the Froute when you could h me sooner?" James smiled, still silent.

"You fool," Wynton laughed on the brink of madness. "I didn't expect et someone as smart as you to be?"

SW constrained. SO "The people of Greater Realms are just toys we create when we're bored. We can derive them whenever we want.

"I didn't expect you to miss the big picture."

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7633-James frowned and hurled the wine glass at Wynton.

With a clang, Wynton shattered the glass using his Waltraud Power.

Wynton then teased, "You're angry now. This isn't how the new Supreme Path should act. James, don't disappoint me."

"When you said that, you lost all my respect," James replied coldly. "Now that we've shared wine and chatted, the formalities are over. It's time for us to fight to the death."

"Why the rush?" Wynton laughed. "There are many divine beings you care about here. Aren't you afraid they'll be killed if we start fighting?"

"Is this the so-called humanity, loyalty, and emotions?"

James turned and glared at Wynton with murderous intent.

Wynton was despicable and shameless, fully understanding human nature.

"James, I advise you to stay calm." With a smile, Wynton said, "I have a fair solution for both of us."

James stayed silent but did not object.

"Let's make a bet!" Wynton proposed, looking at James. "If I lose, you can take all the past forms of the living beings with you. Then, we'll fight to the death."

James raised an eyebrow. "Continue."

"If you lose, you need to give me what I want most." Greed flickered in Wynton's eyes.

James was irritated. "Be frank!"

"I want the Yin governor!" Wynton declared, staring at James.

Hearing that, James was enraged.

How could he use his wife as a wager? If he did, he would never forgive himself, let alone Thea.

"James, don't misunderstand me."

As if reading James' thoughts, Wynton said, "I don't want to ne humiliate your wife. I just need something from her and the support of the Hongrome Aura." "I want those two arrogant people to know that while I'm a past form, I'm not weaker than their current and future forms."

These words contained a lot of information, and James began to comprehend.

Could it be that the past, present, and future forms of Waitara's Reincarnation Soremsia were , different people? Aside from 1 Wynton, were there two others?

If Wynton was merely the past form of Waitara's Reincarnation Soremsia, who were the current and future forms, and where were they?Ccontent © exclusive by Nô/vel(D)ra/ma.Org.

"So, what do you think?" Wynton looked at James. "Don't you think my suggestion is great?"

Focused once more, James stared at Wynton. "So what if you prove yourself to them?"

"You're trying to trick me." Wynton laughed, pointing at James. "You call me cunning, but you're no different."

"Don't worry. If you defeat me, you'll find out what you want to know. But it all depends on whether you have the capability."

Wynton was alert, sensitive, and doubtful. It was no wonder he was the embodiment of prelife.

With that in mind, James asked again, "How do we bet?"

Wynton smiled and waved his hand. A beam of rich Waltraud Power shot into the void, instantly gathering countless shrunk universes to form a Yin-Yang Wuia Pattern. Using this as the foundation, countless intricate and interlaced amethyst-gold rays shuttled through it, quickly forming an Xwem Chessboard.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7634-Then, Wynton waved two fingers, and countless pls flew in from all directions.

The shining stars formed one group, while the non-shining stars formed another.

James watched without reacting.

He remembered playing a game of chess against unorthodox sect powerhouses at the Wuia Holy Temple. Compared to that, this current game was less grand.

“This is a duplicate of the Greater Realms,” Wynton pointed to the chessboard in the void and said, “Let’s decide the battle’s outcome through a Great War. Each of us will control a side and kill according to chess rules.”

James looked at the chessboard in silence.

“Let’s make things interesting,” Wynton said with a smile. “For the pieces, we can use past forms of living beings as the core.

“One piece can contain up to a million past forms. We can infuse our Daoism into them to fully utilize their cultivation strength. Let’s make them fight for real.”

James’s face darkened.

Wynton wanted to use the lives of living beings for a mere bet.

James even recalled the so-called Great Battle of the past. Was it also casually triggered by some powerhouse like Wynton for personal gain? Was this a game where lives and fates were manipulated for amusement, causing eternal tribulations?

“Bastard, shut up,” James suddenly cursed. “We can bet, but instead, let’s inject the Daoism into the pieces and turn them into the form of living beings. Then let them fight on the chessboard.”

Wynton laughed.

“Your compassion makes you unfit for the Supreme Path. You shouldn’t take living beings so seriously. If you can’t accept it, you can leave it as it is.”

"This is my limit," James retorted, not glaring at Wynton. "Do you think I can't do anything to you after you kidnapped all the past forms of the living beings I care about? Of course not!"

Wynton understood very well. James was only making excuses to minimize his own losses.

James needed time to strengthen himself before fighting.

After a moment of silence, Wynton finally nodded.

"Alright. We'll each form the à our Daoism and fight beings. Let's get ready." Content belongs to SW He and the holy zafu flew to one side of the Xwem Chessboard.

Meanwhile, James released a transparent shadow from his body that vanished without a sound.

"James, please start!" Wynton shouted.

This was the a chess game determining James had to risk everything.

and deaths of living & But he couldn't trust Wynton, the past form of Waitara, so he needed a backup plan.

With a flash, James appeared on the other side of the Xwem Chessboard, sitting opposite Wynton.

"White first, black second," Wynton said with a smile. "Which will you choose?"

Without hesitation, James chose the shining stars as his pieces.

Seeing this, Wynton smirked, as if he had everything under control.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 7635-In the River of Time, outside Wynton's lair, an amethyst-gold light flashed, and James' Anonymous main self appeared. Zella, who had been waiting in the void for a long time, was astonished.

"James, aren't you with my brother... dealing with him? Why are you here?"

"Just ignore that," James said sternly. "I need your help."

Zella quickly nodded.

James touched Zella's forehead with two fingers and injected a path source. At once, Zella received a lot of information.

Taking two steps back, James said, "Begin at the right time. It's best if you use your prophetic ability. It's important to move in silence. After all, our opponent isn't an ordinary powerhouse."

Zella nodded and watched James leave.

She found it strange that the direction James was heading to wasn't Wynton's lair but the River of Time.

"Being his opponent, I don't care whether or not you're my brother, you will be a tragedy."

After saying that, Zella flashed and returned to the huge Path lotus.

What made her more surprised was that there was another James fighting against Wynton around the huge Xwem Chessboard in the void at that moment.

Was it a clone or Primordial Spirit?

At this critical moment, no matter which it was, Wynton would know. Unless James had two main selves.

However, in the Haleth Realm, aside from Waitara, who else could have two or more main selves?

"Stop hesitating. Let's start."

Suddenly, a woman's voice sounded in Zella's mind.

While Zella was stunned, she dared not show a change of expression.

Then, another man's voice sounded.

"You don't need to be afraid. We were sent I'm t by Master to assist yout hand she's Hemera We have prepared a replacement body."

When Zella heard that, she was shocked.

Perhaps only a Grand Supernatural like James could put two with et i t person knowing. COHE in someone's mind bodied than After pondering for a while, Zella slowly moved over to the row of living beings' past forms.

"Stop. Just stay there," shouted the past form of Truett who was in the lead.

Zella ignored him and continued to move forward.

Instantly, the living beings' past forms prepared for combat.

net Nevertheless, before they could warn Zella again, Zella suddenly made a move. At once, the Galeat Wind blew and flames erupted With the support of Fennec and Hemera, even though Zella was besieged, she wasn't inferior. She fought courageously.

In the void, when Wynton, who was fighting James, saw this scene, he asked, "James, what is this?"

Upon hearing that, James, who picked up a shining star, smiled.