

253 253- Jai (Part II)

Third person pov: 1

When he reached the hospital room, she was already admitted there. One look at her face, and Jai knew she was indeed Aurora. How could he forget those long lashes and red hair? Though most of her hair was shaved, that gave him the impression that she had been abused in the palace.

"Now what?" Blake asked him, "I think she suffered a lot in the palace, but... we can't keep her here."

"Why not?" Jai hissed, "We are accepting every Tom, Dick, and Harry, then why not her?"

"Maybe because she is the enemy's daughter?" Brian reminded him, but Jai laughed sarcastically.

"Seriously? Enemy's daughter? Was she the one who harmed Giana?"

"Jai. Brother," Blake placed his hand on his shoulder, "This isn't what we planned initially. Lucien won't be happy."

"And who will tell Lucien?" Jai jerked his hand away, a challenging smirk playing on his face. Both Blake and Brian were taken aback.

This wasn't the same Jai. He had been quiet for the last few months, but now he was fighting them like a dog for the girl whose father had taken away everything from them.

Giana still hadn't recovered and was living with Lucien. They didn't want to send her to him, but she was only responding to Lucien.

They had to come up with a story that Lucien kidnapped her.

Now Jai was openly taking this girl's side, who lay unconscious in the hospital bed.

"Her face..." Blake pointed to her, "She is under some curse. Only an expert witch can treat it."

"I'll bring the witch," Jai nodded at them, "Let me talk to the pack witch."

He turned on his heels to walk out, but then stopped, and didn't turn around, "Any of you tells Lucien about her and consider me dead. Yes. You will lose me and my friendship. If this girl leaves this pack, then I'll go with her."

When Jai left the room, Blake and Brian were standing there in shock.

"What has gotten into him?" Blake was the first to recover from the shock. Brian also had disbelief on his face.

"Hello, Kat,"

The witch whose name was Katherine jumped up when she saw Jai standing in the doorway. He was a doctor and never believed in witches. This was the first time he was visiting her.

"Dr. Jai," She got up and gestured for him to take the couch, "What a pleasant surprise. What brings you here?"

Jai sat on the couch and looked around, "I've got a patient. Her whole face is ... kinda strange... like I can see worms crawling there."

She furrowed when she heard that. She was an old witch, and her elder sister, Amora, lived far away.

"What happened to her face?"

"It's rotten and gives a foul stench. If you want, you can visit her, and let me know if you can do anything about it."

There was excitement on Kat's face as if she had gotten a new project.

"Sure. I'll visit her tonight and will let you know what can be done."

The girl seemed to be important to Jai because he would never come to her little hut just for a random patient. She thought with a smile and got busy with her work.

"What will you do if Lucien comes to know that you're betraying him?" Brian asked him when he was in his office, studying Aurora's face on a projector.

"I'm not betraying anyone, Brian," he said busily, "This girl suffered a lot because of what I did to her..."

"What we did to her," Brian tried to correct him, but Jai took off his glasses and shook his head, "No, brother, I was the one who went inside..." He sighed, "Whatever crazy shit is happening in her life that's because of me."

Brian rolled his eyes and got up, "We promised Lucien that we would take revenge on Oliver Stone. Have you forgotten what he did to Giana?" Brian started arguing, and Jai closed his eyes.

"And we're making the same mistake. We are punishing a girl for her father's mistake. Oliver also did the same. He punished Giana for our father's mistake. We need to break the cycle, Brian."

Brian picked up Aurora's reports from the desk and threw them against the wall, "Fu*ck the cycle, Jai. You've changed. These are all excuses. You were there when we planned this. But..."

Jai was quick to reach Brian and hold his collar, "No, brother. We never planned this. We planned to kill William. Aurora Stone was never part of our plan."

Brian was looking at his brother with wide eyes. Jai could see disbelief there, but now he didn't give a damn.

He only wanted Aurora to be healthy and get back her beautiful face. And for that, he was willing to go to any lengths.

For her, he could fight anyone.

Before going off duty, he went to her room and told her sleeping figure that she was in safe hands. He even kissed her forehead.

Later, he received a mind link from Kat.

"Dr. Jai. Can you come here?"

He went to her hut and found her staring at Aurora's latest pictures, where her face was prominent. A bright smile spread across her face when she saw Jai coming inside.

"Dr. Jai. I think I know the case."

"Really?" Jai held her hands in excitement, "Can you treat her?"

Kat gently freed her hands and shook her head,

"No, I can't. There was a lady who belonged to the royal family. I made this customized powder for her. This girl, Aurora... she married her fiancé. And I'm so happy. Can you believe it? The curse... the one I made... it worked. Oh, Goddess..." She trailed off, wiping her tears.

"I can reverse it, but I won't," She looked at Jai, who blinked at her several times just to make sure that she was telling him the truth.

"But why, Kat?"

She chuckled, "Don't you know, Dr. Jai. It's a huge discovery. Now people will pay me and buy this without hesitation whatever I demand of them."

Jai frowned, looking at her, "You mean to say..."

She nodded at him, "Yeah. I was the one who made the powder. And I'm not making anything to reverse it. This powder will not only make me rich, but I'll be a powerful woman in the world."

His heart pounded so hard he thought it might explode. In the next second, he shifted into his wolf, and without warning, tore her apart. 2
