

24 LOVE BLOSSOM

ALPHA FERDINAND 1

Alpha Ferdinand has long heard about Alpha Damon finding his mate. This was going to be one hell of a problem for him.

"Why did a damn mate have to show up now?" He said to himself.

Why now when he was already putting his plans to action? Why now when he was almost succeeding at getting his daughter married to the Alpha King?

Ferdinand in his anger started trashing his office with his wolf clearly about to be unleashed.

His secretary came in to inform him about the meeting he had scheduled for the morning, and in the fit of his anger, he charged towards her and raised her up by her throat.

His eyes burned with so much anger as his wolf was clearly on the edge.

"How dare you!? How dare you mess up my plans!?" His secretary struggled to set herself free from his tight grasp, but his hands only tightened around her neck, making her gasp for air. She tried to plead, but she was losing air from her windpipe.

"Dad!, what are you doing?" Fiona screamed at her Dad. Alpha Ferdinand, who heard the voice of his daughter immediately let his secretary go throwing her to the ground as she fell with a thud, gasping breathlessly.

She quickly ran out of the office, looking very horrified.

Alpha Ferdinand loosened his tie as he sat back at his chair breathing heavily.

Fiona looked at her Dad wondering what might have upset him that much.

Here she was trying to lay her own complain as she was loosing her mind over everything that's going on around her very eyes.

After a long silence, Alpha Ferdinand cleared his throat, his anger seemed to have subsided after seeing his daughter.

"What brings you here?"

Fiona didn't say a word, but just held a face in a frown.

Ferdinand could see his daughter was not happy about what's happening.

"Is it about Alpha King Damon?" He asked his Fiona while staring deep at her.

Fiona let out a long sigh.

"Dad, we can't just sit back and let a human take my place or would we?"

Alpha Ferdinand was surprised to see his daughter make such comment. He had thought she would stay out of King Damon's way when she found out about his mate, but seeing his daughter not giving up only made him happy.

Truly, Fiona got that from him. He never knew how to give up. He believes in fighting for what he wants and that's exactly what he had seen in his daughter.

"So you don't mind that she's his mate?" Alpha Ferdinand asked just to be sure.

"She's not his mate, I am. I think the Moon goddess was blind to have chosen a human to be his mate. A weakling. Can she be compared to me?"

Alpha Ferdinand felt so pleased, this is all he needs to get things done.

"So do you agree we take her out?"

Fiona sat up straight on her seat, she beamed at what her father said.

"Yes father, we should take her out by any means possible. I believe when she's gone, King Alpha Damon will have no choice but to marry me".

Fiona said, looking so very excited.

"So what do you suggest father?" Alpha Ferdinand smirked, he had so many ways to tame a beast like Alpha Damon, and he just knows the perfect way to do that.

"We would kidnap her for a start". Fiona eyes suddenly went wild.

"Kidnap!?, I don't think that will do, father". Ferdinand raised a brow at his daughter, he wondered what she was thinking.

"So what do you think should be done then?"

"I suggest we just kill her, father, I don't think King Damon will ever marry so long as his mate still lives."

Alpha Ferdinand thought about it for a while, his daughter was very right on this. The only way he could actually get the King into doing his bidding is when she's already dead.

But on a second note, just killing her won't do the magic, they had to be more creative first.

Alpha Ferdinand convinced his daughter to keep her death only after the King is willing to do their bidding. He made her understand that keeping her alive will only give them more opportunity for their plans.

Fiona finally saw reasons with her father, and so she agreed on doing things his way.

Alpha Ferdinand gathered his best secret tracers to do the job. He strictly warned them to do a perfect job else they would end up dead.

MONA

It was no longer news around the company that she was King Damon's fiancée. Even the news carried the stories about her, and sometimes they are being photographed by paparazzi.

At first, she felt so uncomfortable receiving such attention, but Damon made her understand that she was no longer a woman of hidden status. Now, she will be known to the world as his mate and Queen.

Mona was so happy about her relationship with Damon that she was thinking of breaking the news to her parents and her friend Becca, but she was going to wait a little. She just doesn't want to rush things now to avoid being asked series of questions.

Mona was in her office as usual recording the data of her clients.

Ever since she had been at Damon's company, she had been receiving series of potential clients who love her work.

Being the fiancée to Damon had never stopped her from doing her work. One time she had gone for a customer's birthday party when the celebrant recognized her to be her Luna.

At first Mona was very surprised at how the woman knew about her. The lady told her she was a werewolf too, and she recognized because she had the mark of the Alpha King on her which was a clear indication that she was their Luna.

The elderly looking lady had refused her from doing her makeover, saying she couldn't let her Luna do her makeup.

Mona was so perplexed at this. This was her work, and it clearly doesn't have anything to do with she being a Luna.

Mona made the lady understand that she was willing to do her makeover and she should pretend as though she was just an ordinary worker.

After much persuasion from Mona, the lady finally agreed for Mona to her makeover.

In some way, Mona thought being Damon's mate was rather scary.

The surprises never ends for Mona as Damon always made her feel special by stealing a kiss from her when they were in the elevator or when they are in a business meeting with no one watching them.

Damon truly had brought smiles into her life again she thought.

The biggest she had yet receive from him was when he bought her a car.

Mona was so very much excited seeing how much Damon was trying to make her comfortable. At first she had refused him saying she was okay taking a cab, but he had told her he wouldn't be comfortable having his fiancée riding a cab to work everyday.

For goodness sake he was a King. Sometimes she thinks she must have forgotten his status. Though she loved living the big life but she wasn't as materialistic as other women, she preferred her things simple.

Mona sometimes goes to spend the weekend at Damon's since she had refused to move in with him.

As usual, she decided to go back home since it was a Sunday and she would need time to prepare for her work the next day which will be Monday.

Two ferocious looking men hide themselves in a black G. Wagon close to Mona's apartment.

They also hid their scent so the guards placed to watch over Mona won't notice them.

They were supposed to carry out their mission last night but unfortunately for them, their target was not around.

They had stayed awake all through the night waiting for her. They were strictly warned to deliver their mission successfully and discreetly to the knowledge of no one.

Mona drove in with the car personally given to her by Alpha King Damon.

The two werewolves noticed their target's arrival, they quietly surveyed the area for any guard around. When they found out there was none, they quietly came out from their G. Wagon and headed to where Mona was carefully locking up her car.

She noticed fast footsteps approaching and quickly turned around and to her greatest dismay, two hefty looking men surrounded her. Her heart beat increased. She knew she was in danger and there was no way she could fight off two big looking wolf.

From her observation she could tell they were werewolves too. She tried to calm down and not make them sense her fear as she was told by Damon.

The werewolves could easily sense your fear and use it against you. So she decided to act fearless.

She puts her hand to her waist, looking up to them, she refused to be intimidated by them.

"What do you want?" She made her face expressionless and without worry.

The two werewolves looked back at each other before facing her.

One of them had a thick black and curly short hair, his shoulders very wide which made him look like a giant since he was tall.

"You don't look scared for a human. He said eyeing her from top to bottom.

"Perhaps, because she's already being marked by the Alpha King" the other said with short blond hair looking just as tall and huge like the other.

"Well human, we were told to deliver you somewhere. Don't bother calling on him because he won't make it as fast as we will take you away from here."

Mona's heart beat increased.

Will he really not be here on time to save her? She had to try anyway, she knew they wanted to kidnap her.

"Damon if you can hear me, please help.....".

She couldn't finish up seeking help before she was hit on the head which resulted in her passing out.

Damon was in his library as usual reading the fresh collection of best seller he had ordered.

He read a sentence "Love comes when you least expected it to".

He couldn't hold back his smile as he thought about his mate and how he had met her for the first time.

Everything was still very much fresh in his memories. His mate's scent was still all over him. He could clearly say he had never loved any woman the way he loved Mona.

This was what true love was all about, he thought.

He was still in great thoughts when the words that shattered him ran into his head. "Damon if you can hear me, please help..."
