

Contract With Alpha Logan by Misha K

Chapter 54

Kylie POV

“What the fuck!” Alpha Logan exclaimed. “Where have the rogues come from?”

“We have no ideal” The warrior said as he glanced at me. “But you better escape from here before they come inside.”

Beta Ace came forward, his muscles bulging. “Are they in large numbers?” he asked with his brows deeply furrowed.

“They are,” he informed, his voice

“And it is pretty unusual to see rogues in such a large number. They have started attacking the Alphas and Lunas who were leaving. Please Beta Ace, I request you all to leave before they enter the premises of the Head Council!”

However, the moment he finished speaking, we heard snarls and growls and roars. The rogues had breached the premises of the Head Council.

“Fuck!” Alpha Logan gritted. “Ace, take the girls to safety. His muscles bulged and fur rippled on his arms as if his wolf was forcing to come to the surface. When Alphas encountered rogues, their wolves had this primal instinct to kill them. He snapped his head at Ace, his eyes already turning golden. “I am going to snap the heads. of each and every one of these bastards!”

From the corner of my vision, I saw that some Alphas had already shifted and were attacking the rogues. Some Lunas also shifted, assisting their mates. I saw that Alpha Rick had picked up his Luna and his daughter in one arm each and was rushing them inside the building.

Alpha Logan turned to me. He grasped me by my waist and kissed me on my lips. Resting his forehead on mine, he said, "Kylie, please go to the first floor. I can't risk your life and I won't be able to fight if my mind is on you. This was not how I thought I would celebrate our union. I swear I have so many plans and I want all of them to come true. So please go to a safer place with Katy and Ace."

I cupped his cheeks and kissed him back. "I love you, Alpha Logan, but I'm not leaving you behind. The Moon Goddess has bestowed me with a second-chance mate, and if you think I would leave you to confront those rogues alone, then you're mistaken. I'll fight along your side."

His chest filled with pride as he looked at me intensely.

"Yay!" Katy exclaimed, and I laughed at her ability to make me laugh even in this stressed-out situation. She looked at Ace, winked, and shifted into her wolf. Ace grunted and looked at Alpha Logan as if begging him to let him shift as well. Alpha Logan shook his head. "Okay, but stay close to me. I don't want any harm to come to your wolf, who has just resurfaced.

will!" I kissed the tip of his nose with renewed excitement. It had been ages since Coral had last ventured outside, and she yearned to break free.

We all shifted and attacked the rogues along with other Alphas and Lunas. Coral came out with more ferocity than ever. She let out a yelp, wagged her tail, licked her mate and then growled at the rogues. She attacked the first one who was coming to Blaze, Alpha Logan's wolf. Within minutes, Blaze ripped that rogue into pieces and then looked at his mate smugly.

The battle continued for the next one hour, whereby Alpha Logan must have killed at least a dozen rogues. Some rogues entered the building and all I could think of was that they were going to attack Jane and her mother. Feeling protective of her, I nudged Katy. Alpha Logan and Ace were already fighting the rogues. Katy gazed behind her and understood me. She let out a low growl and dashed inside the building, with me following her.

The moment we reached up, I saw that Jane and her mother were surrounded by three rogues. Two attacked her mother, while one attacked Jane. Jane shrieked, crouching on the floor, and for the first time I realized she couldn't shift. Anger surged through me when I saw bruises on her skin. Surely that was abuse from her husband. I couldn't stop myself and attacked the rogue.

Coral took down the rogue easily, sinking her fangs into him. I looked at Jane, but she was staring ahead. I looked quickly towards where she was looking and saw Katy's wolf and Jane's mother's wolf fighting the rogues. Her mother was badly injured. Furious, I joined Katy, and we took down the rogues soon. However, Jane's mother's wolf was down. She was still, her eyes fixed on her daughter.

"Mom!" Jane cried.

Chills ran down my spine as I froze, seeing Jane hunched over her mother, crying. I shifted back and went to Jane. "I am calling the medics. Don't worry!" I looked at Katy, who had also shifted back to her human form. She nodded and rushed down. However, it was futile. As her life faded away, her mother's eyes stared into blank.

My throat choked with emotions. Katy came up and gave me my shirt and pants. As I slipped into them, Graham came in. He looked pale and was bleeding in many places. "Kylie!" he rasped. "How are you?" He came to me and held my hands. "I was so worried about you. Even though you've rejected me, I couldn't help but think about you!"

I pulled my hands away. "I'm fine," I replied, feeling guilty because I wasn't thinking about him at all.

“Have you seen Zoe?” His next question put me back to square one.

“Really?”

“I saw her!” Katy Interjected. “She was rushing towards the rear of the Council’s building.”

“Oh! Thanks!” He rushed out. “I hope she’s well.”

Alpha Logan came up with his shirt soaked in blood. He wrapped me up in his arms and dipped his head in the crook of my neck, inhaling my scent. Only when he did that, he breathed a sigh of relief. “How are you?”

“I’m fine, but she-” I pointed at Jane’s mother. Jane was huddled over her, crying quietly.

“There are a few casualties, but we’ve won” Alpha Logan said. “This was the biggest rogue attack I’ve ever seen. Come, let’s go down. Grandfather is waiting for us in his van. He wants us to get out of here as soon as possible. He is pretty pissed off and there will be a full enquiry on this attack.”

“There should be,” I replied. “But what about Jane and her mother?”

“A medic team from three packs has already arrived. They will take care of her.”

“What about Alpha Rick?”

“He is injured, but he will heal fast. I’ll inform him about this incident,” Alpha Logan said, tugging me out of the building.

As soon as we reached down, I saw Graham running towards a team of doctors near us with Zoe in his arms. That’s when I noticed Zoe was barely harmed. She had one split on her head from which blood oozed out and she was unconscious, mumbling something about her pup. Also, where was she during the rogue attack? Why did she go to the rear of the building? To save herself?

“Please take care of her!” Graham demanded the doctors. “She is severely injured.”

The doctor narrowed his eyes on her and remarked, “There are more serious patients, Alpha Graham. Please wait. She’s not seriously injured.”

Graham lost his temper. “How dare you? Treat her now. She’s pregnant!”
