In the evening, a video went viral.

The video completely recorded everything that happened at the banquet.

Anyone with eyes could see that Emily deliberately spilled the red wine on my dress.

But some netizens chose to turn a blind eye, or perhaps they used this opportunity to vent their dissatisfaction with capitalists.

I watched those people make their ugly remarks.

I continued to click send, sending out another voice message from Emily.

The recording of our conversation.

As I said, she was truly stupid.

Now the tide of public opinion completely changed.

Everyone was criticizing Emily for being a drama queen and a white lotus.

At the same time, more people started digging into the relationship between Emily and Joshua.

Emily's early social media with videos of her showing affection with Joshua.

Soon, netizens dug up the fact that Emily's current boyfriend was the current head of Quinn Corp.

The criticism directed at Emily intensified.

Seeing that the timing was right, I added fuel to the fire.

Within an hour, a lot of news about Joshua's embezzlement of public funds was exposed online.

Some employees even claimed they were preparing to report it to the police.

I removed Joshua from my block list.

I dialed his number.

The voice on the other end was exhausted.

But he was still so confident.

“Sarah Thompson, you win, okay? I agree to be with you. As long as you don’t make things difficult for Emily and help me pay back the company’s debt.”

The way he said it, it was as if I was holding a knife to his throat and forcing him.

As if marrying me was a great humiliation to him.

Truly, a match made in heaven.

“You, a loser? Are you worthy?”

“Don’t break down just yet, there’s a bigger surprise waiting for you.”

I hung up the phone.

Joshua, his mother, and Emily made dozens of calls afterwards.

I blocked every single one.

Not enough, this was far from enough.

I created a Twitter account.

I responded to Emily’s video.

From Emily’s lack of dedication to her work when she joined the company.

To her repeated provocations towards her boss after ho**oking up with Joshua.

And how she spread rumors about me in the company after being fired for incompetence.

Einally, I explained the incident of the spilled wine and the compensation at the banquet.

I attached the price of the dress.

Thirty million dollars, not a penny more.

My personal account gained followers rapidly.

Three days later, Joshua still hadn’t filled the thirty-million-dollar hole in the company’s accounts.

He sold his house and car.

And Emily seemed to have realized the huge benefits brought by online traffic.

She started updating videos every day.

Most of them were videos of her showing affection with Joshua.

Although the comments below were full of curses.

But as she said, black publicity was still publicity.

I used a burner account to observe her secretly.

Finally, I got what I wanted.

In the video, she smiled gently, and Joshua lovingly touched her belly.

She was pregnant.

That afternoon, Mrs. Quinn made a scene at my company.

Kevin told me that a middle-aged woman was causing trouble at the

The Man Who Burned Me Alive in Iy Pasife, Was Also Reborn front desk.

I went to see, and sure enough, it was Mrs. Quinn.

She saw me as if she had seen a savior, and knelt down as soon as she saw me.

“Sarah, you’re a good girl... that brat Joshua got that girl pregnant... they can’t be together...”

I raised an eyebrow.

“Mrs. Quinn, that’s Joshua’s own choice. Why can’t they be together? I think that girl and Joshua are quite a match.”

Just as stupid.

I gave the security guard a look.

Soon, the crying and shouting disappeared, and my ears were finally quiet.

Joshua didn't have much of a brain, and he only knew how to play petty tricks.

With Emily pregnant, Mrs. Quinn was bound to make a fuss at home.

Neither of them was willing to back down, and Joshua had to appease both sides.

His already tight wallet became even tighter.

So he started frantically competing with me for business.

He kept an eye on my every move, and wherever I went, he would follow and compete with me.

Good, that's exactly what I wanted.

I contacted Mr. Lee, the CEO of a steel company, and invited him to dinner to discuss cooperation.

Joshua quickly got wind of this and went to contact Mr. Lee as well.

He didn't want to do any research, he just wanted to reap the benefits.

He hadn't learned his lesson after living two lifetimes.

The company that Mr. Lee was in charge of was notorious for cutting

The Man Who Burned Me Alive in My Past Life, Was Also Reborn corners and delaying delivery times.

I found him the perfect s**er in Joshua.

I clicked on Emily's latest video update.

It was a video of Joshua proposing to her, and the most eye-catching – thing in the video was a huge diamond ring.

It seemed that Joshua thought he had won this time.

The comments below were mostly still full of curses.

But there were also a small number of people who said that although their character was questionable, their love was genuine.

I looked at the comments that praised them for looking like a couple and laughed out loud.

They didn't just look like a couple, they were siblings born from the same mother.

Joshua and Emily got engaged.

I heard that Joshua's mother made a big fuss at home, even going on a hunger strike.

But Joshua was even more ruthless, he actually let his mother starve for two days.

Bethany was beaming when she told me about this.

Then she muttered in confusion.

"Liam, why do you think Joshua's mother is making such a fuss? She's dead set against them being together, even if there's a difference in family background, it shouldn't be this serious, right?"

Family vacation packages

"Could it be... they're half-siblings!"

As expected of Bethany, who had read countless cheesy novels, she actually guessed close to the truth.

I smiled and took out a paper document from the safe in my room.

I handed it to Bethany.

After flipping through it, Bethany screamed.

"Oh my god! This is so explosive! Why didn't you tell me this sooner! They're actually siblings!"

"I told you those comments about them looking like a couple were unreliable! They're siblings!"

"Liam, how did you find out?"

I pondered for a moment, and slowly said

"Last time Mrs. Quinn came to me, she said something about them not being able to be together, because of something something, she didn't finish."

Seeing Bethany's hopeful eyes, I continued.

"Then I saw netizens online saying they looked like a couple, so I thought I'd have them tested..."

"So what are you going to do next? Give this to Joshua?"

I shook my head.

"No, it's not time yet."

Because the right time hadn't come yet.

Something happened to Joshua's company.

The project his company was in charge of was investigated by the relevant authorities because of shoddy materials and unqualified materials.

Of course, I was the one who reported it.

And Joshua was detained.

The time had come.

I took out the evidence I had prepared long ago, the evidence of Joshua's repeated embezzlement of public funds, totaling over one hundred million dollars, as well as the evidence of Joshua's drunk driving years ago, which resulted in the death of a woman and him. paying someone to take the blame.

I handed it all over to the police.

At the same time, many people who claimed to be former employees of Joshua's company suddenly appeared online.

They accused Joshua of repeatedly leaving meetings halfway through after receiving calls from Emily.

There were also accusations of Joshua finding excuses to fire veteran employees after taking office.

The most outrageous one was a cleaning lady who said that she was verbally abused by Emily for asking her to move out of the way while mopping the floor, and then she was fired without receiving her due wages.

And so on, like an avalanche caused by countless snowflakes.

I knew that Joshua was completely finished.
