Hunter's P.O.V.

When we got to our room last night I had suspected that it would take along time for us to go to sleep, but the second Jason lay on the bed with me in his arms he had fallen asleep and Jax had followed soon after that. Jayce had chuckled as he watched his Brothers sleep with their arms wrapped around me.

"I hope I don't have to pee in the middle of the night." I had whispered with a smile on my face, Jayce and Justin had crawled into bed as well and soon they were also fast asleep. I had trouble drifting off to sleep, I couldn't wait until morning to find out whether I was pregnant or not.

If it turned out is wasn't our time yet I would tell Jayce to dump the condoms in the trash as I knew I want Pups and with the help of my Mates I knew I would be able to finish my studies. Justice had told me that they would be great Fathers to our Pups, no matter who the biological Father was.

I had just listened to my Mates breathing, Jax softly snoring next to me and I felt at peace. Thinking about our future Pups, my studies and everything else I finally drifted off to sleep, safe in the arms of my Mates.

Someone is trying to get me from my slumber and I am about to tell that person to go to hell when I realize it is Justice that is pushing against the block I had put up. "Damn, Justice. Can't you just let me sleep for a while." I growl at her.

"Sun is already up, Sleepy Head. I thought you would want to know that Justin needs to start working on that nursery." She replies with a huge grin and I am suddenly wide awake as I sit up straight, looking around at my Mates who are still fast asleep.

It only takes moments for them to wake up as they feel the spike in my emotions and I know Mom or Dad will link me soon as they will have felt it as well. "Princess, what is going on?" Jason asks as he holds my face gently in his hands.

"Justin needs to start working." I say and all four start at me in confusion, making Justice laugh in my head. I know she didn't mention it to their Lycans so none of them understand what I am talking about, but before I can say anything else there is a pounding on the door.

Jax pulls on some shorts to answer the door and I tell the others to put on some clothes as well, "Mom and Dad are here, they most have felt it too." I say as I crawl out of bed to put on some clothes myself.

I walk into our kitchen to make some coffee, while my Mates walk into the living room to meet up with Mom and Dad. I hear Jason tell them that they don't know what happened and I suppress a smile as I hear Dad growl, he really doesn't like it when no one has an answer to his questions.

While the coffee is brewing I make a light breakfast, knowing that we will have breakfast in the main dining room with the rest. I also do it to keep myself busy as my Mates are wondering why my emotions spiked, they have no idea Justice is already able to tell that I need to eat for two.

"Make that three." She says and I nearly drop the tray I am holding in my hands. "Princess, are you okay?" Justin asks as he grabs the tray from my hands, but I can't answer him as I am in a little state of shock. I ask Justice if she is sure and she tells me she is.

As I walk into the living room five pairs of eyes look at me in worry and the smile on my face becomes even bigger. Once we are all seated and in the possession of a cup of coffee I ask Justice if she can tell if Mom is expecting one or more Pups.

"Mom, have you made an appointment with Doc?" I ask her, trying to draw the attention away from me. "Not working, Pumpkin. But yes we did, we want to know if it is going to be one or more Pups." Mom replies. "Now, tell me what is going on with you."

"You are having one Pup, Mom. Or at least that is what Justice tells me." Mom looks at me and suddenly Dad's eyes open wide, "You can tell when a She-wolf is pregnant." He mumbles, but I have to disappoint him as I hadn't been able to do so at Three Mountain Pack.

"I knew, but I didn't want you to find out there is so much more you are capable of." Justice replies and I tell Dad what Justice told me. The smile on his face grows bigger, "If Justice tells you there is only one Pup then Doc will confirm that."

Jayce decides to bite the bullet and tells Mom and Dad what happened the other night, "We have decided that we will let nature take it's course, if we have Pups before her studies are done all four of us will help her in any way we can.

It will take a few days before Colt can tell if she is pregnant or not, but if she isn't it is up to Hunter to decide what she wants. She knows how we feel about it and she knows that she has us in her corner for what ever she decides she wants to do." He says.

Mom and Dad seem to be mind-linking and I grab a plate with some small snacks, handing it over to Justin after I have grab some cucumber of the plate. I lean against Jax's chest as we all wait for Mom and Dad to finish their conversation.

"Pumpkin, as I have said before this is your choice. Your Dad and I will help in any way we can and I know there will be a lot more people that want to help. Even though it will get a bit busy with four Pups running around." Mom says and I see the confusion on the faces of Jax and Jason.

I quickly fill them in on what I had decided to do and tell them that Alpha Quinten had send an update on her pregnancy, "Their Pack-doctor says that if she goes into labor now, both Pups are strong enough to survive." Jax asks me how we are planning on getting everything ready in such a short time.

"Why do you think I gave Emma and Ella a different assignment? They have all the help they need and everything can be done by the end of the day." I answer his question and Mom tells me she will help them out in any way they can.

"But Mom made a wrong calculation, thou." I say and I have everyone's undivided attention. I keep quiet for a while, hoping someone will figure it out. "Pumpkin, I know it will be three if you are not pregnant. But I doubt it will take long before you are carrying their Pup." Mom says.

I shake my head at her words and I blurt out, "It will be five." Dad seems to be the first one that understands what I meant and I am in his arms before anyone has the time to do anything, "Congratulations, Princess." He whispers in my ear.

Suddenly he pulls back and looks me in the eye before he whispers, "Twins." I quickly nod my head and before Dad can say anything I get pulled out of his arms by Jayce. He buries his face in my neck as I get surrounded by my Mates and I hear Dad chuckle.

Jayce keeps me on his lap as we finish our coffee and small breakfast, before we head down to the main dining room and I know it won't take long before one of my Mates will tell everyone that I am pregnant. Justice warns me that if they don't it will be my eating that will give it away.

I start laughing as she shows me a picture of the amount of food I will be eating soon and through the mind-link I say to my Mates, "You already are amazed at the amount of food I eat, wait a week or two and you will be in shock." All of them start laughing as Justin replies, "We better warn Martha to cook for an army."

Breakfast is spend by chatting about the upcoming meeting with the Elders and once we are finished we head to Dad's office to discuss what we are going to do with Elder Ward.

Everyone has an opinion on what to do with Elder Ward and some of them are completely out of this world, I just silently listen at all of them arguing. The more time we spend in this office and in the Throne room, the more time Emma and Ella will have.

Roland's Son had already come up with a plan to keep them from the rooms we were redecorating and more than enough others had been willing to help out with it. They believe there are multiple rooms that needed to get fumigated as some Omegas had reported bugs.

Joseph told them that they had to spray three rooms on each floor to make sure the bugs wouldn't travel to a floor above or below and Matt and Victor had been asked to leave their cottage as they had to spray a lot of rooms in their cottage and those of their neighbors.

Luckily their neighbors had taken that as an opportunity to visit family for the next few days and that made everything a lot easier for the girls and Joseph. How he managed to convince them that they had to stay out of those rooms until he gave the all-clear I still don't know, but I know how fond Matt is of bugs, not.
