

Apocalypse 1321

Chapter 1321: Target: Xingzhou City

Mu Xinfei led her people and stood on a hill. She looked at Cloud Peak's forces leave and couldn't calm herself down for some time.

When she knew Ye Zhongming's goal was all the mutated lifeforms in a city, her first reaction was disbelief.

In the apocalypse, cities didn't belong to humans but mutated lifeforms.

Most cities had zombies and other mutated lifeforms coexisting. When the apocalypse started, the huge population caused the number of zombies to be huge. Next would be large amounts of pets and stray animals like cats and dogs. Third was often the bugs and pests.

Around the cities were various types of mutated animals.

Of course, don't forget that there were terrifying mutated plants.

Maybe some beasts occupied a part of the city.

The human camps were rarely in cities. They were basically in the suburbs or wheel regions that were easy to defend.

Those big factions, be it Resistance Zone or Glory Army, could occupy a city. But they wouldn't do that. That would mean a huge war, an all-out war.

They had to place the fate of the entire organisation on it.

They were afraid of losses and wouldn't do things that might hurt themselves.

The Ying City mutated lifeforms reduced, but that was a special situation. Talking Lady and Red Hair appeared, and after many large-scale battles, there weren't mutated lifeforms apart from the mutated rats.

But even if they were lucky, how many humans died in that battle? How many Posthumous People warriors died?

If not for Ye Zhongming's ability, Cloud Peak would be thrashed.

But now, Cloud Peak's goal was a city, Xingzhou City.

It was a... Third-rate City.

This city had close to five million people and two million people in the city center.

Two million people would mean at least a million zombies. That didn't include the other mutated lifeforms.

Three years had passed, so the zombie horde situation here was unknown. It might have reduced, but they were definitely stronger. If you were lucky, there might be even more zombies. The number of mutated lifeforms in the city was huge; there were many survivors, too, which meant more food. The zombies in the surrounding villages might also enter the city.

Such a city would have over two million lifeforms, and Cloud Peak wanted to occupy it?

They were crazy!

Mu Xinfei couldn't understand Cloud Peak's decision even if they had won with zero losses.

She wanted to see how Cloud Peak would do what they planned. But Cloud Peak chased her away.

Not only Mu Xinfei. The scouts were asked to leave.

Cloud Peak's intentions were obvious. Leave now, and we will still be friends. If you continue to spy, we will be enemies.

No one would offend Cloud Peak and Ye Zhongming, who might be the strongest in the country for this.

Thus, many people waited quietly for the outcome of this battle.

Many things and attitudes would be decided after this battle.

Others were looking at Cloud Peak but didn't have time to care. The squads that headed out were very busy.

Checking equipment, familiarising with the map, scouting enemies, clearing the area...

Cloud Peak and its allies had to do endless amounts of things.

Outsiders weren't too optimistic and thought Cloud Peak was too arrogant. But they were confident. Behind that confidence was everyone's seriousness.

The main battle squads were all here. If anything happened in this battle, Cloud Peak would suffer huge losses.

Thus, there were strict and secret plans. When they arrived here, everyone was very solemn and nervous.

Only the Exquisite Floating Ball was in the skies above Xingzhou City. Yangos and Red Hair were on the ground. After Cloud Peak set up camp, they tried to avoid provoking the mutated lifeforms in the city.

But the small-scale battles continued. Even if they controlled the scale of people that were clearing the battlefield, these hundred thousand humans gave off a scent that drew many mutated lifeforms over to hunt.

Three days later, Cloud Peak barely managed to clear a five-kilometer zone.

“Boss!”

Early in the morning, Little Tiger was first to come to a temporary meeting room. The other core members and faction leaders also rushed over.

Everyone knew that today was the start of the battle.

Mo Ye and Guang Yao handed the mission of each battle squad to them. These were fixed after studying the exact situation of the city, which was very detailed.

What was their goal, where did they have to be, what kinds of mutated lifeforms were there, how many were there, and which battle squads were around? Where the support forces will be. What to do when they face accidents. What outcome should they get in a certain amount of time...

Everything was recorded clearly.

Seeing the plan in everyone's hands, everyone realised that battles could be fought like that.

"Accidents are unavoidable, but if the situation gets out of hand, we must deal with it to get the outcome we want."

Mo Ye looked at the hundreds of battle squad leaders and Posthumous People tribe leaders.

"If there is something you can't decide, fire the signal bullets, and people will contact you. Contact the commanders, and the solution will be passed on to you quickly. So don't panic no matter what."

Guang Yao added. This was the largest-scale battle he had led since the start of the apocalypse. He was always calm and composed, but he was very nervous now. He was also very excited.

In the battle, he will be the overall person in charge. Ye Zhongming, Mo Ye, etc., would be warriors who would listen to him.

This was trust and also responsibility.

Next were some details and time for questions. Everyone made their final preparations, and the meeting room quieted down after an hour. Everyone's goal was placed in the center position, on Ye Zhongming, who hadn't said a single word.

He was everyone's leader.

Ye Zhongming stood up, looked around, and said solemnly, "Good luck. The Xingzhou City alley battle begins now!"

Chapter 1322: Start of the city battle

The instruments in their hands had complicated diagrams, and some were moving.

Little Yu looked nervously, and his breathing was controlled.

He was a member of a faction in Ying City. Cloud Peak hired him to work at their preparation lab a while ago.

After entering, Little Yu found out that it was because he had experience in mechanical engineering and automation.

As for how Cloud Peak found out, it was because he had registered in Cloud Peak.

To the various factions of Ying City, entering Cloud Peak was their final goal.

Especially when Cloud Peak registered these people's jobs that they had done before the apocalypse, everyone was known by Cloud Peak.

But not many people could be hired. After all, loyalty was the most important thing.

When they started registering, the Ying City factions were very excited and felt they had a huge chance. However, as time went on, only some people got accepted. These were people with special jobs and experience in weapon creation or gene studies who had fought alongside Cloud Peak.

Thus, everyone was discouraged and didn't place hopes on the jobs in their last life. They focused on evolution. Cloud Peak expanded several times, so the number of people hired this way was higher than through other avenues.

But who knew that Cloud Peak would suddenly find him and ask him to join. It was also to join the newly built preparation lab.

Everyone knew that lab workers were treated the best in Cloud Peak.

Little Yu still remembered the scenes when he had left his battle squad.

Cloud Peak had a rule. If they recruited you, the battle squad you were in would receive a lot of compensation. Along with the fact that they now had someone they knew in Cloud Peak, the battle squad leader agreed and was even happy to see it happen.

This was his first test. He had to pump himself up multiple times when he received the mission.

“Underground is safe; 25 meters ahead are seven mutated lifeforms. Based on the energy levels, they are between levels four and five.”

He controlled the instrument and analysed the data. He then told the person in charge of the battle squad beside him.

Don't underestimate this small role. This was why they dared to attack a third-string city.

This instrument is called an evolution sensor. It was recently produced by Liu Zhenghong and Le Dayuan together. Machinery and biology created this thing.

Simply put, it combined life detectors and combat strength indexes. However, this device was more complex than these two.

This involved some things that even Little Yu, a researcher, did not understand. Although he participated in the research, Le Dayuan and Liu Zhenghong provided the core theories.

But this device wasn't mature and couldn't clearly indicate information people would understand instantly. You needed some analysis by professionals who could easily calculate the data.

This had something to do with the development time and progress. With Cloud Peak's current ability and timing of the battle, they could only reach such a stage. When they had time in the future, they could slowly improve it.

Since it wasn't perfect, there would be flaws. Like some evolved with special abilities couldn't be picked up. For example, the evolution level estimation wouldn't be too accurate, and it would be in a rough range. For example, their strength evaluation would just be a gauge, and you couldn't tell their real battle strength.

The evolution detector had many flaws, but as a support tool, it was very helpful.

The skies above still had the Exquisite Floating Ball, so Cloud Peak understood the situation well. Each person in charge had a tablet that showed the situation around them. But they needed to rely on this device to scout what was within buildings and in the darkness.

Only then did Ye Zhongming dare to fight.

It was also easy to understand why they chose to fight in the alleys.

Ye Zhongming, Cloud Peak, Posthumous People, and the other battle squads only had over a hundred thousand people. Even with the crystal cannons, could they battle two million mutated lifeforms at once?

They would be reckless if they tried.

Mutated lifeforms weren't only zombies but other things. They roamed in unimaginable ways. On the ground, underground, in the skies, in the water...

Moreover, these mutated lifeforms were in many different zones of this city.

Remember that many mutated lifeforms existed in the suburbs and wilderness.

If they rushed in hurriedly or drew the lifeforms out, they would be in for a relentless fight. Not only would they need to face the enemies from Xingzhou City, but they would also be surrounded from all sides.

So when Ye Zhongming placed his eyes on the city, he planned to fight in the alleys.

The appearance of this device gave him confidence.

After getting Little Yu's reminder, the battle squad captain waved, "Strong Attack Group 2, attack!"

A 20-person group charged while keeping close to the shadows. Very quickly, they entered the building that was 25 meters away. A few dozen seconds later, there were some fighting sounds and then large amounts of smoke. The walls inside had collapsed.

A while later, people from the group ran out. One of them was being carried back to the squad. Someone took over and checked his injuries, "Can be saved." he then poured a basic healing potion into his mouth and placed him on the ground.

Someone dealt with injured members, mutated lifeform crystals, and corpses; they didn't need to care.

After clearing the obstacles ahead, this team continued. A minute later, a person with a white cloth around his arm used the stretcher to carry the injured warrior away. A few others entered that building to obtain the crystal and materials.

These scenes appeared in many places. Cloud Peak entered Xingzhou City silently and started this historic battle.

"Boss zone one is smooth; they have reached the specified location. What is the next step?"

"Captain, the third zone has faced the level seven lifeform Mist Controlling Ghost. There are many casualties. Tong Hu has led some people over, but their progress has slowed."

"Exquisite Floating Ball spread back some information. A group of five thousand zombies sensed the battle and are shifting from an outside region into the battle region. How should we deal with it?"

“Captain Guang Yao, the level eight golden hero, is on the roof of the nest, but it hasn’t moved. What should we do about it?”

“There is movement underground; an unknown lifeform group is getting close.”

Guang Yao was surrounded by many messengers in the temporary command post. They reported the situation to him and spread his message.

He listened calmly and then gave those orders calmly. His body didn’t leave the sand map before him momentarily.

He moved the flags representing troops to indicate the situation in the city.

The alley battle was not a traditional alley battle but was modified. This was something special to the apocalypse.

Guang Yao needed to ensure the plan was smooth, so he had to know the exact situation.

When he heard that the level eight golden hero had moved, he turned and looked at the quiet Ye Zhongming.

Ye Zhongming nodded and gave an order from his head. Red Hair rode the undead dragonfish and jumped into the sky, flying toward the city.

Cloud Peak's first top combat strength moved.

This also meant that the battle would continue. Either they won or lost.

There was no way back.

"How long to contact for the underground lifeforms?"

Guang Yao asked one of the messengers.

"Based on its speed, three minutes."

Guang Yao nodded and looked toward Ye Zhongming.

"Boss, I request to send the rat army."

"Okay."

With Ye Zhongming's permission, Guang Yao's face flushed red slightly. It wasn't nervousness, but he was excited.

Cloud Peak's first gene army was beginning its first battle.

They said that because the rat army was different from the other mutated lifeforms that Liu Zhenghong created. They had their own minds and individual natures, so they could reproduce and evolve.

Only a thousand of this rat army trained in the Secret Realm remained, but they were very strong. Their combat strength increased. As they could live underground, they had become an important source of strength for Cloud Peak.

With them and another huge group of mutated rats following, this was another reason why Ye Zhongming dared to fight this.

Before heading out, Ye Zhongming called the Rat King and told him to send subordinates. Rat King didn't dare to disobey and sent over 200 thousand.

Right, there was such a special army beneath their feet.

Just numbers alone, Cloud Peak had not only 100 thousand warriors but 200 thousand rats.

But these rats weren't strong. Fighting above ground was their weakness, so they wouldn't be too useful. As they were timid, it might even backfire.

Underground was their main battlefield.

After ensuring that there weren't any worries below, you would be able to better plan the ground troops.

Two hundred thousand mutated rats and Xingzhou City's underground lifeforms began their battle.

Chapter 1323: Second stage

Not only did Ying City have rats, but other cities had rats, too.

Apart from rats, there were various underground lifeforms: centipedes, ants, moles, and even some snakes and frogs.

These things were the kings of the underground.

Usually, they attack each other and see each other as food. But today, they started facing the enemy together.

The first batch of lifeforms that Cloud Peak sensed were a bunch of mutated ants.

The difference from other underground lifeforms was that the mutated ants preferred to pull the lifeforms they hunted above ground back down into their holes to feast.

They didn't like rats, moles, and snakes.

When Cloud Peak's battle squad indeed Xingzhou City, these sensitive fellows were the first few batches that noticed that the battle had begun.

They were ready to attack Cloud Peak's battle squad.

But before they could get to the surface, they bumped into Ying City's mutated rat army.

Facing an opponent many times fewer than their numbers, the mutated rats were courageous.

The conflict happened instantly. Numerous lives clashed and used their abilities in the soil.

Due to the intense fights, the ground split open like an earthquake, causing one region to collapse. The energy and dirt that seeped out from that area were like blades that turned the place into a restricted zone.

This huge commotion terrified not only the evolved above but also Guang Yao. He was nervous because he was afraid that if the effect of this area increased and caused chaos throughout the battlefield, that would be a huge problem.

Fortunately, the way the underground lifeforms fought was much better suited for the underground. Be it the soil or the various water pipes, these were places that those lifeforms would choose.

The first batch of mutated ants were surrounded and killed within a few minutes.

Although the ants killed a similar amount of rats, this was due to their thick shell and different attack methods—especially the poison. Before the rats could get close, they were able to deal a huge amount of damage.

A few minutes of fighting caused nearly all the underground lifeforms of Xingzhou City to rush over. Under Guang Yao's leadership, Ye Zhongming controlled the rat army that belonged to Cloud Peak to hide. They searched for the smaller groups to attack. They used this method to reduce the number of enemies and to preserve their strength.

Be it Guang Yao or Ye Zhongming, they didn't want to lose this army here.

Liu Zhenghong requested this. She needed these rats to reproduce and increase the number of mutated rats.

The battle underground was intense, and so was the battle above.

No matter how hard they tried to be secretive, the more warriors entered the city, the more attention the mutated lifeforms received. They started to surge in this direction.

The alley battles weren't as easy as before.

"Boss, request to enter the second stage."

Guang Yao asked Ye Zhongming. He felt it was time to execute the second stage.

Ye Zhongming stood up and nodded before walking out of the temporary command post.

He would be participating in this new round of battle.

He jumped on Yangos' back and slapped the evil dragon, "Time for us."

The moment Yangos heard it, it was extremely excited and gave a loud roar.

The dragon's roar caused the entire city to come alive.

Some flying lifeforms flew up in the distance toward this area. They gathered together in a dense group.

The mutated lifeforms on the ground also charged toward Cloud Peak's direction.

“Wang!”

Yellow Ball turned into a golden shadow and jumped onto Yangos’s back.

The evil dragon turned around unhappily. It didn’t feel good for a lifeform of the same level to stand on its back.

Yangos’s opposition was ineffective, so it roared again before charging into the sky. Today, Ye Zhongming, Yellow Ball had a tough mission.

“Xia Bai, leaving it to you!”

Ye Zhongming shouted to Xia Bai before leading the dragon and dog towards the west.

Xia Bai looked as Ye Zhongming flew into the distance. She waved at the female guards and a team behind before they moved towards the battlefield.

“Air alarm! Contact in 30 seconds!”

Guang Yao received the notification and made the orders.

His orders were given, and the giant vehicles drove into the battlefield. The black cloth covering them was removed, revealing many black things.

Cloud Peak was familiar with half of them- Violent Lightning Turret.

As Ye Zhongming had to craft many things, and the crystal cannons could replace these turrets, it had been a long time since he had crafted new turrets.

But it was different this time. The crystal cannons weren't strong enough to deal with forces in the air. The Violent Lightning Turrets were very important in such a battle where they were proactively attacking.

Ye Zhongming specially created a few hundred turrets this time.

As he couldn't upgrade it, these turrets might not be able to cause lethal damage to high-level lifeforms. However, once they reach a certain number, that could compensate for the lack of numbers.

It wasn't a joke when hundreds of turrets fired simultaneously.

On some other vehicles, there were small cannons similar to mortars. They weren't crystal weapons but elemental weapons that used wind element energy to attack.

Ball Blade Mortar.

This was the name of this weapon.

Ye Zhongming didn't craft these; they came from another Smith in Cloud Peak, who modified the materials and gave them to Ye Zhongming.

Not everyone had as much mental energy and a high success rate as Ye Zhongming. The Wind Ball Mortars took a long time to craft and only reached a small scale today.

That Smith used many mental energy potions and roughly half a year to create 200 mortars.

Now, this was the first time they were being used on the battlefield.

It looked like a mortar, and the way it was fired was similar. The difference was that it didn't fire cannonballs but energy bullets. There were two types that you could select. One was wind blades, and the other was a wind ball.

The former was fast and penetrative. They were sharp like blades and dealt heavy single-target damage. The latter was slow and had a smaller range, but it would explode and deal AOE damage.

Each of them fired a few dozen wind-blade attacks and around twenty wind-ball attacks. After which, they would run out of energy and need to charge in a place with wind currents. The charging time would depend on the speed of the air currents. It would take around a day to fill if the wind is suitable.

Be it Violent Lightning Turret or this Wind Ball Mortar, they were prepared by Cloud Peak to deal with flying mutated lifeforms.

As the apocalypse progressed, the threats from the skies increased.

Beside the vehicles with the two weapons were the female guards and warriors holding two thousand rpgs. There were also around five thousand ranged evolved standing around.

They were either job users like archers, shooters, mages, etc, or they were holding various guns or crossbows. Li Qiang led them and were the outline of Cloud Peak's air defense force.

This air force waited for orders as they looked at the mutated lifeforms getting close.

The battle continued in the city. But if you looked closely, you would see that the various forces weren't heading forward but retreating!

Many people didn't understand why. To them, they entered Xingzhou silently, so they should continue forward and battle the lifeforms like how they wiped out the mutated apes.

Why retreat? Especially when the battle was so smooth.

They didn't understand, but be it Cloud Peak or the various factions, they listened to orders and headed toward the base.

The mutated lifeforms chased.

"Begin!"

Guang Yao gave the order, and Cloud Peak's second stage attack began.

Chapter 1324: Golden Hero

Golden Hero wasn't the name of a person but a type of mutated zombie.

This lifeform was no different from humans... Apart from it not wearing anything and being golden.

But the Golden Hero was among the few level eight lifeforms in Xingzhou City.

It was very strong.

The Golden Hero was a zombie, but it was different from other types, such as the Talking Lady. It didn't like having so many subordinates and loved being alone.

It hated other zombies.

It didn't mind killing and feeding on other zombies when it was hungry.

Because zombies were mutated humans, when zombies evolved to higher levels, they were smarter than other mutated lifeforms, and their thinking was more flexible. In terms of fighting, they were more careful.

Other high-level zombies thought about killing this fellow. After all, it was a good energy source. After absorbing it, they didn't need to worry about their bodies rejecting the energy as they were all the same species.

Many groups planned on attacking the golden hero in the huge Xingzhou City with their many zombies. But they all failed and ended up as its food.

The Golden Hero's ability was very strong. One of them was its high defense. That golden body not only made it look rich, but it was also tough and hard. Another ability was that its abilities were AOE damage, and it was good at fighting against groups.

There were very few of these types of mutated zombies, and they weren't too famous. Xingzhou City was a city that was controlled by mutated lifeforms, and there weren't many humans who had evolved. Few people had seen the golden hero before, so in other places, their information regarding such zombies were little.

But Ye Zhongming was different. He lived a second life and knew what these lifeforms were like. After scouting, he noticed that Xingzhou City had such a zombie and, thus, planned a way to deal with it.

It was very simple, send Red Hair.

When it saw Red Hair, the Golden Hero that sat on the roof had a look of greed.

Like humans, if you didn't look at the color and just the body structure, this was a human. Even the eyes and skin were perfect.

Due to its high level, its expressions were real, too. If not for the golden color and demon crystal on the forehead, you might think it was human.

Red Hair held the spear on the undead dragonfish's back. It pointed the spear's tip at the Golden Hero, and her body gave off a thick fighting aura.

After becoming a level eight lifeform, Red Hair hadn't truly battled someone of the same level.

Today, she knew that she could have a good fight.

"Follow me or die."

Red Hair gave off a mental energy message.

The Golden Hero was first stunned. She didn't expect this beautiful woman to know how to communicate mentally. But then, it showed a mocking expression and gave her an international hand sign.

Red Hair wasn't furious, and instead, her eyes lit up.

From that action alone, she knew that this was a rare opponent. It was very intelligent, which excited her.

Golden Hero looked at Red Hair and the battle in the distance. It nodded and guessed the connection between the two.

It took a deep breath, and the golden body began brighter until you could describe it as shiny.

But this bright light didn't last for long. As it raised its arms, a golden light flew from its body towards Red Hair.

"Golden Sky!"

This ability was called Golden Sky in the apocalypse.

As for its effect, it was simple and violent. It was an AOE energy attack.

Although the activation method and damage type were ordinary, don't underestimate its strength. The golden light was an energy attack but also had special stat damage.

Even if the person hit by the light didn't die, the golden light would attach to their body and cause the body to become heavier and heavier.

In battle, one mistake could cause one to lose their life. Much less their own body becoming as heavy as lead.

In past battles, as long as the Golden Hero used this skill, all lifeforms would get hit. They wouldn't get instantly killed, but would lose a chance of winning.

Don't forget that this move was also an AOE attack.

Red Hair looked at the golden light and used her spear. The tip opened, and magma spurted to form a magma veil in front of their bodies. In the next moment, it clashed with the golden light.

Large amounts of smoke rose. The golden light dimmed, and the red magma also disappeared.

But the splattering sounds got more and more intense.

Once the mist dissipated, one could see that Red Hair was on the roof fighting with the Golden Hero.

The red threads on the spear had opened and were floating around like tentacles. When they had a chance, the tentacles would attack the Golden Hero like poisonous snakes.

At the same time, the undead dragonfish was using its abilities to help Red Hair. It opened its mouth and bits of starlight floated from its mouth. Red Hair wasn't affected, but the Golden Hero was. One of the functions of Golden Sky was to slow but it didn't slow Red Hair. This starlight affected its speed instead, and it became very frustrated.

High-level lifeforms had strong talent skills, and they could often decide the outcome of the battle. But like human skills, they needed to consume stamina and mental energy. There was also a long cooldown time.

So, in most situations, high-level evolution lifeforms would fight up close while searching for a chance to use skills.

Red Hair and the Golden Hero were in such a situation.

Golden Hero's defense was good. Only people who had seen Red Hair knew how terrifying she was. She was fast, and strong and also had techniques that she learned from Xia Lei and Mo Ye. Although it was only a small bit, it was already terrifying for a level eight lifeform to use it with their body's qualities.

In just a short while, her red spear and her fists, even her legs hit the Golden Hero's body.

What surprised her was that her fists and legs couldn't move it at all. Only when her spear hit its body could it leave spots.

But... They were just spots.

The Golden Hero laughed. Its cumbersome hands started to stretch!

Chapter 1325: Red Hair at full strength

This stretch was not only used to attack. It was as if the limbs had formed some deficiencies. The wrist position became very thin, and some flesh disappeared, leaving only bones.

Red Hair's expression changed slightly, and she took a step back.

This was an instinctive urge to be careful.

After Red Hair became more human-like, she stopped risking her life in all fights. The only person in Cloud Peak who fought like a crazy demon was Xia Bai.

Golden Hero had a weird smile on its face, and its stretched hands started to turn.

Anyone who saw this scene would be shocked. The parts where bone and flesh were connected started to twist. This went against the body's structure. Even if it was a zombie, it did not make sense.

But that wasn't over. It turned not only once but consecutively. The Golden Hero's hands quickly turned into a spinning top!

It was faster and faster and caused the wind to whistle.

After Red Hair stepped back, she flicked her spear upwards to hit the spinning hands. The Golden Hero stretched its hands to face the spear.

Both sides clashed in mid-air.

Dang dang dang!

The spinning hands and spear clashed, and metallic clangs sounded throughout the roof. Red Hair scoffed and was finding it tough to hold the spear. The power from the spear's body caused it to jump quickly. The up and down vibration was so quick that they were connected as one.

With Red Hair's strength, she couldn't control her own weapon.

The Golden Hero laughed. The face of an ordinary person had a cruel expression on it.

This was also its ability. It used the weird spin to give off a special strength. This strength hit its opponent's weapon while also forming a strong attraction. This caused the opponent's weapon to shake, and the goal was to cause the enemy to lose their weapon.

Ye Zhongming didn't know that the Golden Hero had this ability. After all, the stuff he knew were rumors, as well as the mutated lifeform booklet. There was a possibility that some abilities were missed. Now that the Golden Hero had used the ability, she could not control her spear, and it left her hands.

A huge leg stepped on the spear. The Golden Hero's hands stopped spinning and returned to normal.

Using this opportunity, its head stretched. Moreover, it was extremely quick. It crossed several meters and hit Red Hair's body.

Red Hair recognised this skill. It was Stored Power Strike!

Red Hair's hair blocked before her to clash with that strike. The Golden Hero's head bounced back and forth, and Red Hair was sent flying back.

Red Hair didn't block that ability completely. She didn't close off the path, and thus, the head was stopped slightly before it hit her chest.

The soul-fire eyes of the dragonfish shone bright. That bone skeleton shook and wanted to attack, but it stopped itself.

The dragonfish lowered its head and looked at the ground. Red Hair had already stood up and shook her head at the dragonfish.

The dragonfish kept silent, and the remaining starlight from its mouth stopped. It waved its giant tail and flew to the bottom of the building.

There were a bunch of mutated lifeforms there that thought they could rush to the battlefield when the Golden Hero was too busy to care about them.

Red Hair stretched her neck, and the part of her chest that had slightly collapsed cracked a little before she recovered.

This caused Golden Hero's human-like eyes to constrict.

It knew the strength of its ability the most. That strike just looked like a simple stretching of its neck. In truth, the head of the Golden Hero was the key point of that strike.

Strictly speaking, they were two abilities. Golden Hero's head had a few not obvious spots. No one would pay close attention. Even if they noticed it, they wouldn't think much about it.

But when those spots were controlled, they could give off a special poison.

When hitting Red Hair, the poison was activated and entered Red Hair's body.

Golden Hero felt that even if it couldn't poison her to death, it would cause her to lose her combat strength.

Moreover, there was also that heavy strike.

Who knew that she would stand up so quickly? They didn't seem to affect her, be it the strike or poison.

Golden Hero couldn't help but look at her beautiful armor.

Seemed like this was the reason.

Red Hair stood up and told the undead dragonfish to leave. This meant that she wanted to kill this fellow herself.

Since she was reborn in the magma ocean, this was the first time she was so furious.

No one knew how strong Red Hair was if she used all her powers.

Golden Hero quickly awoke from shock. Its body slowly arced, and it wanted to use its next attack.

It took a step before stopping.

It saw magma seeping through the gaps of that beautiful armor.

Impossible!

The intelligent Golden Hero felt that it was not logical. How could such an exquisite armor that stuck to her body have so much sticky and high-temperature matter flowing out of it?

But things couldn't be looked at with normal thinking. If not, this wouldn't be the apocalypse, and there wouldn't be any evolutions!

Magma continued to flow, and in a few seconds, it formed a magma pool under her feet. This pool quickly expanded.

Golden Hero decided to stop waiting. It sunk its shoulders down and wanted to use the next ability. But Red Hair was faster than it and flashed beside the Golden hero. Her hair danced, and red threads wrapped around her fist. Along with the magma that flowed down her body, she punched.

From the side, it was as if she teleported and appeared beside the Golden Hero with a punching motion.

Golden Hero's attacks were activated, relying on its strong defense to launch a back charge.

The red and golden figures clashed again.
