

ARCEUS' PIRATE JOURNEY

Chapter 22: The fruit of drama - puppet show

Chapter 22 The Fruit of the Play - Puppet Play

Kaido jumped into the air with his legs, and then activated his ability to transform into a human-beast form.

"Jiang Sanshi · Yinna Luo!"

waving an iron rod and falling from the sky, but the target was not the pirates, but the building in the naval base. Those pirates looked menacing and fearless, but they were very weak and they couldn't stop Kaido at all.

So much so that Kaido completely ignored those guys, smashed the building directly, and smashed a hole in the ground.

And below that is the basement of the naval base. At this time, there is a person sitting cross-legged with a mask in his hand. Looking at Kaido appearing in front of him, his face shows incomprehensible shock.

"I found you, your breath is as obvious as the torches in the dark night in this group of trash fish."

Everyone's breath is slightly different, and Fujitora can detect the subtle differences with his super-wide perception. Although he doesn't know the face of each person, he can also distinguish each person when he is blind.

Kaido's sensibility has not been developed in this direction, but sensing the strength of an individual is also one of the basic abilities of sensibility. After development, it can make a rough judgment on the strength of the enemy.

Although there is more than one aura in the building, there is a relatively powerful aura mixed in such a group of miscellaneous fish pirates, how could Kaido not perceive it.

"I know so many things, but I don't know the most basic common sense. Where did you come from? Let me ask you one last time, where is John, the knife marks on the outside are obviously the handwriting of John's guy, he must have been here. Here, where has he gone now?"

The man didn't speak, instead he raised the mask in his hand and put it on his face, with a pair of ghost horns on the mask, although the mask was suddenly a little abstract, but the overall appearance of Kaido can still be seen.

"Hee hee hee, I am the one who ate the fruit of superhuman drama, the power of these guys will eventually be used by me!"

I saw that his figure with the mask suddenly changed, and he actually turned into Kaido's appearance, but it was not in the form of a human beast, but a human form.

Playing the fruit, the person with the ability will have the same ability as a drama. The previously comatose pirates are like zombies, which is the effect of his fruit's ability - puppet play.

Within the range of his stage, he can control other people to perform a drama for the puppets, but the stronger the individual is, the more difficult it is for him to control. Even a person as strong as Quinn cannot easily control it.

However, the puppet show was originally more focused on quantity. He originally wanted to let the navy go into chaos due to civil strife when the navy arrived, but he didn't expect to use it on the group of pirates first.

Kaido also indirectly helped him. If those people were not in a coma, it would be almost impossible for him to manipulate such a number of puppets.

And the manipulation of the puppets can only be done within the scope of the stage. These days, he has not left here, that is, he has turned this base into his own stage with his abilities.

John in the center of the field is his theatrical avatar. Using the mask he portrayed as a carrier, he can create the same avatar as the person depicted by the mask and control it, but this requires the blood or body parts of some imitators. Be like.

The mask he wears on his face at this time is another application of his ability, adding drama.

The drama clone can feel the power of the enemy, and the main body can make the mask of the enemy according to the feedback of the clone. When the main body wears the mask, he will get the power that the clone feels, but it must be within a few hours. to make masks.

And only physical power can be obtained. If the opponent is a capable person, then he cannot possess the ability that belongs to the opponent.

That is to say, now he is using a mask to imitate Kaido's power and use Kaido to fight Kaido.

"Props."

As he said these two words, a mace of the same style as Kaido appeared in his hand. On his stage, he could obtain the props he needed for his "performance", and the weapon naturally also included.

And Kaido's behavior also surprised him, seeing that he couldn't reproduce the fruit ability, Kaido actually released his human-beast form.

"Pretend? No wonder you can disguise John's appearance, just to let me see how well you can imitate this fake."

Not only did he pretend to be John, but he also seemed to know a little about some things that John should know. For example, he knew the trainee, but he didn't know the relationship between John and Kaido.

This means that he has seen John, Kaido wants to pry his mouth open to get John's information, and he also wants to see what it is like to fight with himself.

After the brief fight, the smile on Kaido's face faded, replaced by a sense of loss.

"What, are you just imitating the strength of the blow, this is too disappointing!"

Fake Kaido can also wield thunder and gossip, but this strength is the strength Kaido used to attack Fake John before. No matter what, he didn't get any enhancement. Of course, he could feel the situation after a few rounds of competition.

The most important thing is that this person's domineering cultivation is too poor, and his simple armed color is not worthy of his thunderous gossip.

The ability of        seems strange, but the combat power of the main body is very weak. This is what Kaido gave him. In the end, Kaido also lost interest in this boring drama.

"Let's experience what thunderous gossip is!"

A huge human-shaped imprint was left on the ruins of the base building, and the rest of the pirates also collapsed to the ground again. After the ability person loses consciousness, their ability will also fail. When the ability person who plays the fruit is in a coma, this drama will will also end.

"This guy won't die, right?"

"No, I kept my hand, he should know about John's whereabouts." Kaido has extremely rich experience in beating people to a near-death state, and it can be said to be very handy.

Arceus did not stay at the base, but left the 277 branch with the stunned person, and took a patrol boat, leaving only the comatose pirates.

The fast-running pirates had already left here, and they came here because of the gathering of interests.

The sky was getting dark, and Quinn sailed on the wide sea. Although this ship was not comparable to the large warships of the Lieutenant General with a crew of more than 800 people, it was also much more spacious than the previous small boats of Quinn.

This kind of boat is easy to maneuver, and two or three people can barely maneuver it.

Even if they were given a large warship, they would not have enough manpower to drive them

There is also a prison for pirates in the patrol ship. The man has been handcuffed by Hailoushi. Because Kaido kept his hand, he gradually regained consciousness at this time.

(end of this chapter)