

Arceus 711

Chapter 711 Almost smashed his own stall

"Sister Derek, is it necessary to make it so complicated?"

Seeing Drake take care of his opponents in the next two days with a kind tone, Iska didn't understand very well. Beasts are a group of pirates with a very complicated composition. Even with the group rules made by Arceus, the restrictions are only usual life.

It's about the slate, beasts can do big things to destroy the country, but Drake's way of doing things at this time is very different from the past.

"What did Emmaline teach you?"

Derek didn't answer directly, but asked how Emmaline taught Iska. Ordinary orphans are now studying in the monastery, but these are more special, and there are usually some cadres taking care of them.

Iska was brought back by Shaina and Emmaline, but Shaina usually has a lot of things to do, so Emmaline also acted as her temporary parents.

"It's just a very common thing..."

"That's right. That guy is very strict in everything he does. Some things are very simple. If it's something else, it's okay to grab it directly after the competition is over."

"after the end?"

"This is the New World, and the name of the conference is also the New World Central Fighting Conference. This conference has been going on for a while, and the people who hold this conference have a lot of connections in the New World.

We still have a lot of business, and we have to give others face. "

The New World is a complicated sea area, and most of the people with top sea power gather here. Even the navy will not act in the New World without sufficient preparation.

Now the territories of the three sea emperors are intertwined, Shanks is also rising rapidly, and the situation of the four emperors is gradually taking shape. Due to the separation of many forces, the middlemen in the underground world in the new world have room to operate.

On weekdays, when there is nothing wrong with each other, everyone will give each other a little face.

"Sister Derek, are you sure to threaten the players at night, is it to give them face?"

"So I threatened him secretly. The situation is different. That guy looks like he treasures that slate, and you heard the guy's wild words on the field. He is a "fool" who wants to challenge the emperor of the sea.

This kind of guy may not hand over things even if he is desperate, and using roughness here will break the rules. "

As he spoke, he changed to a more comfortable position and continued to monitor the opponent's actions.

"And this guy has too little information. I don't know if he has contacted any other forces after entering the new world. The thing is suspected to be a slate. The safest way is to call a stronger person to deal with it.

If I can be 100% sure, I will contact Lord Arceus directly. By the way, Iska, remember in the future, if there is no conclusive information, it is best not to report it to the higher level. "

This is the difference between Drake and Emmaline. Emmaline is an ordinary member who joined Beasts directly in the early stage, and Drake is the captain of other pirate groups who joined Beasts later.

Contrary to the social animal version of Mandelfish, she is a complete old oily person. She is very satisfied with her current position and has no imagination for the future. She just wants to live in such a chic way.

This thing is real, there is no problem in contacting Arceus directly, but she does not have the ability to be 100% sure of the truth.

Made a fake and leapfrogged the report, and her immediate boss couldn't hold back anymore. The merits were actually put here, and others couldn't take it away, so she chose to notify Jin.

Before Jhin arrived, she just had to keep an eye on the other party. This time she came out to participate in the competition, and she didn't bring any manpower. If there is an accident, she will let the other party run away in the chaos, and then hide directly. .

"Some things can be solved simply and rudely, but for this kind of thing, it's better to be steady."

Derek didn't expect that her stability not only had an effect, but also indirectly saved her wallet.

Gaponov won somehow, and he still stayed on the island where the conference was held until Jhin's arrival.

"Where's the stuff?"

"Still on that person."

"Good job, the credibility of the New World Central Fighting Conference still needs to be maintained."

The shape changed, Jhin fell on the roof, and he had already blended into the night because he was completely black. Most people didn't notice that there was already such a person on the island.

"Brother Jin is quite interested in this game."

"You do not know?"

"Huh? Know what?"

Derek was asked inexplicably, and had no idea what Jhin was talking about.

"It seems that I overestimated you. Can't you learn from Mandelfisch and know more about these things?"

"Then it's not me, brother Jin, what's the matter?"

"It's nothing, it's just that Tezzolo just got involved in this competition last month, and we are also one of the organizers of this competition. If you really make something happen and smash the signboard here, I'm afraid you will have to say goodbye to the year-end awards gone."

Jhin thought that Drake knew about this, and she was the only one among Beasts who was keen on this kind of competition with high prize money, so she didn't find it strange to hear that she was monitoring the opponent's actions before, and didn't specifically ask her.

At that time, he still felt strange that his deputy's sudden change of * was a bit unreasonable, but now it seems that he just thought too much.

The New World Central Fighting Tournament didn't last very long. The next day was the final, and Drake successfully won four consecutive championships. After the game, the contestants on the island also began to evacuate quickly.

During the competition, there was an unknown force on the island maintaining order, but this order was broken at the end of the final. At this time, no matter what kind of grievances there are, you can handle them yourself, and no one will continue to intervene.

Nowadays, this conference even has the participation of Beasts. Of course, Jhin will not destroy the face of his own business, so he waited until the end of the competition. Once the reputation is lost, it will not be so easy to get it back.

Compared with the situation where you have to clean up the mess in advance, waiting has become the safest way.

Gaponov's results were not particularly satisfactory, but he also received a bonus for entering the final, but when he was leaving, Jhin's figure appeared in front of him.

"I'll give you a chance, leave that slate behind, and you can leave here safe and sound."

"Dream, this is Lao Tzu's stuff, you don't want to take it away!"

When he first arrived in the new world, he also met someone who wanted to * this slate. It was the most difficult battle he had experienced since he went to sea, but relying on the indestructible characteristics of the slate, he knocked down the enemy, and since then, he was completely attracted by the defensive power of the slate.

I also thoroughly determined my goal of becoming the new emperor by collecting stone slabs

Chapter 712 A double hit, comparable to Quinn's taunt

At the beginning, the man wanted to take this thing to claim credit from the beasts, but unfortunately he failed. Gaponov knew at that time that carrying this thing might attract new enemies, but he was not afraid, and even wanted to fight against the beasts. Pursue a higher realm in battle.

It's just on the way of the enemy's upgrade. Today's span is a bit big.

From ordinary pirates in the new world to the big cadres under the emperor of the sea, he omitted too many processes in the middle.

"Stupid, hand it over honestly, you can still get the chance to join the beasts, wrong choice"

The reason why Tezzolo inserted his hand here is also related to the nature of the New World Central Fighting Conference. Due to the competition system, it attracts some animal-type ability users and martial arts masters from the New World every year.

This is also an opportunity to find talents and recruit newcomers. Kaido's ideal of the animal army has basically been realized, but a person who wants to start a war will not dislike his army too much.

As a person who has just entered the new world, Jhin feels that the person in front of him has the opportunity to recruit. With this slate, he will definitely not suffer a loss if he chooses to join.

"Get it yourself if you have the ability, and your name is not written on this thing! Are you a cadre of that Kaido? Just wait, I will defeat him sooner or later! Whether it is the Emperor of the Sea or the One Piece, sooner or later he will be Father's!"

Seeing that the other party rejected him, Jhin did not continue to communicate with him. If it weren't for the slate, he would not even have asked before.

Just listening to his rebuttal, several bloodshot eyes appeared in Jhin's eyes.

Arzeus's slate, Kaido's One Piece, these are the two big targets of beasts, they can accurately poke the two lightning points of Jhin at the same time, and his ability to attract Jhin's fire power is comparable to that of Quinn

"I'm not interested in your ideals, and the world doesn't need a "king" like you, but I meet your needs, and I just have to verify it."

At this time, the wings on Jhin's back are not the wings of the Lunaria clan, but the bat wings of the fossilized pterosaurs. The wings of the Lunaria people are another pair of arms. Both he and Shaina can move freely. manipulate it.

It's just that their focus is completely different, and Jhin has more applications for this pair of wings.

"Xun Yu kills the emperor!"

Clang!

With a bang, Jhin had arrived behind Gaponov in the blink of an eye, and a huge X-shaped gap appeared on the ground. The extraordinary scale of the battle also attracted the attention of the surrounding people.

Compared to Jhin's fight here, their fight was like a child's play, and Jhin managed to stop them.

"I'm not mistaken, isn't that the cadre of Beasts?"

"Ah, it's him. The bounty is 976 million Baileys. Flame Calamity Jhin. Who is fighting him?"

"I don't know, which newcomer is it? Anyway, he's finished"

Jhin spends most of his time in Wano Country, but that doesn't mean he doesn't go out, and every time he goes out, he can make a lot of noise, which has also led to Jhin's reputation all the time. With his tall figure and iconic clothing, he can be seen at a glance. The pirates who can survive in the new world recognize his identity.

It is very unwise to offend the emperor of the sea in the new world. Without the aura of the protagonist, the person who does this kind of thing must at least throw away something, maybe it is a part, maybe it is something that he values. Few people can go out completely .

"Hey, isn't it, that guy. He took that move! And there is no injury at all?!"

There were huge slash marks on the ground, but Gabonov was not injured at all, which seemed extremely unscientific to them.

Even Jhin was slightly shocked.

"It's interesting, you really have some skills."

It is entirely due to Slate that he was unharmed. Jhin was indeed the attack that Slate was aiming at. If he was able to survive this blow without any injuries, he would basically be able to lock Slate's identity.

But his slash is not only sharp, but also carries a huge force. The stone plate can block the sharp edge, but it cannot block the subsequent impact. In other words, Gabonov relied on his own physique to withstand Jin's attack Contains strength.

"Good strength."

Only relying on that stone slab, he couldn't get to where he is today. He was able to break into the new world. Gabonov also has his own ability, and this strange power is his reliance.

It's just that this strange power is not the result of exercise, but the ability brought by the devil fruit. He himself is also a superhuman power fruit user.

The upper limit of this fruit is uncertain, but Gabonov has only developed the most basic attribute of strange power so far.

The mighty strength is his spear, and the hard slate is used as a shield by him, which is why he swells.

He thinks that he already has the strongest spear and shield in the world, but this shield is too small and can only block the vital points of the body. It would be great if it could wrap the whole body.

At that moment, he even thought he understood why Kaido was looking for stone slabs to make armor.

Now even the senior cadres of the Four Emperors have not been able to break through his own defense head-on. His confidence has swelled to the extreme. He raised the slate, and with the help of brute force, he also exploded at an extremely fast speed.

"Are you scared? It's not over yet! Shield impact!"

The strange power of the fruit of power gave him a powerful explosive force, and even a small-scale vibration came from the surrounding ground, but when the smoke and dust cleared, the person standing was still Jhin, and his blade had pierced through it from the side. The opponent's chest.

"I have seen a lot of self-righteous idiots. You are just a person with a little skill, but your journey is over here. There are some things that you can't touch."

With the flexibility brought by the wings and the perception brought by domineering, this kind of guy who only relies on brute force can't touch Jhin at all. He really doesn't have the ability to penetrate the defense of the stone slab, but for him, it is very simple to bypass it. things.

He has a very detailed understanding of the structure of the human body. This knife directly pierced through the gap in the ribs, piercing the opponent's lungs and heart one after another.

Turning his wrist, the touch from the handle of the knife made Jhin confirm that he had crushed the opponent's heart.

The body of the special knife was not stained with any blood, and the blood flowed out from Gaponov's body that fell on the ground, and the stone slab was held firmly in Jhin's hand.

The people around didn't think there was anything strange about it. This time it was the most appropriate situation in their perception. A person who had just entered the new world not long ago, didn't even know how to be domineering, and only relied on external things, if he could get along with Jhin Calling back and forth will make them feel puzzled.

Following Jhin's eyes on the people around him, they also ignored the conflicts between themselves and others, and left here quickly, for fear of getting into trouble, Jhin indirectly resolved the personal conflicts of these people.

"After confirmation, I will report the achievements of the two of you. Hurry up and go back to Ghost Island. I will go first."

Chapter 713 Fist slate, physical immunity

The killing on the island did not attract more people's attention. This is also the normal state after the game. It is very common for people with enmity to separate life and death. This is why most people choose to leave here quickly at the end of the game s reason.novelusb.com

They don't want to be involved in trouble, let alone encounter any unknown AOE, inexplicable casualties, after the order on the island disappears, only themselves can guarantee their own safety.

If it weren't for the reputation and prize money, as well as a sufficiently stable order in the schedule, it would not be so easy for the New World Central Fighting Conference to proceed smoothly.

Jin had already returned with his things first, and Drake and Iska also started their return journey. At this time, Drake was silently counting the money.

"Return to Emmaline, return to Brother Jin, return to Babanuki."

A large pile of prize money already has her own creditors, and after deducting this part, there is very little left. She still values the championship prize money very much. This is a new and important means of repaying debts in her life since she participated in the competition.

"Okay, the rest should be cool for a few days, little ones, hurry back to the voyage, and I'll buy you a drink when I get back to Ghost Island!"

"Oh!"

Except for the banquet, drinks are not free, and it is a good thing for them that their boss is willing to treat guests, but Iska does not understand Drake's behavior.

"Sister Derek, why don't you save some?"

"Huh? I almost forgot about you. Let's come together when the time comes. Pirates don't know how to drink. Just exercise your drinking capacity so that you won't have to pour a glass later."

Someone persuaded her before, but it was useless. Most of her money was wasted on such days of treating guests. Her younger brother would also invite her, but there is no comparison in terms of scale.

"Sister Derek, I'm telling you something serious!"

"Don't worry about it so much. There are cafeterias on Ghost Island and you can't die from starvation. If you put treasures there, they will only grow moldy and hairy. Only by spending them is the meaning of their existence."

Differences in values have brought about this kind of living habits. She prefers treasures that disappear like fireworks to treasures that are piled up in warehouses and can last forever.

She pursues the magnificence in life and enjoys the momentary pleasure of nothingness after the whistling storm. For her, spending money makes her happier than saving it.

"I also told Brother Jin about the situation. Rewards are definitely indispensable. Just think about something. This is a rare opportunity."

While Drake was still on the way back, Jhin had already returned to Wano with the slate, but Arceus hadn't returned yet, and Jhin left after putting the slate away.

A few days later, Drake returned, and the surrounding pirates looked at her with envy and jealousy. However, Drake didn't show off anything, just like the previous years, after paying off the debt, he began to invite his younger brother and people with good relations to soak in the tavern in Wano Country. In the past, she might be caught by Jhin and go back to work, but This time Jhin gave her a long vacation.

It took a while before the Shiyuan returned to Onijima. The moment it approached Wano Country, bursts of light flashed on the stone slabs placed in Onijima.

When returning to Ghost Island, Jhin had already informed Arceus that the hardness of the slate had basically confirmed the authenticity of the stone slab, and now that the things had been brought back to Ghost Island, there would be no more accidents, so Arceus did not advance return flight.

Arceus's voyage route has been planned, and if he returns early, he may miss what he could have found.

"Fighting power, not bad."

When the stone slab returned, Arceus exuded a special aura. Even Jhin and Shaina felt that it was unusual. When each slab returned, Arceus' aura would change briefly.

The maliciousness of the Evil Face Slate, the brilliant vitality of the Emerald Slate, the endless life of the Water Drop Slate, and the strangeness of the Fairy Slate, but this time, the breath of Arceus has become extremely special.

There is no change in the artistic conception, but only the suppression of the physical breath. As a fist slab of the fighting system, it brings a very special ability.

At this time, Arceus has regained the three major stone slabs of steel, fist, and clearance.

Steel, fighting, normal, the recondensation of the three attributes has produced a new quantitative change. This is not the world of Pokémon. Most of the human attack methods are issued by the body.

The biggest difference between humans and beasts is that they can use tools, but no matter what kind of metal weapons they are, they will be offset by the power of the steel slate, and ordinary attacks will be purified by the clear slate. The current fighting slate means The failure of fighting skills.

Domineering is the power of the heart, and it is also a special "martial art" that can only be used after training. The appearance of the fist slab means that the attack of armed domineering can no longer cause any damage to Arceus.

Physical attacks from the pure body will be immune. At this time, Arceus has obtained this buff. At this time, only a few elemental attacks can still cause a little effect on him.

The fighting slab contains all the skills of the fighting system. Arceus is now the ultimate boss who locks blood for the strong in physical arts. No matter how long it takes to hone martial arts, it can't cause any effect.

If this is a game, then there will be a guessing situation, betting on whether the next punch is a normal punch or a fighting punch. Unfortunately, this is not a game, and every stone slab means a new immunity.

No matter how strong your attack is, it doesn't make any sense if you can't hit the damage. This is much bigger than the impact of not hitting.

"Dreek and Iska, right? Where are they?"

In terms of merit and reward, although Jhin was the last to make the move, as the discoverers, they are the first to do it. This is a long-established rule.

"I've already notified them, they should be here soon, wait a moment, I'll take a look."

Jhin gave the answer, Drake is his subordinate after all, he had contacted Drake before, the reaction of the slate was two-way, not only Arceus knew that they had gained something, Jhin also knew that Arceus had arrived nearby up.

Soon, the two came here. I also saw Jhin waiting for them, but Drake still smelled of alcohol and looked a little hangover.

"You bastard."

Jhin had a few more symbols representing anger on his forehead. He saw that Derek had found something and gave her a long vacation. He also knew that Derek would enter this state when he was on vacation, but I didn't expect her to be so drunk.

"Iska, you go up first, the holy beast is waiting for you, I will sober her up first."

Chapter 714 Haoli's belt, Kaido in the newspaper

Jin clenched his fists and made a crisp sound of bones colliding, but that was all. If you want to ask which one has the strongest ability to hangover, Hundred Beasts is the number one in the New World.

Under the leadership of Kaido, a drunkard, there are also a bunch of drunkards in Hundred Beasts, and the tavern business in Wano Country has been indirectly sparked. In order to deal with this situation, the almighty Quinn successfully A quick-acting hangover potion was created using tree fruit ingredients.

It's just that the usage rate of this thing is very low, and those people drink to enjoy that kind of drunkenness.

If she didn't have to meet someone later, and she is still a great hero now, he must let Derek understand what physical sobering is.

"Brother Jin, I'm not drunk! If you don't believe me, I'll show you a straight line."

"Stop talking nonsense, if you dare to lose your composure in front of the holy beast, say goodbye to the loose life in the future!"

In the kitchen of Guidao, Jhin poured the sobering materials usually stored here into Drake, and only brought her up after confirming that she was in a sober state.

"You did a good job, you are not newcomers who just joined the Pirates, don't talk nonsense with you, just say what you want."

For those who retrieve the slate, it is necessary to give stronger power, but they generally also receive some other benefits. This is a rare opportunity to ask for rewards at will.

As long as it is not something outrageous, most can be satisfied.

"I want a swordsmanship teacher, and if possible, I want a boat of my own."

Iska has followed Drake's advice these days and thought about what she needs. Generally speaking, she hopes to be stronger. As for the ship issue, she wants a separate formation. Her personality Also different from most pirates.

The most suitable ship for her is probably the one brought by Yamato, but she hasn't thought about it that much yet.

"Okay, wait a while for the ship, as for the swordsmanship teacher, go to Kojiro and tell him what I mean."

There are not many serious swordsmen in Hundred Beasts. Jhin uses a sword, but unlike those sword magnates, he only uses the sword as a tool, and his open and close style of play is not particularly suitable for Iska.

Sasaki's spiral sword, Foz Fu's dagger knife, these people can be said to be more outrageous than the other, and the traditional teaching is the most suitable for people in Wano.

In addition to those big names back then, there are still many famous swordsmen in Wano Country.

As for whether Kojiro taught himself or arranged for another teacher, Arceus believed he could handle it well.

"Shaina, take her there first, and see how Kojiro's evolution is going."

"Obey, Lord Holy Beast."

After saluting, Shaina and Iska left the place first, leaving only Jhin and Drake here.

"What about you? Don't you want anything?"

"Mmm, Lord Arceus, can I ask Kikunojo to have the final right to dispose of it?"

"Ok?"

"That guy is stubborn, and he has blinded his face for nothing. I think he may cause something in the future. If it is still within the tolerable range, can you hand over that guy to me? If possible, then I don't mind giving me some treasure."

After thinking about it, Derek really didn't have any special demands, so he just put forward some requirements in life.

"Jin, you can get it for her, I'm going to research something new."

"As ordered."

Arceus acquiesced in this matter, but he didn't mean to intervene in person at all, and just handed it over to Jhin.

Unlike what Iska cashed in immediately, Drake got a card a few hours later.

"Brother Jin, what is this, treasure?"

"No, it's your consumption card. With this enterprise in Wano Country and Beasts, you can spend as you like, but only for yourself. You can't treat guests, don't transfer gifts, and can't purchase on behalf of you."

Arceus gave Jhin the right to deal with it. After thinking about it, Jhin felt that it was meaningless to give this guy treasure. Anyway, no matter how much he gave, she would spend it smartly. He simply thought of a new method to solve her low-income household. state of life.

Her character is like that, if she only consumes by herself, her usual belongings are enough, but the consumption concept has already emptied her wallet, so the card is limited to her own use, if there is no such limit, she might do something What's up.

It can be said that a special supply channel has been opened for her. In the future, many products will have her special supply version.

"Why do you feel weird"

"It's nothing strange, you don't look at these cadres, who are like you, only have money in hand on the day of salary, and these treasures are for you to squander."

As he spoke, he gave her some treasures to satisfy her special consumption psychology.

With the return of the fist slabs of the fighting system, a group of new Pokémon appeared on the ghost island. In the training ground of the ghost island, a few Haoli came in with a big box on their backs, and the box contained exactly Haoli's belt.

The appearance is similar to that of humans, with strong muscles all over the body, but the skin is gray-blue, and there are red marks on the arms. It has a tile-like bump on its head and a lizard-like face, more like a tailless lizardman than a human

A strange Pokémon belonging to the fighting type, with well-developed muscles all over the body, and wearing the iconic gold belt and black underwear with the same pattern.

Its flesh is very strong, with unfathomable strength.

A golden belt similar to a championship belt is not a symbol of honor, but a strength limiter, because the strength is too strong. So wear a strength limiting belt to control your strength and maintain your daily life.

But if it encounters a really strong enemy, it will untie the power-limiting belt on its waist and use all its strength, but the full-strength burst of strength will cause a huge burden on its body, so almost no one has seen strength The look of unbuttoning the belt.

Same as the laziness of the king of leave, in the process of evolution, the energy in the body evolved belts to protect their own bodies, and these belts are also new exercise equipment for the people of Onishima.

After moving the things over, the Haolis poured into the equipment room of Onijima. This kind of Pokémon has a special obsession with exercising, and they continue to exercise when others are resting.

"What are you watching? What's the big news?"

The new day's newspaper was sent to Ghost Island, which also attracted the attention of many people. When he leaned over, the headline on the newspaper immediately attracted his attention.

【The repulsed Kaido, the iron wall of the navy, the hero Karp! 】

Chapter 715 The dragon descends from the sky

"Oh? Is that Karp? Governor Kaido went to fight him this time."

The pirates who read the newspaper didn't find it strange, on the contrary, they got used to it. What Kaido would do when he went out basically had a regular pattern. Anyway, no matter what he did, he would inevitably conflict with other forces after the end.

"What kind of * is written in this report? How could Boss Kaido be like what they said? It looks like an article written by those reporters from the Navy. Why is Morgans so slow this time?"

It's not the first time that Kaido has appeared in the newspaper, but this report is all about the bravery of the navy, which makes them very uncomfortable to watch as pirates.

This kind of unilateral propaganda does not conform to Morgans' reporting style. At first glance, it looks like an article specially published by the Navy.

"Who knows, there may be different news if you wait a little longer."

In the hearts of Beasts members, Kaido is the strongest pirate in the world, and will eventually be the future One Piece, and only a few big cadres know a special news, the text of the four legendary road signs, in Kaido's hands There are two pieces.

In a sense, he is already the closest person to the position of One Piece.

Besides them, even those outsiders who don't know the secrets still have certain disputes about who is the closest pirate to One Piece.

A dozen years ago, Whitebeard was the only candidate, but now, he is no longer the only one.

Beasts Kaido, the strongest creature, this nickname is not obtained through victory after victory. Kaido's record can be roughly divided into two parts, before and after meeting Arceus.

After meeting Arceus and creating the initial team of beasts, he gradually moved towards the road of "no injury". With a terrifying physique and defensive defense, his body is almost in a state of absolute defense.

Except for Whitebeard, who hadn't entered the weakening period at that time, most of the enemies couldn't even break through the defense, and only Whitebeard could use the vacuum period of defense to deal some effective damage.

Before meeting Arceus, Kaido had experienced several defeats and arrests. Because of him alone, nine huge prison ships were sunk.

According to the life experience of the original timeline, Kaido was defeated in frontal battles seven times, fell into the hands of the navy or hostile forces eighteen times, experienced countless tortures, and was sentenced to death more than forty times.

Only when hanged, the chain will be broken, when pierced, the spear will be broken, and when beheaded, the guillotine will be shattered, making it impossible to execute. The physique and vitality make it invincible in single combat, so it was created The name of his strongest creature.

As for why the Navy doesn't change to some more effective methods, this is already a difficult unsolved mystery in the world.

The current Kaido is different from before. He becomes stronger in the battle. All kinds of ways of dying are to break through himself. Now he has a better choice. There is nothing like a small powerful punishment in the face. A better way to sharpen your body.

Before, in order not to waste time, he disappeared for a long time for a period of time, but with the growth of the beasts, a lot of manpower was thrown into the sea to start the search journey, and Kaido's nature could not be suppressed.

He is not a person willing to be lonely, so he started to make troubles on the sea. He can come and go freely by himself. When he wants to go with his strong body, almost no one can stop him. The world has also experienced a lot of turmoil because of him.

Even when Drake and Iska were competing and Arceus was out, Kaido was not idle.

He was riding the Eight-Headed Dragon not for fun, but to find new opponents.

A while ago, in the sky of the new world, Kaido, riding on the back of the Eight-Headed Dragon, began to think about where to show off his power, and at the same time, he had a good activity and practiced his martial skills.

"Red-haired Shanks has grown into another kid, try to find this guy next time, and go here this time."

Half leaning on the back of the eight evil dragons, Kaido looked at the new news in the newspaper. This year, there were a lot of reports about red hair. After he entered the new world, he finally started his own actions. Small site.

Kai is older than Shanks, who is 20 years old. When the Battle of the Valley of the Gods ended, Shanks was born not long ago, and this sentence is not too much.

Facing Whitebeard and Big Mom, Kaido is a young junior, and now there is another pirate in the sea who is strong enough and younger than him, which makes him a little bit moved, but Shanks is not him this time. The goal.

He came out this time because his hands were itchy, and on the other hand, he wanted to verify how destructive the eight-headed dragons are.

What he wants is not just an appearance, but a mount with real force.

Before, he subdued the eight-headed dragon through hand-to-hand combat, and had a certain recognition of its strength, but this was not enough.

If a powerful mount is unknown, it is the same as a precious sports car that has never been known to the world after it leaves the factory. The emotions of other people are also the way for humans to satisfy their desires.

Whether it was fear or envy, he wanted to see the expressions of those people.

"Hey, big guy, you want to fight too, I can feel that the blood of fighting is flowing in your body."

Kaido dropped the newspaper in his hand. At this time, the eight evil dragons were flying high in the sky. Under the influence of the strong wind, the newspaper gradually went away in a rustling sound, and Kaido also patted the middle part of the eight evil dragons. that head.

"Roar!"

"Hey hehehe, I knew that you are very suitable for my personality, so let's destroy it to your heart's content this time!"

Eight fists and eight-headed dragons both have an eight. He felt that there must be some hidden connection between them. From the moment he saw this giant beast, he felt a little different.

Three evil dragons, Pokémon of the evil type + dragon type, have a relatively violent temperament.

Baqi Orochi, the most evil monster in the mythology of Wano Country.

The brand-new eight-headed dragon born by combining the two is even more so. Compared with Bangira and King Yanwu, its character is more violent and warlike, and Kaido's way of subduing also activates the warlike factor in it.

It's not that it doesn't like this method, but in its view, only those who defeat themselves in this way are qualified to subdue themselves.

For the sake of trainers, some Pokémon will also choose to change themselves. If the Eight-Headed Dragon changes its master, its temper may be much restrained, but Kaido is obviously not this kind of person. He will indulge the Eight-Headed Dragon's personality.

"Okay, here we are, let the world know your existence from now on!"

"Roar!"

The eight heads roared in unison, and then waved the six wings behind them and rushed down the clouds, and the two big characters G1 on the buildings below were very conspicuous.

Chapter 716 The appearance of Kaido, the hero Karp

Navy, the most powerful force in the sea, as the violent agency of the world government on the sea, its overall strength is not comparable to that of a single force.

In addition to the Navy Headquarters, there are also several naval branches on the Great Route, which are important strongholds for the Navy to fight on the sea.

G-1 branch, separated from the main branch of the navy on both sides of Mary Joa, the most important naval branch in terms of geographical location, and also the bridgehead of the navy in the New World. At this time, the situation in the New World is intensifying.

Under the orders of the World Government and the leadership of the Warring States Period, the navy at this time is shrinking the strength of the New World, focusing on the first half of the great route, so the naval branches of the New World are shrinking their strength, and some branches that are too deep are also temporarily closed. give up.

But G-1 is different. As the bridgehead of the Navy in the New World, it is also the forward guard post of Mary Joya, so G-1 is one of the branches reserved by the Navy in the New World. There are a large number of naval soldiers stationed in this branch.

The prototype building is marked with the two characters G1. Whether it is the surrounding sentry tower or the opening of the wall, you can see the black muzzle, which has been armed to the teeth.

The naval branch of the New World is not a safe haven, and battles often occur here. It can be said that the people stationed here are all elites.

But today, they encountered the biggest crisis since the establishment of the branch. There was a sound of air being torn apart in the sky, and an unknown object was falling at high speed.

Boom!

There is an extra large hole on the platform where the navy usually trains, and a large hole in the shape of a human appears on it out of thin air.

"what?!"

The surrounding soldiers raised their guns and surrounded them, approaching the big pit little by little.

Boom..Boom!

There were muffled noises from the big pit, and then there was a bang, amidst the splash of earth and rocks, a big hand was pressed on the ground, and Kaido's tall figure appeared in front of the marines.

"Long time no see, Navy."

Kaido is naturally the only one with this weird way of appearance. Although he came riding a dragon this time, he has not yet thought of a new appearance posture. In order not to affect the style of riding a dragon, he chose to put aside that idea for the time being. .

There are many opportunities, he can wait for another place to come again after he has made up his mind, and now, he chooses to change to a more familiar way.

So when the eight-headed dragon fell halfway down, he jumped directly from above and accelerated his fall with the help of the impact.

Looking at the gun-wielding navy around him, Kaido smiled at them, but this smile made all the navy terrified, and the hand holding the gun trembled slightly.

They are the elite stationed in the new world, and they also have a better understanding of the world of pirates. Pirates of this level are simply not something they can fight against.

"Enemy Attack!! It's Kaido, Kaido of Beasts!"

They are also human, and they will also be afraid. When they go to war, those navies are elites from all over the world.

Now, with no one behind them, mustering up the courage to pull the trigger in their hands is already their best effort.

boom! boom! boom!

Woo~! Woo~!

A series of gunshots sounded, and the alarm of the G-1 branch also sounded. Amidst the piercing siren, Kaido clasped his ears impatiently.

"It's so noisy, didn't you hear me saying hello to you?"

The bullets had no effect on him, it only made him feel irritable, and his appearance was obviously quite "polite".

Pulled out the mace from his waist, Kaido held the club with one hand, and swung it towards the door. Although it was a blunt weapon, it was like a sharp knife, and a huge shock wave rushed towards the door.

"Boom!"

The gate of the G-1 branch was shattered as a result, the bricks and stones on the ground were lifted, and the surrounding navies were also blown out one after another, and they fell around without knowing whether they were alive or dead.

Kaido did not continue to do anything, because an unexpected figure appeared behind him.

A tall, broad-chested, muscular old man is standing behind Kaido at this time, with a scar on his left eye, short gray hair, and the navy's justice coat behind him is blowing in the wind.

Naval hero, Monkey D. Cap.

"Hey hehehe, today's luck is really good, I didn't expect to meet old acquaintances here."

Seeing Karp, Kaido felt like he had won the grand prize in a blind box. He chose the G-1 branch for no reason. The places that are too weak are boring, and the places that are too strong don't matter to him. At worst, he gets hurt. You can always get out of there, but not the eight-headed dragon.

So the G-1 branch became the testing ground he chose, and Karp's appearance was actually a good thing for him.

This is not where Garp is stationed. He came here to hide and relax. Now he is being nagged a lot in the Navy headquarters. He did not expect to encounter such a big trouble.

"Kaido, this is the naval base."

Garp's voice was very calm, but his clenched fists indicated that he had entered a fighting state.

"I don't need you, an old man, to remind me of this kind of thing. I came here, but today's protagonist is not me."

"Roar!"

In the sky, the roar of eight evil dragons came one after another. Even he was fooled by his master's previous operation, and his sprint speed was half a beat slower. At that moment, it suspected that the master's brain might have what is the problem.

Pokémon have their own view of good and evil, but this view of good and evil is usually smaller than the will of the owner. In most cases, no matter what the owner recognized by the Pokémon does, the Pokémon belonging to them will follow to the end.

So not only Junsha, Joey and other official personnel have their own Pokémon, whether it is an organization like Team Rocket or a Pokémon poaching gang, they also have their own trusted partners.

With its warlike characteristics and the target selected by Kaido, the Eight-Headed Dragon is already ready to attack.

Looking at the dragon in the sky, Garp had a bad premonition in his heart, but before he could act, Kaido had already appeared in front of him.

"Come and practice, old guy! Let me see if your fist is still the same as before!"

Inside the base, the flying squirrel raised his heart again. Just as he was preparing to seek support, he saw Garp from the observation room. The title of naval hero is almost the spiritual pillar of many navies, which made him feel at ease. few.

But the roar in the sky brought the second bad news. No matter which naval base it is, they have never paid attention to the air defense problem. Their cannons have a limited shooting range. Facing this monster rushing down from the top, the ordinary navy lacks effective weapons. countermeasures..

Chapter 717 The disaster raging in the sky

"Prepare to fight back! Don't be afraid! It's just a bigger monster! You have also fought giant pirates before! They will also be injured, as long as they are living creatures, then he will die!"

Inside the branch is a pyramid structure. In addition to the lieutenant general who is the base chief, there are several major generals below who are in charge of different aspects. At this time, under the leadership of a major general, the artillerymen are struggling to raise the cannon, looking for a special shooting boundary.

Fixed coastal defense guns can't do this kind of thing, but the kind of artillery that can move is different. The gunpowder technology in this world is very crooked. As long as the body is strong enough, ordinary cannons can be used as anti-aircraft guns.

Some rocket launchers have also been moved out of the warehouse. The standard equipment of the navy includes rocket launchers, but the frequency of use is very low at ordinary times. Pirates have no armored units, and this is the G-1 branch. The powerful coastal defense guns are easy to use. much.

boom! boom! boom!

The muzzle of the gun sprayed flames, but the eight dragons in the sky were not affected in any way.

"Major General! Can't hit it! That thing flies too high!"

The navy's technology tree is very crooked. Although it can fire continuously, it is still an old-fashioned flintlock style with a limited range. If those snipers don't use special weapons, where the bullets will hit hundreds of meters away, I'm afraid they will Do not know at all.

There are high-precision weapons, but they are not equipped in large quantities, and they can't even touch the eight-headed dragons in the sky.

Whoosh! Whoosh! boom!

Bazookas and cannons were fired one after another, and their range was longer. However, the eight-headed evil dragon showed agility that was completely inconsistent with its size. The shells could only chase after it, and its body was not even stained with any dust.

"Wait for it to come down! That thing can't be here to hang out, if it wants to destroy the bottom, it has to come down."

The eight-headed dragon has circled the sky several times, but it has not moved at all, which gave the navy the illusion that it has no means of long-range attack.

But in fact, these are just eight evil dragons judging the threat from the outside world. Although it looks huge and has terrifying destructive power in its body, in fact, this is still a "child" who is not yet full moon.

Its basic common sense comes from Arceus, but it lacks knowledge of the outside world. Except for those Eudemons, other Pokémon have similar situations when they are born, and it takes a certain amount of time to absorb the outside world.

The eight-headed dragon does not know its position in the biological chain. At this time, it is judging whether it is a hunter or a prey.

The navy's attack gave him a general understanding that those bugs seemed unable to cause effective damage to himself. After confirming that he was in a safe position, the next step was to attack.

"Roar!"

A red light flashed in the eyes of several heads, and the hot flames were compressed and released from the open * mouths, sweeping straight to the ground.

As the distance increased, the flames gradually spread out, and the eight lines of fire turned the bottom into a sea of flames in an instant.

The Eight-Headed Dragon did drop slightly in height, but it didn't use its huge body to destroy it as the navy thought.

Boom! boom!

A series of explosions sounded, and the ammunition piled up below was ignited by high temperature. The square that originally had a large number of naval soldiers turned into a purgatory in the blink of an eye.

"This thing. This is not the monster we fight at all"

Originally, many marines were resting in the base. After the alarm sounded, they went to support their comrades with weapons. He was just one step away from the gate, but a wave of air suddenly poured in from the gate.

The shock wave generated when the shell exploded sent him directly back into the room. When he got up with his head covered, what he saw was an empty field. The soldiers who had fought outside before had disappeared, leaving only the Scorched traces.

The blood was quickly evaporated under the high temperature, and a burnt smell came into his nose. There is no recruit who has never seen blood who can be assigned to the G-1 branch, but even if he is a veteran, he thinks of the previous scene and the source of the smell , his face also became very embarrassing.

At this moment, he should muster up the courage to continue fighting, but it was as if his footsteps were being held back by something. Looking at the door ahead, he just didn't have the courage to step out.

They are also human beings, and they also feel afraid. Fear is an instinctive reaction to an opponent whose numbers are of no use.

It wasn't until the cannons sounded again that their chiefs reacted and urged the soldiers to take up weapons and enter the battlefield. The sound of the cannons meant that someone was still alive, and the battle was not a dead end.

Outside, under some cover, the surviving naval soldiers are still struggling to fight back, and as the height of the eight-headed dragons drops, the coastal defense guns on the surrounding high platforms also have a chance to shoot.

Those coastal defense guns are of the same style as the main guns on the warships, and they are all heavy artillery with a caliber of more than 300 mm. Both in terms of range and power, they exceed the previous weapons, and they can also cause a certain amount of damage to the eight evil dragons. threaten.

"Help help"

"It hurts so much. Someone help me."

During the gap between the sound of the guns, the cries of the wounded were also heard by the reinforcements. If it weren't for this new world, where the navy is generally stronger and more domineering, it would be almost impossible to find survivors in this environment .

Some people began to rescue the wounded, while others were looking for weapons that could attack the eight-headed dragon.

At this time, the eight-headed dragon didn't care about the group of little bugs below. Under the intensive artillery fire, it was inevitable to be hit by a shell, and those heavy coastal defense artillery hit it, which was enough to cause damage, which also made it Determined, in the end what can threaten him.

Ants kill elephants more often, even if they are the size of Oz, they cannot withstand the continuous bombardment of cannons.

At this time, the wound on the back of the Eight-Headed Dragon is recovering rapidly. It doesn't have as strong armor as Bankira, but it has an extremely fast self-healing speed.

This is the ability from the fruit of Yamata no Orochi. In it, the ability brought by Yamata no Orochi is not as simple as a few more lives.

The eight-headed dragon waved its wings to raise its height, and once again left the shooting range of the coastal defense gun, the high-temperature flame burned to the barrel of the coastal defense gun.

"It's useless, these heavy artillery can't be affected by mere flames, you have the ability to come down!"

These turret operators are located in the lower operating room, and the high temperature did not affect them.

Being able to injure it is a good thing. They thought that at least they had a way to counter this monster dragon, but at the next moment, a mouthful of terrifying purple solution was spewed out by it, and the barrel that was still standing under the flames disappeared in the blink of an eye. A large hole was corroded.

Chapter 718 It is not the waste of Heitan's family

Drip! drop! drop!

In the control room, the alarm sounded, which meant that they had lost control of the fort. When building the G-1 branch, the world government and the navy invested a lot of manpower and material resources.

As the gate guarding Mary Joa, the firepower level of the G-1 branch is comparable to that of the Navy Headquarters, which is why Akainu can directly transform this place into the new Navy Headquarters.

When the fort was being built, both high temperature and severe cold, as well as possible corrosion caused by rain, were taken into consideration. Even the high temperature just now did not affect the internal wiring.

But the designer didn't expect what happened to this fort today.

Eight-headed dragons can use attacks of many attributes, and each head can send out attacks of different attributes, but each head has its own strongest attribute, and what the fort encounters at this time is something unexpected.

Under the transformation of Arceus, most of the undeveloped power of the black charcoal serpent has been revived. This is the poison of corrosion generated by its own toxin combined with the poisonous stone slab.

The strong corrosiveness makes this poison have an excellent restraint on metals. Pokémon's poison is resisted by the steel type in the game, because their poison is difficult to enter the body of the steel type spirit.

In reality, if the toxin reaches a certain concentration and stays in it for too long, steel-type Pokémon may also be poisoned.

Among them, there is a characteristic called corrosion, which will cause the Pokémon's toxins to become more violent. They can easily corrode the steel body of Steel-type Pokémon, making them enter a poisoned state.

The venom sprayed by the Eight-Headed Dragon has similar characteristics, and the threatening heavy forts are pulled out one by one by it. It is warlike, but being warlike is different from liking to be beaten.

The corroded gun barrel could no longer bear its own weight, and fell down under the action of gravity, hitting heavily on the side of the navy below, like mud, covering the flames burning in their hearts again, and letting them My heart felt extremely heavy.

"Attack! Drive it away! Don't let it destroy the fort recklessly!!"

Many navies appeared on the roof and the corridor outside the fort one after another. At present, it seems that the coastal defense heavy artillery is one of the few weapons that can cause damage. If they are allowed to destroy them all, they will have no countermeasures.

Light weapons are useless, and heavy weapons are very cumbersome. It took a lot of effort for the navies to move the weapons up.

"Major, you are here to take charge of the command and cover these forts, so that at least it can limit its raging below."

"Major General, you want"

"Someone has to stop this thing."

Weapons are not the only ones. Individual force can also determine the outcome of a battle. Humans can't fly, so they use external forces, and the humans here borrow martial arts.

Six Forms is a compulsory subject for CP9 and CP0. At the same time, most naval generals will use some Six Forms skills.

Only on the battlefield, in addition to fighting, commanding is also an important duty of the general, so after completing the arrangement, the major general rushed to the battlefield.

"Cover Your Majesty the Major General!"

As the navy, they will be afraid, but they are also performing their own missions. Guns and bazookas attract the attention of the eight-headed dragons, and each flame that spews out can bring huge casualties.

There is no need to look back. The major general also knew that his subordinates were suffering huge casualties. With Yuebu's ability, he quickly came to the vicinity of the Eight-Headed Dragon.

"Go to hell, monster!"

The blade was covered with arrogance, and he almost tried his best to chop off the head of the largest of the eight dragons, but before he could get the result, the two heads next to him suddenly turned around.

The largest one in the middle of the eight evil dragons is its main brain, which is also a head with self-awareness. It has two heads on the left and right, and three heads on the back. Although the other seven heads are like arms and have no real consciousness, they can communicate with the main brain. Shared vision.

It is almost impossible to avoid its perception, the slender neck is very flexible, one of the two turned dragon heads released lightning, and the other's sharp teeth shone coldly and bit him.

He couldn't evade the lightning attack for a while, and his body was already paralyzed. Just when he was about to be bitten, a piece of gravel suddenly flew over. The instinct of the beast made him feel the danger, and he instinctively gave up this time. attack.

Boom!

In front of the G-1 branch, Kaido hit the ground with a stick, looking at Garp in front of him, the killing intent in his eyes was even stronger.

"Bastard! How dare you get distracted and intervene in the battle over there!"

"Hahaha, a junior with a future can't die in the hands of a wild beast. There will be a more suitable stage for him in the future."

From the very beginning, Garp wanted to deal with the eight-headed dragons first, but Kaido didn't give him a chance at all. It was only because he deliberately took advantage of his strength to be sent flying that he found the chance.

"You won't have another chance, I'm really angry now!"

"It just so happens that the old man is also very angry, go to the city and chat with your seniors!"

At the same time, two cold lights flashed in the sky, and the two heads it protruded were cut off!

Two heads fell to the ground, and the splattered dragon blood restored the confidence of the soldiers below.

"Roar!"

The pain aroused the anger in the hearts of the eight evil dragons, but they did not lose their minds, just staring at the two people who suddenly appeared.

The instinct of the body tells it that these two people are more threatening to it.

Navy Headquarters Vice Admiral-G1 Base Chief-Flying Squirrel.

Navy Headquarters Rear Admiral - Adjutant Garp - Bogard.

As a veteran lieutenant general of the navy, the flying squirrel's own strength should not be underestimated. Compared with the top admirals, these lieutenant generals are the cornerstone of the navy.

Although Bogarde is a major general, his strength is more than that. He is Karp's adjutant and has been with Karp for more than 20 years. His strength is comparable to that of the senior lieutenant generals in the headquarters.

Garp came here ahead of time after feeling the fighting situation here, Bogard just arrived by boat, and although the flying squirrel has been here, he has been observing to determine the fighting characteristics and abilities of the Eight-Headed Dragon.

The Eight-Headed Dragon's several attacks had already demonstrated its strength. At that time, the flying squirrel made a preliminary judgment. Except for himself, no one in the entire base could deal with it.

So he chose to sacrifice some soldiers to test the opponent's ability.

Although it is cruel, this is war. If he strikes rashly and is defeated by an unknown ability, then no one in the G-1 branch will be able to stop it, and the casualties he will pay will be even more terrifying.

"Stand back, you go and organize the soldiers, it's time for the two of us to take over here."

"yes"

The flying squirrel dismissed the major general who came up to fight for his life. He and Bogard exchanged glances and took over the battle here. This giant beast didn't seem so scary, and its defense was not as terrible as he thought.

But in the next moment, two brand new heads grew from the fracture of the dragon's head.

Chapter 719 "Immortal Body"

Heitan Orochi used the Yamata Orochi fruit as a death substitute tool, which has no practical value except to experience several ways of death, but the eight-headed evil dragon is different.

Its own defense is not outstanding. It doesn't have the carapace like a heavy tank like Banjila, nor does it have the powerful fighting skills like King Yanwu, but it has its own characteristics-incomparably powerful regenerative power.

After the transformation, the ability of Yamata no Orochi has changed. If one head is cut off, a brand new head will grow in a short time. The seven sub-heads around it are not its fatal weakness. As long as the physical strength is still there, it can almost Unlimited regeneration.

To kill it, you have to chop off his middle head eight times in a row.

Outsiders don't know this weakness. For outsiders, the power of the Eight-Headed Dragon is very close to being immortal.

Exhausting its physical strength, killing it eight times in a row is the only way to kill it.

It is not easy to discover this secret.

Not to mention how difficult it is to kill eight times in a row, trying to exhaust its physical strength is something that only a very small number of people called monsters can do.

"How many abilities does this guy have?!"

Lightning, flame, regeneration, and poison. Currently, the eight-headed dragons have displayed four abilities. They are still giant beasts with the ability to fly. Reminiscent of the information about the beasts before, the flying squirrel only feels that its head is big.

Under normal circumstances, when a piece of equipment starts to be equipped on a large scale and appears in front of the enemy without any cover, it means that there are already stronger experimental subjects in the enemy's laboratory.

This is already the third giant beast that appeared in the information, and it is more deadly than the previous two. King Yanwu and Banjila can't fly at least, so it is easy to monitor their whereabouts.

The flying eight-headed dragon is undoubtedly the most threatening biological weapon at present.

"I don't know, but Lieutenant General Flying Squirrel, now I can only bite the bullet."

Bogard threw down his hat. Although he had just beheaded the opponent, the blow was the result of a sneak attack after accumulating strength, and it was bound to be a tough fight.

"I don't know the type of this creature, but its thinking seems to be highly unified, and its intelligence is very high. Be careful."

The flying squirrel didn't have the temper of a boss when communicating with Bogard. He knew very well that Bogard could have been promoted to lieutenant general if he wanted to.

It's just that he has been with Garp all the time. If Garp himself is a lieutenant general, and his deputy is also a lieutenant general, it is not in compliance with the rules.

Due to Karp's refusal to take over as general, the ranks of his cronies were generally lowered by one level, but no one doubted their strength and status.

Although the two did not cooperate much, they also showed the tacit understanding of the navy, using Yuebu's ability to attack the eight evil dragons from both sides.

Although the single-headed dragon and the double-headed tyrannosaurus have no vision, the three-headed dragon is different. In the world of Pokémon, the three-headed dragon no longer adapts to fighting in the dark because it has regained its sight. The dragon will also take the initiative to back down.

The dynamic eyesight of the eight-headed dragon keenly locked the figures of the flying squirrel and Bogarde. After a few brief collisions, it gave up continuing to attack, but flapped its wings and flew into the sky.

Moonwalks can keep humans in the air, but they are fundamentally different from flying. The short-distance explosive speed moonwalks are even faster than flying, but in terms of height and endurance, moonwalks cannot match flying.

Even if they can't die, their attacks are still very painful for a "child without a full moon". It's not like Kaido, who likes to use his body to bear those attacks.

"This monster is too smart"

Yuebu has a limit. They can't hold an oxygen cylinder and run into space with their left foot and right foot. At this time, the position of the eight evil dragons has exceeded the battle limit of Yuebu.

In previous battles, their opponents were all human beings, so there is no need to worry about this kind of problem. This kind of completely inhuman opponent made them embarrassing.

Although the eight-headed dragon temporarily disappeared from their field of vision, the nerves of the flying squirrel and Bogard were already tense, and their knowledge and knowledge were in full swing. They didn't believe that the guy had escaped, and the monster that disappeared from sight made them even more nervous. nervous.

"coming!"

In the clouds, the eight-headed evil dragon revealed its figure again. At this time, the head in the middle was surrounded by an octagonal energy ring, which was an upgraded version of the triple attack, the eight-fold attack.

Attacks of different attributes were mixed together, and a bright halo burst out in the sky during the fusion, but it was a pity that this was a halo symbolizing destruction.

The coat of justice on the back of the flying squirrel has already fallen. After Bogard joined forces with him just now, he barely blocked the attack from the opponent. He also took the opportunity to stab the eight-headed dragon with a sword. It was only that kind of wound. The eight-headed dragon It doesn't take long to heal completely on its own.

What's more troublesome is that the Eight-Headed Dragons didn't love to fight, but flew back to the sky again, relying on their flying ability to fight against the two of them.

The flying squirrel and Bogard just couldn't dodge it. If they dodged, the ordinary navy below would suffer. Although the flying squirrel exchanged the death of part of the navy for part of the eight-headed dragon's ability, after he made a move, he had to bear the burden. responsibility.

He can give up some soldiers for intelligence, but he can't get out of his position at this moment.

"I sent a request for help to the headquarters before, and it should arrive soon."

"Then just try again."

Removed his broken shirt, Bogard showed slightly superb muscles, and made a desperate plan.

"Roar!"

"bring it on!"

"Garp. You give me. Seriously! The children's play games should end here!"

The Eight-Headed Dragon doesn't know what stage its strength is at, but Kaido knows that general lieutenant generals are no match for it, and if it wants to hold it back, at least two lieutenant generals are needed.

And if there is no targeted ability, it is impossible to keep it. After all, he has personally fought with the Eight-Headed Dragon once, so he is very relieved about the battle there. As long as Garp does not interfere there, the Eight-Headed Dragon will be in an undefeated Location.

The fisherman will walk around with the loot, but don't let the loot be lost. This is the most basic principle.

Kaido originally wanted to be a spectator while showing off, but Garp's appearance changed his mind.

He thought he could fight again to his heart's content, but he didn't expect Garp to be so shameless and always concerned about the situation on the other side of the battlefield.

At first, he thought that Garp was trying to test him, but now it seems that Garp's mind is not on his side at all. His previous statement that he was going to send him to the city of advancement was simply to distract him, so that he could take the opportunity to support the other party. side.

"Kaido, what good does it do you for you to attack here out of nowhere?"

Chapter 720: The incomprehensible "madman"

Garp is really not in the mood to fight Kaido. Although he refused to be promoted to admiral, his status in the navy is much higher than that of general admirals. He is no worse than admirals in terms of strength or reputation, let alone a Has a "hero" aura.

So he is very aware of some of the policies of the World Government, Sengoku will complain to him at every turn, and the only people who can make Sengoku speak out what is in his heart are Karp, Crane, and the goat.

Originally, Zefa was also among them, but after he experienced the near destruction of the training ship and lost his own arm, he became a bit strange, and it was not easy for Warring States to say anything to him about some secret information.

The deal between the world government and the beasts, and the balance policy of the emperor of the sea, Karp knows all about it

And whether it's Kaido or Whitebeard, Big Mom or Shanks, if they want to leave with all their heart, it's hard to keep them alone.

If possible, Garp didn't want to fight Kaido at all, he just wanted to stop the raging monster dragon, but unfortunately after that blow, Kaido never gave him another chance.

"Fight, do you need a reason? Is there anything more interesting than this?"

“.”

"The value of a person can only be reflected in battle. Come on Garp, let me truly experience the value of a naval hero. Let me see what the man who defeated Lockes was like!"

The body inflated twice, and Kaido directly entered the dragon man posture. This is the G-1 branch, followed by Marie Gioia, and the Navy headquarters is not far away. The support of the headquarters can reach here in a few hours at most.

His time is limited, and he doesn't have time to play house with Cap.

He didn't even enter the transformation state before, but Garp didn't show much advantage, which also made Kaido understand that his mind was not here at all.

Garp's whereabouts are uncertain, and it is not easy to meet him. He wants to enjoy the fun.

The air was pierced, and with the sound of piercing the air, Kaido's fist had come to Garp.

The fist wrapped with dragon scales is completely out of proportion to Garp's figure, but Karp's seemingly small fist contains incomparably terrifying strength.

Boom!

The two fists did not touch, but collided together in the air. Although it was only a physical collision, the sound it made exceeded the product of technology.

The two fists faced each other, and a huge wave of air swept around. The fire ignited by the eight dragons was extinguished under the strong wind pressure, and the broken buildings collapsed directly. Some people who lacked strength were even blown out by the wind of the fist.

Under the blowing of the wind, Garp's coat also flew out, but he himself was still outside the G-1 branch like an iron armored pass.

"It's Lieutenant General Garp! Lieutenant General Garp blocked Kaido's attack!"

At the window of the temporary medical station, a few strong navy soldiers blocked the window with something like steel plates to prevent the outside airflow from pouring in. They observed the outside environment only after they felt the power disappear.

Under the shaping of the high-level, everyone has heard of Garp's heroic deeds. Now that he is still standing in the front, the hearts of these marines are much calmer.

"Lieutenant General Flying Squirrel and Major General Bogard also held back that monster dragon! Support from our headquarters is on the way, and victory belongs to us!"

In the radio room of the base, the announcer broadcast the latest news he had received, encouraging the morale that was low due to casualties.

"Hey! Did you hear that! Hold on, support will be here soon, don't die in this place!"

The medic is pressing on a soldier's wound, and the people next to him are helping others.

They can't help in the battle outside, and they can't operate the fort, but as medical soldiers, this is their battlefield. Every time they save a wounded soldier, it is a new victory for them.

"That's why you * brought that monster to attack here?"

"Monster? How beautiful is that body that was born for battle, and this is something your navy can't envy. You just want such a good mount, but you probably can't find it? Hehehe!"

Things have two sides. In Garp's eyes, the eight-headed dragon is a monster that can only destroy, but in Kaido's eyes, it is a "beautiful white horse". He made no secret of his joy at owning such a powerful creature .

"You madman. You pirates are really lawless villains."

"Oh? You also know that I am a pirate? Does a pirate need a reason to attack the navy? It is still a child and needs a gorgeous stage. This is the venue I chose for its debut!

After talking so much nonsense, you old guy should be serious about it! "

For Garp, Kaido's behavior is very crazy and incomprehensible. His reason for attacking the Navy branch seems to be that he wants to beat his own dragon. This is even more outrageous than when he was arrested by a prison ship for food .

But he also understood that if Kaido was not resolved, he would have no way to intervene in the battles in other places.

The flying squirrel and Bogard can restrain the eight-headed dragon, but they cannot stop all its attacks. From time to time, buildings are destroyed. Although the casualties of the navy have been reduced a lot, they have not stopped.

If he wants to stop this, he has to deal with Kaido first, this guy will not let himself deal with that monster dragon.

The muscles on the arm swelled, and the entire arm was wrapped in an extremely powerful armed color. The legs and waist exerted strength, and at the same time as Kaido was shaken away, Garp's body also jumped up, waving towards Kaido's face own fist.

In Garp's knowledgeable perception, Kaido's behavior was very abnormal, and he didn't make any intention of avoiding it. In fact, it was exactly the same. Garp punched Kaido firmly in the face.

The huge body flew upside down, leaving a huge humanoid imprint on the wall of the G-1 branch.

It stands to reason that this is an opportunity, but Garp adjusted his state and rushed towards the direction where Kaido landed. Although the punch hit the bullseye, the touch on the fist told him that the punch was not very rewarding.

Among the ruins, Kaido stood up shaking his head.

"Hey hehehe, does your guy's fist feel like this?"

Whitebeard used to be on the same boat as him, so he knew a little bit about it. Although Garp was a strong opponent of the Rocks Pirates at that time, Kaido was not qualified to fight him at that time. He was just an ordinary trainee. .

In order to judge the opponent's strength more clearly, he chose to use his own body to experience the opponent's fist.

Even with a domineering defense, that force sent him flying.

"It's really exciting!"

Seeing that Garp gave up his intention of intervening in the battle with the Eight-Headed Dragon, and instead devoted himself to this battle, Kaido's fighting spirit was completely aroused, and he took the eight fists to meet the attacking Garp.