Jimmy's purpose of coming to China this time was to claim a part of the shares of Smith Law Firm.

It would be best to force Paul and his mother to split the firm into two, giving him all the North American business, and leaving the Asian business to Paul himself.

In his opinion, Paul and his mother Matilda would settle in China anyway, and they would not be able to control the North American business if they kept it in their hands, so giving it to him would be like returning it to its original owner.

Of course, he knew very well that although the Smith Law Firm was named after the Smith family, it was indeed built up bit by bit by Matilda and his brother. The old man naturally provided some help, but it was far from an investment, both in terms of reason and law. If he really sued to divide a part of the shares of Smith Law Firm, no judge in the world would support it.

So after he learned that Matilda was going to get married, he thought, why not take advantage of Matilda's marriage to come to China to make a scene, if he could force this orphan and widow to spend money to avoid disaster, it would be great, anyway, they were an orphan and widow, so much money would be useless.

Matilda naturally knew his intention. In fact, she chose to bring Paul to China after her husband's death. The fundamental reason was that after her husband's death, the Smith family always had their eyes on their law firm. The Smith family did not think that there was anything wrong with their mentality of eating up the entire family. They felt that it was their family's business. Now that their eldest brother had passed away, it couldn't be taken away by a woman of a different surname or even a different race.

More importantly, although Paul was a descendant of the Smith family, he chose to stand with his mother. Naturally, he did not want his parents' hard-earned foundation to be divided up by several uncles, so he resolutely chose to move to China from the United States with his mother, and even moved the law firm from the United States.

Paul didn't tell the Smith family that his mother was getting married, but somehow the news leaked out, and Uncle Jimmy flew over just in time.

Matilda saw that he had been making a fuss for a while, and finally the topic fell on the equity of Smith Law Firm, so she said coldly: "Since you can't stop talking about the equity of Smith Law Firm, then I will talk to you about this matter;"

Jimmy didn't expect Matilda to tell the story in such detail. Feeling a little embarrassed, he immediately shouted, "Sister-in-law, you are too heartless to say that. When you and my eldest brother started a business, my father gave you one million US dollars. It was agreed that it would be a family investment. In order not to affect your decision-making power in starting a business, this one million US dollars only accounted for 49% of the shares of Smith Law Firm. You can't deny this, right?"

Matilda was furious when she heard this, and scolded coldly, "Jimmy, you are talking nonsense! The one million US dollars was borrowed by your eldest brother from your father, and the loan period was agreed to be three years, but your eldest brother only used one year to return the money to your father. I was afraid that this matter would cause suspicion among you brothers, and I specially asked your eldest brother to return the one million cash to your father in front of you. How come it became an investment in your case?"

Jimmy immediately said, "Sister-in-law, you said that my eldest brother returned the one million. Do you have any evidence? Our whole family can Testify, the money has never been returned!"

Matilda sneered, "Are you starting to act like a rogue? When your eldest brother took the one million, he didn't leave a loan agreement, and when he returned it, he didn't leave a repayment agreement. He just thought that we were all family, and he borrowed it in front of you and returned it in front of you, so he could naturally prove his innocence. I didn't expect you to be so mean!"

Jimmy said seriously, "Sister-in-law, let's talk about the facts. I hope you don't escalate it to personal attacks. I won't say much else. The one million has not been returned. Everyone in the Smith family can testify. If you want to deny it, we can meet in court. Even if we lose the lawsuit, it doesn't matter. After all, we used to be a family. If you don't get it back, just regard it as a wedding gift from our Smith family to you. "

Jimmy actually knew very well that his eldest brother had returned the one million a long time ago, and there was no document agreement for borrowing and repaying, so it was impossible for him to sue. The reason he said that was to retreat in order to advance, and deliberately disgust Matilda in public.

He also knew that Matilda was an expert in law and could see at a glance that he had no chance of winning this case, so he flew from the United States to expose her shortcomings in public, in order to force Matilda to give up some of her interests in exchange for his concessions.

A few days ago, another top law firm in the United States approached him and proposed to directly acquire all of Smith Law Firm's businesses and teams in the United States for $800 million in cash. The reason for the acquisition was that they knew that Paul had moved his law firm to China and wanted to take this opportunity to directly become the strongest law firm in the United States.

But when the acquisition invitation was first sent to Paul, he rejected it.

The other party could only seek other breakthroughs and found other members of the Smith family, hoping that they could persuade Paul to agree. If Paul disagreed, the Smith family would definitely be tempted by the large amount of the acquisition target, and then they would take the initiative to find a way to take the law firm back and then sell it to themselves.

After saying that, Jimmy turned around and was about to leave.

The words he just said were a threat to Matilda. He actually didn't have any contract at all, and he knew that Matilda was very clear about this, but he came to China this time with the mentality and strategy of playing rogue.

He just wanted to tell a lie and throw dirty water on Matilda in public.

Throwing dirty water, as long as it comes from a person's mouth, even if it is all false, the other party will be thrown into disgrace.

He said it so clearly, and also wanted to let Matilda know that if Matilda did not compromise and make concessions, he and the Smith family would keep biting her to death. Even if they couldn't force her to hand over all the business of Smith Law Firm in the United States, they would at least let her cut off a piece of fat meat. If they couldn't cut off the meat, they would let Matilda and Smith Law Firm be ruined. In short, this matter couldn't be so easy for her.

Matilda knew that the other party was threatening her, so she said coldly: "Get out!"

Jimmy nodded, and before leaving, he was still shouting: "Then we'll see you in court!"

After that, he looked around at everyone and said loudly: "Everyone, please pay attention to the lawsuit between the Smith family, Matilda, and the Smith Law Firm. This case will definitely become the most watched classic case in the American judicial field!"

Everyone was talking to each other. Some people said that Jimmy must be talking nonsense, but some people thought that since he was so firm and confident, it must be true. Maybe Matilda really brought the family business to China as her and her son's private property, so it was reasonable for her to come to him now.

Some people even said that if a woman marries a man and the man dies, it is enough for her to take away the children and her dowry. She should never take away the family business. Isn't this just profiteering? After all, the man's family has lost a big brother, so how can we not let the man lose both his money and his life?

If Jimmy was kept here at this time, who knows what bad words he would say.

Jimmy didn't expect charlie to keep him, but his intuition told him that this guy definitely didn't have any good intentions. What if he wanted to find someone to beat him up, then he would be helpless in a foreign country.

So, he said without thinking: "Since my sister-in-law is guilty and wants to drive me away, there is no need for me to stay here to upset her. After all, today is her wedding day, and it is not appropriate for me to tell too much truth and save her some face.”

charlie hurriedly said: “Mr. Smith just said that there are no big shots among the guests coming today. In fact, we have a big shot on the way. He is a good friend of the groom, Professor He. I just told him about the matter on the phone, and he asked me to keep you for a while no matter what. He will come here to talk to you in person.”

Jimmy frowned and said, “Why, are you threatening me? Do you think the temporary Find some people to scare me, will I be afraid? Even if you beat me up, I won’t be afraid!”

charlie smiled and said, “Look at what you said. Our China is a society ruled by law, and unlike you in the United States, everyone has a gun. If anyone dares to hit you here, you can just lie on the ground and call the police. At that time, the person who beats you will be detained for 15 days at the least, and it may be enough to go to jail.”

Then charlie said, “I asked you to wait for a while, not to find someone to scare you, but I think you may have underestimated Professor He’s connections. Although he is just a professor at an ordinary university, his connections are so good that even Bill Gates would be inferior to him.”

“Fuck...” Jimmy was amused by charlie and asked him, “Young man, do you know what kind of person Bill Gates is? The President of the United States has to be polite when he sees him. You say that this teacher’s connections are better than his. Are you stupid or am I stupid?”

charlie smiled and said, “Look, you are here now. He will be here in a few minutes. You might as well wait for a few minutes. When he comes, you will know when you meet and talk.”

After that, charlie said, “Of course, it doesn’t matter if you don’t want to wait. When he comes, I will ask him to come to your room to see you.”
