

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7426

Still, because Tawana had always seemed so infatuated with him, he managed to bear the pressure through the strength of their relationship.

But now, things were different.

Tawana was clearly moved by charlie Wade, and after what had just happened, that conclusion seemed undeniable.

Before leaving China, Trevor had already sensed Tawana's feelings. At the time, he thought that as long as she kept those feelings for charlie Wade buried in her heart and continued their relationship steadily, he could accept it.

As the Chinese saying goes: if you want to live a respectable life, you might have to tolerate a bit of "green on your head," right?

But he never imagined Tawana would let go of herself so completely just shortly after he left China.

Staring at the video on his phone, he couldn't help but erupt in anger: "Did she not think about my feelings when she kissed charlie Wade on stage in front of tens of thousands of people? Others may not know who he is, but how could I not? Others may not understand her mindset, but how could I not?!"

Overcome with emotion, tears streamed down Trevor's face without him even realizing it.

He had even contacted a well-known jewelry company to custom-make a diamond ring for a proposal. After all, Tawana had implicitly accepted his proposal aboard her private jet.

But now, faced with this situation, Trevor was caught in a painful dilemma.

Meanwhile, Tawana remained fully immersed in her first concert in Eastcliff.

Because of the kiss with charlie Wade, she felt an overwhelming sense of emotional release. As a result, her performance afterward was outstanding—her singing grew stronger with each song, even surpassing the polished vocals of her studio recordings.

Fans were ecstatic. They felt the concert tickets were worth every cent—they had witnessed Tawana at the height of her stage career.

And Tawana truly gave it her all. She was determined to make this concert the most unforgettable and perfect one of her entire singing journey.

Naturally, the concert continued to spread rapidly across the internet, gaining momentum—and with it, the moment she kissed Charlie Wade was seen by more and more people.

She felt it was an incredibly exhilarating and comforting experience.

When she finished singing the final song and bowed to the audience, she was overwhelmed with emotion, and tears welled up once more.

Choking up, she held the microphone and said, “Thank you, thank you all. Thank you to the entire staff, thank you Eastcliff. This has been the most perfect performance of my life. I don’t think I’ll ever surpass it. I hope you all enjoyed the show. Thank you again to everyone who supports me. Thank you, everyone!”

Tens of thousands of spectators cheered wildly. Tawana, eyes filled with tears, waved to the crowd, stepped back onto the lift, and shouted once more, “Thank you, everyone! Good night! Goodbye!”

Then, she bowed deeply as the lift slowly descended. Above her, a cascade of colorful ribbons rained down, creating a visually stunning finale.

Many in the audience were deeply moved—some cried as they watched Tawana disappear from the stage. The applause, cheers, and screams continued, showing no signs of fading.

As soon as Tawana stepped off the lift, her agent, who had been waiting nearby, couldn’t help but ask, “Tawana... what are you thinking? Do you realize the whole world is discussing your behavior after making such a controversial move in front of tens of thousands of people?”

Tawana smiled calmly and replied, “No matter what they say, don’t explain anything for me.”

The agent looked at her awkwardly and said, “...I already did.”
