

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7806

When charlie wade and his group got out of the car, many other people had already gotten out of their cars as well.

Most people taking this route are heading to the airport to catch a flight. They only allow themselves one or two hours at most, and some even have less than an hour before their flight's departure time. If they get off the bus now and run towards the airport, they still have a chance to arrive within an hour. But if they wait in the bus, they might miss their flight.

Hundreds of people dragged their luggage through the stagnant traffic. charlie wade noticed that many of the locals seemed to take this for granted. They walked with their heads down, pulling their luggage with expressionless faces, as if they didn't care about it.

When charlie wade arrived at the end of the traffic jam, he saw hundreds of people of different skin colors and ages, ranging from teenagers to those in their fifties and sixties, sitting in the middle of the road in a line, wearing hoodies with the slogan "Stop Global Warming". They were holding various flags and signs, and there were also a few people who looked like leaders. Facing the torrent of traffic, they were shouting something loudly and passionately through megaphones.

Interestingly, there was even an East Asian face among them, and her shouts were the most excited.

charlie wade listened carefully and realized that the other person was shouting in English: "You people are all the culprits of global warming! You are the main culprits of the melting of the Antarctic and Arctic glaciers!"

Another white girl joined in, shouting, "That's right! Arctic penguin chicks are losing their habitat, and it's all your selfish humans' fault! You drive cars and emit huge amounts of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere, aren't you ashamed?"

charlie wade frowned upon hearing this and asked Lin Wan'er (Alani), "Aren't there penguins in the Arctic?"

Lin Wan'er (Alani) said with a smile, "There shouldn't be any. About a hundred years ago, someone tried to bring penguins from Antarctica to the Arctic, but for various reasons, the population failed to survive stably."

charlie wade sighed: "This kind of stuff is out here as an environmental volunteer, isn't it shameful?"

Lin Wan'er (Alani) smiled and said, "Young master, think about it from another angle. Anyone with a sound set of values and sufficient knowledge would never do something so childish."

"That's true." charlie wade shook his head helplessly. He couldn't quite understand the thought process of the far-left people in the West.

At this moment, a middle-aged man in a suit stepped forward and said, "Even if you don't allow gasoline cars to pass, you should at least allow electric cars to pass, right? I'm driving a Tesla. Even if you think cars cause global warming, that doesn't include electric cars!"

One of the young men, holding a megaphone, angrily rebuked him: "What I hate most are you hypocrites who drive electric cars! Do you think your car won't pollute the atmosphere if you don't refuel? Power plants burn huge amounts of coal to generate electricity, emitting astronomical amounts of greenhouse gases! All of you electric car drivers are accomplices!"

When charlie wade and his group got out of the car, many other people had already gotten out of their cars as well.

Most people taking this route are heading to the airport to catch a flight. They only allow themselves one or two hours at most, and some even have less than an hour before their flight's departure time. If they get off the bus now and run towards the airport, they still have a chance to arrive within an hour. But if they wait in the bus, they might miss their flight.

Hundreds of people dragged their luggage through the stagnant traffic. charlie wade noticed that many of the locals seemed to take this for granted. They walked with their heads down, pulling their luggage with expressionless faces, as if they didn't care about it.

When charlie wade arrived at the end of the traffic jam, he saw hundreds of people of different skin colors and ages, ranging from teenagers to those in their fifties and sixties, sitting in the middle of the road in a line, wearing hoodies with the slogan "Stop Global Warming". They were holding various flags and signs, and there were also a few people who looked like leaders. Facing the torrent of traffic, they were shouting something loudly and passionately through megaphones.

Interestingly, there was even an East Asian face among them, and her shouts were the most excited.

charlie wade listened carefully and realized that the other person was shouting in English: “You people are all the culprits of global warming! You are the main culprits of the melting of the Antarctic and Arctic glaciers!”

Another white girl joined in, shouting, “That’s right! Arctic penguin chicks are losing their habitat, and it’s all your selfish humans’ fault! You drive cars and emit huge amounts of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere, aren’t you ashamed?”

charlie wade frowned upon hearing this and asked Lin Wan’er (Alani), “Aren’t there penguins in the Arctic?”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) said with a smile, “There shouldn’t be any. About a hundred years ago, someone tried to bring penguins from Antarctica to the Arctic, but for various reasons, the population failed to survive stably.”

charlie wade sighed: “This kind of stuff is out here as an environmental volunteer, isn’t it shameful?”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) smiled and said, “Young master, think about it from another angle. Anyone with a sound set of values and sufficient knowledge would never do something so childish.”

“That’s true.” charlie wade shook his head helplessly. He couldn’t quite understand the thought process of the far-left people in the West.

At this moment, a middle-aged man in a suit stepped forward and said, “Even if you don’t allow gasoline cars to pass, you should at least allow electric cars to pass, right? I’m driving a Tesla. Even if you think cars cause global warming, that doesn’t include electric cars!”

One of the young men, holding a megaphone, angrily rebuked him: “What I hate most are you hypocrites who drive electric cars! Do you think your car won’t pollute the atmosphere if you don’t refuel? Power plants burn huge amounts of coal to generate electricity, emitting astronomical amounts of greenhouse gases! All of you electric car drivers are accomplices!”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7807

The middle-aged man, indignant, retorted, “You’re definitely not from Northern Europe! At least 98% of our electricity generation in Northern Europe comes from renewable energy sources, and the vast majority of our electricity is generated by hydropower. How could we possibly emit greenhouse gases?!”

The other party was clearly caught off guard by his remarks, and then retorted sharply, “You’re just making things up. You say renewable energy accounts for 98%, but does that really mean it does? Why should I believe you?”

The middle-aged man said angrily, “You can check it yourself! Don’t you have a cell phone?”

At that moment, a little girl behind the environmentalist quietly checked her phone, then leaned over and whispered in his ear, “Charlie, I just checked, and renewable energy does indeed account for 98% of electricity generation in Northern Europe...”

The environmentalist’s face flushed slightly, but he quickly regained his composure and sneered, “So what? Do you know where your car was made? If I’m not mistaken, your Tesla is very likely made in Germany. Tesla’s factory construction in Germany has severely disrupted our ecological balance, causing many small animals to lose their homes. Moreover, coal-fired power accounts for nearly half of Germany’s electricity generation. In other words, although you, this hypocrite, are not polluting the air in Northern Europe by driving your Tesla, the German people are polluting their own country’s air and harming their own animals in order to build this Tesla! And the culprits are hypocrites like you!”

“I...” The middle-aged man was speechless with anger, then angrily questioned, “Do you people have any sense of reason? I paid for this car, it wasn’t given to me for free by the German people. I paid Tesla the full purchase price, Tesla paid the taxes due to the German government, and paid the salaries to its German employees. Even if the car produced greenhouse gases during its manufacturing process, I still borne the financial costs!”

After saying that, he pointed to the hoodie the other person was wearing and questioned, “You accuse my car of emitting greenhouse gases during its manufacturing process, then let me ask you, doesn’t the clothing you’re wearing emit greenhouse gases during its manufacturing process?”

The other party was once again rendered speechless by the questioning, but the young woman with Asian features was the first to find a way to respond. She rushed forward and shouted, “You hypocrite! Instead of reflecting on your own problems, you maliciously smear us! Do you know that all our clothes are made from recyclable and biodegradable materials? Moreover, the raw materials are all recycled from discarded clothing donated by people all over the world. Even if the raw materials emitted greenhouse gases during the initial production process, the culprit is not us, but those who owned them before recycling and reprocessing! And in order not to add burden to the earth, we never buy new clothes, only wear recycled and reused clothing! And look at yourself, all dressed up in a suit, looking all respectable. What brand is your suit? Boss or Armani? Do you know how much extra pollution the earth has to bear to produce your clothes?”

Her sudden barrage of attacks not only stunned the opponent, but even surprised her close comrades.

charlie wade watched as two environmental protesters whispered among themselves: “Are the clothes we’re wearing really recycled? They’re so damn dirty, so disgusting...”

Another person whispered, “Don’t listen to her nonsense. All these clothes were ordered in bulk online by the chairman. How could they be recycled and reprocessed? I checked the care label. They are made in Vietnam and are 100% cotton. You can rest assured.”

The man then asked, “Are you sure? We do receive a lot of donated used clothing from people around the world. What if we actually take a batch of it and reprocess it?”

The other person laughed and said, “Don’t be silly. Being an environmentalist is just a business. Those donated clothes, ostensibly for recycling and reuse, are actually packaged up and sold to Africa by our higher-ups. There are people in Africa who specialize in buying used clothes from all over the world. They buy them by the ton and then distribute them to distributors in various places by the kilogram. Those distributors then sort and select the clothes to sell normally. For us, this is a business with no cost. We can sell at least several thousand tons a year. Otherwise, where do you think we get the funds for protests, eating, drinking, and having fun all over Europe, plus travel and accommodation expenses?”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7808

Upon hearing the explanation, the man breathed a sigh of relief and said with a smile, “Oh, so that’s how it is... I thought it was really recycled. This Ji Xiaomeng is really good at lying. She can lie so easily and her mind works really fast.”

The other person nodded and said in a low voice, “This Ji Xiaomeng has only been in the team for less than half a year, and she’s already in the core layer. How do you think she did it? Isn’t it all thanks to her silver tongue? This woman can turn black into white and white into green. The vice president admires her a lot, and he plans to help her hype up this demonstration. Someone is secretly live-streaming it on YouTube. She’ll definitely become famous after this.”

The man was astonished and exclaimed, “There’s someone live-streaming?”

“Of course,” the other party said. “We have people live streaming and filming footage for every event we hold. We also have a professional team handling post-production and editing. Moreover, among the people we blocked, there are our informants who help us film from another perspective. Only in this way can we create buzz online. You have to remember, although we hold protests offline, we are actually doing it for online audiences.”

The man nodded and asked, “What did Ji Xiaomeng do before?”

The other person chuckled and said, “Before she joined us, she was just an amateur photographer in China who came from humble beginnings. It’s said that she couldn’t even afford a professional camera, so she got a second-hand one. She took tens of thousands of photos a year and posted them online, but after several years she only gained two or three thousand followers. She didn’t have a proper job and couldn’t get any commercial orders. She was the kind of loser who didn’t know where her next meal would come from. Later, she saw that the environmental girl became popular, so she wanted to enter this field and become an environmental influencer.”

“At first she held protests in Asia, but nobody paid attention to her. Later she went to the United States on a tourist visa to hold protests there. But she’s out of her mind. She went to Texas to stop a pickup truck and almost got shot to death by rednecks. She was so scared that she took a plane to Europe overnight. Unexpectedly, she thrived in Europe.”

At this point, the man sighed softly and said with emotion, “Someone like her can only have a future in Europe. In America, she would have been beaten to death long ago.”

After listening to their conversation, Charlie Wade sighed inwardly. These people didn’t seem to be serious environmentalists; they each had their own selfish motives.

At this point, the man in the Tesla in the crowd had already lost out to Ji Xiaomeng and could only drag his suitcase, intending to walk to the airport.

Looking at his disheveled figure, Ji Xiaomeng shouted loudly behind him, “Sir who drives a Tesla, please remember that environmental protection is not just about talking about it or buying an electric car. You must respect nature from the bottom of your heart, and even more so, have compassion for those animals that have lost their homes or even their lives because of global warming!”

The protesters were all impressed by Ji Xiaomeng’s eloquence and offensive skills, and cheered loudly. Ji Xiaomeng looked smug in the crowd. It was only after joining this team that she discovered her true talent. Her talent was not taking photos or managing social media, but labeling others and using her silver tongue to smear them. She could always find the most powerful way to attack, leaving the other party unable to defend themselves.

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7809

She had wanted to do this before but didn’t dare, because she had no money, power, or influence. If she rashly attacked others, she would easily attract attacks or even retaliation.

However, after joining the environmental organization, she not only gained a large group of comrades who could support her, but more importantly, she also found the moral high ground. With this double boost, she would not be afraid to confront a Tesla owner in Northern Europe, or even to confront Trump in the United States.

Just as Ji Xiaomeng was enjoying the cheers and the joy of victory, an elderly woman with an Asian appearance walked up to Ji Xiaomeng and cautiously asked, “Young lady, you...you are Chinese, right?”

Ji Xiaomeng nodded and asked her, “What’s wrong? Is something the matter?”

The old woman breathed a sigh of relief when she saw that the woman admitted to being Chinese. She pleaded, “It’s like this, young lady. My flight is leaving in an hour. My husband is seriously ill in China and has been hospitalized. I have to rush back to see him. If I miss this flight, the earliest I can see him is tomorrow. So please, I beg you, let my taxi take me to the airport!”

“How can that be!” Ji Xiaomeng refused firmly. “Environmental protection is our mission. We treat everyone equally, no matter who you are or what the special circumstances are. If you’re in a hurry to catch your flight, then hurry up and run to the airport. We can’t give you any special treatment!”

The old lady choked up and said, “I’m eighty years old. You’re asking me to run to the airport? Let alone an hour, I might not even be able to run there in two hours. Besides, boarding starts half an hour before takeoff. There’s no other way to make it in time except by car...”

Ji Xiaomeng shrugged: “Then it’s not my problem. We are working for the benefit of all mankind and animals in the world, to benefit the earth and the world. Your personal matters are just a drop in the ocean compared to such important issues. You should try to overcome them.”

Then, Ji Xiaomeng added, “By the way, do you know why we have to block this particular road when there are so many roads in Ausu City? To tell you the truth, it’s because airplanes are also a major culprit in greenhouse gas emissions! In order to save your time, you fly all over the world in airplanes, and every time you fly, you release a large amount of carbon dioxide into the atmosphere!”

The old lady was so angry she almost had a heart attack. Clutching her chest, she demanded, “You...you accuse me of taking a plane, but what about you? How did you get to Europe?! Whether you came by plane or ship, you are also the culprit emitting carbon dioxide into the atmosphere!”

Ji Xiaomeng smiled and said without changing her expression, "I'm sorry, Grandma, I immigrated to Europe with my parents when I was little."

After saying that, she sighed with a look of shame and said, "Of course, you are right. Even if I flew on an airplane when I was a child, it is still undeniable that I was an accomplice to global warming. That's why I have now realized my mistake and become a volunteer to contribute to the fight against global warming, and at the same time, to atone for the mistakes I made in the past!"

The old lady was once again rendered speechless by her sharp retorts and could only stand there helplessly wiping away her tears.

charlie wade originally planned to just walk over and not bother with these radicals, but after hearing others talk about Ji Xiaomeng and seeing her show no pity for an old lady and even lie to her, he felt very uncomfortable.

He couldn't help but feel astonished. Had European society become so surreal? How could such demons and monsters be able to run rampant in this land, blocking hundreds or even thousands of people here, and yet no one could do anything about it?