The Amazing son in law Chapter 7811

charlie wade nodded and said with a serious expression, "We can't control what politicians think, but we must teach them a lesson today."

Helena said, "I'll call the relevant people and ask them to send the police over as soon as possible to remove these people."

Helena was, after all, the host from Northern Europe. This incident had already caused her to lose face in front of charlie wade. If charlie wade were to intervene and resolve the matter, she would lose even more face.

But charlie wade had his reasons.

He said, "You should be able to see that they are not afraid of the police at all. In fact, you could say they are hoping the police will arrest them, because that would better highlight their fearlessness and integrity. When they come out of the police station, they will become heroes of the world. We cannot give them such an opportunity."

At this point, charlie wade paused slightly and continued, "Personally, I think the best solution right now is to humiliate them in public, so that they can never hold their heads up again, and so that wherever they go, they will become rats crossing the street, hated by everyone."

"That's true." Helena nodded gently and asked him, "Then, Mr. wade, do you have any good ideas?"

charlie wade said, "Split them from within, let the dogs bite each other."

After saying this, he quietly channeled a few strands of spiritual energy into the bodies of the two people who had just been discussing Ji Xiaomeng. Along with these strands of spiritual energy, charlie wade also sent them a psychological suggestion.

The psychological suggestion is simple: the more unconventional and outrageous Ji Xiaomeng is, the more uncomfortable they feel, and they are even willing to suffer heavy losses themselves to bring her down.

As this powerful psychological suggestion took effect in their minds, the person who knew the most about Ji Xiaomeng looked at Ji Xiaomeng, who was raising her arms and shouting in the crowd, and said through gritted teeth to the junior next to her: “Damn it, letting such a lying woman steal the spotlight is worse than killing me!”

The other party nodded emphatically in agreement: “Everyone else is protesting, so why is she getting so much attention! I just can’t swallow this insult if I don’t expose her in public!”

“You’re right!” the man said immediately in a cold voice, “We absolutely cannot let her stand up!”

At this moment, Ji Xiaomeng was unaware that someone in her camp intended to betray her. She was still immersed in the pleasure of standing on the moral high ground and criticizing others, unable to extricate herself. Seeing the old lady sobbing silently with her head down, she persisted and said coldly, “I think the biggest problem with human development to this point is that we like to make others, or other species, pay the price for our own selfish desires. If humans could reduce unnecessary travel, especially unnecessary transoceanic flights, many birds could escape the risk of being hit by planes, and many animals and plants could also minimize the impact of global warming. So why not stay at home with your spouse instead of running out alone and then rushing back?”

The old woman was heartbroken and cried as she said, “I’m so old, and I didn’t want to come all this way! But my children all have to work, and there’s no one to help them take care of their children, so I came here alone to help them...”

Ji Xiaomeng snorted and said, “Then why can’t they hire a nanny locally? That way, they won’t pollute the environment, they can create a local job, and you can stay in China to take care of your husband. Wouldn’t that be killing three birds with one stone?”

The old lady choked up and said, “They don’t earn much here, and they still have to pay off their mortgages. They really can’t afford a full-time caregiver!”

Ji Xiaomeng said disdainfully, “If you don’t have the financial means, then work hard to earn money. Why have children? If you have children but can’t take care of them, that’s irresponsible to the children, irresponsible to the parents, and even more irresponsible to society! Such an irresponsible person can't contribute anything to society. Staying in Northern Europe with such good welfare benefits, they can only become parasites on Nordic society!"

The old lady clutched her chest, wanting to say something, but all she could manage was a sob, and she could only collapse to the ground and weep bitterly.

Just as Ji Xiaomeng was feeling smug, a furious roar suddenly came from behind her: "Ji Xiaomeng, I can't stand it anymore, you've gone too far!"

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7812

The sudden shout startled Ji Xiaomeng.

She likes to plan ahead, so she considered many possible emergencies before coming, but she was mainly thinking about the enemy camp, that is, what would happen to these besieged passers-by.

She had considered the possibility of being attacked, insulted, or even begged for mercy. There was even a very small chance of encountering someone she knew in real life. But she had prepared for all of these possibilities. Even when she said that the clothes were recycled or that she immigrated to Europe with her parents when she was a child, it was not an impromptu remark, but a prepared response.

But she never considered how to deal with it if her own teammate bit her.

So when she saw someone in her own camp firing at her, she panicked and quickly shouted at him, "Park Soo-hyun, what nonsense are you talking about?!"

Park Soo-hyun is of Korean descent and joined the team more than a year earlier than Ji Xiaomeng. When Ji Xiaomeng wanted to join, she sent him a lot of private messages on Facebook and begged him to recommend her to the organization.

Moreover, when Ji Xiaomeng first joined, Park Soo-hyun personally guided her.

At that time, he felt that Ji Xiaomeng was Asian like himself. In this predominantly white team, having an Asian face would reduce the chances of Asian faces being ostracized and under less pressure. If the two got along well, they could take care of each other. So he took good care of Ji Xiaomeng.

In order to quickly integrate into the team, Ji Xiaomeng initially had a strong desire to curry favor with Park Soo-hyun. She even took the initiative to engage in an ambiguous relationship with him that was more than friends but less than lovers. In order to gain Park Soo-hyun's sympathy, support and help, she also truthfully told Park Soo-hyun a lot about her situation.

However, Ji Xiaomeng was more shameless and unscrupulous than Park Soo-hyun. So after several operations, she quickly began to stand out in the team and soon surpassed Park Soo-hyun in status. Since then, her attitude towards Park Soo-hyun has become increasingly cold.

Moreover, while Ji Xiaomeng was cold to Park Soo-hyun, she started flirting with the team leader and hovering around him with an adoring expression every day, which made Park Soo-hyun even more dissatisfied.

Park Soo-hyun already harbored resentment. Even without Ye Chen's psychological suggestion, he had long disliked Ji Xiaomeng. Now, with the added psychological suggestion, his dissatisfaction was even stronger.

Therefore, the more he looked at Ji Xiaomeng, the more he hated her, to the point that his teeth itched with hatred.

Then, he pointed at Ji Xiaomeng and shouted sternly, "Ji Xiaomeng, you are a native Chinese, and just a few months ago you were an amateur photographer who couldn't even afford to eat. You had to rely on online loans to scrape together enough money for your plane ticket to Europe. How dare you lie in public and claim that you immigrated here when you were a child? If I had known you were so hypocritical, I shouldn't have let you join us in the first place!"

Ji Xiaomeng was startled, her heart leaped into her throat, and then a feeling of weightlessness made her legs feel weak, and cold sweat broke out involuntarily.

She never expected that Park Soo-hyun would suddenly target her, especially at the protest site and in front of so many live cameras.

Fortunately, she was quick-witted. As soon as the people around her cast questioning glances at her, she immediately said with a pained expression, "Park Soo-hyun, I have always regarded you as a senior on the road to environmental protection and as a role model for the benefit of the world, but you are determined to make me your girlfriend. I have said before that I do not want to consider personal feelings in the short term. Even if you have been hurt, there is no need to spread rumors about me at this time."

“I’m spreading rumors about you?” Park Soo-hyun retorted angrily, “You said you immigrated to Europe when you were young, fine, then tell me, which country did you immigrate to?”

Ji Xiaomeng knew that many people were filming with their phones, and some had even started live streaming on online platforms. She could only bite the bullet and say, “I...I immigrated to Sweden, so what?”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7813

The environmental organization that Ji Xiaomeng joined is headquartered in Sweden. This is because most of the team members are Swedish environmental activists, and they have become a de facto environmental group. The famous environmental girl is one of the core members of the group’s highest level.

As for Ji Xiaomeng’s organization, in this group whose core interests are environmental protection, it can only be considered a small team with little presence for the time being. In order to gain a higher status and more say in the group, they began to frequently organize protest activities in Europe.

When Ji Xiaomeng fled from the United States, she flew to Sweden, so she tried to use Sweden as a cover to get away with it.

Park Soo-hyun scoffed at her lie and sneered, “You say you immigrated to Sweden, then you must have already obtained a Swedish passport. I’d like to ask, when we enter Northern Europe today, why is your passport still a Chinese passport? Anyway, everyone carries their passports with them. Do you dare to take out your passport and show it to everyone?”

Ji Xiaomeng was at a loss for what to do, so she could only look at the team leader and ask for help with her eyes.

The team leader was also surprised by this incident. In order to stabilize the situation and prevent damage to the team’s image, he immediately said to Park Soo-hyun, “Park, I’m warning you, don’t bring your personal life into the environmental cause. If you continue to slander the team for your own selfish desires, then I will kick you out!”

Park Soo-hyun had long lost his ability to make sound judgments. Seeing that his team leader was also defending Ji Xiaomeng, he became even angrier. So, he ran a few steps and jumped onto the roof of the first Mercedes-Benz, shouting at the people who were being surrounded: “Let me tell you the truth, this environmental organization is holding these protests not for environmental protection at all! Global warming? Bullshit! It’s all business! Many upstream and downstream companies in the European wind and solar power industries regularly donate money to us and provide operating funds, just so we can put pressure on coal-fired power plants and European governments to gradually shut them down. You know what happened in Germany, right? The coal-fired power plants were shut down, and residential electricity prices soared by half. Those involved in wind and solar power are making a fortune!”

“Furthermore, our protest in Northern Europe isn’t about environmental protection. It’s about using environmentalism to create influence and attract followers online. We’ll not only call on our followers to donate to the event, but also urge all Europeans to donate their clothes for recycling and reuse to avoid polluting the environment!”

“If you search online, you can see videos of our protests in other countries and cities. Every time, we give people the address of an environmental protection website, claiming that we have invested millions of euros to build a green and environmentally friendly recycling production line, but in reality, it is just an empty shell company!”

“If you send the old clothes to that address, they won’t be recycled. Instead, they will be packaged and exported directly to Africa. Even the shipping costs will be borne by the African distributors. We don’t need to invest a single penny. We only need to contribute some manpower to exchange your donated clothes for a lot of money. And all of this money will go into our pockets, especially the pockets of those in charge!”

“Furthermore, do you know why we deliberately destroy world-famous paintings in museums across Europe? To tell you the truth, it’s all supported by collectors behind the scenes. As long as we can destroy a masterpiece by a certain master, after the media reports, that master’s work will become popular in the collecting world. Moreover, as long as we destroy one, there will be one less of his surviving works, which will also increase the price of the remaining works. Collectors can just sit at home and the value of their collections will skyrocket!”

After saying that, he pointed at the team leader and said coldly, “This is the guy. Most of the money he earns from every event goes into his own pocket! He just bought a 6.2-liter Dodge Challenger last month, which is almost one of the largest displacement muscle cars available on the market. Someone who keeps talking about environmental protection actually bought the largest displacement car. Just think how ironic that is!”

Then, he pointed at Ji Xiaomeng and angrily rebuked her: “This woman who lies all the time, as soon as she sat in that Dodge Challenger, she had a fawning smile on her face, as happy as could be. She even begged several times to take her to experience drifting. I have never seen her criticize that car for being environmentally unfriendly! But today, she didn’t even spare a Tesla owner, standing on the high ground of environmental protection and spouting nonsense. She is simply the worst of the worst, the most despicable of the despicable!”

This time, not only did Ji Xiaomeng have a gloomy expression, but the team leader’s expression also became extremely ugly, wishing he could kill Park Soohyun to quell his anger.

As the leader of this small team, he usually kept a low profile. When organizing everyone to carry out protest activities, he generally did not take the lead himself. Instead, he encouraged radicals like Ji Xiaomeng who were eager to climb the ranks to take the lead and even create explosive moments with extreme behaviors. He himself would pretend to be an inconspicuous newbie in the team and quietly control the pace of the event.

Because of this strategy, few people outside know his true identity, let alone his actual position in the organization. Therefore, he is not worried about being exposed when he makes money and buys expensive large-displacement muscle cars.

But to my utter surprise, there was a traitor among my own men. This Park Soohyun was like a mad dog, and she actually exposed me.

The most frightening thing is that Park Soohyun has revealed their organization’s profit model, which is equivalent to completely tearing off everyone’s fig leaf. Once this gets to Sweden, the Swedish authorities will definitely investigate the whole story. The fact that their organization accepts benefits from various interest groups and has been reselling second-hand clothes to Africa for a long time will be impossible to cover up.

In his nervousness, his first thought was to stop the incident from gaining more attention. With so many people watching and recording it on so many phones, the longer it dragged on, the worse the impact would be. The best solution was to stop the roadblock demonstration as soon as possible and get these people to leave.

These people are all passengers rushing to catch their flights. The reason they are acting as bystanders here is entirely due to their own foolishness in blocking the road. So as long as the roadblock is stopped, they will definitely hurry up and get on the bus and leave!

So he immediately shouted to the members who were still sitting on the ground, looking bewildered, “Make way and let them move quickly!”

Several quick-thinking children had already gotten up and run to the side of the road, while some silly little cuties were still sitting cross-legged on the ground, looking around blankly.

The person in charge got angry and rushed towards the group, kicking and punching them while yelling, “I told you to get out of the way! Don’t you understand?! Get out of here!”

After saying that, he shouted to the onlookers: “Gentlemen, there is a traitor in our team who is deliberately smearing us. On behalf of the team, I reserve the right to pursue his legal responsibility. But I also ask you to keep your eyes open and not believe the one-sided story of such a person! If you maliciously spread unverified and irresponsible remarks on the Internet, we also have the right to pursue your legal responsibility!”

Although the team leader was a morally questionable person, he understood the core elements of crisis public relations very well.

Whether it’s a government, a business, or an individual worldwide, when faced with a crisis, there are only two steps.

The first step is to determine whether you are right or wrong.

If you are right, then do everything you can to prove yourself in front of the public, no matter how tortuous the process may be.

If you are wrong, never be stubborn. Always remember the eight-character mantra of Eastern philosophy: turn big problems into small ones, and small problems into nothing.

This simple basic principle is something that many Fortune 500 companies, and even many countries, fail to truly understand. Some companies and even countries, knowing full well that they have made a mistake, still stubbornly persist in their actions, even at the cost of investing enormous human, material, and financial resources to cover up and justify their errors. Instead, they drag themselves into a public relations abyss comparable to a swamp, incurring ever greater costs while achieving increasingly worse results, and even causing their reputation to collapse rapidly.

However, if they sincerely reflect on their mistakes, apologize, and resolve the issues immediately, the losses can be controlled in the first instance and continuously reduced.

The saying “turn big problems into small ones, and small problems into nothing” truly embodies the wisdom of the ancient Eastern people. It is essential to control the situation and prevent it from escalating.

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7815

If you take things too small, there will always come a day when they become worthless or negligible.

However, if something escalates too much, its negative consequences will have no upper limit, and may even lead to the collapse of the entire structure.

Just like when a certain brand of refrigerators cut costs on the door closer and was complained about by consumers, if they had just admitted their mistake and made positive corrections immediately, they could have solved the problem at a very low cost and gained positive reviews for their proactive attitude. However, they used the most foolish way of handling it, which ultimately led to the collapse of their brand image and their near disappearance from the market.

The head of this environmental protection team knew perfectly well that he was in the wrong. In this situation, the best thing to do was not to argue and continue to escalate the situation, but to quickly disperse the crowd and reduce the impact.

And his tactic did indeed work.

Many onlookers were happy to see them fighting amongst themselves, but this was, after all, a closed road to the airport, and many people were in a hurry to catch their flights, especially the elderly lady who was rushing to catch her flight back to China. When she saw that these people had cleared the way, she quickly returned to her taxi and begged the driver to take her to the airport as soon as possible.

So, the first car drove off, followed by the second and the third.

The previously impassable road began to loosen.

Some people who weren't in a hurry wanted to continue watching the drama unfold, but their cars were still parked there, and everyone's manners were far superior to those of these extreme environmentalists. So, they all suppressed their desire to watch the drama unfold and quickly got back into their cars and drove away.

Soon, charlie wade started the car and drove everyone out of the traffic jam. Helena said indignantly in the car, "I don't know how this will end. If the Swedish side doesn't hold them accountable and doesn't conduct a thorough investigation, they might get away with it."

charlie wade smiled and said, "If you want them to pay the price legally, then I think you can talk to the Nordic police and, in your capacity as the Queen, suggest that they take these people back for investigation before they leave the Nordic region. You should also ask the police not to just go through the motions, but to record their complete statements. Then, you should report this matter to the Swedish authorities from the Nordic government level. In that case, Sweden will definitely take it seriously. If the Nordic media can also give it some appropriate support, this matter might become the beginning of tearing off the hypocritical mask of extreme environmental organizations, and the whole of Europe will benefit from it in the future."

As he spoke, charlie wade continued, "Based on my observations today, I feel that the European people have suffered under these scoundrels for too long. It's just that no one dares to stand up and protest against them because everyone is afraid of following in J.K. Rowling's footsteps. But this time is different. This time they have already exposed a corner of their crimes. If you can stand firm, stand on the moral high ground, follow the clues, and expose the true faces of these people, then you will definitely become a hero in the eyes of the European people."

The breeding ground for extreme environmentalism is basically only in Europe, and only in EU countries.

This is because the economies of EU countries are relatively developed, most of them are long-established capitalist countries, and the long-standing left-leaning of society has given these clowns the confidence to ride on their necks and shit.

In developing countries or even third-world countries in Asia, Africa, and Latin America where the economy is not so developed, if these people dare to jump out and use extreme methods to shout about environmental protection, the local people would simply kick them out of the country with a hundred big shovels each, and no one could affect their ability to make a living.

While North America is also very developed, the people there are really tough. Think about it, in a country where there are more guns than people, how could they possibly have the chance to ride roughshod over someone else? Before they even have a chance to take their pants off, a burst of bullets will have already entered their bodies.

Needless to say, Eastern Europe is even more unthinkable. Even if you offered them money and begged them to go, they would absolutely not dare to set foot in Eastern Europe.

That's why they keep moving around the EU, staging demonstrations in Northern Europe one day, marching in Central Europe the next, and when they have free time, they go to England and France to destroy some artworks. They're even so bored that they take paint and dye other people's rivers.

Normal Europeans are actually quite disgusted by them, but just like with LGBT people, they dare not speak out. If someone with a sense of justice says something fair, they will be attacked by a group of people, and even publicly humiliated and ridiculed by the actresses they have personally made famous.

People long for a true hero to step forward and solve this problem once and for all, but such a person has yet to appear.

Today, this incident is happening in Scandinavia, and with this farce as a prelude, it is absolutely the perfect opportunity for Helena to step forward!
