The Amazing son in law Chapter 7826

The three exchanged glances, none of them understanding what Sara meant.

If we don't want them to bother, then why call them here to say all this?

Moreover, when it comes to opening the Niwan Palace, the three of them all harbored some resentment. After all, they had been in seclusion for a hundred years, and if they just gritted their teeth and persevered for another ten years or so, they might open the Niwan Palace one after another. Once the Niwan Palace was opened, their lifespan would exceed two hundred years, or even more than two hundred years.

But all of this was interrupted by Sara. Once that momentum was broken, it would take more than ten years to catch up. It would be common to waste another ten or twenty years.

Wu Bolin (Bick) reacted faster. He didn't dare to think too much about it. He simply stepped forward, knelt on one knee, and cupped his hands, saying, "Your subordinates have never asked for anything in return for serving Your Majesty. As long as Your Majesty gives the word, the three of us will go through fire and water without hesitation. How could we care about any gains or losses? We humbly request Your Majesty to give the order to allow the three of us to leave the island and search for Lin Wan'er (Alani)'s whereabouts!"

The other two then realized what was happening.

It seems I've been shut up for too long and my brain isn't working properly anymore. If I don't say anything or refuse when my boss tells me he can't offer a price that satisfies me, I'm afraid I'll offend him.

When the boss says she can't afford the price she wants, the correct approach is to flatter her and immediately state that you work for the boss not for money, but to do the job even without pay, and without any discounts.

So the two of them quickly expressed their support, saying in unison, “We are only willing to serve our lord without regard for personal gain or loss. We hope that our lord will allow the three of us to leave the island!”

Sara snorted softly, nodded with a half-smile, and said, “It’s enough that you have the will. Catching that little fox Lin Wan’er (Alani) requires skill, not brute force. Sending you there would be a waste of your talents.”

Wu Bolin (Bick) was quick-witted. Upon hearing Sara’s words, he roughly guessed that Sara must have other things to instruct the three of them.

So he immediately asked respectfully, “I wonder if there is anything else we can do to share the burdens of our wise ruler?”

Sara went along with it, saying, “Over the years, the amount of spirit stones and pills consumed in cultivation has been enormous, and the loss of rare and precious materials is a bottomless pit. I want to seize the time to collect some essential materials to prepare for future needs. However, many materials are not available to ordinary people, so I hope the three elders can go out and travel around to see if they can find anything. If you find spirit stones, I will not interfere in principle. If you find magic weapons, you can keep them yourself. However, those rare alchemy materials are of no use to you. Bring them back to me, and after I refine them into pills, I can give each of you half.”

There are many treasures in this world that are difficult for those who do not have the cultivation level to obtain, especially those rare and exotic beasts that ordinary people have never been to or seen. If one encounters an ancient formation left behind by a cultivator before his death and breaks it, one might have an incredible opportunity.

However, Sara was naturally suspicious, and given the immense wealth of the Po Qing Society, she dared not venture out alone to seek opportunities. Therefore, she planned to send the three elders out to find those opportunities in her stead.

She didn’t really care about magical artifacts or spirit stones; what she truly cared about were the formulas and raw materials for high-level pills.

She had never taught any member of the Wu family alchemy, so even if the three elders obtained the formula and materials, they would not be able to refine them. Therefore, as long as they could find these materials and bring them back, they could refine a large number of pills themselves.

She knew in her heart that if she didn't get the Hundred Turns and Thousand Returns Pill soon, she would definitely go mad for the next hundred years. She would have to make the descendants of the Wu family go mad with her, otherwise the Broken Qing Society would definitely be at odds with her.

It's not difficult to drive the Wu family mad; they already have money and status. The only thing that can control them is their lifespan.

If there were a large quantity of pills, it would be possible to stop the current leadership of the Wu family from changing, thus ensuring their unwavering loyalty and allowing them to enjoy power and the pinnacle of life for several more decades. They would undoubtedly become endlessly addicted to it.

This is a decades-long plan to raise poisonous insects. Decades later, when the leaders of the Wu family of the Five Armies Commandery are all over a hundred years old, their dependence on him will only increase, because if he is in trouble or if he cuts off their elixirs, they will surely die.

In this way, they would face the same situation as themselves.

If I can't survive, I'll turn this world upside down.

Even if they can't survive, they'll definitely be willing to go completely mad with me!

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7827

Upon hearing that Sara had asked the three of them to go out and search for rare and precious materials, the three of them readily agreed without the slightest hesitation.

Prolonged seclusion is a matter of initial effort followed by decline and eventual exhaustion. If one were to remain in seclusion in one go until opening the Niwan Palace, time would pass in the blink of an eye during endless cultivation.

However, if you are suddenly interrupted at the last minute, it is extremely difficult to get back into the zone and find that state of mind again.

The three of them had little success in their seclusion during this period, which gradually made them impatient.

Sara knew very well that if it were her, and she was interrupted just as she was about to open the Niwan Palace, she would probably have to kill dozens of people to slightly relieve her anger.

Therefore, she decided to let the three of them enter the world first, partly to alleviate their impatience and boredom, and partly to see if they could encounter any good opportunities.

Sara's cultivation had long since reached a bottleneck, and she longed for some changes. However, she still had the Poqing Society to manage and could not spend a long time in the world to seek opportunities. Therefore, sending the three elders became the best solution in her mind.

Wu Bolin (Bick) had been in a bad mood, but when he heard that Sara had allowed him to enter the world and move around freely, his mood improved a little. After being in seclusion for so long, he hadn't had a chance to breathe fresh air for more than a few days before being confined to this place again, which was really unbearable. Being able to go out, no matter where he went, was much better than staying in this depressing place.

So he immediately said respectfully to Sara, "Your Majesty, I am willing to travel to the ends of the earth to find the rare treasures needed for your cultivation!"

Sara nodded and said, "This is a good opportunity for you to gain a deeper understanding of the world today. The social changes over the past hundred years have been unparalleled. If you want to understand this world, you must immerse yourself in it and experience it for yourself. I will have Tianlin prepare communication equipment for you. You should each plan your routes and travel for a year. If you make any significant discoveries, contact me immediately. If I have any missions that require your help, I will also contact you immediately."

A year is but a blink of an eye if it is used for secluded cultivation, but if it is used for worldly affairs, given the current level of development in the world, it is more than enough to travel around the world.

The three of them had spent most of their lives cultivating, so they had no time to travel the world. Now that the opportunity was rare, they all agreed.

Sara gave the three a few days to prepare, and asked Jadiel to prepare Singapore passports for them. Once the passports were ready, Jadiel would send the three away.

The reason for choosing Singaporean citizenship is that the Singaporean passport has one of the most visa-free countries, making it relatively easy for the three of them to travel to most places with their Singaporean passports.

After leaving Sara's palace, Wu Bolin (Bick) asked Wu Bowen and Wu Bozhong, "Bowen, Bozhong, where are you two planning to go?"

Wu Bowen said, "I want to go back to China to take a look, but after thinking about it carefully, China is probably the place where it is hardest to find opportunities, so I plan to do the opposite and go to the United States in the west to take a look."

Wu Bozhong said, "Then I'll go back to China. I'll just treat it as a chance to look around and revisit old places. I don't know what the past has left behind."

Wu Bolin (Bick) said, "The reason why the wise ruler gave us this year is not so that we can revisit the old places, but to try to help the wise ruler obtain more rare and precious materials. If the wise ruler is happy, he may reward us with a few Qi-nourishing pills, and perhaps the Niwan Palace can be opened smoothly."

Wu Bozhong thought for a moment and then said, "Then I won't go back to China. We'll talk about it later. I want to go to Gurkha. It used to be a great place for alchemy, and many cultivators went there to seek immortality. Maybe I can make some progress there."

Gurkha was the old name for Nepal during the Qing Dynasty.

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7828

Because eight of the world's top ten highest mountains are located, in part or even entirely, within Nepal, and are home to some rare and precious treasures, it did attract some cultivators to seek immortality there in the past. In these remote places, many relics of cultivators have been left behind. Wu Bozhong felt that the probability of finding alchemy materials there would be greater.

Wu Bolin (Bick) nodded and said, "Since you're going east and west, I'll go north or south."

Just as the three elders were actively preparing to enter the world, the Iliad, which was docked in the port, reached dinner time.

The captain specifically instructed everyone to go to the restaurant, saying that he wanted to introduce the four new boarders to the entire crew.

The crew members also felt that this behavior was quite normal. Under normal circumstances, the experts who boarded the ship would live with everyone for at least ten days to get to know each other, which would make things much easier later on.

So when charlie wade and Lin Wan'er (Alani) arrived at the restaurant, all the crew members of the Iliad research vessel had already gathered there.

These Nordic sailors pieced together the ship's dining tables to form an extra-long table nearly ten meters long, which was then filled with all sorts of food, mainly Nordic seafood and meat dishes, including smoked salmon, various sausages, shrimp, and crab.

Because of charlie wade's psychological influence, Captain John Torresson was naturally very polite and smiled as he said to everyone, "Come on, let's all applaud and welcome Mr. Louis, the meteorologist, and the three beautiful ladies traveling with him are also meteorologists."

After saying that, he asked charlie wade in a low voice, "By the way, Mr. Louis, we still don't know how to address these three ladies?"

charlie wade smiled slightly, released a bit of spiritual energy, and said to everyone, "Everyone, we will need your help and care for the next period of time. The four of us have rather special living habits, so please do not disturb us or inquire about our behavior. If we need any help from you, please do your best and do not slack off. Treat us as the most honored guests and treat us with all your heart. Do you understand?"

Upon hearing this, the three women couldn't help but laugh. How could someone ask for help like that? It's not polite at all.

However, they also knew that charlie wade wasn't asking for help; he had already subtly prepared himself mentally while speaking.

Therefore, they could see that the crew members who were initially somewhat puzzled about the four men's identities instantly lost all their doubts and curiosity after hearing charlie wade's words. They all spoke in unison, as if they had received an order, and said very seriously, "Understood!"

charlie wade nodded and said, “None of you are allowed to tell anyone anything about us. When you return, you will completely forget that you ever saw the four of us, and you will also completely forget that we ever boarded this ship. Do you all understand?”

“Understood!”

The group answered in unison once again.

charlie wade looked satisfied and was completely relieved.

As long as these people, and those currently at the Nordic research station, have given each other the psychological suggestion that they will not reveal the whereabouts of the four to anyone after they leave, then no one will remember that the four of them stayed at the research station to spend the Antarctic winter.

For the next three days, charlie wade and his group waited on the research vessel for the window of opportunity to cross the Roaring Forties.

In the past few days, several more research vessels have arrived at the port of Ushuaia, resulting in a spectacular scene of more than a dozen research vessels docked at the same time, waiting to enter the Antarctic Circle.

On the fourth night, Captain John Torresson suddenly announced over the intercom: “Attention all personnel, port authorities have informed us that the wind and waves in the Drake Passage have subsided, presenting a good window of opportunity. We are instructed to prepare immediately and be ready to depart within the next hour!”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7829

As soon as the departure window opened, the waiting ships weighed anchor, lined up, and sailed out of the dock, embarking on their journey to Antarctica.

Although these research vessels are all heading to Antarctica, their routes are quite different. Most of the research vessels go to the Antarctic Peninsula and the South Shetland Islands, and very few ships go to the Antarctic continent with its harsher climate. Therefore, after leaving port, just a few dozen nautical miles away, all the ships changed direction and their tracks scattered.

The Iliad research vessel’s first stop is Antarctica. After arriving in Antarctica, they will pick up the staff of that research station and then go to other research stations on the archipelago. Eventually, all the staff will be evacuated to Ushuaia. At that time, the staff will fly back to Northern Europe, while the research vessel will take nearly a month to return to its home port.

On the second day of the voyage, the research vessel entered the Drake Passage. The infamous Roaring Forties lived up to their name, with winds generally reaching force 8 to 10 and waves at least five meters high. The ship sailing through this strait was like a tiny boat in a raging storm, appearing exceptionally small.

Due to the harsh weather and the fact that the research vessel itself was not traveling very fast, it was not until the third day that the research vessel had not yet left the Drake Passage, and the wind and waves outside were getting bigger and bigger.

While Charlie Wade, Yun Rugo, and Song Ruyu were single-mindedly practicing the Great Sun Tathagata Hand Seal, Lin Wan'er (Alani) was in her room using her delicate body to resist the violent ups and downs and rocking of the ship. At the same time, her dark eyes were fixed on the deep, almost black seawater outside the window and the waves that were higher than the cabin, and she clenched her fists nervously.

In her more than three hundred years of life, Lin Wan'er (Alani) had never been to Antarctica.

She had boundless anticipation for Antarctica, but she also dared not forget her awe of nature. As she watched the ocean, which was even higher than the ship, slam against the porthole with tremendous force, causing the entire ship to tremble, she couldn't help but feel a little nervous.

Charlie Wade felt the ship heaving violently. The first thing he did when he opened his eyes was to look for Lin Wan'er (Alani). He saw Lin Wan'er (Alani) gripping a small table fixed to the floor, barely managing to stay afloat amidst the raging waves. He immediately went over, took her hand, and asked, "Miss Lin, how are you feeling? Are you seasick?"

Lin Wan'er (Alani) was surprised that Charlie Wade had woken up from his meditation. She said somewhat shyly, "Thank you for your concern, young master. I'm not seasick, just a little nervous. Although I've been on many transoceanic ships, I've never seen such big waves before..."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) traveled between Europe and America, Japan and Southeast Asia in modern times, which naturally involved crossing oceans by ship. However, the climate of almost all the seas she sailed through was not as extreme as the Roaring Forties.

Let alone sailing ships or steam-powered iron ships of that era, even most modern ships do not meet the requirements for traversing the Roaring Forties. Only special ships that can withstand winds and waves of force 10 or higher and have obtained polar vessel certificates are allowed to pass through here, and they must also follow regulations and can only pass through when the maritime authorities deem it appropriate; otherwise, there is a risk of capsizing.

charlie wade channeled some spiritual energy into her meridians through her pulse points, saying, “Spiritual energy can help you enhance the strength of your limbs, which will also help you cope with the storms. Once we cross the Drake Passage and approach the Antarctic continent, the storms will subside.”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) felt a surge of power within her body, her balance and core strength against the storms were greatly enhanced, and she felt much less uncomfortable than before. She nodded gratefully and said softly, “Young Master, please go into meditation and cultivate. Don’t worry about me.”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7830

charlie wade smiled and said, “It’s rare to come to a place like this, so let’s enjoy the scenery together.”

A hint of joy flashed in Lin Wan’er (Alani)’s eyes, and she nodded shyly.

At this time, the Drake Passage was filled with howling winds that whipped up huge, dark blue waves that looked almost black. The entire sea surface was surging violently like boiling water, hardly a scenic view at all.

But charlie wade stared blankly at the raging sea.

He was prepared to endure the entire Antarctic winter on his trip to Antarctica, wondering what kind of adventures awaited him on the mysterious continent over the next six months.

Unlike the usual four seasons, people who work in Antarctica only divide the Antarctic seasons into two: summer, which is from November to March, and winter, which is from April to October. Winter is relatively longer, lasting a full seven months.

For the next seven months, there will be no tourists in Antarctica, and all commercial ships will be completely shut down. Currently, there are still a few research vessels traveling to and from Antarctica, but by late April, the routes to and from Antarctica will be completely suspended, as even research vessels will be unable to cope with the extreme temperatures at that time.

In other words, at that time, people on the Antarctic continent will not be able to leave even if they want to, and navigation will not resume until October.

Half a year has passed in the blink of an eye, and Charlie Wade can't help but worry that if his relatives and friends encounter trouble during this time, he will be unable to help them from his distance in Antarctica.

As for his wife, Claire, he was even more powerless to search for her and could only pray that she was well.

Seeing that Charlie Wade seemed distracted, Lin Wan'er (Alani) asked him with concern, "Is the young master worried about things at home?"

Charlie Wade nodded frankly and said, "None of our relatives, friends, and followers have the ability to protect themselves in the face of the Po Qing Society. We only hope that the Po Qing Society will not make any moves or progress during our time in Antarctica."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) comforted him, "Right now, the only ones who are in the public eye are your maternal grandparents' family. However, I believe that Wu Feiyan should be wary of them and will not act rashly."

Charlie Wade nodded slightly and sighed, "I hope so."

After saying that, he thought of the Wade family again, so he used the satellite network on the ship to send a WeChat message to his grandfather, instructing him: "Grandpa, I have something to do recently and cannot get away. I will not be able to return to Yeling Mountain to participate in the Qingming Festival ancestral worship this year. Please take care of everything and keep things simple and low-key."

Lord Wade replied to his message, asking, "Chen'er, where did you go? Can't you even find time to come back for Qingming Festival?"

Charlie Wade replied, "Grandpa doesn't need to ask where I'm going. I'll return to China as soon as I'm done."

Lord Wade then said, "Alright, then I will arrange the ancestral worship ceremony. Don't worry, only direct members of the Wade family can participate this year. No branch members are allowed to come to Beijing."

Charlie Wade felt relieved and replied, "Then I'll have to trouble you, Grandpa."

After sending the message, he saw his grandfather reply with, "We're all family, no need for formalities."

However, he did not reply again, but put his phone aside.

Just as I was about to chat with Lin Wan'er (Alani) for a bit, my phone suddenly received another WeChat message.

When he opened it, he saw that the WeChat message wasn't from his grandfather, Lord Wade, but from Li Yalin.

He clicked to play the voice message sent by Li Yalin, and heard Li Yalin say nervously, "Mr. Wade, our ground network system has just captured the facial features of the three elders of the Breaking the Qing Society in Buenos Aires!"
