

The Amazing son in law

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7831

charlie wade had already locked onto the three elders when they last set out and returned to South America, thanks to the ground network system he built based on airport docks, station vending machines, and AI models.

This time, they first took a seaplane to the waters near Buenos Aires, then transferred to a speedboat to dock. After docking, the three of them went directly to the airport by car.

The three were immediately identified by the system the moment they arrived at the airport VIP terminal.

Neither Sara nor the three elders realized the potential danger of facial exposure, nor did they know that charlie wade possessed such a bug-level killing move. Moreover, the most ingenious part was that all international airports and international ports prohibit face covering when passing through customs, which meant that as long as the target had not completely disguised himself, it would be impossible to escape the search of the ground network system.

The three elders' entry into the world this time was not to carry out a mission with a specific objective, but rather to have a year of free time. For them, disguising themselves was a very troublesome matter, because they traveled all over the world and could not always maintain a disguised state. Moreover, when traveling between countries, their faces needed to match their passports, so no one was cautious enough to take the initiative to disguise themselves.

Upon hearing this news, charlie wade felt a pang of anxiety. Could it be that his conversation with Lin Wan'er had come true?

With the three elders mobilized simultaneously, is the Breaking Qing Society really planning something big?!

Nervous, he immediately told Li Yalin, "Detective Li, make sure the ground network system keeps a close eye on them. I need to know where they're going next as soon as possible."

Li Yalin said, “Mr. Wade, rest assured, half of the AI model’s computing power is now concentrated in Argentina. As long as the three of them appear in the camera lens of any monitoring device on the ground network system, the AI model will identify them immediately and see where they go next.”

Although Charlie Wade had concerns, he didn’t know where the three elders were headed, so he could only patiently wait for their next move.

At this very moment, in the VIP lounge of Buenos Aires airport, the three elders sat, each holding a plane ticket.

Wu Bowen was holding a plane ticket from Buenos Aires to New York, USA. Wu Bozhong (Dorwin), standing next to him, was holding a plane ticket to Rio de Janeiro, the capital of Brazil. His final destination was Kathmandu, Nepal, so he had to fly from Rio de Janeiro to Dubai first, and then transfer in Dubai to Kathmandu.

As for Elder Wu Bolin (Bick), what he was holding was a plane ticket to Ushuaia.

Faced with the choice between going north and going south, he decided to go south.

This is because he had done his homework with Jadiel’s help over the past two days.

Argentina is close to Antarctica, which is a forbidden land with an area of tens of millions of square kilometers, where there are hardly a thousand people in winter.

Of this, the ice sheet covers an area of over 13 million square kilometers.

In Wu Bowen and Wu Bozhong (Dorwin)’s view, Antarctica is an extremely cold place where almost no grass can grow. What amazing things could they find there? It was almost certain that Wu Bolin (Bick)’s trip would be a complete waste.

But Wu Bolin (Bick) had his own ulterior motives.

More than a hundred years ago, he heard a legend from a senior member of the Boxer Rebellion that he would never forget.

Within the Boxer Rebellion at that time, there were many clergy members who were called “Big Brother,” and even the leader, Zhu Hongdeng, was called “Big Brother Zhu.”

The Amazing son in law Chapter 7832

The main job of these “senior brothers” is to use their own religious system to preside over various sacrificial rites and invocations of gods, thereby brainwashing and blessing their members, making them believe that they are invulnerable to weapons, when in fact it is all a lie.

However, not all senior disciples are charlatans.

Wu Bolin (Bick) once encountered a senior disciple who had one foot in the door of the Boxer Rebellion’s altar in the south.

Although Wu Bolin (Bick) had already attained enlightenment, he was still asked by Sara to disguise himself as an ordinary peasant rebel and infiltrate the Boxers to spy on their movements. After an internal ritual to invoke the gods, the senior brother told everyone a story to boost morale, a story about a special ethnic group before the end of the Dharma era.

He said that before the end of the Dharma era, when the world was still in the Bronze Age, there were a large number of cultivators in the world. The world of cultivators was full of sects and powerful people. The overall strength of cultivators was many times stronger than that of cultivators in the end of the Dharma era. Ascension was also a common occurrence. Almost every sect had Mahayana cultivators who successfully transcended tribulations and ascended, which greatly boosted the confidence of other cultivators and strengthened their Dao hearts.

At that time, cultivators were only focused on cultivating and ascending to immortality. In their eyes, ordinary mortals were like uncivilized savages, so they had no time to get involved in worldly affairs.

At that time, until the end of the Dharma era, most cultivators lost the channel to improve their cultivation and perished as their time was coming to an end.

It is precisely because cultivation is difficult in the Dharma-ending Age that the older generation of cultivators gradually dwindled, and the new generation of cultivators became even fewer, resulting in the complete loss of the scale and strength of the cultivators.

The surviving cultivators began to search for opportunities to live in order to achieve immortality and ascension. However, immortality and ascension became increasingly difficult. As the last generation of many sects died unwillingly on their quest for immortality, the thousand-year glory of the entire sect was completely extinguished in the long river of history.

However, legend has it that a sect once found the final gate to ascension in the southernmost and coldest place in the world, which may be the last hope for cultivators in the Dharma-ending Age.

At the time, none of the people who listened to the story with Wu Bolin (Bick) believed their senior brother's words, taking it as a myth. In their minds, the further south you go, the warmer it gets, and the coldest place in the world must be in the far north, not the far south.

The peasants who joined the Boxer Rebellion in those days did not know what the North and South Poles were. They had never been abroad, or even more than a thousand kilometers from home. They only knew that the north was freezing cold and the south was spring-like all year round. Therefore, such a story contained a huge, counterintuitive loophole in their common sense.

Wu Bolin (Bick) was different from others. He could see through the cultivation level of that senior brother and knew that he was already worlds apart from those frogs in a well. Therefore, he always felt that the other party's story was not necessarily just empty talk.

Later, he heard from Western missionaries that there was indeed an extremely cold continent covered by glaciers at the southernmost point of the earth, and that Western explorers had already set foot on that land many times at that time, and even began to plan to explore the South Pole.

At that moment, he became even more convinced of the legend's authenticity.

At that same moment, he regarded Antarctica as the ultimate goal of his cultivation.

In this degenerate age, he did not want to repeat the mistakes of Meng Changsheng and Sara. He wanted to find the gate to ascension and reach the heavens in one step.

He never told this story to anyone, not even Sara.

Now, Sara has suddenly granted them a brief period of freedom, and his cultivation is only one step away from opening the Niwan Palace. In this world, apart from cultivators with stronger cultivation than him, the wind and waves and the cold and heat of nature can hardly harm him in the slightest.

Therefore, in his view, now is a good opportunity to go to Antarctica and find out what it is all about.

A once-in-a-lifetime opportunity!