Chapter 7959

5-6 minutes

Sara had a bad feeling.

It wasn't that she didn't believe in the Grand Elder's strength, but recently, her luck had been extremely bad when facing the mysterious enemy. In countless secret battles, she had always been the one to suffer losses.

Not only had all four earls been defeated, but even the assassin's strongholds had been wiped out one after another. What was most infuriating was that she had sent out a lot of manpower and resources to search everywhere, but had found no clues.

This time, Wu Bolin (Bick) had clearly gotten into a fight in Antarctica, so she instinctively felt that Wu Bolin (Bick) was probably in grave danger.

After all, she didn't know how many people the enemy had, but she knew Wu Bolin (Bick)'s situation very well. Wu Bolin (Bick) went to Antarctica alone, and had almost been hunted down and surrounded by the US military recently. These circumstances indicated that Wu Bolin (Bick)'s situation was likely to be fraught with difficulties, and now, fighting with other cultivators, his chances of survival were slim.

At this moment, Jadiel said with a puzzled expression, "My lord, the Grand Elder went to Antarctica alone, and even had the entire Japanese scientific expedition team help him explore Antarctica. There are already many suspicious points here. Now it has been proven that there is more than one cultivator in Antarctica than the Grand Elder. Do you think there is something really good in Antarctica that attracted them?"

Sara nodded, her expression solemn, and said, "You are right. Wu Bolin (Bick) must know some kind of legend about Antarctica, and it is very likely that he knew it before he went into seclusion. That's why he chose Antarctica without hesitation when I sent them out to seek opportunities."

As she spoke, Sara continued to analyze, "It seems that Wu Bolin (Bick) is not the only one who knows this legend; there are other cultivators as well."

At this point, Sara was already feeling quite anxious.

She knew that there must be a great secret in Antarctica, but what exactly that secret was, she was still completely clueless. She couldn't wait to know what was attracting Wu Bolin (Bick) to Antarctica, and what was attracting the other cultivators.

Jadiel noticed Sara's doubts and quickly stepped forward, asking in a low voice, "My lord, should we send the other two elders to Antarctica to investigate?"

Sara frowned and pondered for a moment, then shook her head, saying, "No, I suspect Wu Bolin (Bick) has most likely perished. Sending them there would only disrupt morale. Besides, it's difficult to break through the Roaring Forties now. Even if we go, we should wait until after the Antarctic winter. Remember, do not reveal this to anyone. If Wu Bolin (Bick) hasn't returned by the end of the Antarctic winter, I will go to Antarctica myself. If he is indeed dead, I will announce to the other two elders that he has defected, and say nothing else."

Jadiel's expression hardened, and he immediately said respectfully, "Yes, my lord, I understand." Sara sighed, somewhat dejectedly, and said, "Alright, you can go now. Let me have some peace and quiet."

"Yes, sir!"

Jadiel respectfully withdrew. Only then did Sara let out a long, weak sigh and rub her nose.

Although she appeared calm and collected in front of Jadiel, she was actually very worried. Wu Bolin (Bick) was second only to her in strength in the Po Qing Society; he was incredibly powerful. If he were to die, it would not only be a great loss to the Po Qing Society but also prove that other cultivators in the world were even stronger than him.

The only uncertainty was whether the cultivator who fought Wu Bolin (Bick) in Antarctica was the same person or from the same faction as the cultivator who had been secretly opposing her all along. If so, it would be adding insult to injury!

In fact, the news from Antarctica didn't attract widespread attention in society.

Most people didn't care what the lightning meant, since they would never set foot on that continent in their lives.

This news only appeared on some news apps for a few hours before being overshadowed by other news and almost completely forgotten.

Just as Lin Wan'er (Alani) was still worried about Charlie Wade, Charlie Wade finally returned to the Nordic research station.

When his figure appeared under the aurora borealis in the courtyard of the research station, Lin Wan'er (Alani) was overjoyed and immediately got up and rushed to the gate.

Yun Rugo and Song Ruyu also noticed Charlie Wade's figure and, overjoyed, rushed to the door with Lin Wan'er (Alani).

When they saw Charlie Wade, their beautiful faces were filled with shock and heartache.

None of them had expected Charlie Wade to be in such a sorry state.

His clothes were covered in wounds, practically just countless strips of cloth hanging from his body. Fortunately, his front was slightly better, at least enough to cover his vital parts.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) quickly grabbed Charlie Wade's hand, anxiously asking, "Young Master, what happened? Are you injured?"

Charlie Wade smiled and said, "I was a little injured, but I've healed them all with my internal energy. It's just that my clothes are no good."

Lin Wan'er (Alani)'s heartache was evident as she quickly pulled Charlie Wade in, saying, "Young Master, please come in. I'll go and draw you a bath and prepare some new clothes."

Charlie Wade nodded and thanked her, "Thank you, Miss Lin."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) quickly said, "Young Master, there's no need for such formalities."

After saying that, Lin Wan'er (Alani) quickly turned and went to the bathroom.

Only research stations in resource-scarce countries like Northern Europe could afford to have a small bathroom in such a remote location; most more pragmatic countries would at most provide a shower.

charlie wade knew he looked rather disheveled and somewhat unseemly, so he took a good bath to clean himself up and changed into clean clothes before returning to the lobby. The three women were waiting there, clearly very curious about his ordeal. Lin Wan'er (Alani) even brewed a new pot of tea and softly said to charlie wade, "Young Master, please have a cup of tea, and also tell me what happened to Miss Yun and Miss Song."

charlie wade, while drying his wet hair with a towel, nodded and smiled, "Alright."

He sat down next to Lin Wan'er (Alani), took a cup of tea from her, took a sip, and then said to the three of them, "On my way south, I encountered that elder of the Po Qing Society. We fought fiercely, and luckily I survived."

Yun Rugo exclaimed, "An elder of the Po Qing Society?! Any one of the three elders is far more powerful than the four earls. It's unbelievable that Mr. wade was able to escape from the elder!"

charlie wade laughed, "It wasn't an escape, it was a counterattack! I've already killed that elder!"

Upon hearing this, Yun Rugo and Song Ruyu were even more shocked.

They knew the status and strength of the Po Qing Society elder, but they never expected that charlie wade could actually kill him!

Lin Wan'er (Alani), however, was not surprised.

Because she knew very well that in this situation, if they met on a narrow path, it would be a fight to the death for both charlie wade and the other party. Since charlie wade was able to return alive, it proved that the other party must have been killed by charlie wade.

Yun Rugo subconsciously asked, "Mr. wade, why did the elder of the Broken Qing Society come here? Did he also come to chase the aurora?"

charlie wade shook his head and smiled, "No, this guy came to find spirit stones. There is a cave left by a cultivator from before the end of the Dharma era, which contains a batch of precious spirit stones. He must have accidentally learned about the legend of the spirit stones, so he came all the way here.”
