Chapter 7965

4-5 minutes

charlie wade wasn't sure if the teleportation array could bring others in and out. After instructing Lin Wan'er (Alani) and preparing her, he took her hand and silently activated the teleportation array's incantation.

A flash of light and shadow passed, and his vision vanished for a moment, but his sense of touch remained. charlie wade could feel that he hadn't let go of Lin Wan'er (Alani)'s hand, nor had she removed it from his.

Before his vision returned, charlie wade immediately realized that he could bring others to use the teleportation array, even if they didn't have the ring or any cultivation.

When his vision returned, charlie wade and Lin Wan'er (Alani) were already in the underground city's plaza, facing the Four-Sided Pagoda.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) was utterly shocked by the sight before her. In her nearly four hundred years of life, she had experienced her father and charlie wade teleporting to her, but she had never personally experienced teleportation.

In the blink of an eye, they were no longer in the freezing cold of Antarctica, perpetually shrouded in polar night. Instead, they found themselves in a warm, spring-like underground city, a place that made their very skin feel refreshed.

She stared at charlie wade in astonishment, asking, "Young Master, where are we?"

charlie wade explained, "This is where the last group of cultivators lived before the end of the Dharma era; it's an underground city."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) then asked, "Are we still in Antarctica?" "Yes," charlie wade explained. "Our actual location is beneath the ice cap. Wu Bolin somehow found this place, digging through thousands of meters of ice, but was blocked by an array at the entrance. However, I seem to be outside the array's range, so I easily entered."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) looked around and exclaimed in amazement, "Such a vast underground city, located over a thousand meters underground in Antarctica! I can't imagine how all this was achieved. Moreover, although there are no plants here, I feel a vibrant sense of life. Every breath of air seems to carry powerful energy, like the tea soup of the Mother of Pu'er, but much richer!"

charlie wade nodded and smiled, "This place is filled with extremely rich spiritual energy. There must be a huge array constantly operating, continuously providing this place with inexhaustible spiritual energy." Lin Wan'er (Alani) had not attained enlightenment, so she couldn't understand how rich the spiritual energy was. Therefore, she asked charlie wade, "Young Master..." "Is the spiritual energy here truly inexhaustible?"

charlie wade smiled and said, "The scale of this city can support at least tens of thousands of people living at the same time. Therefore, the spiritual energy array here should also be designed and built according to the needs of tens of thousands of cultivators. The cultivators of that era were all very powerful, far exceeding my cultivation by more than a hundred times. To do a simple arithmetic, the spiritual energy here can at least satisfy the needs of millions of low-level cultivators like me. So for me, it is absolutely inexhaustible."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) couldn't help but exclaim in surprise, and said to charlie wade with great joy, "Then not only will your cultivation be accelerated many times over, but you won't have to worry about spiritual energy anymore! In that case, why don't you go into seclusion here?"

charlie wade smiled and said, "Seclusion here is naturally very good for cultivation, but the more abundant the spiritual energy, the faster the circulation speed during seclusion, and the less you will feel the passage of time. I'm afraid that if I concentrate and go into seclusion here once, decades or even hundreds of years will have passed in the outside world."

One of the biggest differences between cultivators and ordinary people is their time scale.
