Chapter 7977

5-6 minutes

The helicopter arrived in the southern suburbs, in the area where Changshengbo had self-destructed. Now, life had returned, with wild grass growing exceptionally vigorously.

However, because all the trees in the area had been destroyed, it formed a neat, rounded depression in the dense forest, perfect for the helicopter to land.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) skillfully shut off the engine, the rotor speed gradually decreasing until it came to a complete stop.

The two stepped off the helicopter, and Lin Wan'er (Alani) suddenly turned back to look at the light helicopter, asking charlie, "Young Master, can this helicopter also be stored in my spatial storage?"

charlie smiled and said, "It shouldn't be a problem, after all, the space is quite large."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) looked at him expectantly, smiling as she asked, "Could you demonstrate for me?"

Seeing the bright light in her eyes, charlie naturally wouldn't spoil her mood. So he touched the helicopter, silently reciting the incantation to store objects in his spatial storage. The light helicopter immediately disappeared from its spot and, as charlie had imagined, landed steadily in the center of his storage space.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) stared at charlie, who had raised his hand in mid-air, as if watching a magic trick. Excitedly, she exclaimed, "This is amazing! With this, Young Master can keep several modes of transportation in his space, just in case! If he could conjure a helicopter, a car, or a speedboat on the spot, it might not be very useful normally, but it would be invaluable in a critical moment!"

charlie nodded in agreement, "That's a good suggestion! I'll have Old isaac arrange it right away. However, I can't fly a helicopter, so Miss Lin will have to make the effort. Therefore, I would appreciate your advice on which model to buy."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) smiled, "Airbus has a new type of helicopter that seems to have quite good performance. I have connections in France and can directly order one that doesn't send messages back. I'll handle that for you."

charlie asked her, "What do you mean by 'not sending messages back'?" Lin Wan'er (Alani) explained, "Aircraft are different from other equipment. Most equipment manufacturers only handle after-sales maintenance, but some specialized equipment manufacturers retain information feedback modules to monitor the equipment's operation under certain circumstances. Some can even remotely lock onto it. Aircraft involve many safety issues. If you directly order an ordinary helicopter, and then store it in your space, the manufacturer will lose information feedback. The information feedback will be restored when it's used in a different location or country. If it's only a few times, they probably won't care and will just think the helicopter has been transported to another place. But if it's frequently switched between distant areas, it might attract attention. I can have these restrictions waived, and the helicopter won't need to be registered. In layman's terms, it's illegal flying."

charlie nodded and smiled, "I understand. Miss Lin is very thoughtful. If that's the case, then we can only purchase traditional fuel vehicles. New energy vehicles definitely have this information feedback function."

"Yes," Lin Wan'er (Alani) said, "and it's best to buy a pure off-road vehicle without any internet-connected modules."

"Simple," charlie said. "Let's take some soil back first. I'll arrange the car and speedboat!"

Then, with a thought, the helicopter instantly returned to its original position from the storage space.

charlie had thought taking soil would be simple—just touch the ground and think, and he could get as much as he wanted. But when he tried this approach, he found it didn't work. It seemed that soil on the ground was a whole unit; it wasn't something that could be automatically dug out by simply thinking about it.

However, if he dug out the soil, piled it aside, and then put it back into the space, it was very smooth.

charlie speculated that it might be because the storage ring itself didn't have much energy. It was like a rocky mountain; if you wanted a piece of rock, you had to cut off the part you wanted first. Otherwise, the ring alone couldn't separate that part of the rock.

So charlie used his spiritual energy to condense an invisible shovel in the void, and then used his spiritual energy to drive the shovel to dig the soil with great force. In no time, he dug out at least dozens of cubic meters of fertile soil. He put all of this soil into his space and piled it neatly in a corner.

To his surprise, when the soil disappeared into thin air, a large number of insects and invertebrates suddenly appeared on the ground. Beetles, ants, earthworms, and even immature cicadas covered the ground in dense swarms. Moreover, these insects, which were originally dormant, suddenly lost their nests and seemed to be stimulated and frightened, scurrying around in all directions.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) had never seen so many insects suddenly emerge. She screamed in fright and immediately hid behind charlie.

Although charlie wasn't afraid of insects, seeing so many densely packed ones made him somewhat uncomfortable. So he used his spiritual energy to create a gust of wind and blow the insects away.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) asked him suspiciously, "Young Master, how come there are so many insects under this soil? The density is too high..."

charlie shook his head solemnly and said, "These insects are probably leftovers from the soil I just put into my space."

"Leftovers?" Lin Wan'er (Alani) asked in surprise, "Young Master, do you not want to put them into your space, or is it impossible?"

charlie was surprised by Lin Wan'er (Alani)'s quick thinking. After a moment's thought, he said, "It's probably impossible. I didn't think about this when I collected the soil. It seems that when the soil was put into the space, it filtered out these insects."

Lin Wan'er (Alani) nodded and said, "That means living things, i.e., animals, can't enter the space, but plants are allowed."

“That’s right,” charlie said. “There should be no concept of time in that space. Plants would stop growing inside, so it’s unlikely that conscious animals could be taken in.”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) laughed, “That makes sense. Otherwise, it would be quite terrifying to think that people could be taken in so easily.”

charlie smiled and said, “Yeah, if I could take living people in, I wouldn’t be afraid of Sara anymore. I could just shake her hand and take her into the space.”

After saying that, he frowned slightly and muttered curiously, “Living things can’t be taken in. I wonder if corpses would work?” Thinking this, he picked up a dead beetle from his feet, and with a thought, the beetle vanished from his hand.

charlie couldn’t help but sigh, “It seems living things really can’t enter the storage space.”

Then, charlie suddenly realized something and said to Lin Wan’er (Alani), “Miss Lin, what if the storage ring didn’t correspond to a storage space, but rather a real, tangible space?”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) said, “Then people and living things should be able to be put in, right? Like when you led me into the dungeon through the teleportation array, young master.”

charlie nodded, “In that case, given their abilities, if they could put a teleportation array that leads directly to the base into the ring, the entire dungeon would become a huge storage space, where people and supplies could be teleported at any time.”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) said seriously, “Theoretically speaking...” ” That’s certainly true. If you master the method of creating arrays in the future, perhaps you could try to refine the array that transmits back to the underground city into a magical artifact! That would be so much more convenient!”

charlie chuckled self-deprecatingly. “Even those cultivators with great supernatural powers haven’t been able to do this, so it seems very difficult to achieve.”

Lin Wan’er (Alani) suddenly remembered something and blurted out, “But don’t forget, young master, this ring itself can teleport. When my father and you were seriously injured, it was this ring that brought you to me!”

charlie instantly came to his senses and exclaimed, "Indeed! Since the ring can hold a teleportation array, why did they design it to be passively triggered? Wouldn't it be easier to actively teleport away when in danger?"
