The Amazing son in law Chapter 8057

However, charlie wade wasn't in a hurry. The mysterious object had already brought him too much, and he wasn't the kind of person who was greedy. He was just waiting for the opportunity to come again.

Lin Wan'er (Alani) ate the most enjoyable meal.

It seemed that in over three hundred years since her father's death, she hadn't had such a relaxing and comfortable meal. In Antarctica, where it was always polar night and she couldn't even distinguish whether she was eating breakfast, lunch, or dinner, the weariness and vulnerability that had accumulated in her heart for many years were quickly repaired and smoothed out by this hot pot.

Sometimes, people are like that.

Some wounds take a lifetime to heal, but others only need a moment.

The latter is very much like unwavering love; even if the other person has hurt you deeply, as long as they release undisguised love for you in a certain moment, you can let go of everything in an instant.

Yun Rugo and Song Ruyu initially didn't think that eating in this environment would have any special feeling.

However, when they calmed down and looked at the desolate landscape around them, like an uninhabited planet, and the profound starry sky above, they suddenly felt an unprecedented sense of openness. Humans live between heaven and earth, yet rarely have the opportunity to experience that macroscopic feeling of being immersed in the universe. At this moment, the two seemed to have an epiphany.

After dinner, none of the four suggested going back. They leaned back in their chairs, their lips curving into undisguised smiles as they appreciated the vastness and desolation.

After a long while, charlie wade's satellite phone suddenly rang.

He took out the phone and found that the caller was his younger, loyal friend, Steve Rothschild.

charlie wade answered the phone and asked with a relaxed smile, "Steve, what good news do you have?"

Steve respectfully replied, "Mr. wade, I have two good things to report to you."

charlie wade smiled and said, "Please speak."

Steve said, "The first thing is that the fish has taken the bait. I've started raising the price so he can take the opportunity to sell. I expect he'll make a fortune within two days."

“Not bad.” charlie wade nodded slightly, then asked, “What’s the second thing?”

Steve said, “The second thing, do you remember the AI computing center your family built for you in Northern Europe?”

charlie wade hummed in agreement and said, “Yeah, I remember. What’s up?”

Steve said, “The price of computing power and storage has skyrocketed. That computing center is now worth more than ten times its original price. Even the company our family hired to build that large model has come back to us, saying they’re willing to pay twelve times the premium to buy it back. If you want thirteen or even fifteen times, it’s not impossible to talk to them. But if they don’t want to sell, that’s fine too. They’re willing to rent out the computing power they can’t use. They’ll earn at least tens of billions of US dollars a year.”

charlie wade was somewhat shocked and frowned, “That computing center only cost a total of ten billion US dollars back then.” "Gold? The annual rent is already over 10 billion?"

Steve exclaimed. "Yeah, who wouldn't say it? This thing is insane! It's like a mad dog, it just takes off and can't be stopped. Computing power is currently the most valuable, most sought-after, and fastest-growing commodity on this planet, bar none. Even drug dealers in Mexico and Colombia would cry and call Huang Renxun their patriarch!"

charlie wade clicked his tongue in amazement and said, "It's really interesting. I've invested so much money in building cars and haven't even seen a return on my investment, but a spur-of-the-moment decision to set up a computing center has yielded a profit of more than ten times."

Steve said, "Who wouldn't say it, Mr. wade? I estimate that your own computing power needs are probably less than 5% of the entire computing center. You can keep 5% of the remaining 95% as a redundancy and rent out the rest. You can make 10 billion US dollars a year lying down. This deal is worth it!"