The Amazing son in law Chapter 8066

Miami, America.

Wu Yongzhen had been back from the Bay Area for two days.

During these two days, he would frequently check his asset account overview. This was software his daughter designed using AI, which automatically aggregated his funds across various identities in different banks, internet cryptocurrency wallets, and hidden platforms, allowing him to see at a glance exactly how much money he had.

Previously, his method of making money was like ants moving grains—a few million here, ten million there—relatively scattered and not very satisfying. But the cryptocurrency income he received a few days ago was like a torrential downpour in a drought, quenching his thirst like never before.

Sometimes, such a thirst-quenching feeling can be addictive.

Wu Yongzhen was no exception.

His rational mind told him that even the Rothschild family couldn't have a path to making big money every day, and that he shouldn't be too eager for the next opportunity after already earning so much. But he couldn't help but fantasize, thinking that perhaps another chance to make a fortune would come soon.

Unbeknownst to him, in a private residence belonging to the Rothschild family near the Sierra Nevada Mountains, Steve Rothschild was vividly and enthusiastically reporting to charlie wade the massive trap he had set for Wu Yongzhen.

He told charlie wade, "Mr. wade, the midterm elections are about to begin, and our family is preparing to take this opportunity to launch an unprecedented short-selling attack on the US stock market. I think this is a great opportunity to trap people!"

charlie wade asked with interest, "Explain in detail, how exactly do you plan to short-sell?"

Steve quickly explained, "Right now, it's AI-driven, all related hardware and stocks are skyrocketing. CPU prices are rising, memory prices are rising, graphics memory prices are rising, storage prices are rising, so related tech stocks have been rising for a while now, and the gains are substantial. Whether from the perspective of industry development or from the current technical charts, the situation is very clear. Market enthusiasm is very high. Hot money from all over the United States, even all of North America and half of Europe, is currently in the US stock market. This situation is a great opportunity to short-sell, as long as we..." "With people pulling the strings behind the scenes, anyone who dares to come in now, even just to take a look, will be wiped out!"

charlie wade clicked his tongue and said, "Waistcutting? That's not enough. Half gone is still left. I want to cut it off at the ankle, and then make it create a hole so big it's impossible to fill."

Steve laughed, "That's easy, Mr. wade. We'll just let him use leverage. As long as he dares to go long two or three times, I can wipe him out in one go. Then I'll recommend a hardware company invested in by the Rothschild family. This company is very strong, and with our backing, he'll definitely fall for it. After he's invested all his money, we'll take him down in one fell swoop!"

charlie wade asked him with a smile, "Are you planning to make your own invested companies plummet too?"

“Yes.” Steve nodded and said, “Every time we do this kind of operation, we choose one of our own companies that everyone knows about to put on a show. Once the entire market crashes, our company in the open will also suffer heavy losses, and no one will suspect that we are secretly manipulating the market. Although our own company may suffer a paper loss of billions of dollars, by shorting the entire market, we can make at least hundreds of billions or even trillions of dollars in profit!”