

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 561

Celeste said calmly, "I've got something to take care of. We'll talk later when I'm back."

Kieran was about to agree, but then he suddenly remembered that she didn't have any external meetings scheduled today.

And she rarely ever left work midway for personal reasons

He'd been quietly keeping track of her divorce situation, so he knew that she still hadn't finalized it yet because the other party was too busy.

With that in mind, realization hit him, and he blurted out before he could stop himself, "You're... going to the courthouse?"

Celeste hadn't expected him to guess so accurately. Her steps paused for a moment, then she gave a quiet hum and turned to Watching her walk away, Kieran's heart tightened. He couldn't help wanting to follow her.

He'd always been curious about "that man".

But after taking just two steps, he stopped himself. 2

Ever since she'd learned about his feelings, Celeste had kept her distance whenever possible unless it was strictly work-related

If she knew he'd followed her out of curiosity, she would definitely be angry.

So, in the end, he stayed where he was and went back to his
About ten minutes after Celeste arrived at the courthouse,
Trevor rushed in. 1

"Sorry," he said, slightly out of breath. "The meeting ran over by This text is hosted at.

more than ten minutes. I'm late."

Seeing the travel fatigue in his appearance, Celeste could tell he really had been busy.

She didn't comment, only said evenly, "Let's go in and get it

Trevor nodded. "Okay."

Throughout the process, his phone didn't stop ringing.

When it came time to officially sign, Celeste even had to wait several minutes for him to finish taking a call before they could

He really was squeezing in this divorce between meetings

When everything was finally done and the divorce application was submitted, Celeste was about to leave when Trevor said, "

I've got some things to handle. I'll contact you later when I have time." 3

There was nothing left for them to contact each other about. 2

To her, that line was just polite filler.

She gave a faint hum, tured, and got into her car, driving away from the courthouse. +

Over the next two days, Celeste was buried in work.

On Thursday, she went to the Fleming Group for another

This time, Trevor didn't show up.

But when she and Lazarus were heading out for lunch, they happened to see Trevor downstairs together with Wynn.

Wynn was holding his arm, the two standing close and laughing as they chatted with someone. +

Lazarus, seeing their intimate demeanor, couldn't help but smile.

"Mr. Fleming and Ms. Locket, you two seem as affectionate as

Since they were obviously talking business, no one went over to interrupt.

Wynn, however, noticed Celeste almost immediately. Her gaze, as always, was cold and condescending. +

She and Trevor had been inseparable for the past few days. He still treated her extremely well. 1

And now, he'd even gone through another round of divorce procedures with Celeste for her. 1

That was proof enough. #

Even if Trevor had once developed some feelings for Celeste, it was clear that Wynn was still the one he truly cared for, the one he couldn't let go of.

No one could shake her place in his heart

Sensing Wynn's gaze, Celeste didn't bother to respond

Just then, Trevor also spotted her.

But before he could say anything, Celeste had already turned away, expression unreadable, and got into the car with Lazarus and the others, leaving without looking back. 9

Chapter 562

On Friday night, Celeste got a call from Jordyn, saying she wanted to come over.

At that time, Celeste was having dinner at the Rodriguez residence.

Before she could reply, Betty had already agreed on her behalf.

The next day, Celeste went out with Jordyn and the rest of the Rodriguez family. They didn't get back until evening. 1

Jordyn was still full of energy. After playing all day, she was still excited on the way home. Holding her phone, she leaned toward Celeste and said, "Mom, I want to go again next time to play with the little turtle!"

The photos she showed were of them catching and bathing the turtle together,

Celeste took one look. "Mm."

Jordyn wasn't tired, but Celeste definitely was. Maybe sensing it,

Jordyn sat quietly and said, "Mom, you can rest if you're tired."

Then she went right back to fiddling with her phone—looked like she was chatting with someone.

Celeste glanced at her, then looked away.

Jordyn had sent a bunch of photos from the day to Trevor.

At that moment, Trevor had just finished dinner with Wynn.

When he received the photos, he opened them right away. 1

Wynn came out of the restroom and stopped for a second when she saw him looking at his phone.

In the photos were both Jordyn and Celeste, but it was Celeste who caught the eye. She was smiling brightly, and she looked stunning. +

It seemed like Trevor was just looking at the photos of Jordyn, but Wynn could tell he had zoomed in, and the person he was actually looking at was Celeste. 5

When he noticed her coming back, he put down his phone. "

You're back."

"Mm. Let's go." Wynn looked calm as ever. Picking up her bag, she asked casually, "Those were from Jordyn? She looks really happy today."

"Yeah. They went to a resort," Trevor replied while walking out of the private room. As he did, he sent a voice message to Jordyn."

The photos are great. But no matter how happy you are, you still have a class tomorrow."

Jordyn pouted when she heard the message, but still replied, "I

Then Wynn suddenly took his hand. "Trevor, there's somewhere I want to go tomorrow. Will you come with me?"

He paused. "When?"

"In the morning," she said, smiling softly. "Can you skip seeing Jordyn just this once?" 8

Trevor didn't ask where she wanted to go, nor did he seem to think it was a problem. "Okay."

After that, he sent Jordyn another voice message, telling her he couldn't take her to class because he had to do something.

When Jordyn got the message, she turned to Celeste. "Mom, Dad said he's busy tomorrow and can't take me to class. Can you take me instead?"

Celeste frowned, but before she could answer, Jordyn was already cuddling into her arms, pleading softly.

Betty, on the other hand, thought this was a perfect chance for Celeste to win Jordyn over. "Cel, since you're free tomorrow, just take her," she said.

Celeste sighed. "...Fine."

The next morning, she took Jordyn to class.

Afterward, Jordyn had another activity, and Celeste stayed with her for that too.

That evening, they went back to the Rodriguez residence for dinner. After the meal, Jordyn was supposed to return to Trevor's place, as it was closer to school.

But when she called him, he said he was out of town and Follow current novels wouldn't be back tonight. Then, he told her to stay at the

Rodriguez residence instead. 12

Chapter 563

---- Chapter 563 That night, Jordyn stayed at the Rodriguez residence. But she only stayed one night. By the next evening, Trevor had already sent someone to pick her up. Because Celeste's collaboration with Fleming Group was reaching a new breakthrough, she arrived at Fleming Group early the next morning. At noon, when she went out to lunch with Jericho Doyle, another executive of the Fleming Group, Lazarus, and a few others, they happened to run into Wynn in the lobby. 2 Seeing Wynn, Lazarus and the others immediately greeted her politely, just like before. "Ms.

Locket." Wynn nodded slightly. "Heading out for lunch?" "Yes." Lazarus smiled, and since Wynn could technically be considered a future wife of Fleming Group's CEO, he assumed she'd at least exchange a few polite words with Celeste-so he waited quietly. But to his surprise, Wynn acted as if she didn't even see Celeste. She simply smiled at the others and said, "Alright, I'll let you all get to it. Let's have lunch together another time." ---- Lazarus froze for a second. So did the other Fleming Group staff.

For a moment, none of them was sure if Wynn had failed to recognize Celeste, or if she was pretending not to. But as far as they remembered, Celeste and Wynn had definitely met before. They'd even heard that InnovaTech and YodaVision had collaborated in the past. So, how could Wynn possibly not know her? 1 Still, they soon noticed something else- Celeste hadn't greeted Wynn either. It was as if she didn't know that Wynn was Trevor's girlfriend, or the current boss of InnovaTech. 3 Wynn truly didn't look at her.

She acted as if Celeste didn't exist- gave the others a polite nod, then turned and walked away. Celeste had no desire to look at Wynn either, but with her standing right there, it was impossible to completely ignore her. So, even though Wynn treated her like thin air, Celeste could still catch the faint contempt and disdain in her expression-as if she wasn't even worth noticing. 4 After Wynn left, Lazarus finally sensed something off. For more chapters visit

If the two women truly didn't know each other, then with how ---- much respect he and the others at Fleming Group showed Celeste, Wynn should've at least asked who she was. But she hadn't. That thought triggered another memory-how Trevor had personally come down several times to sit in on meetings whenever Celeste was presenting, simply because he " appreciated her work." Could Wynn have misunderstood something because of that? 2 With that thought, Lazarus couldn't help glancing over at Celeste. She looked calm and silent. It was as if she hadn't noticed anything at all.

Seeing that, the others from Fleming Group figured there must've been some kind of misunderstanding between Wynn and Celeste because of Trevor. Still, none of them were foolish enough to ask. That day, Celeste stayed at Fleming Group until past seven in the evening. Lazarus courteously walked her downstairs. She'd been to Fleming Group many times before, but she didn't often run into Trevor and Wynn. ---- This time, though, just as she and Lazarus got into the elevator, they ran into the two of them again. When Trevor saw them, a hint of surprise flickered in his eyes.

4 Wynn, however, was as cold as before. After glancing briefly at Celeste, she looked away. 2 Lazarus was the first to speak. "Mr. Fleming, Ms. Lockett." Both nodded in response. Then Trevor turned to Celeste. She lowered her eyes, didn't look at him, and said nothing. 2 He looked at her for a moment, then asked, "You'll be coming to Fleming Group these next few days as well?" 5 Feeling his gaze on her, Celeste knew he was talking to her. She finally replied with a calm hum. 22

Chapter 564

---- Chapter 564 "Thanks for your hard work." Maybe realizing she wasn't in the mood to talk, Trevor said nothing more after that and left with Wynn. They had dinner plans. After the meal, Trevor still had business matters to discuss, while Wynn also had things to deal with at her company. Coincidentally, the Locketts and the Shaws were also dining nearby, so she went to meet them. When Ruby saw Wynn, she couldn't help saying, "You seem to be in a much better mood lately." Of course, Ruby wasn't the only one who'd noticed. Lilian and Erin had seen it too.

Linda smiled and chimed in, "Of course! You know how Trev's been too busy with work these past few weeks that Wynn could barely see him at all. Now that he's not as busy and they can see each other every day again, how could she not be in a good mood?" In fact, the rest of the Locketts and the Shaws all thought the same about why Wynn had been unhappy before. ---- As for the real reason, only she herself knew it best. But that was all in the past now Wynn thought about it, but didn't say anything.

1 Seeing her calm and confident as she got into the car, the Lockets and the Shaws didn't comment further. They just smiled and followed her in. Celeste, on the other hand, knew nothing about what was going on between Trevor and Wynn. Over the next two days, she reported to Fleming Group on time as usual for work. During those two days, she didn't run into Trevor or Wynn again. On the afternoon of the third day, the target they'd set earlier finally achieved a breakthrough, and it was one that even exceeded expectations.

The moment the results came out, shouts of excitement erupted from Fleming Group's R&D department. When Trevor got the news, he paused. "Oh? Really?" 2 He immediately opened the compiled report and started reading. --- - He read very carefully, and before long, a satisfied smile appeared on his face. There was a distinct ease and delight about him. Jacob, watching from the side, was momentarily stunned To be fair, Trevor wasn't a difficult boss to work with. He wasn't exactly a cold person either. If anything, the only person he'd ever been truly cold toward was Celeste.

He'd always treated his subordinates decently. And toward Wynn, there was always a gentle smile on his face. But the satisfaction and lightheartedness he was showing no\ Jacob had worked beside him for years, yet he'd never seen him look like this before. While Jacob was still dazed, Trevor's phone, sitting on the desk, suddenly rang. Glancing down, Jacob saw that it was a call from Wynn. + But Trevor was still staring intently at the computer screen, seemingly unaware that his phone was ringing at all. Jacob knew well just how deeply interested Trevor was in the AI ---- field.

And judging from how astonishing the results of Celeste's team were, there must have been plenty in there that caught his attention. Otherwise, he wouldn't be this engrossed. The phone kept ringing for several seconds.

Seeing that Trevor still didn't react, Jacob cleared his throat softly, finally unable to hold back. "Mr. Fleming, your phone's ringing-it's Ms. Locket calling." "Mm." Trevor probably hadn't even heard him clearly. He responded absently, but his gaze didn't move from the screen at all.

Jacob hesitated, watching him so focused, then, seeing the phone still ringing, couldn't help speaking again, "Mr. Fleming-"_ 2

Chapter 565

"Ms. Locket is calling."

This time, Trevor seemed to hear him. He hummed again as a response before glancing toward his phone just as Wynn hung. Picking up his phone, Trevor said to Jacob, "You can go now."

"Yes, sir."

And then Jacob left.

To showcase their technological achievement and expand the project's domestic and international influence, Fleming Group immediately spread news of the breakthrough between the Fleming Group and YodaVision that very afternoon.

A press conference was quickly scheduled.

When Trevor heard the update, he said, "Adjust my schedule."

Jacob paused before realizing what Trevor meant. "You're planning to attend the press conference?"

Trevor already had a major appointment arranged in the morning for two days later. He must've realized that. Otherwise, he wouldn't have told Jacob to make adjustments.

Still, Jacob hesitated. "That day, you're meeting Mr. Lytton. He's coming all the way here... If you suddenly change the schedule, won't it be—"

Trevor didn't reply. He just gave him a look. 2

That look was enough as Jacob immediately understood that Trevor knew exactly how important that meeting with Hugh Lytton was, but had decided to prioritize the press conference. Since the decision was made, Jacob could only say, "Alright. I'll contact Mr. Lytton's team to reschedule." 1

The collaboration project with YodaVision was indeed significant, but with other senior staff attending the press conference, there was really no need for Trevor to go personally. Thinking of that, Jacob added, "The PR department probably isn't aware that you're attending either. I'll inform them—"

"Mm. No need to make a big deal out of it," Trevor interrupted calmly. "I won't go on stage. Just arrange a seat for me in the audience."

Not going on stage?

Jacob froze for a second. If he wasn't speaking, then why attend

But since Trevor said so, Jacob didn't question further and followed his instructions. 1

News of the Fleming Group-YodaVision breakthrough spread quickly online.

Industry insiders heard about it immediately. Wynn was among them. After reading the article and scrolling through the comments full of praise for Fleming Group and YodaVision for "breaking through foreign barriers and bringing glory to the country," she silently closed the page.

The day of the press conference came quickly.

The venue was packed with reporters from around the world.

It was a win-win partnership for both Fleming Group and YodaVision, so Celeste and the head of Fleming Group's R&D department were naturally required to attend.

When it was about time, she and Lazarus went up to the stage and took their seats at the table according to the nameplates.

As soon as she sat down, she spotted Trevor in the audience.

She hadn't been looking for him specifically. It was just that he happened to be seated directly below her, making him hard to

Perhaps noticing her gaze, Trevor looked up and smiled faintly

Celeste froze for a moment, then quickly looked away as if she hadn't seen him. 5

After greeting Trevor, Lazarus sat down beside her and leaned over slightly. "I heard Mr. Fleming was so pleased with our results that he personally made time to attend this press conference." 1

Celeste nodded slightly, saying nothing.