

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 567

The others had already moved on to another topic by then.

Only then did Wynn open the video of Fleming Group's press conference and start watching it.

At the beginning, aside from the host and those on stage, the camera also panned across the audience and media below.

Wynn immediately spotted Trevor.

She had known he would be attending the conference, but when she saw that he was sitting among the audience rather than on stage, she paused. 1

The camera only swept briefly past Trevor, yet with just one glance, she could tell he looked to be in a very good mood. 3

Perhaps it was just her imagination, but she couldn't shake the feeling that when he looked toward the stage, his eyes were fixed on Celeste. 7

Her fingers tightened slightly around the mouse in her hand. +

After the host finished speaking, the camera quickly shifted to the press conference's main focus—Celeste and her team.

Linda had said this press conference felt like Celeste's show, and now that Wynn was watching, she realized it was true. + Celeste was the absolute center of attention. She faced every technical question from the reporters with calm ease and total confidence.

As much as she hated to admit it, Wynn couldn't deny that with her striking looks, Celeste was captivating. 2

Wynn was watching the conference with the live comments turned on.

The screen was flooded with messages praising Celeste's looks and talent, people wondering who she was.

"Wait, this lady is the key figure behind Fleming Group's big breakthrough? Damn, she's gorgeous and brilliant! She'd be a star even in the entertainment industry. That's totally unfair!"

"Right? Does anyone know her background? She's so young, yet she's leading a major project in a company like YodaVision. She must have some serious backing, right?"

There were countless comments like that Someone replied in the comments section.

"I'm not sure about her background, but I know she skipped three grades and got into Aurelia University early. She graduated at 18, top of her major all the way through. 1

"We all thought it was a pity she didn't go to grad school, but seeing her now, still so outstanding, makes me really happy for

"What the-18 years old and graduated from Aurelia University? That's insane! No wonder she's so young yet leading projects at Fleming Group and YodaVision!" +

"I heard she's also dating Mr. Yoder. She published a paper recently that caused a stir internationally, making those big foreign tech figures try to recruit her to their companies. But she's Mr. Yoder's girlfriend, so of course they didn't succeed, "Beautiful, brilliant, and dating someone equally amazing—she's literally living the dream! She's the boss!"

Wynn kept watching for a long time.

By now, the press conference was nearing its end.

When it wrapped up, the camera once again landed on Trevor in the audience.

He still had that faint smile on his face. 1

It was only then did Wynn realize something.

Even though Trevor had attended the event, the host hadn't mentioned him at all. 1

It meant that there had been no real reason for him to be there. 1

It was something he could have easily skipped.

So, why was he there? 5

Was it because he valued the project so much? Because he was pleased with Fleming Group's breakthrough?

Maybe both. Or maybe...

Maybe he had gone just to see Celeste. 7

The thought made Wynn's chest tighten abruptly.

Just then, her phone buzzed with anew message. 2

It was from Trevor. "Miles asked if we wanted to have dinner together. Are you free later?" 2

Wynn looked at the message, then at Trevor's smiling face on the video. 1

After a long pause, she replied, "I'm free." 1

Chapter 568

---- Chapter 568 Wynn and Trevor arrived at the restaurant almost at the same time. Just as they were about to enter, they ran into Hugh Lytton, the man Trevor was supposed to meet that morning. Hugh clearly didn't mind at all that Trevor had suddenly changed the time of their meeting. When he saw him, he came over warmly and greeted him, saying proactively, "I watched the press conference this morning. Everyone in and outside the industry is full of praise. Congratulations." + Trevor said, "Thank you."

About our meeting-" "With Fleming Group achieving such a major technical breakthrough, it's only natural for you to attend the press conference in person. I completely understand. No need to worry about it." ¹ Earlier, when she watched Fleming Group's press conference, Wynn already knew that Trevor actually didn't need to be there. Otherwise, he wouldn't have had time now to join her and Miles for a meal. He would've been tied up with post-press conference social obligations.

¹ ---- But hearing this now, she suddenly realized that Trevor really did rearrange his schedule just to attend this morning's press conference... Hugh had an appointment waiting, so after a bit of small talk with Trevor, he ended the conversation and left. After wrapping up the work for Fleming Group, and finally getting a rest day, Celeste thought she could finally take a breather. However, early Saturday morning, she received a call from Jordyn, who said she wanted to go out for a meal and shop.

+ Although Celeste was tired, she wasn't tired to the point that she couldn't handle a bit of going out. She just... didn't really want to go out. ¹ Jordyn probably sensed this and said, "Mom, we'll only be out for half the day. Just lunch, then a little shopping, and we'll come home." "Okay." A little past eleven, Jordyn's car arrived at the Rodriguez residence. ---- When Celeste saw the car, she grabbed her bag and stepped out -only to find that Trevor was sitting inside too, ¹² Jordyn waved at her. "Mom, get in!" She definitely didn't mention earlier that Trevor would be coming.

Celeste paused mid-step. "Mom?" Jordyn looked at her, confused. Celeste looked toward Trevor in the car. 1 He seemed to understand what she meant. He shrugged slightly, as if saying he was just following Jordyn's arrangements. © "Mom, we already booked the private dining room. Let's go." Celeste said nothing and got into the car. Once she was inside, Jordyn curled up beside her and chattered nonstop. Celeste listened quietly, replying here and there. After a while, Jordyn's classmates started messaging her, so she switched to chatting on her phone.

Celeste glanced toward Trevor, then picked up her own phone and sent him a message. ---- "Next time Jordyn makes this kind of request, tell me beforehand. I'll figure out a way." 2 Trevor lowered his eyes when he saw her message. Instead of replying on his phone, he simply spoke aloud, "Alright, got it." 2 Hearing him speak suddenly, Jordyn looked up from her phone. "Hm? Dad, what did you say" Trevor smiled. "Nothing." "Okay." At the restaurant, after placing their order, Trevor looked at Celeste and said, "I reviewed the key points of the new technical breakthrough.

I think-" 2 Celeste didn't look up and certainly didn't look at him. "I don't want to talk about work right now." Trevor looked at her, but didn't mind her coldness. He poured her a glass of water, set it in front of her, and asked with a light smile, "Alright. Then what do you want to talk about?" 16

---- Chapter 569 Celeste was speechless. What exactly was there for them to talk about? Was he genuinely clueless, or just pretending? Just then, Jordyn happened to pull Celeste into a conversation, so Celeste simply ignored Trevor and continued focusing only on Jordyn. Trevor didn't force any more conversation either, but once the dishes started arriving, he took the initiative to place food into Celeste's plate. Celeste paused.

After realizing what he was doing, she said lightly, "I can do it myself." Since Trevor was also helping Jordyn with food, Jordyn didn't understand why her mom wouldn't let him help her. She said, " Mom, just let Dad pick the food for you." Celeste became quiet. Trevor laughed and placed another piece of meat onto her plate. The server happened to enter just then with more dishes. The private room door was still open, and Lilian, Patricia, together with Ruby and Linda, happened to pass by at that exact ---- moment.

They saw and heard the exchange clearly-Trevor was picking food for Celeste voluntarily. All of them froze for a moment. But Celeste, Trevor, and Jordyn didn't notice them at all. The server did notice them, though. But before the server could say anything, Lilian snapped back to her senses and supported Patricia as they kept walking. Linda pursed her lips and followed along with Ruby. Once they entered their own private room, Ruby couldn't help speaking, "Didn't people say Trevor really hated Celeste? But from the last time we ran into them, and just now too...

he seems to be treating her pretty well. That's-" Linda immediately understood what her mother meant. She snorted dismissively. "Do we even need to spell it out? Trev is obviously putting on an act in front of that brat! Mom, you don't actually think he's developed feelings for that bitch, right? How is that even possible!" Last time they ran into Trevor, Celeste, and Jordyn together, Ruby had thought the same way as Linda. Even now, that was still her instinctive assumption. ---- But- Both last time and this time, she couldn't shake the feeling that Trevor was being too proactive.

And she couldn't help thinking... He didn't look like he was acting. It looked more like he was genuinely willing to treat Celeste well, not just putting on a show. Thinking of this, she remembered something and said, "Didn't Wynn say before that Trevor wouldn't even have a good expression even in front of the child? "Meaning, even for the kid's sake, he couldn't be bothered to pretend. But these two encounters... Don't look like that at all." Linda still dismissed it. "Back then, that brat was still young and clueless.

Now she's older, and with the Internet, kids know all about divorce and stuff. 1 "She's not that easy to fool anymore. So, of course, Trev would adjust his attitude a bit to fool her. Isn't that normal?" Sometimes Linda was impulsive, but this time what she said did make sense. 2 Ruby laughed. "That's true." When Lilian and Patricia first saw Trevor taking the initiative to ---- treat Celeste well, they had felt a moment of panic. But honestly, even before Linda spelled it out, they had already figured it out. So, they quickly calmed down, called the server in, and started ordering.

When they went home that day, they told Wynn everything- running into Trevor, Celeste, and Jordyn, and especially the part about Trevor actively treating Celeste well. The Shaw family assumed Wynn didn't care. Linda couldn't help complaining, "If you ask me, Trev just cares too much about that brat. If it weren't for her, why would he have to endure the disgust of acting affectionate with Celeste?" 3 Ruby agreed. "Exactly." Wynn listened, lowered her eyes, and said nothing. 4

---- Chapter 570 That day, after Celeste had lunch with Trevor and Jordyn, she went home. Later that night, Jordyn called again. She didn't call Celeste's cellphone. Instead, she called the Rodriguez residence's landline. Betty was the one who answered. Hearing why Jordyn was calling, the old lady immediately laughed. "Jo, you want to go camping? Your mother is free. Just come over tomorrow morning." Celeste happened to be coming downstairs and frowned when she heard that. After hanging up, Betty patted her hand meaningfully. "Jo is your daughter.

There's nothing wrong with spending more time with her. Meanwhile, not long after Jordyn ended the call, Wynn gave Trevor a call. When she learned that he and Celeste would be accompanying ---- Jordyn on a camping trip the next day, she paused. "Trevor... Can you not go tomorrow? There's somewhere I want you to go with me." © Trevor said, "Sorry. I already promised Jo. It wouldn't be right to back out last minute." ® They had just met Celeste earlier that day. Did Jordyn really want to see Celeste that much? And was it truly Jordyn who wanted to go camping...

Or was Trevor simply going along with the act? Of course, Wynn didn't say any of that aloud. She stayed silent for two seconds, then said, "Alright, it's fine. Next time then." The next morning, when Jordyn arrived at the Rodriguez residence, Celeste halted in her tracks the moment she saw Trevor. 4 She had already been surprised to see him yesterday. Seeing him again today, she was still taken aback. She genuinely hadn't expected him to show up two days in a row. But since Betty had already agreed for her, she couldn't go back on it. So, she got in the car.

1 The campsite was a place that Trevor and Jordyn had booked in ---- advance. On the way there, it was still mostly Jordyn chatting with Celeste. Trevor chimed in occasionally, but for most of the ride, he barely spoke. When they arrived, they first took a walk around the grounds. As usual, Jordyn and Celeste walked in front while Trevor followed behind them. Even though he would barely say a word, anyone nearby could tell the three of them looked like a family. And with their striking looks, plenty of people couldn't help but stare. After walking around, they started setting up the tent.

Perhaps wanting to let Jordyn experience the fun of setting up a tent, Trevor hadn't arranged for anyone to set it up beforehand. He intended to do it himself. Jordyn happily ran back and forth, fetching supplies. After grabbing everything, Trevor glanced over the instruction manual first, then handed it to Celeste. Celeste paused, but took it. Jordyn leaned in to read along with ---- her. Once Trevor finished reading, he put on his gloves and started working. When the two finished reading, he asked, "Jo, did you memorize the steps?" Jordyn nodded enthusiastically.

"Dad, I remember them!" "Good. Then bring whatever parts I need next, alright?" "Okay!" Since it was just the three of them, Celeste had no choice but to help as well. Jordyn really did have a good memory and seemed to understand the instructions clearly. 1 Whenever Celeste or Trevor needed a specific part, she almost never grabbed the wrong one. And every time she got it right, Trevor praised her. So, Jordyn stayed energetic and cheerful the whole time, never tired at all. 1 They didn't mess up any steps, and soon, the tent was fully set up. 5
