

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 596

Trevor replied quickly. "Okay, got it."

But even so, after another three to four days passed, Celeste still didn't receive any message from Trevor about setting a time to go to the courthouse to handle the divorce.

Trevor had already been back in the country for over a week, yet he still hadn't proactively brought up the divorce with Celeste.

Naturally, the Lockets and the Shaws knew about this as well.

Not only that, but they also knew that during this week, Trevor had hardly met Wynn.

If Trevor were extremely busy with work, they could have understood.

But as far as they knew, Trevor wasn't particularly busy this week.

Earlier, Wynn had told them that after Trevor learned that Celeste was quite capable professionally, his attitude toward her had gradually begun to change.

By now, Trevor should have developed some feelings for Celeste to the point that he had started to feel reluctant to divorce her.

Even so, the Lockets and the Shaws still believed that Trevor had very deep feelings for Wynn.

But as the days passed, Trevor refused to divorce Celeste even though he wasn't so busy. At the same time, he had been reducing how often he met Wynn.

With him wavering like this, could it be that Celeste's position in his heart had begun to rival Wynn's?

Linda couldn't accept it and shouted, "Impossible! How could Celeste possibly compare to Wynn? Trev would never abandon Wynn to choose Celeste instead!"

The others also felt it was impossible.

In their eyes, although Celeste was quite outstanding in the AI field, Wynn wasn't only excellent in AI-she shone in many other fields as well.

She was extremely attractive overall. So, how could Celeste possibly compete with her?

Even so, the fact that Trevor was unwilling to divorce Celeste and had reduced the number of times he met Wynn was undeniable.

Lilian said calmly, "Let's wait a bit longer."

Linda echoed. "Yes. I think once Trev figures things out, he'll definitely choose Wynn. What anyway? What does she have that's worth comparing to Wynn?

On Trevor's side, since he kept having "no time" to divorce Celeste, Matthias naturally knew about it as well.

He said, "So if he keeps having no time, are you just never getting divorced? When you have time t

you should push him more until he goes with you to handle arce."

Celeste replied. "I know, I've already urged him a few times. I'll message him again later."

Matthias said, "Mm."

As soon as he finished speaking, they turned a corner and ran straight into the Locket family.

Matthias curled his lips, too unbothered to deal with them, and directly grabbed Celeste's hand, striding past them.

Wynn, Lilian, and the others heard everything Matthias and Celeste had just said.

Watching their backs as they left, the Lockets' expressions all turned unpleasant.

If they had still harbored some hope for Trevor before, then now they were basically certain that, at this point the one who didn't want to divorce was Trevor, not Celeste.

From the conversation they had just overheard, it was clear that Celeste and the people around her were very eager for Trevor to hurry up and divorce her.

Realizing this, the Locket family remained silent for a long time.

Wynn clenched her fists tightly and also said nothing.

That very day, Celeste once again sent Trevor a message, urging him to go with her to the courthouse to finalize the divorce.

It wasn't until noon the next day that Trevor replied.

This time, he agreed. "Okay."

After setting a time, Celeste arrived at the courthouse early the next morning. Trevor was quite punctual too—he'd even arrived earlier than her. The procedure went very smoothly.

After everything was done, Trevor looked at her and said, "In a couple of days, Jo wants to go out to sea for a trip. Are you free?"

Celeste paused for a moment before replying, "Not sure. We'll talk about it later."

Trevor didn't press the matter. "Alright."

Celeste turned and left without looking back.

The news that they had gone to the courthouse again to handle the divorce procedures quickly reached Miles.

That afternoon, he tagged Trevor in their group chat.

"I heard you finally managed to make time this morning to go to the courthouse to handle the paperwork? Honestly, after so many times, when are you two actually going to get divorced?"

Trevor didn't reply in the group chat.

But Wynn saw Miles's message immediately.

It was only then that she learned Trevor and Celeste had gone to the courthouse to handle the divorce procedures.

When she was looking at the messages, Linda happened to be there as well.

She knew that Wynn, Trevor, Miles, and Beck shared a group chat.

Seeing Wynn checking messages in the group, and guessing it wasn't anything private, she couldn't help leaning over to take a look.

At a glance, she saw Miles's message tagging Trevor.

She immediately beamed with joy. "Trev and Celeste went to file for divorce! I knew it! Trev still cares about you more!"

Lilian and Ruby had brought afternoon tea over to Wynn.

At this moment, they were also in Wynn's office.

Hearing that, both of them looked over.

Ruby spoke first, happily, "Trevor filed to divorce Celeste? Really?"

Linda immediately chimed in, "Really! Miles said it in the group!"

Lilian glanced at Wynn's expression and didn't say anything. Then she walked over.

Seeing this, Ruby followed as well.

After reading Miles's message, Lilian paused, momentarily silent.

Ruby had been happy at first, but after noticing Lilian's expression and thinking more carefully about Miles's message, she sensed something was off.

Trevor going to the courthouse again with Celeste to file the paperwork should have been a good thing.

Moreover, even if Trevor and Celeste really did go to the courthouse, it didn't necessarily mean that Trevor wanted the divorce.

It could just as well be that Celeste wanted to divorce, kept urging him, and left him with no choice but to go with her.

Linda also realized this.

She hurriedly said, "I still think Trev definitely wants to divorce Celeste. Mom, Aunt Lizzy, you can't lose confidence in Wynn."

Ruby and Lilian didn't lack confidence in Wynn.

In fact, to know whether Trevor truly wanted the divorce, all they had to do was wait.

After the next mandatory waiting period ended, would Trevor still keep using work or other reasons to avoid going with Celeste to finalize the gorce.

Thinking of this, Lilian tightened her grip on her coffee cup, her gaze darkening slightly, but she kept quiet.

Seeing that, Ruby also stopped talking.

Wynn lowered her eyes and looked at her phone.

In the group chat, Trevor still hadn't replied to Miles.

It was as if he simply didn't want to discuss this matter with them in the group at all.

After a long while, she slowly put her phone down.

Chapter 598

Just then, Wynn's phone suddenly vibrated.

It was Miles again.

Seeing that Trevor still hadn't replied after so long, he tagged him in the group chat once more. "Where are you?"

This time, Trevor finally replied. "What is it?"

Seeing that Trevor had no intention of answering his first question, Miles assumed he simply didn't think it was worth responding to.

Besides, Trevor himself wanted to get divorced as soon as possible.

Yet these past few times, every time the mandatory waiting period ended, he kept getting held up by one thing or another and was unable to divorce Celeste smoothly. So, he was probably quite frustrated about it himself.

Thinking that way, Miles didn't dwell on Trevor ignoring his first question.

He asked instead, "Still not free these next few days? Want to go out and hang around together this weekend?"

Seeing Miles's question, Wynn paused.

Almost immediately after, Trevor replied in the group. "No. I have things to do this weekend."

Miles immediately asked, "What things?"

Trevor didn't reply.

Miles then questioned. "What do you mean by that?"

When Trevor still didn't respond, Miles promptly tagged Wynn in the group.

"Confess honestly. Do you two have some big plans this weekend, so it's inconvenient to bring Beck and me along?"

Wynn didn't reply.

Looking at Trevor's latest message, she clenched her hand, hesitated for a moment, then sent Trevor a private message.

"I saw the messages in the group. Are you really busy all weekend? Is it something very important? I have something I want to talk to you about. Can we meet tonight?"

Her message had been sent for quite a while, but Trevor still hadn't replied.

Instead, Miles, who had been repeatedly ignored, was starting to lose patience. He tagged Beck in the group.

"Beck, those two are heartless.

They

justar and don't reply to me atall Yew and are on the same side-you can't abandon me too."

Beck had only just caught up on the chat.

Ever since realizing that he had fallen for Celeste, he had been seeing Trevor and Wynn less and less.

He also didn't know that after learning about Celeste's professional abilities in AI, Trevor's attitude toward her had begun to change.

So, when Miles asked Trevor that first question earlier and Trevor didn't reply, Beck's thoughts were actually similar to Miles'.

Now that Miles asked him, he replied a few seconds later. "What do you want me to do about it?"

"If they're not free, then the two of us will go

Beck replied, "Okay."

Only then did Miles's mood improve a little.

At that point, the group chat finally went quiet.

Wynn put down her phone, intending to calm herself and focus on work. Just then, her phone rang again.

It was a message from Trevor. "Sorry, I have something on tonight."

Looking at Trevor's reply, Wynn's gaze darkened.

He didn't ask what she wanted to talk about, nor did he send any further messages afterward. He seemed extremely cold and distant.

Clutching her phone tightly, Wynn just stared at the screen.

After a long while, she took a breath and finally replied, "Alright then, next time."

Seeing that her expression didn't look too good, Lilian and the others didn't know what had happened.

Ruby seemed to think of something and said gently, "Wynn, I think Trevor definitely still cares about you. As long as you take the initiative and contact him more, you and Trevor will surely be back to how things were very soon."

Chapter 599

Lilian didn't say anything. But she shared the same thoughts as Ruby.

At this point, being negative or dejected was useless. The best course of action was to think of ways to remedy the situation.

How could Wynn not know what Ruby had said?

Precisely because she knew, she had taken the initiative earlier and messaged Trevor herself.

But the result...

Wynn lowered her gaze. She didn't tell the others that she had already contacted Trevor, only saying lightly, "I know. I'll contact him."

Linda had actually never considered the possibility that Trevor might fall for Celeste, let alone abandon Wynn because of her.

Even though she had been the one to tell the family about Trevor giving that expensive diamond to Celeste and had fleetingly thought of that possibility, she still felt it was extremely unreal.

But what had just happened made that possibility start to feel a little real.

In other words, Trevor really might have developed feelings for Celeste.

At the thought of this, she felt like she was about to explode. She simply couldn't accept such an outcome.

Clenching her teeth, she said, "No... Impossible. This isn't real..."

Ruby and Lilian immediately knew what Linda was talking about.

Truth be told, they didn't feel good either.

After all, something they had believed was set in stone, something they never thought would have any twists, was now full of uncertainty, and that uncertainty was because of Celeste.

The thought that Wynn and Trevor might really fall apart because of Celeste...

Not just Linda, even Ruby and Lilian found it extremely hard to accept.

Still, Ruby didn't believe things would really go that far.

She tugged on Linda and said, "Alright. Right now, Trevor has just had a slight change in attitude toward Celeste. It's not like he's reached the point where he can't live without her.

"I bet once Wynn makes a small move, without much effort at all, she'll have Trevor back."

Hearing that, Linda's mood improved considerably.

Wynn, however, didn't say anything.

Lilian and Ruby didn't disturb her anymore. After sitting for a while, they got up and left.

On Friday afternoon, Celeste hadn't gotten off work yet when her phone rang.

It was a call from Jordyn, saying that she wanted to go out to sea tomorrow and hoped Celeste would go with her.

Trevor had mentioned this to her before.

Listening to Jordyn now, Celeste recalled that every time they went been there as well. So, she asked, "Just you and* me?"

"No, Dad's going too."

Hearing that, Celeste paused. Before she could say anything, Jordyn continued excitedly on the other end of the line, chattering nonstop.

"Mom, it's a private island! There are so many beautiful shells and fruits there.

really want to go. Mom, will you come with me, please?"

Celeste had thought Jordyn simply wanted to go play by the seaside, or maybe take a one-day trip out on the sea.

She didn't expect it to be a private island.

If it were one of the first two, she could have taken Jordyn by herself.

But a private island was...

Jordyn went on enthusiastically for quite a while. When she noticed

Celeste had been silent for a long time, her tone immediately fell, and she asked in a subdued voice

"Mom... Are you busy agam?"

Celeste gripped her phone. After a long pause, she finally answered, "I... have time."

Only then did Jordyn cheer up.

The next morning, as soon as Celeste woke up, she saw Jordyn.

Jordyn was leaning by her bedside. When she saw her awake, she happily grabbed her hand and said, "Mom, you're awake! Dadis already downstairs waiting for us. Let's go down quickly!"

Hearing Jordyn's words, Celeste froze.

Did that mean Trevor had entered the Rodriguez residence?

When Celeste went downstairs, she indeed saw Trevor in the room.

Ivan and Betty were already up as well, chatting with him.

Hearing footsteps, they all looked over.

Ivan spoke first. "Cel, you're up. Breakfast is ready. Have some before heading out."

Celeste nodded. "Okay."

Trevor stood up. "I'll step outside to reply to a work message. We'll chat another time."

Ivan hurriedly nodded. "Alright."

Trevor also nodded politely to Betty, then turned and walked out of the family home.

Seeing how Ivan was courteous and Betty's rather cold expression toward Trevor, even though it was softer than before, Celeste understood clearly that the reason they had invited him in to sit was only that Trevor had helped them a great deal when Betty had been ill.

Trevor would marry Wynn in the future. No matter how much the relationship between the Rodriguez family and Trevor might ease, it would never truly become close.

After eating a simple breakfast and greeting Ivan and the others, Celeste got into Trevor's car. Together with Trevor and Jordyn, she left.

Not long after getting into the car, Trevor suddenly sent her a message.

Celeste paused, not quite reacting yet, when Trevor explained, "It's some of the activities on the island. Take a look and see what you'd like to do."

Before Celeste could respond, Jordyn leaned over and said excitedly, "Dad and I both want to ride a submarine! You can dive in the sea with a submarine without oxygen tanks. Mom, do you want to try it too?"

Listening to her, Celeste was genuinely interested. "Sure, I want to try it too."

After that, Jordyn recommended several other activities to Celeste, talking animatedly about her plans-like collecting seashells, playing volleyball, catching fish herself, and having a barbecue.

Then she asked, "Mom, do you want to stay in the treehouse tonight, or the underwater glass villa?"

Celeste didn't answer directly. Instead, she asked, "What about you, Jordyn?"

"I want to stay in the treehouse tonight, and tomorrow night we'll stay in the underwater glass villa!"

"Me too."

The journey was rather long.

After more than an hour's drive, they à private speedboat and boat close to noon that they arrived at the private island. .net>

Trevor had said there weren't many people on the island, and that really wasn't an exaggeration.

Because aside from the three of them, the only others on the island were the staff.

After lunch, Jordyn changed into her beach outfit and couldn't wait to go out and play.

Carrying a small bucket, she had only been out for a short while before she'd already picked up a pile of colorful seashells.

Celeste stayed by her side, while Trevor followed behind them.

After more than an hour, once the island staff confirmed it was safe to go diving, they changed clothes and prepared to head into the sea.

The submarine they boarded was a private one. It was not very large, only able to accommodate five to six people. Its exterior was entirely made of glass, allowing them to sit inside and enjoy a 360-degree view of the underwater scenery Celeste gone diving in the sea before, but going underwater in submarine was a first. The experience was quite different.

After they went in, she learned that they could even use the submarine to catch fish.

Jordyn was thrilled.

Once underwater, seeing the colorful fish swimming all around the submarine, Jordyn began practicing how to catch them.

However, she wasn't very skilled. After several attempts, she still hadn't succeeded.

Trevor leaned over, reached out, and gently held her hand, patiently teaching her how to do it.
