

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 698

Matthias sent another message right after that.

"So, Mrs. Fleming Senior has agreed to their relationship too? That can't be, right? Or did Trevor deliberately arrange this meeting to get her approval?"

Celeste didn't know either. But whatever it was, it didn't really matter. What mattered was Trevor's determination to bring Wynn into the family.

Even though Martha didn't agree, it wouldn't shake his resolve.

Matthias had come to the same conclusion as well.

"First, it was Mr. and Mrs. Fleming; now it's Mrs. Fleming Senior. Trevor has really gone all out to make them accept Wynn."

Jordyn was still thinking about going out together with Trevor and Celeste.

The next morning, she was about to call Trevor right after washing up when his call came in first.

"You're awake? I've sent someone to pick you up. We're going out later."

Jordyn's eyes lit up. "We're going out? Where to?"

Then she suddenly thought of something and asked, "You're just picking me up? How about Mom?"

"Your mom's busy."

"Okay..."

Celeste had just come upstairs when she hung up.

"Mom, Dad just called. He's sending someone to pick me up. He said you're busy and can't come. What are you busy with?"

Celeste did have plans that day. But she hadn't coordinated anything with Trevor.

Since Jordyn asked, she said, "I'm going to the hospital to visit your grandmother later. After that, I'm accompanying a friend to buy something important."

"Oh..."

After breakfast, Jordyn was picked up by her driver.

Jamie and the rest of the family had noticed that ever since Wynn saved Trevor some time ago he hadn't shown up at the Rodriguez residence at all, even though he used to visit quite often.

Now, it seemed like he was deliberately avoiding them.

After Jordyn left, Celeste went to the hospital to visit Isabelle. Her condition was much the same as before-thin, unstable, hollow.

She hadn't lied about accompanying a friend to buy something important. That evening, she was indeed going with Matthias to an auction to pick out a birthday gift for Melissa.

Not long after they entered the auction hall, they saw members of the Lockets and Shaws.

Ever since Wynn saved Trevor, news had already spread in their circle that both families had met and were discussing marriage arrangements.

So when they arrived, they saw quite a number of wealthy socialites warmly engaging with the Lockets and Shaws.

Wynn was present that evening as well.

Her outfit looked understated at first glance, but many recognized that her gown and bracelet were worth a fortune.

When others approached her, she responded with a calm and composed smile. She didn't show the slightest hint of being overwhelmed by the attention.

Celeste and Matthias watched silently.

Just then, two more people arrived.

The moment Matthias saw them, he curled his lips. "What bad luck. I wouldn't have come if I'd known it'd be such a 'full house' tonight."

Celeste only gave a faint smile and said nothing.

The newcomers were none other than Jorge and Xavier, whom they hadn't seen for some time.

Ever since Wynn was discharged from the hospital, Jorge had been wanting to see her but hadn't had the chance. Now that he finally saw her his eyes lit up, and he walked straight toward her.
