

Chapter 730

Narcissa's expression darkened at Celeste's words.

But her company matter was urgent, so she still had to find a way to resolve it. 1

She contacted Wynn. "She refuses to budge. I want to find someone to mediate between us. Who can I ask for help?" 4

Wynn paused before replying, "Honestly, there probably isn't anyone."

"Not a single person?"

"Her relationship with people on our side has never been good. And besides, this matter involves me. Even if someone tried persuading her, the chances of her agreeing are still pretty low." 2

But Narcissa disagreed. She said, "Even if she and Matthias are close, and even if she's calling the shots at YodaVision now, this is still a massive project. If YodaVision works with us, they'll make a huge profit."

"I think YodaVision definitely wants this partnership. Celeste saying she won't cooperate is probably just her trying to vent her anger." 4

"The only reason I'm lowering myself to ask her right now is that the situation is urgent and can't be delayed. As long as we find a way to let her vent that anger, she'll probably agree eventually." 4

"Besides, she's not married to Matthias. Their relationship isn't deeply tied up. So, I doubt Matthias would agree if she rejects such a valuable project purely out of anger." 6

When she first contacted Matthias, he had indeed stood on Celeste's side and told her to speak to Celeste directly.

In Narcissa's view, that simply meant Matthias was letting Celeste vent her anger over what had happened previously. It didn't mean that Matthias would truly be willing to give up such a lucrative project.

Wynn lowered her eyes after hearing that. "That... may not necessarily be true." 2

If YodaVision had truly belonged solely to Matthias, and Celeste didn't hold shares in the company, then perhaps things would indeed work that way. 1

But Celeste was also a major shareholder of YodaVision. And now, she seemed to have no shortage of money at all. 1

There was simply no need for her to force herself to take on the Lackspur family's project. 1

What was more, Matthias had always been very protective of Celeste, and YodaVision's direction also seemed to revolve heavily around her decisions.

If Celeste refused, then Narcissa really had no chance.

But Narcissa still disagreed. She asked after a pause, "Would you mind if I ask Trevor for help?" 1

Wynn replied, "I wouldn't mind. But he probably can't influence her decisions anymore." 1

Narcissa had thought of that too.

After all, from her perspective, Celeste and Matthias really did seem to have a very good relationship. If she asked Trevor to help, it might even backfire.

"Then, what if I contact Matthias's parents?" 4

Celeste had been married before and even had a child. Meanwhile, Matthias was an outstanding man. Could his parents really have no objections toward Celeste at all? 4

Even if they could accept her, would they really just stand by and let Celeste affect their son's business purely because of personal grudges? 1

Wynn paused before answering honestly, "I'm afraid it probably wouldn't help much." 3

After all, Celeste and Matthias weren't actually the couple everyone assumed them to be. And Matthias's parents seemed to like Celeste very much. 15
