

THE BREAKING POINT OF LOVE

Chapter 735

The moment he saw them, Quentin's expression immediately turned cold. Then, he shifted his gaze away and continued speaking with Wynn, as if he had not seen them at all.

At that moment, the Lackspur siblings and their team also arrived. They immediately spotted Wynn and Trevor.

Nathan and Trevor had known each other for a long time, but they did not have much interaction and hadn't met for many years.

He smiled and greeted Trevor, "Mr. Fleming, long time no see."

Trevor replied, "Oh, it's Mr. Lackspur. Long time no see."

After greeting Trevor, his gaze fell on Wynn, and a flash of amazement appeared in his eyes.

It was the first time he had seen Wynn in person. So, he also politely greeted her, "You must be Ms. Locket. Nice to meet you."

Wynn shook his hand. "Nice to meet you too."

At this moment, someone walked toward Matthias excitedly. "Mr. Yoder, here you are. I really had quite a hard time finding you."

Hearing the movement, Nathan followed the sound and saw Matthias.

Although there had been no interaction between him and Matthias before, he had seen him and Celeste on the Internet before, so he recognized him at a glance.

Recently, Nathan had gradually deepened his understanding of the AI field and had clearly realized what YodaVision actually meant in the industry. Therefore, they absolutely could not fall out with Matthias and Celeste.

After exchanging pleasantries with Trevor, he said, "I'll go over and greet Mr. Yoder. Shall we talk later, Mr. Fleming?"

Trevor replied, "Please go ahead."

Nathan nodded and said to Narcissa, "Cissa, let's go."

The matters of their company had already been resolved, but the cost would be much higher, and the progress would be delayed significantly.

Narcissa understood that her brother wanted to ease the relations with Matthias and Celeste, but...

She glanced coldly toward Matthias and Celeste before saying in an icy tone, "Nate, do you think I haven't lowered myself enough before? Even if go over now, even if I lower ter, they may, figt myself even further, they may not necessarily change their minds and consider working with us?

"If that's the case, why should I go to them? You can go over yourself."

With that, she smiled and took Wynn's hand. "Let's go over there."

Nathan frowned but said nothing. Then, he walked over to Matthias with his assistant.

One of Lackspur Corporation's engineers happened to be a classmate of Quentin. They had already greeted each other earlier.

Looking at the backs of Narcissa and Wynn, and recalling what Narcissa had just said, he couldn't help but ask his classmate.

"What's going on with Ms. Lackspur and Mr. Yoder and his team? It feels like she really dislikes Mr. Yoder and the others from YodaVision. Do they have some kind of grudge?"

"I heard there is indeed some kind of conflict between Ms. Lackspur and YodaVision's Ms. Rodriguez.

"However, the reason Yoda Vision refused to cooperate with us doesn't seem to be related to that. It seems that Ms. Rodriguez targeting Mr. Fleming's girlfriend, Ms. Lockett."

Quentin's expression turned cold.

Her again.

Then, he asked, "What do you mean?"

"YodaVision could have worked with us originally, but after hearing that Ms. Lackspur is good friends with Ms. Locket, Ms. Rodriguez changed her mind and refused to cooperate with us, no matter how much Ms. Lackspur tried to lower her stance and beg.

"In the end, we couldn't secure the cooperation with YodaVision, and now our boss is really troubled about it."
