

The Breaking Point of Love

c 814

There had been a network connection before the banquet, and no audio interference had been in place.... Despite that, this happened precisely while their confrontation was taking place...

Matthias asked, "Was it an accident, or did someone know something like this was going to happen tonight and make preparations in advance?"

Kieran shook his head. "No idea. According to the people who posted the videos online, the network in the banquet hall only returned to normal quite a while after we left. That's when they were able to record audio normally again."

At that time, they had already reached the upper floor. Everyone was waiting for them in the meeting room, so they didn't continue the discussion.

However, the moment they entered the conference room, everyone's eyes instinctively fell on Celeste. They had all seen the news about her online.

They had always known that Celeste was married and had a child. They also had always been curious about who her husband was. But they had never imagined that it would be Trevor!

YodaVision had always had business dealings with the Fleming Group, and because of their cooperation, Trevor had even personally visited YodaVision. Yet not a single one of them had ever noticed that Celeste and Trevor were actually husband and wife.

On top of that, they had always assumed that Matthias valued and trusted Celeste so highly simply because she was exceptionally capable.

Now they finally learned that she was actually one of their bosses in the truest sense of the word! And Cuap had actually been developed by her!

At that moment, everyone at YodaVision felt a mixture of shock and complicated emotions as they looked at Celeste.

Seeing their gazes, Celeste knew they had probably seen the news online. Her expression remained unchanged as she calmly said, "Let's have the meeting first."

Everyone hurriedly responded, "Okay, okay!"

...

Meanwhile, Jordyn immediately got out of the car and ran upstairs as soon as she reached home.

She had barely stepped through the door when Trevor's car also pulled into the courtyard.

Seeing Jordyn running upstairs, he got out of the car and followed her up.

Upstairs, Hannah stood anxiously outside the closed bedroom door. When she saw him, she immediately said, "Sir, Jo, she—"

Trevor said nothing. He gently knocked on the door. "Jo?"

There was no response from inside.

Trevor was just about to speak when Peter came upstairs with a phone in hand. "It's Mr. Lincoln calling."

Trevor took the phone. "Father."

Lincoln's voice came from the other end. "Mm, I heard about what happened online Deal with it properly. Fleming Group will probably be affected as well."

"I've already started handling the situation online. I've also notified the people at the company. We'll have a meeting shortly."

"Good."

The incident would inevitably affect Lincoln to some extent as well. If there had been no audio interference or network disruption at the scene, allowing people to post the entire sequence of events online, the impact would have been even greater.

After all, this wasn't simply a matter of Trevor having an affair during his marriage. The woman he'd been involved with happened to have that kind of relationship with Celeste, and her family had such a questionable character.

Trevor had always been outstanding from a young age, and had never required much worrying or intervention from either him or Queenie.

However, Lincoln also knew that he was usually busy with work and hadn't had much time to pay attention to his son's upbringing.

As Trevor's father, he knew he owed his son in many ways.

So, even though tonight's incident could potentially affect his own political career, he couldn't bring himself to harshly criticize Trevor.

But as for the Locket family...

He rubbed his brow. "Trevor, you should cut ties with the Locket family."